Tim Rogers wrote the screenplay for the film, which portrays the life of a pioneer circuit rider, Robert Sayers Sheffey. Sheffey was a legendary horseback preacher whose name is still known and revered throughout Virginia and West Virginia.

"The Saint of the Wilderness" by Jess Carr became a regional best-seller immediately after publication in 1974 and has gone into its eighth printing. In 1975, "Unusual Films," the motion picture division of Bob Jones University, Greenville, South Carolina, secured the film rights to the book. Internationally known cinema artist and award-winning producer, Katherine Stenholm, produced and directed the production, which ultimately spanned 32 months.

On-location scenes were filmed at such historic sites as Shakertown, Vance's Birthplace, Walnut Grove Plantation, and Epworth Campground at Greenwood, South Carolina. Thousands of feet of film were shot throughout Kentucky, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Tennessee.

In addition to the on-location filming, 14 sets were built on the sound stage of Unusual Films. Original sound track music was written by Dwight Gustafson, well-known composer and conductor. The Bob Jones University Symphony Orchestra performed the music under his direction.

Because the film covers 63 years, two actors portray Sheffey. Young Sheffey is depicted by Dwight Anderson and the older Sheffey by the late Harold Kilpatrick. Critics have called the scenery, scene setting, authenticity of the costuming, and photography "awe-inspiring and unbelievable."

Paster Alan R. Birkby invites everyone to attend the presentation at the Grantsville Fire Hall, sponsored by the Harvest Baptist Church of Grantsville.

Outstanding students have been honored in the Who's Who annual directories since the first publication in 1934.

Stroke Awareness Week Proclaimed

To increase public awareness about the risk factors of stroke, the American Heart Association, Maryland Affiliate is sponsoring a "Stroke Awareness Week" March 28 through April 1. To promote the week, the Heart Association is distributing a "Stroke Awareness Week Kit" to Maryland hospitals, health maintenance organizations, other health care sites, and various community organizations. The kit contains posters, brochures, and postcard stickers which give information on the risk factors and warning signs of a stroke.

Like heart disease, stroke has risk factors, the AHA reports. Some are controllable and some are not. However, because stroke is such a devastating disease, it is critically important to pay heed to those controllable risk factors, the AHA said. Treatable risk factors include high blood pressure, heart disease, high red blood cell count, and transient ischemic attacks (TIAs). TIAs or mini-strokes often are an early warning sign of stroke. Stroke warning signals include sudden weakness, clumsiness, or loss of feeling in an arm, leg or side of the face, or loss of vision or speech. The symptoms of a TIA are the same as a stroke, except a TIA lasts less than five minutes.

Risk factors that cannot be changed are age, sex, race, diabetes, prior stroke, heredity and an "asymptomatic carotid bruit." This is an abnormal "whooshing" sound heard in the carotid artery of the neck using a stethoscope. A bruit indicates the buildup of fatty deposits in that artery that are shutting off blood flow to the brain, even though no symptoms are present.

Recent studies have also shown a strong link between cigarette smoking and stroke. Other secondary factors that can indirectly increase the risk of stroke and can be controlled are high blood cholesterol, excessive alcohol intake, lack of exercise, and obesity.

Stroke is the third leading cause of death in the United States and Maryland. The American Heart Association estimates that one-third of those who suffer strokes in the United States or 152,700 people will die. In 1986, 2,306 Marylanders died of stroke according to a Maryland Vital Statistics 1986 Preliminary Report issued by the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene.

Many individuals who survive a stroke are left with some form of disability. The American Heart Association estimates that the annual cost of stroke-related health care is more than $12 billion. This figure includes the cost of physician and nursing services, hospital and nursing home services, medication costs, and lost productivity due to disability.

Stroke is a major form of cardiovascular disease that affects the arteries and the central nervous system. It occurs when a blood vessel bringing oxygen and nutrients to the brian tissue either bursts or becomes clogged by a blood clot. Deprived of oxygen, the nerve cells in the affected area of the brain die within minutes. The parts of the body controlled by these nerve cells cannot function.

For either information about the "Stoke Week Awareness Kit" or for a "Facts About Stroke" brochure, persons can call the American Heart Association, Maryland Affiliate at (301) 685-7074.

Thanks to all my family and friends who sent cards and flowers. Thanks also for visits, and to those who had special prayers in my behalf during my recent surgery.

A special thanks to Pine Grove and Oak Grove Churches for making it possible for my family to be together, and to Pastor and Mrs. Don Matthews for all their support and love. Thanks to all the area churches for their concern and special prayers. My surgery was a success and I'm encouraged with each day's improvement.

God bless you all!

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Garrett County Board of Education announces that the comprehensive preschool registration program which began eleven years ago as a joint venture with the Garrett County Health Department will be held again this year. This program is for all children entering kindergarten or first grade for the first time in September, 1988.

This registration program, which will be held in all elementary schools during April and May, has been developed to help identify strengths and needs of children and to identify early any problems that may interfere with a successful start in school.

Parents must register any child who will be six years old before January 1, 1989, and may register any child who will be five years old before January 1, 1989.

Parents of children who meet the above qualifications are asked to fill out the registration blank at the end of this article and mail it to the designated address. All parents registering children for school will receive a letter notifying them of the date, time and place of their appointment for the preschool registration program.

Parents are requested to bring their child's birth certificate and immunization record and to provide important information for the school's records during the registration. In addition, each child registering for school will be screened in the areas of vision, hearing, and motor development. Additional services will include height, weight, and health appraisal and dental screening.

If you have a child who is not already enrolled in school, but is ready and/or required to attend school during the 1988-89 school year, please fill in the following information and mail it to the Garrett County Public Schools. Upon receipt of the following form, the office of Pupil Services will contact you to schedule an appointment for you and your child.

Extra Income For Area Producers, Extra Quality For Area Consumers

by Jim Simms,
Garrett County Extension Agent,
Agricultural Science

What is "Mountain Fresh?" Anything produced in this area such as fruits, vegetables, nuts, honey, maple syrup, corn meal, buckwheat, crafts, quilts and, yes, even ramps. All of these crops will be delivered to area restaurants, grocery stores and sold to the public at various farmers' market locations.

Quality and variety will be the keys to the success of "Mountain Fresh" products. Fresh cut broccoli has a much better flavor than the broccoli that was picked in California two weeks before it appeared at the retail sales outlet.

"Mountain Fresh" needs producers! The objectives of the Mountain Fresh program are to expand the variety of products grown in the area and to extend the product-sales time period. The goal is to offer the public the best quality products in the area. To many people, the first thing to come to mind will be to raise sweet corn and beans. Yes, these two vegetables are very popular, but the public needs a wide variety of produce to choose from such as asparagus, spinach, lettuce, potatoes, onions, kale, cauliflower, strawberries, raspberries, tomatoes, blueberries, broccoli, Brussels sprouts, jelly preparations, and the list can go on and on. The only restriction is that the product must be grown or made by local residents of Garrett and Preston counties.

How can you become involved? The Mountain Fresh Organization has a planned marketing and production program. Mountain Fresh will start on a small scale with the goal of expanding markets into large commercial outlets. But always keeping our area people supplied with quality "Mountain Fresh" products. You can be a big producer or a small producer with a backyard garden.

If you are interested in participating in the "Mountain Fresh" program, contact the Garrett County Extension Office at 301-334-1990, the Preston County Extension Office at 304-329-1391, or the Garrett County Economic Development Office at 301-334-1920.

Locals Attend Md. Agricultural Fairs Convention

The Maryland Association of Agricultural Fairs and Shows held its annual convention on March 4 and 5 at the Ramada Inn, Hagerstown. Throughout the convention, speakers presented topics on "Sponsorship, Keeping Agriculture Alive at the Fair." And those attending were entertained by various trade shows who presented different bands and entertainers.

Table discussions during the convention made everyone aware that there are problems and hard work associated with every fair, and that the answer for one fair is not the answer for all fairs.

The keynote address, "Major Problems with Fairs Today," was by T. Wilson Sparks, from Georgia National Fairs and Expositions.

Those attending from the Garrett County Fair were: Ruth DiPaolo, past president; Mrs. Harley Brenneman; Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Glotfelty, Loretta Opel; Gary Fratz; Don Sealing; and Dale Glotfelty.

Janet Hagar, Clarksburg, will serve a two-year term as president for the Maryland Association.

A "fun-time" auction was held to benefit the Maryland Association of Agricultural Fairs. Each county donated an item from their county. Garrett County Fair gave a gallon of maple syrup which brought $65 at the auction.

A judging school was held under the leadership of Mary E. Waltemire, Washington County. Those attending from Garrett County were: Mrs. John Ledden, Alice Hevner, Sussie Livengood, Mary K. Kovach, Laura Belle Harvey, Wendy Bauer, Judy Sconcer and Ada Maffett.

February Weather Reported Mild

The "Maryland Agri-Facts," published by the Agricultural Statistics Service in Annapolis, reports that temperatures averaged 36.6 degrees, 2.0 degrees above normal, during the month of February.

There was no significant snow cover to protect plants from the periodic cold snaps. However, there has not yet been a prolonged warm period to bring plants out of their winter dormancy, so the occasional cold temperatures may not have caused significant damage, according to the report.

Precipitation for February averaged 3.15 inches over the state. Soil moisture remains adequate. The main farm activity was caring for livestock.

CAWLEY IN JAPAN — Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Wayne A. Cawley Jr. presents Suzanne Hale, agricultural attache of the U.S. Embassy in Tokyo, Japan, with a copy of the "Maryland Food and Agricultural Products" export directory.

Secretary Cawley Says Governor's Trade Team Was Successful

Governor William Donald Schaefer's Far East trade mission in late September and early October was a definite success for Maryland agriculture, according to Secretary Wayne A. Cawley Jr. In a report submitted recently to the governor's office, Cawley listed numerous contacts made and the great potential which exists in both Japan and Taiwan for Maryland's agricultural and seafood products.

Led by Secretary Cawley, members of the agriculture team included Deputy Secretary Robert L. Walker; Richard Jamison, president of Atlantic Trading Company; and Fabian Kolker, president of Maryland Lumber Company.

"We did our homework, and it paid off," said Cawley. Ag team members met with representatives of Japanese and Taiwanese business in Osaka, Toba, Nagoya, Yokahama, and Tokyo in Japan, and Taipei and Kaohsiung in Taiwan, establishing contacts and laying the groundwork for the export of many Maryland products, including timber, both pulp and hardwood, dairy breeding stock, cattle feed, frozen juice concentrates, soft shell crabs, hard shell crabs, tobacco, crab meal for shrimp feed, food vacuum-packing equipment, health and value-added (processed or packaged) products, bakery and confectionery products, grain, and poultry parts.

Other encouraging leads included preliminary discussion of locating a soybean processing plant in Maryland, importing powerboats (inboard and outboard), and an expressed interest in Maryland's expertise in harbor development.

Both the Japanese and Taiwanese markets offer enormous potential for Maryland exports, according to Cawley, but we should not expect results right away. Rather, we should continue to develop and strengthen the contacts already made, finding out exactly what foreign consumers like, and tailor our products for their market and pocketbook.

Guidelines for success in this competitive marketplace include: do not expect short-term results; find out what's going on in the marketplace; learn the distribution network; identify specialty products which appeal to Japanese/Taiwanese preferences, tastes; provide detailed, bilingual information on the product and company to perspective buyers; develop personal contact with prospective buyers; use the services provided by the Maryland Department of Agriculture's International Marketing staff; no firm is too small to play — the need to attend to local considerations is even greater for smaller institutions; and "do it now!" do not wait while other companies in other states and countries develop products to sell to Japan or Taiwan and make money at your expense.

"Agriculture is fortunate to have in-house expertise in international marketing, both at the state and federal level, and we intend to take advantage of it," said Cawley.

"Maryland's diverse agribusiness community has a lot to offer and can design a great variety of products to win over internaitonal consumers. We are going full steam ahead to get Maryland's share of export opportunities, and we're proud to have helped make the governor's Far East trade mission a success," Cawley concluded.

Maryland Farmers Ask About Diesel Fuel On-Road Use

A change in the way the federal government taxes the on-road use of diesel fuel by farmers is not being copied by Maryland, accordding to State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein.

"Lately, several Maryland farmers contacted our office with questions about the method of paying Maryland's fuel tax on taxable use of diesel fuel in on-road vehicles. Fuel used by farmers in farm equipment, or 'off the road,' is not subject to the motor vehicle fuel tax," Mr. Goldstein said. "I want to stress that Maryland will not copy the change in federal procedure which begins on April 1."

Under that federal change, farmers will no longer have the option of buying the diesel fuel free of federal tax and then paying the tax due, generated by on-road use. Instead, they will have to pay all of the diesel tax up-front and then apply for a refund.

Here in Maryland, farmers who purchase both taxable and tax-exempt diesel fuel will continue to have two options of how to pay for taxable diesel fuel. Any farmer who is a member of the Maryland Farm Bureau is automatically covered by the Bureau's surety bond. They can purchase diesel fuel tax free. Then, each month, they file two forms with the state Comptroller's Office — one showing their opening and closing inventory (GTD 300) and a worksheet calculating the tax due for fuel used in on-road vehicles (GTD 313).

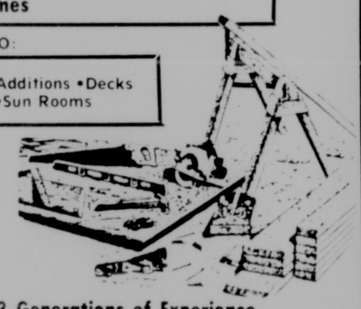

"This procedure, which we worked out with the Farm Bureau, is easier than it was several years ago, when each individual farmer had to have a bond," Comptroller Goldstein said.

"This is a change from the four forms which used to be required. And our Motor Vehicle Fuel Tax Division has prepared a set of line by line instructions on how to use the worksheet."

Farmers who purchase both taxable and non-taxable diesel fuel have another option. They can pay the tax on the fuel purchased and then file for a refund on the non-taxable fuel.

"Agri-business people who use this option are usually filing for a refund on non-taxable use of gasoline, too, since all gasoline must be taxed when it is sold," Mr. Goldstein said. "Farmers whose only diesel use is non-taxable, off-road use just need to file for an annual exemption. They don't need to file monthly statements or file for refunds."

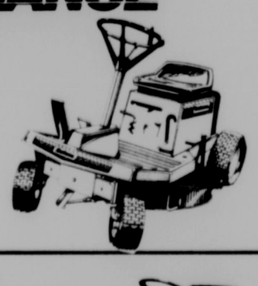

According to the comptroller, farmers who are using any of those methods of reporting diesel use automatically receive the forms they need from the Motor Vehicle Fuel Tax Division. "But anyone who needs forms or instructions, has questions or wants to set up an account shouldn't hesitate to contact the division's Taxpayer Service Section by calling (301) 974-2215, or by writing to Comptroller of the Treasury, Motor Vehicle Fuel Tax Division, P.O. Box 1751, Annapolis, Maryland 21404.

Annual Agronomy Day Features Panel Discussion By Local Farmers

A second annual Agronomy Field Day was held March 3 in Bittinger by the Garrett County Extension Service, ASCS, SCS, and the Garrett Soil Conservation District. The highlight of the day was a panel discussion by three local farmers who shared their experiences using the Voisin system of rotational grazing.

Approximately 90 farmers from a tri-county, tri-state area attended the workshop, which also featured a hay contest. Leading the program were SCS Agronomist John Minnich; Extension Veterinarian Dr. Doug Carmel of the University of Maryland; Agronomist Dr. Les Vough of the University of Maryland; Nutritionist Dr. Kim Cassel of the University of Maryland; SCS District Conservationist Jim Schlossnagle; ASCS Manager Mike Kozier; and Garrett County Extension Agent for Agriculture Jim Simms.

Also attending were district conservationists from Preston County, W.Va., and Somerset County, Pa., and the state agronomist from Morgantown, W.Va.

Agronomist John Minnich explained rotational grazing as a way to "cut expenses, increase profit margin and conserve soil and water." He said this is done by "keeping pastures growing, keeping them healthy, putting more animals than you can believe on a smaller pasture and running them for longer than you can believe in a smaller space than you can believe." He said that this is done by keeping paddocks small enough to prevent regrazing and allowing sufficient regrowth time.

Minnich reported that in Maryland, eight rotational grazing systems are in operation in Garrett County with four or five more expected to be put into use this summer, plans are underway for two systems to go into operation this summer in Allegany County, two are in use in Frederick, one in Carroll, two in Montgomery, four in Howard, three in Cecil and one in Caroline. One has also been put into operation in New Castle, Del. Minnich noted that he is very pleased with those numbers, although his colleague in Somerset County, Pa., has 54 rotational grazing systems operating in his county alone.

The first panel member introduced by Minnich was Garrett County dairy farmer Paul Petersheim. "I watched my brother-in-law for a year to see if it works," Petersheim said, and added that after using the system last summer, he is very excited about it.

The dairyman said that he had some problems making comparisons because he replaced a lot of his cows in the fall of 1986 which made a big difference. He went on to say that in 1986, 62 percent of his herd were four-years old or older. That herd was fed hay and silage in the barn. In 1987, 75 percent of his replacement herd was in their first or second lactation. This herd spent part of each day on rotational pasture, plus receiving corn silage and grain in the barn.

Petershein, who raises registered Jerseys, figures he fed three and one-half tons of hay in 1987 compared to 11 tons of hay in 1986, and estimates the difference in the amounts of hay and silage alone to have saved him $1,000.

He began pasturing his herd in April using 20 paddocks. "The first time through I thought there was not enough grass," he said. "The second time around, the cows were knee high and hock deep in grass and I had to mow the pastures after they were through, but that was the only time I mowed. I figure the cows went through five or six complete rotations."

He explained that two more paddocks were seeded and added to the rotation in July. "By August most of the cows were 226 days in milk and were still holding up," he said, "and we had a dry year." He added that his system is on bottom land and was not affected so much by the drought.

"My consultants kept telling me 'It's going to take a lot more management, it's going to take a lot more management, you can't just do what you usually do — turn cows out.' I was thinking about that the last several days and I decided that I'd much rather walk out and check pastures than climb up the silo and throw down haylage," he said. "If that's management, I like it."

He said he is not sure he would have had such good results if he had not been feeding corn silage, but adds that he plans to continue feeding corn silage this summer, too. He reported that a day-and-a-half to two days were the longest he had his 20 Jerseys on any one pasture and figures that one-third to one-half acre was required per cow. He also saw a significant increase in milk production — a six-and-a-half to seven-pound increase per cow.

"It was one of the easiest summers, as far as feeding cows, that I've had," Petersheim said. "I think the cows are healthier with this system, too. In my situation, it worked."

The next panel member to speak was Bob Russo, a sheep farmer from Friedens, Pa. Russo runs 320 ewes, and 75 replacement ewe lambs this year, on his 250-acre farm. He expects to have a 500-ewe flock by next year, and also keeps a small flock of angora goats which he wants to expand to 100 in the future. His is a commercial flock, and he says he finds the white-faced sheep to be more efficient grazers and he is breeding the black-faced breeds out of his flock.

His rotational system uses 65 acres divided into two-acre paddocks, and was set up in 1985. A stream runs through his paddock area and each paddock allows access to the stream area. He allows 200 ewes and their lambs on a two-acre paddock on a two-day rotation. It will then be 28 days before sheep go back into that paddock again.

"I've had good success growing rape," Russo said. "It's a cold crop in the cabbage family — one of the best things on the market today. It's a terrific feed, an inexpensive feed. It costs $2 per pound to sow, and I use four pounds to the acre." He does admit having a little problem with the lushness. "You need to feed some fiber with it," he says. "The first year I sowed it straight and weeds came up with it. The sheep ate the weeds first then started on the rape. The next year I sowed in some rye grass."

Turnips and kale are also good feed, he said. The pasture costs, allowing for 100 pounds of nitrogen per acre plus the seed, run around $20 per acre, according to Russo.

Pasture provides 100-percent feed for Russo's sheep, baby lambs, lactating ewes, and other sheep. They are fed no grain or supplements. His winter feed consists of rye haylage and good alfalfa hay.

"Utilizing an intensive rotational grazing system, I've been able to carry a larger number of sheep on pasture than on a conventional system. Traditional grazing on 65 acres, with 300 ewes, lasted until the end of July or into August. On a rotational grazing system, I gained about three months," Russo said.

"On winter feed it costs about $5 a month to keep a ewe. With 350 ewes, it costs $1,700 per month to feed those sheep and I've gained three months on that in these short years I've been on the Voisin system," Russo concluded.

The last panel member to speak was Garrett County beef farmer, Randall Harman. Harman has a cow-calf operation and has 22 acres divided into 10 paddocks which he rotated every three days last summer.

"I wasn't too sure it was going to work," he said, "so I put a little bit of fence up. I did a little bit at a time and saw, 'hey, it's going to do something for me!' then I had to put up a lot of fence," Harman said.

Harman reported that the year before, he had 17 to 18 head on that same 22 acres. Last summer, he put in the rotational grazing system and started with 20 head. "They couldn't keep up with it," he exclaimed. Harman more than doubled his stock and plans to rotate his paddocks every one or two days next summer.

Following the panel, University of Maryland Extension Veterinarian Dr. Doug Carmel related some problems he has been finding with high forage rations, focusing on three forage-related diseases: grass tetany, frothy bloat, and nitrate poisoning. These diseases are not common, he stated, but are not uncommon, either.

"There are two definite reasons why they are important," he said. "First, they are emergency situations and will require quick veterinary attention. Second, they can all cause sudden death."

Carmel said they all tend to be herd problems, not just individual cow problems, and he urged farmers who may find a cow that seemed fine one day, dead the next day, to have her posted to find the reason for death. "If it's one of these three diseases, he may be able to save the rest of the herd," he said.

Dr. Carmel also spoke and answered questions about parasitology and selenium and copper as they relate to high forage rations.

After lunch, University of Maryland Nutritionist Dr. Kim Cassel spoke on the subject, "Maximizing Forage in the Ration to Minimize Purchased Feed Costs." To wrap up the afternoon, Extension Agent Jim Simms spoke on last summer's outbreak and control of the western corn rootworm.

At the end of the day, Dr. Les Vough announced the winners of the hay contest. A first prize of $25 was awarded in three classes, sponsored by Oakland Southern States and Marvin Kolb of Young's, Inc. First-place winner of both the Grass Hay Class and the Mixed Hay Class was Phil Beachy. The first-place winner of the Alfalfa Hay Class was Jonas Yoder.

North Garrett FFA Alumni To Meet

The North Garrett FFA Alumni will hold its regular monthly meeting on March 15 at 6 p.m. in the Northern High School Vo-Ag room.

Plans are being made for a bake sale to be held during the car wash March 26 sponsored by the North Garrett FFA Chapter at the Accident Dodge Garage.

All interested persons are invited to attend this meeting. For more information, call 826-8749.

Easter Lilies Now Available From NHS Vo-Ag Class

The North Garrett FFA Chapter is selling student-grown Easter lilies now through Easter. These plants have been grown and cared for by NHS vo-ag students in one of the school's greenhouses. The 10-12-inch plants are available at the cost of $3 per pot.

Interested persons may stop in at the school to pick up plants, and should contact Larry Deal, vo-ag teacher and FFA advisor.

SCS Offices Have Tax Forms

Farmers who plan to deduct expenditures for conservation practices can obtain the necessary tax forms from their local Soil Conservation Service offices. Jim Schlossnagle SCS District Conservationist in Garrett County, says the forms are being made available at SCS offices as a convenience to taxpayers.

IRS Tax Form 8645, "Soil and Water Conservation Plan Certification," is required when a taxpayer elects to take a deduction for the installation of soil and water conservation practices. These expenses could include (but are not limited to) the cost of practices such as terraces, diversions, grassed waterways, critical area planting, ponds and windbreaks.

To be deductible, practices must be included in either the County Conservation Plan or an individual farm conservation plan developed with SCS or the county conservation district. The County Conservation Plan is a list of approved soil and water conservation practices and is available at local Soil Conservation Service offices.

Certain soil and water conservation expenses may not be deductible even if they are made to an approved plan, according to the IRS.

These are: expenses paid to drain or fill wetlands; expenses paid to prepare land for center pivot irrigation systems; and expenses paid to clear land.

IRS Form 8645 and the County Conservation Plan are new requirements under the Tax Reform Act of 1986. Schlossnagle stated that SCS is distributing these forms only as a convenience, and that SCS does not provide assistance on completion of the form. Farm tax questions should be directed to the Internal Revenue Service or your tax advisor.

Mt. Fresh Products

There is a separate article this week in the paper on the Mt. Fresh Product program. Please take time to read. We are hoping that we will have several farmers to participate in this endeavor. It's a long term project with the final goal on having a lot of fresh produce grown in the area. If you would like more particulars, please give me a call.

Reprint from Doane's Agricultural Report

Since the Farm-O-Gram on the nex tax rules on Capitalization, I have had several calls from concerned farmers. I thought this article from Doane's Agricultural Report may be of interest: "Defer Electing Uniform Capitalization Rule if Possible."

The uniform capitalization rule (commonly called the "heifer tax") is a provision of the 1986 tax law that required capitalizing the cost of raising certain crops or livestock that take more than 24 months to reach maturity. These costs then are totaled and depreciated after the asset reaches maturity. This rule applies mostly to farmers and ranchers with beef or dairy enterprises, though some crops are also involved.

You may opt out of the capitalization rule, but in return, you must use a slower depreciation method on all assets such as farm machinery, special purpose structures, and buildings. Also, if you take this approach, you have changed accounting systems and will have to seek IRS approval if you want to change in the future.

We think your best move is to hold off making this election on your 1987 tax return if you didn't spend any money in 1987 to raise livestock or crops that take more than two years to mature before they produce a marketable product. Under these circumstances, you were not subject to the uniform capitalization rule for 1987 and are not required to make an election.

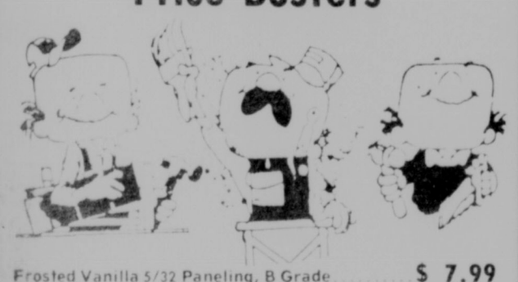

We think chances are good that Congress will eliminate this provision for livestock if the technical amendments bill is passed this session. So delaying your election could avoid problems in the future. If you didn't spend any money on the activities mentioned, check "no" to question G on Form 1040F. If you leave this question blank or check "yes," IRS assumes that you are electing to expense. This means you are choosing the slower depreciation method for all assets on your farm and that you have made a change in your accounting method.

CLEANING OUT CLOSETS

This winter may be your most productive if you make a definite written plan when to do those chores one never gets to — like organizing records, writing a will, organizing, labeling and dating family photographs, mending clothing and cleaning out your closets. If you allow one week for each job, come spring, you could be done and feel extremely good about yourself.

Do you have to wear protective clothing when you open your closet because things fall out? Well, maybe it is not that bad, but you never can find things and there is more in the closet than seems to fit. Where do you start bringing some order to your storage areas?

By making a list of categorized items: Books downstairs, games upstairs, shoes in hall closet, etc. Store things where you are most likely to use them, even within the closet. Get boxes, tape and marker — for things that can be stored for a season, a year and longer — itemize the contents and date when you expect to use the items again.

Empty your whole closet. Allow some time to go back memory land — likely you will find things you have not seen in years. Remember the dress you needed so long ago? It was on a hanger with two garments over it, or the slacks too good to throw away — some day they will fit you again. Anything you have not worn in two years you should get rid of, restyle or give to someone.

Secure storage shelves, plastic milk crates, laundry baskets, under-shelf baskets. Mount brackets for extra shelves where you need them. A variety of plastic coated storage aids are available, even though expensive. Cardboard boxes can be cut, painted, covered with paper, plastic or fabric. Install an extra dowel for short items like blouses. Buy racks or old refrigerator shelves can be slanted against the wall to hold shoes. Put purses and matching shoes or gloves together. Avoid round storage containers, they waste space. Label anything you cannot see into, you may remember what you put into it, but does your family?

Even though all closets seem to be designed identically, adding shelves, brackets, hooks, hanging rods, etc. can be done by anyone to suit specific needs. If you are not familiar with wielding a hammer, installing shelves, knowing how to fasten screws and nails without damaging the wall, please request our handout on this subject from Irmgard R. Koscielniak, Extension Agent, Home Economics, P.O. Box 445, Oakland, MD. Telephone 334-1990.

PUBLIC NOTICE
PROPOSAL

The Garrett County Board of License Commissioners, under the provisions of Article 2B, Section 184, of the Annotated Code of Maryland may adopt rules and regulations as they may deem necessary to enable them effectively to discharge the duties imposed upon them.

The Board proposes to adopt the following rules and regulations:

The Board of License Commissioners of Garrett County may require licensees holding or applying for, if applicant is an existing Class D Licensee, a Class D (on-sale) or Class D (off-sale) license to produce any or all of the following documents as evidence that the Class D licensee holds the proper Class D license.

A. Invoices
B. Sales Slips
C. Register Tapes
D. Journals
E. Any other accounting or income tax records that may disclose information necessary for this determination.

The Board of License Commissioners of Garrett County require that Class D licensees shall maintain their accounting records in such a manner that facilitates a determination by the Board which type of Class D license should be held by the licensee.

The Board of License Commissioners of Garrett County reserves the right to issue the license having the greater fee to the license holder if the Board determines that a licensee has not maintained or has not properly disclosed records that are adequate for the Board to determine which type of Class D license should be held by the licensee.

The Board will generally make the determination of which Class D license a license holder shall hold based on data pertaining to the year immediately preceding application or renewal. However, in situations involving new licenses, situations where the relationship of on-sales and off-sales may have changed, or in any other situation where the Board deems it to be appropriate, the Board may consider current year information in making its determination.

The Board shall give consideration to special events which may temporarily distort the nature of a licensee's sales and not base its determination on a short time period if annual amounts do or will indicate a different result. The Board will receive written comments in the office of the Board of License Commissioners for Garrett County, Room 301, Old Courthouse, Oakland, MD 21550 until April 25, 1988.

Literacy Council Schedules Spring Mini-Orientations

What is the Literacy Council of Garrett County? What does it do? What are the responsibilities of a tutor? How does the council help a non-reader? Local persons can find the answers this month when a member of the Literacy Council will be at each of the county libraries to explain what is involved in being a literacy tutor, and give information on how to seek help or refer a non-reading adult for the free, confidential tutoring offered by the council's volunteers.

A council representative will be at the following libraries from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m. on the days indicated: Accident, Monday, March 14; Kitzmiller, Wednesday, March 16; Friendsville, Friday, March 18; Grantsville, Monday, March 21, and Oakland, Wednesday, March 23.

These will be mini-orientation meetings prior to the spring Tutor Training Workshop. Persons unable to attend, who have questions should write them down along with their name, address and phone, put them in an envelope and leave them with the librarian.

This spring's Tutor Training Workshop will again be conducted by the Frederick County trainers and will be held at Garrett Community College on Saturday, May 7, and Saturday, May 14, from 8:45 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. each day. It is necessary to take the complete 12-hour training to be certified as a Laubach tutor. There is no fee, but those attending should remember to bring a bag lunch.

Realizing how hard it is for people to give up two consecutive Saturdays, a new option will be available. The first session (May 7) will also be offered by breaking it down into two evening segments: Tuesday, April 12 and Tuesday, April 19, each from 6:30 to 10 p.m. Both the Tuesday segments are needed for a complete session. Then the tutor trainee would complete the workshop by taking the second 6-hour session on Saturday, May 14.

The April training will be held in the social center of St. Peter's Catholic Church in Oakland, which is located across the street from the upper end of the Courthouse. Ample parking is next to the church. Cancellation of either segment because of inclement weather will be announced over WXIE and rescheduled for Tuesday, April 26.

Reservations are requested to allow for proper planning. Persons may RSVP by calling Ferne Beachy (245-4452), Joan Sprangel (334-1286) or their local library.

Those with a student referral may insure privacy by calling the student coordinator at 334-4280.

Marshall Pike To Attend O'Brian Youth Seminar

Marshall Pike, a sophomore at Southern Garrett High School, has been nominated to represent his high school at the Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation (HOBY) State Leadership Seminar. The four-day expense-paid program will be held April 21-24 at the Royce Hotel, located near the BWI Airport.

The seminar will bring together outstanding tenth-graders throughout the state to discuss and analyze the American Incentive System with prominent leaders from business, finance, government, education and the professions. Each school selects one student who has demonstrated leadership potential to attend the event.

Mosser Case Dismissed By State's Attorney

It was announced Monday by State's Attorney James L. Sherbin that the state will not prosecute charges against David O. Mosser, Mtn. Lake Park, who had been charged with one count each of child abuse and assault and battery. The charges were filed as the result of a September 13 incident involving two-year old Blake Hedrick.

Mosser, 29, was reportedly babysitting for Blake at the residence he shared with the child's mother, Christine L. Hedrick, 28, when, shortly before 7 a.m., the child reportedly fell from his crib. Mosser then called Christine Hedrick at the Sheetz Convenience Store, Oakland, where she was employed as a manager.

While rushing home to their residence, Hedrick lost control of her vehicle, striking a tree head-on, and was killed.

The child was taken to Garrett Memorial Hospital suffer-

"I DO NOT CARE to have my name engraved in stately halls when I am gone. I want to be remembered in the hearts of men, women, girls and boys as one who joyfully strove under difficulties to bring before them the many beautiful scenes of God's creation." Leo J. More examples of his outstanding photography, plus a number of samples of his writing, appear in today's issue of The Republican.

Karl Hess To Speak At GCC

A novel approach to capitalism will be presented by political thinker Karl Hess at Garrett Community College Monday, March 28, at 6:30 p.m. in Room MC-350.

Hess will discuss his new book on small business, Capitalism for Kids. Currently secretary of the Libertarian party and editor of the Libertarian News, he was formerly a speech writer for Goldwater, Nixon, and Ford and a top conservative thinker. He is the author of several best sellers including Dear America and Neighborhood Power.

In Capitalism for Kids, Hess challenges many bedrock American institutions such as the lemonade stand and the parental allowance, even belief in Santa Claus, as counterproductive to healthy capitalism.

"The point of the book is not just making money . . . . The point is that the best thing about the free market is that it permits people to do well to support themselves by doing what they do best and love the most," Hess said in a recent national radio interview.

All persons interested in politics and economics are invited to attend.

Commissioners Approve Amendments To Solid Waste, Junkyard Ordinances

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners announced Tuesday the approval of an amendment to the existing ordinance governing the disposal of solid wastes in the county.

Commission Chairman John G. Braskey explained that the old ordinance did not adequately provide enforcement of the county code.

"Because the existing ordinance called for a larger fine, it was necessary for a warrant to be obtained from District Court before any action could be taken," Braskey stated. "With the time factor, the violators would no longer be at the garbage site — their illegal dumping would go unpunished."

The amendment calls for a lesser fine — not more than $500 — and a misdemeanor designation under the law. The ordinance took effect March 15.

Warrants may now be issued at the site and the various collection sites in the county will be more closely monitored for illegal dumping.

In that same vein, Braskey also said Tuesday that on recommendations from the Garrett County Roads Department, the commissioners will study the upgrading of collection sites in the county.

"We are especially concerned about the Friendsville site," he stated. "We are looking at the possibility of obtaining more land from the State Highway Administration to allow for a turn-around at that particular site."

March Term Grand Jury Returns Five Indictments After Session

The Garrett County Grand Jury, in session for two days this week, concluded its March term by returning a total of five indictments. The details of those indictments, however, cannot be disclosed until papers are served, according to county officials.

The Grand Jury also heard from public officials who provided information to the group regarding their specific areas of concern.

Pat Glover, Garrett County treasurer, presented an overview of the county's accounting policies and current data regarding the county's income, disbursements and investments.

Glover stated that because of expansion around the lake there would be an increase in the number of taxpayers which is expected to significantly increase Garrett County income. Glover added that tax accounts would be computerized by July 1 of this year.

Sheriff M. Van Evans presented information about the Garrett County Sheriff's Department, noting that growth of the county has resulted in the

Critical Areas Legislation Passes Senate

A Critical Areas bill, which adds seven additional counties to the Chesapeake Bay critical area and would affect any localities on a body of water draining into the Bay, has passed the state Senate over the objections of Western Maryland senators. District One Senator John Bambacus and District Two Senator Victor Cushwa voted against including Allegany, Garrett, Washington and several other counties in the provisions of the critical areas legislation. An amendment to that effect was voted down by the senate, however.

Sen. Bambacus then presented an amendment which would exempt all areas west of the Eastern Continental Divide which includes much of Garrett County. That amendment passed unanimously on the Senate floor and with it, the bill passed a second-reader vote last week.

A third-reader vote was taken Friday with a vote of 30 to 13 sending it to the House. After voting against the bill, Bambacus said, "This would be statewide zoning on mostly private property. My old concern is what the state did with the Yough corridor. The Eastern Shore voters elected those people but their representatives were steamrolled."

He said nearly 70 percent of the bay pollution comes from Baltimore City and Prince George's County by way of the Patuxent River, but that the city is almost unaffected by the legislation.

This year's bill is sponsored by Sen. Frederick Malkus Jr. (D-Dorchester), and would require critical area plans to be developed near non-tidal waters — "right down to the smallest rivulet and flood plain" one senator put it — that flow into the Chesapeake Bay.

Malkus, who opposed the existing critical area plan when it was passed four years ago, said his legislation made the critical area law fairer by extending it to the rest of the state.

The bill is not expected to do well in the House.

Junkyard Owner Pleads Guilty In Federal Court

An Oakland junkyard owner pleaded guilty to possession and storage of a dangerous substance during proceedings in Baltimore Federal District Court Monday.

Ernest R. Martin, 46, owner and operator of a junkyard located aproximately six miles south of Oakland along Rt. 219, faces up to 10 years in prison and a maximum fine of $500,000 for the offense. According to Martin, other charges, including conspiracy, transportation and distribution of the hazardous chemicals, were not prosecuted because of insufficient evidence.

Martin, along with Samuel Runfola, vice president of Cuyahoga Wrecking Corporation, and Virgil Cummings, Baltimore, were indicted last November in the first environmental prosecution brought by the U.S. Attorney's office in Maryland.

The charges stemmed from an incident last November when two trailers containing approximately 150 drums of oils, solvents and other chemicals were discovered at Martin's junkyard after the execution of a search warrant by the Environmental Protection Agency.

Cummings is owner of the trucking company that reportedly transported the hazardous waste to Martin's junkyard where Martin agreed to store the materials. Martin stated that he was assured the materials were not hazardous

Two-Vehicle Mishap Claims Life Of Deer Park Woman Tuesday

A Deer Park woman lost her life in a two-car collision Tuesday night which occurred on Route 135 near the Altamont Bridge.

Massive head injuries claimed the life of Donna Nell White, 54, who was a passenger in the 1983 Ford LTD being operated by her husband, Thomas E. White, 54. Mr. White was admitted to Garrett County Memorial Hospital after being transported from the accident scene by the Southern Rescue Squad. He was listed in "satisfactory" condition Wednesday by a hospital spokesman after initially being admitted in "guarded, but stable" condition Tuesday night.

The driver of the other automobile, a 1968 Jeep pick-up, Jeffery Alan Bever, 20, Swanton, was treated and later released from the local hospital.

According to a report filed at the Maryland State Police in McHenry, the 4:55 p.m. accident occurred when the Bever vehicle, which was eastbound on Route 135, crossed the center line and collided with the White vehicle. A third automobile, following the White vehicle, operated by Dale E. Evans Jr., 19, Mtn. Lake Park, sustained minor damage from flying debris from the mishap.

Witnesses at the scene said White attempted to avoid the collision by swerving to the left side of the road.

Bever has been charged with vehicular homicide, driving while intoxicated and failure to keep right of center. He has been released from the Garrett County Jail on his own recognizance. Tpr. Paul Brown and Cpl. G.D. Broadwater are investigating the accident. Homicide investigator, Tfc. Dave Miller, was also called to the scene.

Garrett County Emergency Management also sent the Deer Park Volunteer Fire Department to the scene.

Born June 10, 1933, in Kitzmiller, Mrs. White was the daughter of the late Wilbur Burrell and Violet (Goller) Burrell.

She was a member of the White United Methodist Church where she served as organist, Sunday school and Bible school teacher. She was a member of the Southern Band Boosters and a former Girl Scout leader.

Besides her husband, she is survived by one daughter, Debra K. White, at home; one son, Michael A. White, Westernport; four sisters, Mrs. Dolly Leonard, Severna Park; Mrs. Kay Lloyd, Annapolis; Mrs. Pat Baldwin, Gaithersburg; and Miss Judy Burrell, Kitzmiller; one brother, Kent Burrell, Kitzmiller; and one grandson born this past week.

Friends will be received in the Stewart Funeral Home, Oakland, Thursday from 7-9 p.m. and Friday from 2-4 and 7-9 p.m. A service will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. at the White United Methodist Church by the Rev. Kenneth Montgomery and the Rev. James Remley. Interment will be in the White Church Cemetery.

The body will be taken to the church one hour prior to the service.

Absentee Ballots Make No Change In Results Of Primary Election

Fred Sanders, supervisor of the Garrett County Board of Elections, announced this week that a "very low," 36 percent voter turnout was recorded in Garrett County for the "Super Tuesday," March 8, primary elections. Sanders explained that all votes have been counted with the exception of possible over-seas ballots, which will be valid and counted if they are received by the Election Board tomorrow and if they were postmarked before election day. No changes in election results are expected, however.

Board of Education

The final count showed no change in the Board of Education race, although only 11 votes separate fourth place winner Jann C. Dehus and William M. Goldsborough.

The four candidates whose names will appear on the General Election ballot on November 8 are: Rodney Durst, Swanton, 992 votes; Lisa C. Thayer, Oakland, 946 votes; Carol A. Clark, Oakland, 905 votes; and Jann C. Dehus, Oakland, 594 votes. These four candidates will vie for two upcoming vacancies on the school board, with the two successful candidates beginning four-year terms on January 1, 1989.

Votes received by the remaining candidates were: William M. Goldsborough, Mtn. Lake Park, 583; Gerard A. Herpel, Oakland, 516; Blaine M. Bowser, Bittinger, 309; Edith N. Butler, Grantsville, 370; Richard Gibson, Oakland, 375; Scott Hollingsworth, Oakland; 385; Catharine L. Hoye, Oakland, 516; Edward F. MacNichol III, Oakland, 115; Gail M. Miller, Accident, 107; and Kenneth Sukow, Accident, 83.

Asa McCain Jr. Is Elected To Mayoral Seat

Asa McCain Jr. was elected to the office of mayor of Oakland in Monday's municipal election. McCain received 176 votes defeating Francis G. "Hank" Seifert who had 112 votes.

Seifert previously served as president of the Oakland Council.

Three new council members were also elected in Monday's election. Receiving the most votes was Mary Lou Stemple with 244. Terry Helbig, an incumbent council member, received 220 votes, and Richard R. Gibson tallied 150 votes, a slim margin over Timothy T. Taylor, who had 145 votes.

Marjorie D. Seifert, incumbent treasurer, ran unopposed and received 199 votes.

The new council members will join their colleagues, Jay Moyer and Bob Boal, whose terms do not expire until next year, at the next council meeting slated for April 4. The new town officials will be sworn in at that time.

Council member, Von Johnson, submitted his resignation from the council recently, effective April 1. He cited "personal reasons" for his resignation. The council will appoint a new member to fill his vacancy at the next meeting.

Over half of the 512 registered voters in Oakland turned out for the election. A town spokesman said 282 voters actually came to the polls, while eight absentee ballots were counted.

Three Family Members Injured In Monday Mishap

Three family members from Salisbury, Pa. were injured in a head-on collision that occurred Monday afternoon on Route 669, north of Grantsville. The Maryland State Police are still investigating the cause of the accident.

Those injured were Bonnie L. Reightler, 37, now listed in "stable, but improving" condition; Jessica F. Reightler, five, listed in "fair" condition; and Matthew S. Rounds, eight months old, listed in "satisfactory" condition; all at Memorial Hospital, Cumberland. They were transported to the hospital by the Northern Rescue Squad.

The accident occurred when the Reightler vehicle, a 1984 Oldsmobile Firenza, was southbound on Route 669 and crossed the center line and collided head-on with a 1985 Jeep pickup, operated by Samuel H.

A SPECIAL VISITOR to Southern and Northern middle schools this week is none other than Mark Twain, or Samuel Clemens, as portrayed by Michael Martin, of Bradley, W.Va. Martin selects and arranges all of his material with the assistance of educators and other theatre professionals and then includes the audience in his performances. The selections performed in his monologue are taken from a variety of sources which span the career of Clemens and touch on a variety of his work. A question and answer period follows each performance. Martin, who has presented over 300 performances in schools, at workshops, festivals, and on television, performed at Southern Middle School on Tuesday and was slated to be at Northern Middle School today. The performance was sponsored by the Garrett County Board of Education and the Garrett County Arts Council.

ONE OF THE HIGHLIGHTS of the annual Winterfest Celebration at the Wisp Resort, McHenry, is the torchlight parade and fireworks display, captured above via time-lapse photography by Craig Phillips. Although the weather on Saturday was more like that of June than March, ample man-made snow remained on the slopes of Wisp to make all of the scheduled skiing events possible. Sponsored by the Deep Creek Lions Foundation, Inc., and Wisp Resort, Winterfest marks the official end of the skiing season, despite the fact that the Mountaintop was blanketed with about six inches of snow. Rural School Project Discussed By Education Bd.

Dr. Joseph Shilling, executive director of the Governor's Commission on School Performance, attended the regular monthly meeting of the Garrett County Board of Education, held last Thursday, to present updated information on the Rural School Enhancement Project — a project instituted as the result of an initiative from Gov. William Donald Schaefer to study school performance and opportunities in the least wealthy Maryland counties.

Before Dr. Shilling's arrival at the meeting, Superintendent of Garrett County Schools, Dr. Jerome Ryscavge, stated that seven Maryland counties, including Garrett, had already adopted the five standards of accountability set forth by the project committee. He explained that one concern over these standards was that a "commonality and consistency" throughout the seven jurisdictions be maintained.

Ryscavage also noted that these standards of accountablility should be considered as overall goals for the Garrett County school system, and that the Needs Assessment Study might result in additional goals for consideration.

In his introductory remarks, Dr. Shilling noted that the "wonderful job the rural school systems in the state have done has long been an untold story" but that, conversely, the special problems of a rural school system have been ignored, such as financial constraints.

Dr. Shilling explained to the board members that a set of parameters and long-term objectives had been established for the study that would identify needs and specific characteristics of each community, methods of change, student performance accountability, resources, available workforce, time constraints and other data needed to address the needs.

Shilling concluded by stating that responses from legislators have been favorable on the rural school project.

SHS Educational Specifications

Al Ringer, assistant superintendent of curriculum and instruction, was also on hand at the meeting to announce the completion of a 200-plus page manual that includes educational specifications in regard to the proposed renovation of Southern High School. Ringer requested and received board approval for the educational specifications, and has since received approval from the state.

He explained that the manual reflects many compromises among the Interagency Committee on School Construction, special education, vocational education, the regular program and the differences between the State and the local projection of student enrollment, stating that the specifications "do not please everyone, but do not offend anyone."

While the State has approved all of the 100,270 square feet of requested renovated space, Ringer said, only 7,310 square feet of new space has been approved. (Requested new space totaled 11,310 square feet.) He added that any square footage over 100,270 in renovated space and 7,310 in new space could be done, but at local expense.

In particular, if an auditorium is added (amounting to 14,454 square feet) then local monies would have to be used, said Ringer. Current legislation requires that Garrett County pay 25% of the cost.

"Even with these compromises," stated Ringer, "I believe the educational specifications are well done and I thank each of the staff at Southern High School and the staff at the central office for their support and their expertise in their development." He added that if these educational specifications are translated properly by the architect, SHS will be a "much better facility, and a much better educational opportunity will be afforded the students."

Open Space Projects Update

The education board approved the signing of a Mutual Use Agreement between the town of Kitzmiller, the education board and the Department of Natural Resources for an open space project wherein the town will "construct, maintain and utilize certain recreational facilities on lands owned by the board," according to the draft agreement.

Morris described the project as a "multi-year project" wherein some facilities will be completed the first year, while others will be added in subsequent years.

The project, with an estimated cost of $50,000, will be executed with the assistance of monies made available from Project Open Space and includes the construction of a picnic pavilion and a senior citizen's walking trail, the upgrading of an existing basketball court and ball field, the construction of a lighted tennis court and a concession stand with restroom facilities, the replacement of sliding boards and chain link fencing and the enlargement and paving of a parking lot.

Morris added that the Northern High School Open Space Project, which will include the re-location of bleachers and the football field, will also result in a similar Mutual Use Agreement.

SHS House Building Project

Kenneth Bittinger, supervisor of Vocational Education, requested a commitment from the board for assistance in upcoming house-building projects. Specifically, Bittinger asked if the board could provide, up front, the necessary money for materials and, if not, would it be feasible for the board to co-sign a bank loan.

Bittinger explained that there was a gamble involved, in that the houses built by the students might not be sold or that the time schedule might be thrown off in some way. He stated that last year's project at SHS was pre-sold but that he was not comfortable with that arrangement, fearing that the projects might become labeled as a "closed shop" arrangement.

A similar project also exists at Northern High School, where a local lumber company is carrying the bill until the house is sold.

Bittinger noted that he expects both projects to someday be self-supporting. Ryscavage explained to board members that, since a profit is (and will be) realized from the projects, the money could eventually come back to the board. Pending more information, a decision was tabled until the board's next meeting.

Articulation With ACC

Bittinger also requested and received approval from the board to enter into an articulation agreement with Allegany Community College. At present, the two high schools have such an agreement with Garrett Community College wherein students may gain college credit and advanced college placement by taking college courses at the high school level.

The problem, said Bittinger, is that GCC does not offer all the programs desired by high school seniors, such as a marketing program, auto mechanics, forestry and food service. By entering into the agreement with ACC, a greatere number of students would be served by the program.

Board member Anna Mary Fratz stated that while it would be "nice" if students could take advantage of educational opportunities in the county, it was "more important to give them the option of any course of study they desire."

Student Assistant in Special Ed Course

Information was presented by Al Ringer concerning student assistants in the special education classroom's request to receive credit for their work there.

Ringer stated that he would undertake the preparation of a syllibus for the course, which would then be added to the curriculum as an elective, and would earn the student one-half credit upon completion.

Pianist, Historian To Present Unique Program at GCC

"Masterpieces of Music and Design," a unique program that relates music and architectural design, will be presented at Garrett Community College auditorium on Saturday, March 26, at 7:30 p.m. Featuring Ann Saslav, concert pianist, pictured right, and Leslie Freudenheim, architectural historian, pictured left, the program is being sponsored by Garrett Lakes Arts Festival.

The performers will use a slide projector and piano to present relationships between musical sounds and visual shapes, leading the audience to an enhanced understanding of the world's great architecture and music of the classical, baroque, Victorian, and contemporary.

Freudenheim and Saslav will show how composers and architects approach the concepts of shape, size, repetition, embellishments, and form in their respective media as they explore the nature of creativity in the art form.

Ann Saslav, a critically acclaimed pianist who has performed throughout the United States, Europe, and Mexico, has appeared as soloist with the Houston Symphony, the Baltimore Symphony, the San Antonio Symphony, and the New Zealand Symphony. She has also written and produced programs for Mt. Washington Concerts, Inc., which tours the United States for audiences of all ages.

Leslie Freudenheim, author of Building With Nature, which explores the roots of San Francisco Bay region's architechural traditions, has served as architectural critic for the "Baltimore Sun" and has written and co-produced program for the Smithsonian Institution, Baltimore Museum of Art, The Jewish Museum in New York and the Oakland Museum in California.

Thefts, Property Damaged Probed By Sheriff's Dept.

The Garrett County Sheriff's Department is investigating numerous cases of breaking and entering and theft and destruction of property cases reported recently.

Roger L. Paugh, Swanton, who is having a house built by Habitat for Humanity, reported to sheriff's deputy, P.J. Pratt, on Saturday that someone had entered the unfinished house and removed siding, ladders, furring strips, electrical parts, sheeting, plywood and nails and assorted tools belonging to Habitat volunteers, valued at $2,322.

Electronic Unlimited, Loch Lynn, was also burglarized sometime between last Thursday and this Tuesday, said police. Stolen were several television, VCR and stereo units valued at $1,900.

Paul E. Ruane, an employee of Echo Marina, reported last week that someone had entered a rented barn where boats were stored and discharged fire extinguishers in 20 boats, creating $320 worth of damages. The vandalism reportedly occurred sometime between January and March 7.

Terry Bell, co-owner of Bell Brothers Motor Sales, Oakland, told police that someone had stolen the right side of a "T" top from a 1983 Blue Chevrolet Camaro Z28 which was locked and parked in the used car lot.

Two elementary schools in opposite ends of the county were vandalized recently.

When someone entered the Kitzmiller School on Monday night, breaking a window and handle on a freezer, further attempts to steal or vandalize were thwarted when police were alerted by an automatic alarm.

The Route 40 School was vandalized on March 9 when someone drove through the lawn and tore up the sod by spinning tires, said police. Patrick R. Delaney reported the incident which is being investigated by Deputy David W. Stoner.

Cuyahoga Wrecking Corp., a New York based company, and its subsidiary were each fined $100,000 after pleading guilty to charges of transporting the hazardous waste.

According to a statement of facts presented in court before U.S. District Judge John R. Hargrove, Overland (the real estate subsidiary of Cuyahoga) was paid $157,000 to clean up an old distillery in Philadelphia, owned by Cuyahoga. Runfola reportedly agreed to pay Cummings $6,000 to dispose of the drums which were then taken to Martin's junkyard.

Second Talk On Business Ethics Slated At GCC

The second in a series of lectures on business ethics by Dr. Ralph W. Clark, professor of philosophy at West Viorginia University, and sponsored by Garrett Lakes Arts Festival, will be presented at Garrett Community College, McHenry, on Monday, March 21, at 7:30 p.m., in Room 159. The subject of this lecture will be "Morality and Self-Esteem."

As with all of the lectures, Dr. Clark will disbribute copies of his newspaper column "Moral Issues and Answers" that pertains to this subject.

"In my lecture in February, I discussed moral obligations to others," he states. "In this lecture I will discuss the other side of the coin: obligations to ourselves. I will argue that obligations to ourselves are just as important as obligations to others, if the world is to contain people who find joy and deep satisfaction in life. To be a friend to others, you must first be a friend to yourself.

"I will distinguish among various types of morality: egoistic, sacrificial, tribal, universal, drawing examples from history and contemporary life. I will discuss the question: isn't everyone selfish? . . . I will examine the role that sympathy plays in morality.

"Some of the examples I will discuss include: the mother who lives for her children while they are growing up, then suddenly finds that she has no life of her own; the engineer whose greatest enjoyment in life is his own creative work; Mother Teresa and her charitable work; Albert Schweitzer; the atheistic physician, who goes to work in a leper colony where he contracts leprosy."

Following the lecture, Dr. Clark will conduct a question and answer period about his subject. Future lectures will be "Advertising and Responsibilities to Consumers," April 18; and "Basic Principles of Ethics," May 23.

The author of many books and other publications, Dr. Clark holds a B.A. degree in philosophy from the University of Denver and a PhD in philosophy from the University of Colorado.

The free lecture series is being made possible with funding from the Maryland Humanities Council, an affiliate of the National Endowment for Humanities.

We're Hear To Help

by Pamela A. Martin, CCCA

WHERE THERE'S SMOKE

Studies show high-fat diets and smoking to be enemies of hearing. Research suggests that a high-fat diet can bring on such hearing problems as vertigo, tinnitus (ringing in the ears), and Merniere's Disease (hearing loss coupled with vertigo). The good news is that a switch to a low-fat diet can stop and possibly reverse these hearing problems. As for smoking, it helps cause arteriosclerosis which reduces blood flow to the inner ear. Studies show that smokers suffer almost three times the hearing impairment as non-smokers of equal ages. The damage done to hearing is proportional to the duration of a person's smoking habit. These facts simply add fuel to the fire for the non-smoking argument.

There are many problems that affect one's hearing. ALLEGANY HEARING & SPEECH ASSOCIATES offers the solutions. We have available a selection of hearing instruments that provides a means to regaining enjoyment of the sounds around you. If you can benefit from such a device, you will be happy that you came to ALLEGANY HEARING SPEECH ASSOCIATES. We care about you.

Metro Steam Roller . . .

Several years ago when the state of Maryland marched into Garrett County and seized control of the Youghiogheny River Corridor by zoning its shoreline, the reaction of many local property owners was one of outrage. A much larger version of this invasion has taken place in another area of Maryland because of the tremendous power of a few metropolitan counties and Baltimore City.

Although every single delegate, senator and county commissioner representing each of the 13 affected counties opposed the proposal, the state legislature nonetheless passed a piece of legislation in 1984 called the critical areas law, which was part of the Chesapeake Bay clean-up effort. The law allowed state zoning of the entire shoreline of the Bay and its tributaries. The zoning prohibits development within 1,000 feet of the water's edge, the idea being that this will curtail pollution into the bay.

In fact, however, only three percent of the bay's pollution comes from these 13 counties surrounding the bay. Sixty percent of it comes from the Patuxent River, which picks up the pollution from Prince George's and Howard counties and Baltimore City. However, because of their legislative strength, there are no similar restrictions and no zoning in these jurisdictions. It would cost money and limit development in these urban areas, which are two things these legislators and their constituents will not stand for. Fairness to the 13 Bay counties is not even being considered.

Baltimore City even had the power, and the gall, to exempt itself from the original critical areas law.

In retaliation for all of this, Senator Frederick C. Malkus Jr., who represents several of the Bay counties, entered legislation this year to include the entire state in the criticals areas law. He saw it as the only way to force the urban counties, which are really responsible for most of the Bay's pollution, to clean up their act. Because of an amendment by our own senator, John Bambacus, the new legislation exempts Garrett County since very little of our water ends up in the Bay. The Malkus bill, with the Bambacus amendment passed the Senate on Friday, but is expected to receive rough treatment by the House.

What worries us more than the issue of the pollution of the Bay is the tremendous strength of the metropolitan counties when it comes to the state legislature. Just three of these counties have the votes to decide what goes on in the entire state, which strikes right at the heart of our representative form of government. What it amounts to is that the folks in and around Baltimore have the power to create the laws that govern those of us who live in Garrett County, and to exempt themselves from such laws.

Thus it is essential that we in the rural areas of the state always elect representatives who are willing to go to the mat and take a firm stand on our behalf. Only by raising a ruckus once in a while and bringing our causes to the attention of the media will the rural counties ever be able to keep the metropolitan steam roller in check.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

This is addressed to the person who stole an envelope of money from an old lady's purse, while she was a patient in Room 212, of Garrett County Memorial Hospital, the last part of February or the first part of March.

You think no one saw what you did, but there is One who did. He will be watching you the rest of your life. Those of us who know what you did will be praying for you. The old lady is recovering from her illness, but because of you, she was not able to pay for medicine that she needed. That was her life savings.

If you have a conscience, please return the money, or what is left of it, to this newspaper, anonymously. Thank you.

A.L.

To The Editor:

This week in the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Delegates, my bill to create a special education lottery for the purpose of school construction funding was killed. With the death of this bill, the Ways and Means Committee sent a clear message to the citizens of this State. It is appropriate to hold lotteries to raise funds to build sport stadiums, but it is not appropriate to use lotteries to raise funds to build much needed schools. Somehow, we seem to have our priorities mixed up when we allow a huge backlog of school construction projects to accumulate, while at the same time approve expenditures of 220 million dollars for stadiums. I could accept the defeat of this proposal if the Committee had brought forth a solution to the funding of school projects that would reduce the backlog and the length of time required to fund each project.

The State currently has a backlog of approved school construction projects amounting to 280 million dollars. At our current rate of funding 60 million dollars per year, it will take five years just to catch up, and this does not consider new projects that will be approved during that five year period. We cannot continue without some new source of revenue directed toward school construction.

The problems of education in this State are complex. New school construction is just one element of the needs of education, however a very important one, and every parent and taxpayer should be extremely upset that the Legislature has not faced this issue with any degree of conviction. Parents should be expressing their concerns to the members of the Ways and Means Committee for rejecting this proposal. All concerned citizens should be asking their legislators what they propose to do to solve this problem. Since my proposal was unacceptable, I urge them to develop a better solution.

Thank you, I remain

Sincerely,
John G. Gary
Delegate, District 33
Maryland House of Delegates

To the Editor:

I belong to a World War II organization that is trying to locate men in your state who trained at the U.S.M.S. Maritime Radio Officers Training Station that was located on Gallups Island, Boston, Mass. We are having a national reunion in May of 1988 on the west coast.

These men are asked to contact Gallups Island Radio Association (G.I.R.A.), CM-42, P.O.B. 1211, Corrales, N.M., 87048.

There were approximately 5000 men who went through this training station during WWII. These men, upon graduating from this school, became radio officers aboard merchant vessels. We know a good portion of them did not make it through the early part of the war. Our target is to locate at least 1000 men. I thank you for your time and help.

Sincerely,

Three Injured

Peight, 65, Belleville, Pa. The accident occurred on the right side of the roadway and the circumstances of the mishap are still under investigation by Cpl. Richard Graham. He noted on his report that charges are pending.

Peight was slightly injured in the mishap and treated by rescue squad personnel at the scene. Garrett County Emergency Management also dispatched the Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department to the 3:50 p.m. accident.

State police said visibility was poor at the time of the accident because of blowing snow and icy roadways.

Grand Jury

need for additional staff and two additional deputies.

Evans indicated that his staff is second lowest in the state in terms of salary and, even though salary increases had been authorized by the Garrett County Commissioners, effective January 1, 1988, employees there are still $1,000 to $1,500 below state averages.

According to Evans, the crime rate in Garrett County is down, in general. He noted that the Catherine Ford case is currently occupying the majority of the department's time.

Garrett County Roads Administrator, Paul Shockey, described to the jury the facilities, staff and the summer program which will include 80 miles of road being upgraded, and stated that the impact of the lake development on the workload of the roads department would be significant.

Shockey also informed the group that chemicals are no longer being used in winter road treatment. Also discussed were the Round Glade landfill, the Glendale Bridge project, guardrails on Swanton hill, the dumpsters on King's Run Road and possibility of the State Highway Administration taking over the maintenance of the Sand Flat-Deer Park Road.

Shockey concluded by saying that safety would be heavily stressed this year.

The Court House tour included the main building, the jail area, the communications center and county offices, and was conducted by Gary Mullich, director of general services.

The committee noted the improvement of the expansion of the jail kitchen, but indicated a concern for lack of adequate food storage space. In particular, the group felt a walk-in freezer was needed.

While the committee felt the communications center had been operating efficiently, the need for additional staff was noted. They also indicated the need for expansion of office space in both the communications center and the jail.

Mullich also outlined plans for current and future renovations at the Court House, noting that outside work had been completed. Interior remodeling, he said, would involve rewiring the old building, modifying the current heating system, enlarging offices, restoring the rotunda and remodeling the Circuit Court room.

Assistant Superintendent of Administrative Services, John Morris, gave a tour of the Garrett County Board of Education building, noting that many repairs and improvements had been made there. However, he said, there was still a concern over ceiling leaks, cracked windows and various other areas of disrepair.

Because of the building's age, Morris stated, it would have to be replaced in the not too distant future. In the meantime, the grand jury recommended regular inspections be made by the fire marshal.

Morris also answered questions concerning the Southern High School renovation project, Yoder School enrollment, and future plans for several elementary schools in southern Garrett County. He stressed that needs of the schools and the students took precedence over needs of the staff.

According to Morris, a small budget surplus was realized this year because of the mild winter. Also discussed were the food satellite program and discipline, which Morris indicated was not a serious problem in the county schools.

He noted that a study is currently underway to determine the possibility of consolidating five older elementary schools into two modern facilities. The study is expected to be completed by November.

A tour of Garrett County Memorial Hospital was conducted by Benjamin Rosenthal, assistant administrator, who answered questions concerning the facility and staff. It was noted that the addition of the CAT scan unit had proven to be both beneficial and cost-efficient.

The need of expansion in the near future was also indicated, in light of the fact that over 30,000 patients received care there last year.

Shelby Paugh, Garrett County health official, stated that mental health care and home care were in need of improvement. The committee noted that offices were clean and neat, and that a "friendly atmosphere" had been achieved there. The group felt that the facility should be included in future grand jury visitations.

Mosser Case

ing from a head injury and was then taken to West Virginia University Hospital, Morgantown, where he was treated for several weeks before he was released.

According to a press release from the State's Attorney's Office, it was initially felt that the injury was too severe to have occurred as a result of a fall but that "after review of all the police reports, medical reports and x-rays, and a statement by Mosser, all of the experts agreed that the injury received by Blake Hedrick could well have been caused from a fall from a crib."

Sherbin stated that he interviewed Dr. Mark Gold and Dr. Howard Kaufman, Department of Neurosurgery at WVU Hospital, Dr. John Smialek, chief medical examiner for Maryland, Dr. Charles Kokes, deputy medical examiner for Maryland, and Dr. Arthur T. Kobrine, Washington, D.C., a noted national authority on head injuries and a member of the American Board of Neurological Surgery.

A polygraph examination, administered by the Maryland State Police, was given to Mosser that indicated he was telling the truth concerning the events surrounding Blake's injury.

Sherbin also noted that the state's attorney has a "dual obligation — that is to investigate and prosecute those persons who have committed crimes." He added that if there is insufficient evidence, the state's attorney also has an obligation "to protect that person from criminal prosecution. In this case the evidence supports that Blake Hedrick fell from his crib and it would be improper to proceed to trial."

The case was to have been heard in Carroll County Circuit Court following a request by the defense attorney, Lawrence V. Kelly, that the case be transferred from Garrett County. Circuit Court Judge Fred A. Thayer granted the removal because of pre-trial publicity and public sentiment resulting from the beating death of four-year old Brandy White.

Our Turn

Take The Wheel, Please

by Pam Ashby

Exhilaration took on a new meaning in my life and in my son's life this week. You see, Jamie Ashby received his learner's permit to drive and it may well have been the first time the MVA experienced dual cartwheels by mother and son.

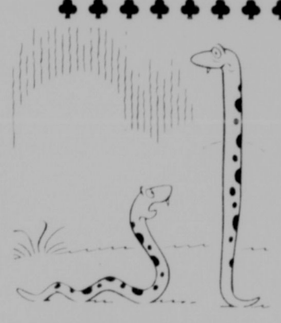

Me thinks, though, that we were elated for two very different reasons.

I am thrilled because in a few short weeks I will have someone who will willingly run to the market for bread and milk at 9 p.m. I will have an assistant chauffeur to handle all the "to" and "from" trips to extra-curricular activities in which my offspring participate. I will no longer miss the nightly news or the end of a good movie on television because I have to retrieve Jamie from the Teen Center or the theatre. Selfish reasons, you say? You are correct!

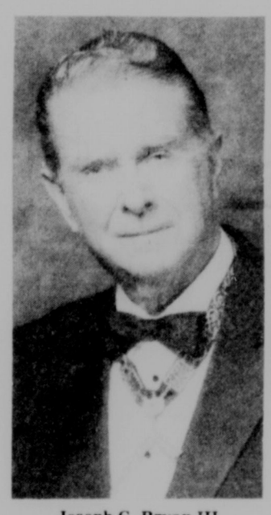

Now Jamie, on the other hand, sees a driver's license as the right to cruise. He views it as a passage from boy child to manhood. He thinks my car will be at his disposal at all times. Wrong! Wrong! Wrong!

I have nothing against the rites of passage, mind you. More importantly, I have nothing against my son getting a job to support Exxon and Metropolitan Casualty. Suddenly, my exhilaration is reduced to dollar signs before my bloodshot eyes.

Grit your proverbial teeth, Pam. Get your fanny in gear, shift your drive train of thought, reverse your preconceived notions, contemplate four on the floor, buckle up and get ready for the long haul. Jamie is in the driver's seat! May the saints preserve us. (I had to throw something in for St. Patrick's Day, didn't I?)

Lutheran Group Plans Fundraisers

Lutheran Brotherhood, Branch 8483, has planned several activities to raise funds for the community over the next few months.

One such project is called "The Disaster Fund," established by Lutheran Brotherhood to help anyone faced with a disaster-type need, according to a branch spokesman. "For example," she stated, "we can help with extensive medical expenses."

This year the group is helping Randy Fink, who was injured in a vehicle mishap last summer. "He has been faced with extensive medical expenses and still may need five additional surgeries," the spokesman stated.

The branch will be collecting funds for Randy with two different projects. Lutheran Brotherhood will match $2 for every $1 collected, up to $1,000. There will be a display at the Country Club Mall in LaVale to collect funds on April 12 and April 16.

The Bittinger Lutheran Youth Group will also participate in a Bowl-a-Thon at the North Garrett Lanes in Grantsville. They will be bowling on April 3 from 6 p.m. until midnight. They will be seeking sponsors in the Bittinger area in the next few weeks.

Another project started by the branch is the "Challenge Fund" to help people in need or to aid worthy organizations with supplies. Lutheran Brotherhood will match $1 for each $1 collected, up to $1,000. The branch is currently collecting funds for the purchase of Bibles, tape players and cassettes for the elderly in community nursing homes.

Good Shepherd Baptist Church Sets Conference

Dana Umbel, pastor of the Good Shepherd Independent Baptist Church located near Accident, announces the Church's annual Missions Conference. Services are scheduled for the evenings of March 24 and 25, beginning at 7 p.m.

Dr. Don Sisk, general director of Baptist International Missions, Inc., will be the guest speaker. After pastoring for several years, Dr. Sisk began his missionary work in Japan in 1965 where he served for ten years. During that time, two churches were begun in Osaka and Kobe. He was one of the founders of the Kansai Independent Baptist Bible College and served as the first president. In 1975, B.I.M.I. asked Dr. Sisk to assume the responsibilities of Far Eastern director and he has filled the position of general director in recent years. His present position involves the coordination of activity for more than 1,000 missionaries on hundreds of foreign fields.

The theme of the conference will be "Missions — Investment in the Future." Good Shepherd is a completely independent church which maintains direct and personal contact with each missionary or mission project which they support.

Pastor Umbel extends a welcome to all. The church is located two miles south of Accident along U.S. Rt. 219.

Dr. Sisk will also be speaking in the Sunday morning worship service on March 27 at 10:30 a.m.

Jaycees Slate Slide Program By Lowell Leitzel

The Greater Oakland Jaycees will sponsor a covered dish dinner and slide presentation by Lowell Leitzel at its next meeting on Thursday, March 24, at 6 p.m. at the home of Sharon Helbig on Memorial Drive.

Members and prospective members are asked to bring a French covered dish to share with the group. Persons desiring additional information about the meeting or about the Jaycees may call 334-8127 or 334-8583.

"Hire The Older Worker Week" Now Underway

In conjunction with Governor William Donald Schaefer's proclaiming March 13-19 as "Hire the Older Worker Week", Mrs. Rosalie Silber Abrams, director of the Maryland Office on Aging, is launching a state-wide effort to increase the number of workers age 55 and over in the public and private sectors of our economy. Posters and public service announcements encouraging the hiring of older workers will be distributed to newspaper editors, radio stations, personnel offices of public agencies, and generally placed where the public can be made aware of the campaign.

"We urge all departments of state, county, and local governments as well as other Maryland employers to consider tapping the vast reservoir of skills qualified workers age 55 and over can contribute to their work force. The older worker also brings valuable personal assets to the job — a strong work ethic, a willingness to learn, good attendance, and experience you can count on," Mrs. Abrams said.

"In today's competitive market for reliable employees the older worker is a 'prize'. They can also make a significant difference in the profit or loss of a company. That's why we advise companies to remember when choosing new employees that the dependable older worker is a good choice," Mrs. Abrams added.

Employees interested in knowing more about hiring older workers in Maryland may call the Maryland Office on Aging, (301) 225-1100.

The Garrett County Area Agency on Aging encourages local employers to consider hiring older workers. In addition, the Agency said it wishes to recognize many of its older employees who have greatly contributed to the operation of some of its many programs.

Several of the local staff members are senior aides who have worked in various capacities, such as site managers and cooks at nutrition sites for many years. They are responsible for planning recreational activities for site participants, completing weekly and monthly reports, and handling reservations for meals or the preparation of nutritious meals. "Their talent and creative ability have been shown through their diplomacy of dealing with others, and by organizing recreational activities, guest speakers, and special events at their respective sites," stated an Agnecy spokesman.

"We would like to thank and honor the following staff persons for their dependable service: Cora Bowser, Friendsville, Accident and McHenry sites; Agnes Carey, Finzel site; Lula Brown, Grantsville; Mabel Miller and Merril Sturtz, Jennings; Louise Beckman and Betty Wildesen, Swanton; Mary Browning and Norma Shoemaker, Oakland site; Clarence Shoemaker, maintenance at Truesdell Senior Home; Jenny Keller, Kitzmiller; Evelyn Steyer, Gorman; and Helen Tasker, Truesdell Senior Home," the spokesman concluded.

Fleet Renewal Registrations Mailed Early

Traditionally, April has been the month for commercial vehicle fleet renewal registrations.

The Maryland Motor Vehicle Administration has announced that early mailing of renewal applications (last week of January for March) and (last week of February for April) provides fleet owners the opportunity to register their fleets early and receive "prompt efficient" service.

W. Marshall Rickert, MVA administrator, stated, "Part of our program in the last few years has been to balance the flow of work in the vehicle registration area. Our automated staggered registration system has cut out long lines. By providing a 60-day window for fleet owners, we can level out the renewal of approximately 300,000 commerical vehicles and avoid a 'crunch time' for the companies.

"We have written companies to mail in their renewals early. This year is much easier because it is a renewal sticker year, not a plate year. Turn around times, by mail, are averaging five to six work days. If a company wishes to drop off registration renewals at Glen Burnie or one of our ten branch offices, they can be serviced in two work days providing there are no violations (flags) to delay processing and they are in our hands by April 15th."

Large fleet owners need this time to assure getting renewal stickers on the trucks which can be scattered through the country. Early registration renewal provides this opportunity, Rickert said.

"During March and April, the total number of vehicles scheduled for renewal tops 700,000 units," Rickert noted. "To complete this renewal period we ask citizens to mail their registration renewals before the 15th of the month. Last day registrants of fleets cannot be assured of timely service, leaving themselves open to law enforcement action."

Winterfest XV

WINTERFEST ROYALTY — Sandy Lewis, daughter of Larry and Linda Lewis, Friendsville, was selected from about a dozen candidates to reign as Queen of the 1988 Winterfest Celebration at the Wisp Resort this past weekend. The coronation was held Friday evening at the annual Winterfest Kick-Off Dinner. A senior at Northern High School, Sandy was the recipient of a $500 U.S. Savings Bond, a dozen roses, and tickets for two to the kick-off event. She was escorted by Sean Jones, also pictured. At Northern, Sandy is a member of the band, where she served two years on the silk squad and is currently captain of the rifle squad. She was a member of the Northern High chorus for one year, served on the Student Council Public Relations Committee and the Junior-Senior Prom Committee. She is a member of the Oak Grove Church of the Brethren and the CRYF Youth Group. She enjoys swimming, skiing, and dancing. Judges for the Winterfest XV Queen Contest were members of the Mt. Top Ministerium.

WE THOUGHT WISP WAS FOR SNOW SKIING... While it's true that the ski season is officially closed in Garrett County each year by the annual Winterfest Celebration, one does not usually attempt water skiing in the county for at least a couple of months. Such was not the case Sunday at the Wisp, however, as a special pond was constructed on the slopes of Wisp which a number of skiers attempted to ford. Only a few made it, however, including the young man pictured at right. Most of the participants continue to thaw in front of fireplaces throughout the area.

SINCE WHEN DOES MOSES CARRY A TWO-WAY RADIO? We suspect that under that khaffia and wa agl is not the famed leader of the Israelites, but instead a member of the Wisp Ski Patrol, who dressed in such a way to participate in the annual Yakapah Garbola parade at Winterfest.

ALL TYPES OF "FOLK" usually show up to enjoy the annual Winterfest Celebration at the Wisp Resort in McHenry and this year was no exception. Even cockatoos occasionally join in the fun and fanfare, although rarely does one seem them on skis.

STILL ON PATROL, even though it was the last skiing weekend of the season at the Wisp Resort, were the faithful members of the National Ski Patrol, who keep a watchful eye on the slopes and take care of the small percentage of skiers who become injured. Pictured are Mark Halsig, left, director of the Wisp Patrol's paid staff, and Jack Neal, a member of the Oregon Ridge Ski Patrol.

OUTDOOR VOLLEYBALL IN MARCH is a bit unusual, especially in Garrett County, but not so at the annual Winterfest Celebration at the Wisp Ski Resort. Even though much of the ground at the Wisp remained covered with snow, the temperatures soared into the 60s on Saturday, making it a perfect day for the various Winterfest events.

Chili Cook-Off Winners Named

Winners were named at the recent Winterfest activities for the first annual Chili Cookoff, sponsored by Coors and the Deep Creek Lake Lions Club.

Taking first place was Chuck Nolan, who won $100 and a sterling silver bowl. Coming in second with their chili recipe were Vince Curl and Russ Lander, who won $75 and a sterling silver bowl. Third place winners were Mark and Chrissy Curl who received $50 for their efforts and a sterling silver bowl.

A spokesman said he hoped the event would become a permanent contest of Winterfest.

In Loving Memory Of

Roma Mae Uphole

Who Passed Away March 22, 1987

It broke our hearts to lose you, but you are not alone,
A part of us went with you the morning God called you home.
A loving heart stopped beating, hard working hands at rest,
By God calling you, I know He always takes the best.
Billions of times we miss you, billions of tears we have cried,
And, Roma, if love could have saved you, you never would have died.
With our family circle broken, life will never be the same,
The vacancy in our hearts, will always keep your name.
Just wait for me, Roma, for we will be there,
To meet you in Heaven, and Heaven, we will share.

PICK-UP OVERTURNS — Pictured above is what can happen when the driver of a vehicle falls asleep at the wheel. Dirk A. Yoder, 22, Grantsville, was reportedly operating a 1988 Ford Ranger northbound on the Dorsey Hotel Road when he fell asleep at the wheel and lost control of his vehicle, crossing the center line and overturning after striking a dirt embankment. When police arrived at the scene, there was no driver to be found, causing police to search the area with a helicopter to no avail. Yoder told police the next day that he was frightened and had walked to a friend's house in Springs, Pa. to spend the night. Tfc. R.M. Hershberger charged Yoder with negligent driving. Another vehicle overturned on U.S. Route 48 on Sunday evening because of icy conditions. Frank J. Clark, 34, Cumberland, and a passenger, Rhonda J. Lee, 24, Cumberland, were uninjured when Clark lost control of his vehicle and began to fishtail. The car then spun around and struck an embankment in the rear before overturning. Hershberger also investigated that mishap. Photo by Craig Speicher

Two Accident Women Hurt In Wednesday Mishap

Two Accident women were injured Wednesday morning when the pickup in which they were traveling overturned on U.S. Route 219 near Northern High School.

Barbara Buttorff, 43, operator of the pickup, and Bellva Tasker, 64, were treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital following the 9:50 a.m. mishap.

State Police at the McHenry Detachment said the accident occurred when Buttorff was driving north on U.S. Route 219 when she lost control of the pickup, causing it to spin in the roadway and strike a guardrail before overturning and coming to rest on its wheels.

Lakers Fall To 1-9 With Losses To Chowan, Louisburg And ACC

The Garrett Community College baseball team's inexperience has been evident this past week, as the Lakers dropped five straight games to see their record plummet to 1-9.

Coach Lawrence Nesselrodt's team was swept by Chowan Community College in Murfreesboro, N.C., on Friday, 10-0 and 6-1, dropped a single game to national power Louisburg, N.C., on Saturday, 10-1, and lost both ends of a doubleheader yesterday in Cumberland to arch rival Allegany Community College, 5-4 and 6-3.

The first game against Chowan ran only five innings because of the 10-run rule. After recording one run in the second inning and two more in the third, Chowan added seven runs in the fourth behind a three-run double by Rich Campbell.

The Braves maintained the momentum going into the nightcap, as they scored six runs in the bottom of the first inning, led by Mark Clark's grand slam.

The Lakers' only run of the day came in the top of the fifth inning when Rich Goad was hit by a pitch, pinch runner Jay Moore advanced to third on a wild pitch and a single by Dwayne Hedrick, and then came home on a sacrifice fly by Eric Watts.

Mike Campbell finished with a double and Watts singled twice for the Lakers. Campbell also recorded a double in the first game, while Watts and Kyle Martz each singled.

Laker pitchers Martz and Scott Lohr did not allow another run after the first inning of the second game, but the Garrett offense could produce no more than the one run.

The Lakers were playing without starting second baseman Brian Randolph and catcher Warren Hook because of injuries.

The Lakers played well against Louisburg on Saturday until the bottom of the fifth inning. The score was knotted at 1-1 going into that frame, but Louisburg began to hit the ball and recorded four runs in the fifth, one in the sixth and two each in the seventh and eighth innings.

A solo homer by Louisburg's Brian Edwards gave the home team a 1-0 lead in the first inning.

Garrett came back to tie in the fifth when Jay Baker hit a two-out single, moved to third on a wild pitch and a walk to Mike Clark, and stole home on a double-steal attempt with Clark.

A two-run homer in the bottom of the fifth by Buddy Pace gave Louisburg the lead for good.

Louisburg's final two runs in the eighth inning were a result of four walks and a pair of errors.

Baker recorded Garrett's only two hits, with singles in the fifth and eighth innings.

A hole in the fence at Allegany Community College's field yesterday caused the Lakers' defeat in the first game.

Garrett out-hit the Trojans 11-7 in the opener and held a 4-2 lead in the fifth inning. However, ACC scored a pair in the bottom of the fifth to tie and added the winning run in the top of the seventh.

A double by Scott Schneider, followed by a double by Myrle Grose and an error by the Laker third baseman gave ACC a 2-0 lead in the third inning.

Jay Baker opened with a single for the Lakers in the fifth. Mike Clark was then hit by a pitch, but Baker was picked off at second. Brad Sellers followed with a walk and Watts stepped up to plate Clark with a double.

SKI FOR HEART PROCEEDS NOTED — As a result of the third annual "Ski for Heart" event at the Wisp Ski Resort, McHenry, over $1,700 was raised to benefit the American Heart Association-Western Maryland Division's Community Programs and Education. Pictured left to right are Dick Rowles II, "Ski for Heart" chairman; Vicki Naliborski, top money-raiser who was awarded a 1988-89 season pass donated by the Wisp Resort; and Jerry Geisler, Wisp operations manager. Not pictured is Chad Montgomery, second highest money-raiser, who won two free ski tune-ups donated by Rudy's Ski Shop.

With runners on second and third, Martz singled to send home two more runs. Darryl Dupert then singled to score Martz.

In the bottom of the fifth, Schneider walked for ACC, Grose singled, and Jim Krevokuch sacrificed both runners ahead. Kevin Carpenter then singled to score Schneider and Grose came home on a wild pitch.

It was in the sixth that the Lakers' scoring was erased by a hole in the right field corner fence. After two outs, Clark singled and Hedrick followed with a hard line drive to right. The fielder dove for the ball, missed it, and it rolled toward the fence as Clark came home and Hedrick was rounding second. The fielder then signaled that the ball had rolled through the fence, so the hit was ruled a ground-rule double and Clark had to go back to third base. Dave Deter then struck out Watts, who had already hit a pair of doubles for the Lakers.

The winning run was scored in the seventh when Krevokuch hit a long fly to center that was dropped by the Laker outfielder, putting Krevokuch on second. He moved to third on a pop fly to center. Scott Miller and Scott Morgan were then both walked and Tim Foreman singled to center to send Krevokuch home with the winning run.

Krevokuch led off the first inning of the second game with a triple and came home on a grounder by Carpenter to give ACC a 1-0 lead.

The Lakers responded with three runs in the fourth inning to take the lead. Watts and Martz led off with walks and advanced on a passed ball. Dupert followed with a fielder's choice to score Watts and Richard Goad rapped his first collegiate hit to send Martz home. Clark then singled to plate Dupert.

A long single by Morgan in the bottom of the fifth scored two runs for ACC to knot the score at 3-3.

The Trojans won the game in the sixth when Scott Johnson singled, stole second, Schneider walked, Grose singled home Johnson, Schneider scored on a wild pitch, and Krevokuch singled home Grose.

"There were two really disappointing losses," Coach Nesselrodt stated. "We played very well, but we had some bad breaks and we are not playing opportunistic ball."

After playing so many powerful teams the past two weeks, Nesselrodt is confident that, if his team plays up to its capabilities, the Lakers will greatly improve their record over the next several days. Garrett will play a single game at Germantown CC today, another single game at Anne Arundel CC Friday, a doubleheader at Chesapeake CC Saturday, a twinbill at Catonsville on Sunday, and two games at CCAC Boyce in Pittsburgh Monday.

"It's a long season and we are still optimistic about winning a lot of games this year," Nesselrodt said.

Southern Middle Shares Tourney Title With BW

By virtue of a 34-29 defeat of Bishop Walsh Monday evening, the Southern Middle School basketball team was declared co-champion with the Spartans of the Oldtown 7-8 Grade Basketball Tournament.

The title was shared by the two teams since Bishop Walsh had defeated Southern Middle earlier, 47-41. A tie-breaker between the two teams could not be scheduled because of commitments to other tournaments.

Brett Rice, who was named the tournament's Most Valuable Player, led the Little Rams with 17 points on seven buckets and three of 10 shots from the foul line. Point guard David Kurtz also finished in double figures, as he netted 11 points and led the play-making.

Robbie Boyle led Bishop Walsh with 13 points.

Southern Middle held the Spartans at arm's length throughout most of the game, with leads of 8-4, 18-12, and 26-21 at the quarters.

Rice scored a total of 97 points in five tournament games, to average just under 20 per contest.

Named to the All-Tournament team were Southern Middle's Britten Martin, who scored a total of 47 points in the tourney; John Houser of Northern Middle School; Jay Twyman of Keyser and Brad Paye of Bishop Walsh. Boyle was named Most Outstanding Player.

The victory gave the Rams a 19-4 record for the season. They are competing in the Valley Middle School Tournament this week.

The Southern Middle team is sponsored by Garrett Construction of Deer Park.

Martin's Defeats Miners To Win Mt. Top Title

Behind a balanced scoring attack that resulted in four starters in double figures Martin's Auto Glass defeated Miners & Merchants Bank, 63-57 for The Mt. Top Basketball League Championship.

Dennis Gibson, Poke Winters, and Tony Doerr all had 15 points for the champs while Tom Stem chipped in 11 points. Allan Strawser led the Miners with 18 points.

The game was close throughout the first three quarters, with the Miners holding a 47-43 edge after three quarters. Martin's then ran off a 10 to 0 spurt to start the fourth quarter to take a lead that it would never relinquish.

The Miners were then forced to foul and it was the line that Martin's shot six-for-eight in the fourth quarter to seal their second league championship in a row and eighth in the last ten years.

Members of Martin's Auto Glass were Dennis Gibson, Tom Stem, Pete Brosnihan, Poke Winters, Tony Doerr, Dan Bosley, Dave Ritchie, and Dave Martin.

Commissioners

The commissioners expect upgrading operations to begin in the spring.

Junkyard Ordinance

The commissioners also announced Tuesday the approval of amendments to the existing county junkyard ordinance.

Commissioner Elwood Groves II explained the more stringent regulations of the amendments.

"The proliferation of junkyards in our county make the amendments necessary," he stated. "Recyclers have a legitimate place in our economy, but at the same time, we must take a responsible approach to provide protection for the neighbors of junkyard owners."

Although current junkyard operators will be "grandfathered in" under the previous ordinance, the commissioners still have the right to review their practices.

"If we see a junkyard owner acting irresponsibly, it is within our purview to review applications and to decide if those owners are permitted to continue their operations," Commissioner Ernest Gregg Jr. stated.

A copy of the amendment may be viewed at the commissioners' office. The new fee structure is as follows:

a. processing and initial issuance of a license to a new dealer: $500.
b. annual renewal of a currently valid license: $25.
c. each amendment of a currently valid license: $100.
d. transfer of a currently valid license: $100.
e. processing and initial issuance of a license for an existing dealer: $100.

Included in the amendments is a new procedure for revocation of a license. If an inspector determines reasonable grounds of a violation a notice shall:

1. be put in writing.
2. include a statement of why it is being issued.
3. allow 60 days for the performance of any act it requires.
4. include a statement specifying the right to appeal the violation notice.
5. be served to the owner in person or by certified mail . . . if cannot be served, may be posted in a conspicuous place in or about the junkyard.

Corrective measures are also provided for in the amendments.

Vegetative and non-vegetative screening regulations are also fully outlined in the amended Section 402C of the ordinance.

Dog Ordinance

The commissioners held a public hearing Tuesday to review amendments for the current county dog ordinance and to take public comment. The record will be held open until Tuesday, March 22, at 3:30 p.m. for written comments on the ordinance.

The amendments call for a more detailed definition of a public nuisance dog and the confinement of fierce, dangerous or vicious dogs.

A public nuisance dog would now be defined as "any dog which disturbs the peace and quiet of a neighborhood in an inhabited area by excessive barking, whining or howling; molesting or biting passersby; chasing vehicles, running at large; attacking wildlife or other domestic animals; depositing excretory matter on property other than that of its owner."

MARCH aym IS youth art month

Art is for all youth, not just the especially gifted. Art activities stimulate creativity, imagination, perception, and selectivity so necessary for our future homemakers, business people, engineers, scientists and teachers.

During this month art educators in Maryland are emphasizing the value of art education for all children, and encourage support for quality art programs.

Members of the Maryland Art Association compile a SCRAPBOOK to document state-wide support of quality art programs. They would like to include statements on the values of art education from (educators and all other principals). The book focuses upon communicating state-wide goals for art education. These goals are:

(1) To develop, through the visual arts, the ability to perceive and respond to ideas, experiences, and the environment.

(2) To develop an understanding of the visual arts as a basic aspect of history and human experience.

(3) To develop and organize knowledge and ideas for expression in the production of art.

(4) To develop the ability to identify, analyze, and apply criteria for making visual aesthetic judgments.

"Art is a wonderful thing; you probably couldn't live without it."

Tips To Help You

Corned Beef—An Irish/American Tradition

'Tis the time o' the year to be celebratin' the luck o' the Irish. To make St. Patrick's Day a lucky day for you, too, prepare a traditional version of an Irish-American corned beef dinner for your family.

What is a typical corned beef dinner? It starts with corned beef, of course. Corned beef is made by pickling, or curing beef brisket from the breast section in salt brine. Simmer the corned beef slowly for several hours in liquid to make it tender and juicy. Later in the cooking, traditional vegetables are added for flavor, like potatoes, celery and onion and cabbage.

St. Pat's Day will be a lucky day for your family when you serve Colorful Corned Beef Dinner.

Colorful Corned Beef Dinner

Preparation time: 15 minutes
Cooking time: 2 1/2 hours to 3 1/2 hours

2 1/2 to 3-pound corned beef brisket
12 whole peppercorns
1 bay leaf
Water
6 small red potatoes, pared
3/4 cup sliced celery, 1 inch thick
1 medium onion, cut into wedges
1 small cabbage head, cut into 6 wedges
1/2 cup red bell pepper strips
1 tablespoon snipped parsley

Place corned beef brisket, peppercorns and bay leaf in Dutch oven; add water to cover. Cover tightly and simmer 2 to 3 hours. Add potatoes, celery and onion and continue cooking, covered, 15 minutes. Place cabbage wedges over vegetables; red pepper strips over cabbage. Cover tightly and continue cooking 17 to 20 minutes or until meat is tender and cabbage is done. Sprinkle with parsley. Carve meat diagonally across the grain into thin slices and serve with vegetables. 351 calories per serving. Note: A corned beef brisket will yield three 3-ounce cooked servings per pound.

For an updated version of this St. Pat's Day favorite, simmer the corned beef with whole peppercorns. Then add red pepper strips with the cabbage for additional color and flavor. To complete your dinner add a loaf of traditional Irish soda bread.

POTATO BREAD

3½ cups all purpose flour
⅔ cup mashed boiled potatoes at room temperature
2 tablespoons sugar
1½ teaspoons salt
1 package rapid rise yeast
¾ cup milk
¼ cup water
2 tablespoons margarine or butter
1 egg white
1 tablespoon cold water
Cornmeal

Set aside 1 cup flour. In large bowl, mix remaining flour, mashed potatoes, sugar, salt and yeast. In saucepan, over low heat, heat milk, water and margarine or butter until hot to touch (125 to 130 degrees); stir into dry mixture. Mix in only enough reserved flour to make soft dough. On lightly floured surface, knead 4 minutes. Roll dought to 16x8-inch rectangle, roll up from long edge as for jelly roll, seal seam and end. Place on greased baking sheet sprinkled with cornmeal, cover. Place large shallow pan on counter, half-fill with boiling water. Place baking sheet over pan, let dough rise 20 minutes. Cut 3 slashes on top of loaf. Beat egg white and cold water, brush on loaf. Sprinkle with corn meal. Bake at 400 degress for 25 minutes or until done. Remove from baking sheet, cool on wire rack.

IRISH STEW

2 pounds neck of mutton or lamb
4 pounds (12 medium sized) potatoes
1 pound onions
3 cups water or lamb-bone stock made with the trimmings
Salt and pepper

You will need a large casserole with a lid. Have the mutton or lamb cut into chops no more than an inch thick. Peel and slice the potatoes and the onions. Reserve 1 pound of the potatoes (leave them in salted cold water). Arrange in the casserole a layer of potatoes, then meat, then onions, then potatoes, then more meat, then onions, and finally a layer of potatoes, seasoning as you go. Add the water or stock. Cover as tightly as possible. Bring to a boil. Cook the stew gently on top of the stove or in a preheated 325°F oven for 2 hours. Half an hour before the end of the cooking time, add the remaining slices of potato. Serve hot in deep soup dishes. A good dark stout should accompany the stew, with a slice of Irish cheese to finish.

Shamrocks, grinning leprechauns wearing oversized green hats, a traditional dinner of corned beef and cabbage — all have become symbols of the celebration of St. Patrick's Day.

For all the festivities of March 17, there's no better way to cap off dinner than with a dessert in keeping with the colorful spirit of the day.

KIWI SORBET

¾ cup granulated sugar
1 cup water
1 pound kiwi fruit (4 to 5 fruits)
1 egg white
Juice of one lemon
1 cup white wine
For the Sauce:
¾ pint fresh raspberries
2 tablespoons honey
3 tablespoons granulated sugar
½ cup red wine
1 tablespoon raspberry eau-de-vie Serves 6 to 8

Briefly boil the sugar with the water and allow to cool. Peel the kisis and puree in a blender. Strain either half or all of the puree through a sieve, so that there will not be too many seeds in the sorbet. Beat the egg white until stiff. Thoroughly combine the fruit pulp, lemon juice, wine, egg white, and sugar syrup. Freeze until smooth. Crush the raspberries and bring to a boil with the honey, sugar, and red wine. Let cook down over low heat for 10 minutes, or until reduced by half. Add the raspberry eau-de-vie. Pour the sauce through a sieve and allow to cool. Spoon the sorbet into pre-chilled goblets and pour sauce over.

SEAFOAM LIME MOLD

1 3-ounce package lime Jello
1 cup boiling water
½ cup cold water
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 8-ounce package cream cheese, softened
1½ cups miniature marshmallows
1⅔ cups canned crushed pineapple (drained, then measured); do not use fresh
½ cup chopped nuts (optional)

Dissolve Jello in boiling water, add cold water and lemon juice. Add gradually to softened cream cheese, beating until well blended. Chill until almost set. Fold in miniature marshmallows, pineapple, and nuts, if desired. Pour into a 5-cup mold and chill until firm. Serves 6-8.

NATURAL KEY LIME PIE

½ recipe Butter Crust
1 cup sugar
1¼ cups cold water
2 tablespoons lightly salted butter
¼ cup cornstarch
Grated peel of 4 Key limes or 3 regular limes (about 3½ tablespoons)
Juice from 3 Key limes or 2 regular limes (about ½ cup)
3 eggs, at room temperature, separated
2 tablespoons milk
Meringue (recipe follows)

Preheat the oven to 425°F. Prepare the Butter Crust dough and roll it out to a thickness of 1/8-inch. Ease it into a 9-inch pie pan and trim the overhang to 1 inch. Flute the edges as desired. Prick the crust all over with the tines of a fork and bake for 20 to 25 minutes, or until the crust is golden. Set it aside to cool. Don't turn off the oven. Combine the sugar, 1 cup of the water and the butter in the top of a double boiler and heat over boiling water until the mixture is steaming (not quite boiling). In a small bowl, combine the cornstarch and remaining cold water to make a paste, and add this to the sugar mixture. Add 2½ tablespoons of the lime peel and all the lime juice to the sugar mixture and cook, stirring constantly, until the mixture is thick and mounds slightly when dropped from a spoon. In a medium-size bowl, beat the egg yolks together with the milk. (Reserve the whites for the meringue). Add a small amount of the hot mixture to the egg yolks and blend. Add the yolks to the saucepan and cook, stirring constantly until the mixture has thickened and has lost any eggy taste, about 5 minutes. Remove from the heat, cool slightly, and pour into the crust. Spread the meringue evenly over the filling so that none shows through, being careful to seal the edges. Bake for 12 to 15 minutes, or until the meringue is lightly browned. Allow the pie to stand at room temperature until the filling is set, then refrigerate. Sprinkle with the remaining lime peel before serving.

Meringue:
3 egg whites, at room temperature
6 tablespoons sugar

In a medium-size bowl, beat the egg whites until stiff but not dry. Continue beating and add the sugar 1 tablespoon at a time. Beat until the mixture is thick, glossy, and stands in stiff peaks.

BUTTER CRUST

2¼ cups all purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
⅔ cup shortening, chilled
5 tablespoons lightly salted butter, chilled, cut into small pieces
5 tablespoons ice water

Sift the flour and salt together in a large bowl. Cut in the shortening and butter. Using your fingertips, blend the ingredients together until the mixture has the texture of coarse crumbs. Sprinkle the water evenly over the mixture. Blend gently until all the ingredients are moistened and the dough can be shaped. Divide the dough into two equal portions and shape them into balls. Place one portion on a lightly floured surface. Flatten it slightly and dust it with flour. Roll it out to a thickness of 1/8-inch, and ease it gently into a 9-inch pie pan. If you are making a double-crust pie, roll out the remaining dough to a thickness of 1/16-inch and set it aside to be the top crust. If you are making single crust pies, roll out the remaining dough to a thickness of 1/8-inch and use it for the second bottom crust. To bake an unfilled pie crust, preheat the oven to 425°F. Prick the dough all over with the tines of a fork, and bake for 20 to 25 minutes, until the crust is golden. Makes enough for 1 double crust or 2 single crust pies.

EVERY PRESCRIPTION TELLS A STORY

It begins with a patient who needs help to get well or stay healthy. It comes from a physician who dedicated years of study to learn the knowledge needed to be able to write one.

Each prescription is dispensed by a pharmacist who had to study and pass a state examination to prove his knowledge. And, most prescription stories have a happy ending. The patient gets well and lives happily thereafter.

BRIDGE TO GOD'S WORLD

The bridge, what a miracle! Tons of steel hanging in air . . . spanning miles of water . . . supporting an unending line of cars like so many ants.

And what a boon to man! The bridge saves untold hours and opens up new vistas of life.

The bridge of prayer, what a miracle! Spanning Heaven and Earth . . . carrying the needs and hopes of believing hearts. What a boon to man! The bridge of prayer opens up new paths of creative living and vistas into the realm of Heaven.

In your house of worship you can discover prayer—the bridge which leads to God's world.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

WHAT JESUS WANTED

March 20, 1988

Background Scripture: Matthew 26:36-56. Devotional Reading: 1 Thessalonians 5:1-8.

The picture we get of Jesus in the Garden of Gethsemane shows us the humanity of Jesus more clearly than perhaps any other passage in the New Testament. The writers of the four gospels rarely show us much of Jesus' emotions, but we do see them clearly on this fateful night. Matthew tells us Jesus was "sorrowful and troubled" (26:37). Mark had used an even stronger term: "distressed" or "terrified." The point is that Jesus was experiencing some very strong human emotions.

This is important because the scenes of Jesus' last night and day are often presented to us as of a man simply going through the motions of a course that has already been predetermined. The Jesus we see in these gospel accounts, however, is much more than an actor following a script. His emotions in Gethsemane are powerful and real. He is not seeking to be a martyr. He is not fed up with the world and ready to move on. In fact, Matthew tells us that he says to his disciples: "My heart is ready to break with grief" (New English Bible).

HUMAN NEEDS

We also see Jesus' humanity breaking through as we note what it is he wanted in Gethsemane. For one thing, he wanted human companionship. He took his disciples to the garden and three of them he kept close to him as he prayed. One might protest that Jesus didn't need human support if he had God. But Jesus makes it very clear that he needed both—just as we do. And he was just as disappointed when he failed to get all the human support he needed: "So, could you not watch with me one hour?" he asked when he found them sleeping.

This doesn't mean that we cannot make it without human support. Sometimes we are all alone, except, of course, for God. Sometimes people cannot get to us to be with us in our need. Sometimes other people fail us. But, nevertheless, it is human to feel the need for others in our times of crisis. Jesus was God's Son, the world's Messiah. If any person was ever self-sufficient, it was Jesus. Still, he felt that need and it is perfectly natural for us to feel it, too.

Jesus also revealed his human feelings in praying: "My Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass from me" (26:39). His first desire was to escape the tribulation that seemed to lie before him. Arrest, torture, humiliation, separation from those whom he loved, death, particularly death on a cross—none of this did Jesus seek for himself. If there was any way to avoid the consequences of Judas' betrayal, he was asking God to spare him. Similarly, we do not seek to be martyrs, not even a non-violent martyrdom. None of us should ever be ashamed of wanting to avoid suffering of any kind, not if we value and revere the life that God has given us.

HIS GREATEST WANT

So, Jesus wanted human support and he wanted to avoid suffering and death. That was his humanity showing. But Jesus also wanted something else: he wanted to be faithful to God's will: "nevertheless, not as I will, but as thou wilt." He wanted to avoid martyrdom, but even more than that he wanted to be faithful. And that was his humanity showing, too—a higher humanity than that which drives us to preserve our lives at all costs.

This 'Crime Story' cop relies on his real-life experience

By Toni D'Amato

My father says the man who plays Lt. Torello on "Crime Story" was a police officer in real life. Is this true? – G.T., Oshkosh, Wis.

Dennis Farina

Yes. Dennis Farina, 43, left the Chicago Police Department in 1985 after working as a cop for 18 years. But even before he left the police force, he was moonlighting as an actor; he even appeared in an episode of "Chicago Story." His big break came in 1985 when he starred in the film "Manhunter." While he was making that movie, he was offered the role of Lt. Mike Torello in "Crime Story."

Fans can send mail in care of "Crime Story," 100 Universal Plaza, Universal City, CA 91608.

In last season's final episode of "Magnum P.I.," when Magnum was shot and went to heaven, a song was sung by John Denver. I'd like to know the name of it. Can you help? – D.S., Bethel, Maine.

CBS says the name of the tune is "Looking for Space," and it was performed by John Denver.

What state is the fictional Hazzard County in "The Dukes of Hazzard" supposed to be in? We tried to find out if there is such a place, but we struck out. – G.F., Saskatchewan, Canada.

In the series, no one ever identifies the state in which the Dukes lived. It was said to be "East of the Mississippi and south of Ohio." There is a city called Hazard (spelled with one "z") in Kentucky.

Where can we write to Suzanne Somers from "She's the Sheriff"? Also, what other roles did she have before "Three's Company"? – C.J., St. Stephen, New Brunswick, Canada.

Before "Three's Company," in which she played Chrissy Snow from 1977 to 1981, Somers appeared in movies and guest roles on series; she appeared on "Lassie" in 1965.

The new MTV 'museum' is really more of a sideshow

By Connie Passalacqua

In a recent party held in downtown Manhattan, MTV unveiled its Museum of Unnatural History, a so-called exhibit that will tour now through September in shopping malls, or, as MTV terms it in a press release, "24 major markets."

Kevin Seal

MTV bills the exhibition as "a three-dimensional showcase of MTV's look at the worlds of fashion, new music, technology, and rock 'n' roll history." Robert Friedman, vice president for marketing and technology for MTV, said in a speech before letting in partygoers for a look at the project: "We took a lot of time and care to build a program that really embodies the spirit and cutting edge of MTV."

Based upon the 14,000 square feet of exhibitions shown that evening, it sure does embody the spirit of MTV, namely $$$$$. The extent of the authentic sociological artifacts shown were jackets and guitars belonging to such artists as Elvis Presley and John Lennon, exhibited at the Hard Rock Cafe's booth. Every other booth was a live commercial brought to you by such "corporate sponsors" as Hershey's or Apple Computers. The "Museum," at least as shown here, was nothing but commercial sponsorship in the flesh. It was all presided over by the Vid-Head tour Guide (Kevin Seal).

Pretty girls were wearing giant lengths of Twizzlers licorice at the Twizzlers booth. Dr. Swatch wore a funny outfit and pontificated at the Swatch watch booth. You could look at the same collection of Swatches at Bloomingdales. Long lines of the curious were up at Clairol's "Rock 'n' Styling Club" booth to have purple streaks added to their hair. Is this the kind of museum you'd want to take the kids to as an educational foray?

To be fair, commercial exhibitions like these are probably as old as merchandising itself. In the pre-MTV era, they were called "world's fairs," not "museum." Maybe MTV's idea of serious art is what will be one wall of the Twizzler's exhibition, which is promised by the press release to be a 6-foot high 3-D mouth. "The bright red lips are parted slightly to reveal a full set of teeth, one of which is a video monitor playing the latest Twizzler commercial." Aargh!!!

Aaron (Merlin Olsen, l.) competes against an arm-wrestling champ on NBC's "Aaron's Way." Scott Curtis co-stars. The show airs Wednesday, March 23.

This NBC producer is taking his job duties 'Day by Day'

By Frank Lovece

Will Mackenzie directed both "Moonlighting"'s outrageous Shakespeare parody and the Humanitas Prize-winning "Family Ties" episode where Alex Keaton faces a friend's death. He previously spent 15 years acting on Broadway and elsewhere, eventually popping up on the '70s "Bob Newhart Show" as receptionist Carol's husband. And who could forget his voice as the stuffed-up nose in the commercial for 4-Way nasal spray? Now, he's the executive producer/director of NBC's "Day by Day," the Doug Sheehan-Linda Kelsey comedy about ex-fast-track parents who open a day-care center. It airs Sundays.

Will Mackenzie

The series' premise, Mackenzie reveals, sprang from the real life of co-creator Gary David Goldberg, who also conceived "Family Ties." "This actually happened to Gary," Mackenzie relates. "He and his wife once ran a day-care center in Berkeley, and he'd always wanted to write something about that. He finally decided to do this (show) last May – and then the very next week, Time or News week came out with a cover story on child day-care!"

With Goldberg still concentrating on "Family Ties," Mackenzie and executive producer/writer Andy Borowitz basically run the show. And though Mackenzie has directed hourlong adventure series such as "Scarecrow and Mrs. King," he's most comfortable with half-hour comedies. "It's happier around the set," he says. "I don't run across a lot of quote-unquote tragic clowns. I always find people who buoy things up."

Despite his comedic leanings, it's Mackenzie's diversity that's helped to keep him so busy. "If you don't fight it," observes Mackenzie, "the (TV) industry puts you into little notches. When I started directing, on 'Bob Newhart,' I was notched as 'three-camera, film.' But then I went on to four-camera videotape ('All in the Family') and one-camera film ('Moonlighting'), so producers began to see me as pretty well-rounded."

Now he's a producer himself, and he'd like to stay one. "Once you get to be an executive producer," he admits, "it's hard to give up that kind of control."

SOAP OPERA WEEK

Popular 'ATWT' actor has won praise for his role

By Kimberly Redmond

I'm a great fan of Holden Snider on "As the World Turns," so I wonder if you can tell me something about Jon Hensley, the actor who plays him. – D.B., Los Angeles, CA.

Jon Hensley

Hensley joined "ATWT" in 1985, and has received a Daytime Emmy nomination for his portrayal of Snider. Before joining "ATWT," Hensley portrayed Brody Price on "One Life to Live."

Hensley attended New York University, majoring in broadcast journalism, before pursuing his interest in acting. He has appeared in theatrical productions such as Shakespeare's "As You Like It," and has made several TV commercials.

Someone told me that Joe Penny was on the nighttime soap "Forever Fernwood," but I haven't been able to find any information to back it up. Can you help? – D.F., Scranton, Pa.

There is no record of Penny ever appearing on "Forever Fernwood" or its predecessor, "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman." He did co-star as Nick Ryder on the series "Riptide," and he is currently co-starring on "Jake and the Fatman."

Can you tell me the name of the actress Maxwell Caulfield (Miles Colby) of "The Colbys" is married to in real life? – W.E., Myrtle Beach, S.C.

Juliet Mills

Caulfield is married to actress Juliet Mills, who appeared in the comedy series "Nanny and the Professor." She also won a Best Supporting Actress Emmy for her role in the drama special "QB VII."

CINDY SAYS

Boys are going to be men in Connie Francis's update

By Cindy Adams

Connie Francis, whose recent years have been headlined by battles with drugs, phoned from Florida. "I'm here writing a screenplay called 'Where the Men Are,'" said Connie, sounding so alert that she even picked on me. "That sounds familiar," I muttered. "Boy, are you dopey," said crystal-clear Connie. "It's an update on 'Where the Boys Are.'" "That sounds familiar," I muttered. "Wow, you call yourself a columnist," said Connie. "I was in that in '61, and this takes up with a much deeper version where that leaves off. This one's about what men think of women. Dyan Cannon wants to be in it, and I want Pia Zadora too. I'll co-produce. And Kenny Ortega of 'Dirty Dancing' will direct." Right. And I deeply hope I got it all straight.

Connie Francis

ABC wants to pay seven healthy figures for six 90-minute dramas if Paul Newman will do them. ... Forty years ago, Lauren Bacall was on the Harper's Bazaar cover. It led to her movie career. She's just been asked to do another Harper's cover. ... Sly Stallone's brother Frank is up for the Johnny Stompanato role in the mini-series of Cheryl Crane's "Detour." ... Harold Robbins wrote a movie treatment about TV evangelists, based on his book "Spellbound."

Carol Alt

Carol Alt's done her 1989 calendar. Her '88 sold out fast. She's also just done a 6-foot poster – the first 6-foot poster of a nearly 6-foot knockout model that's ever been done. "I don't know what it'll sell for," says Carol. "Somehow they become $6.95 and up in the stores. People think I make fortunes on these. We only get 50 cents each."

New Guidelines For VA Medical Care Announced

The Veterans Administration has implemented new eligibility guidelines for veterans who must meet certain income requirements to obtain VA medical care.

A January 1 cost-of-living adjustment to the agency's Means Test may allow no-cost care to veterans who previously had to pay for treatment.

VA Administrator Thomas K. Turnage explained that the new limits apply only to veterans who do not have service-connected disabilities or other exemptions from the Means Test.

Before a new limit of $21,111 was set, single veterans with annual incomes of more than $20,260 had to pay for treatment at a VA medical facility. For married veterans the new limit is $26,389 with one dependent and another $1,055 for each additional dependent, as compared to the previous limits of $25,325 and $1,013.

Under the Congressionally-instituted Means Test, which went into effect July 1, 1986, the VA must provide no-cost hospital care to veterans who fall below the first and lowest annual income limits, and, if space is available, may provide no-cost outpatient and nursing home care.

Veterans below the second income limit are eligible for no-cost hospital, outpatient, and nursing home care, but only if space is available. Above the third and highest income limits, veterans must agree to pay the VA a portion of costs before being treated.

Effective January 1, 1988, income limits for the three categories of veterans seeking VA medical care are:

Category A: $15,833 or less if single, and $18,999 or less if married, plus $1,055 for each additional dependent.

Category B: Above $15,833 but less than $21,111 if single, and above $18,999 but less than $26,389 if married, plus $1,055 for each additional dependent.

Category C: Above $21,110 if single and above $26,388 if married, plus $1,055 for each additional dependent.

Category C veterans are charged for the cost of care they receive or $540, whichever is less, for the first 90 days of care during any 365-day period. For each additional 90 days of hospital care, Category C veterans pay $270, which is half the Medicare deductible of $540. For each 90 days of nursing home care, Category C veterans pay the full Medicare deductible of $540. For each outpatient visit, Category C veterans pay $25.

All veterans with service-connected illnesses or disabilities are provided no-cost care regardless of income. Certain other veterans also are exempt from the Means Test, including former prisoners of war, veterans exposed to radiation or herbicides, and veterans of the Spanish-American War, the Mexican Border period and World War I.

Medicare Sign-Up Deadline Noted

March is the last month of the 1988 general enrollment period for people who failed to sign up for Medicare medical insurance at their first chance, Elaine Watson, Social Security manager said recently.

There is a general enrollment period during the first three months of each year. Also eligible to enroll at this time are people who once had medical insurance, but who dropped this protection.

Medical insurance protection will start July 1, 1988, for people who sign up during the general enrollment period, Watson said. The basic monthly premium for medical insurance is $24.80 for the period ending December 1988. The basic premium is increased by 10 percent for each year a person could have had this protection but did not.

The premium paid by those with medical insurance represents about one-fourth of the costs. The remaining amount is paid by the Federal Government from general revenue.

Medical insurance helps pay for doctor's services, outpatient hospital services, and many other items and services not covered by the hospital insurance part of Medicare.

In general, after a person has had $75 in approved charges for covered medical expenses in a year — the annual deductible — medical insurance will pay 80 percent of the approved charges for any additional covered services a person has during the rest of the year, Watson said.

Anyone who has a question about either part of Medicare — hospital insurance or medical insurance — should call the Cumberland Social Security office. Free leaflets which tell about the protection offered by Medicare are also available.

Most Social Security business can be handled by phone. For faster and more convenient service people are urged to call (301) 729-3232. Long distance station-to-station collect calls are accepted.

Appointments either by phone or in person, can also be arranged.

The Cumberland Social Security office is open from 8:45 to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday and service Allegany, Garrett, and Mineral counties.

Mail can be sent to Social Security Administration, P.O. Box 5545, Cumberland, Maryland 21502.

Worship Services Set At Holiday Inn, Grantsville

The Grantsville Believers Celebration will hold services every Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the Grantsville Holiday Inn (off Rt. 48). According to a spokesman for the group, the services, which are open to everyone, have a threefold purpose: Salvation, Worship and Ministry. "The Grantsville Believers Celebration is not a church but an open celebration for everyone, under the direction of the Rev. Thomas V. Wegman, minister of Evangelism at Love's Way Christian Fellowship, LaVale," the spokesman said.

An open invitation is also extended to all area Christian musicians/singers to participate in the services as music ministers. Those interested may see the Love's Way music director after the service.

Number Of DWI Arrests Triples Over 12 Years

Maryland State Police Superintendent Colonel Elmer H. Tippett has released a drunk driving survey showing the number of drivers arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol has nearly tripled from 1975 to 1987 in Maryland. Since 1975, police in Maryland arrested 301,940 drivers for driving while intoxicated. Most of those arrested for DWI, 268,171 (88.8%) were 21 years of age or older. The statistics, compiled by the Maryland State Police Public Information Unit, show an increase in drunk driving arrests during 1987 compared with 1986. There were 33,017 drivers arrested for DWI in 1987 compared with 31,154 in 1986, a 5.9% increase.

"Two out of every five people will be involved in an alcohol-related crash in their lifetimes," stated Trooper First Class James Williams of the Maryland State Police Chemical Test for Alcohol Unit. Appearing on the Maryland State Police Radio Program, a weekly public service broadcast, TFC Williams said, "An alcohol-related accident claims a life approximately every hour in the U.S." The latest available data indicates nearly half of all highway fatalities in Maryland were alcohol related.

Nationally, arrests for driving under the influence of alcohol rose more than 220% from 1970 to 1986. In 1986, approximately 1.8 million people were arrested for driving while under the influence compared with 556,000 in 1970, according to a report issued by the Bureau of Justice Statistics.

The Maryland State Police Program is carried on nearly 50 radio stations in Maryland. The program features law enforcement and its role in various community programs around the state, including those dealing with drunk driving.

Maple Festival Dates, Features Are Announced

The annual Pennsylvania Maple Festival will be held in Meyersdale, Pa., on April 9, 10, and 13 through 17.

Festival Park, which is located on Meyers Avenue, is the center of many of the Festival's activities and exhibitions, such as the tapping of maple trees and making of maple syrup and sugar cakes.

Among the attractions in the Park are the authentic cobbler's shop, antique doctor's office, the old country store and the many craftspeople who will be demonstrating their craft and offering their products for sale. Persons may also want to visit Maple Manor (the oldest home in the area), which is filled with colonial and Victorian antiques. One section of the Manor also features an Indian artifacts collection unearthed from a nearby settlement.

Weekend entertainment on the outdoor stage in the Park will feature country, blue grass, and jazz groups along with the Coal Country Cloggers.

Outside the park, the windows of local stores will be filled with displays of antiques and collectibles. The Quilt Show has hundreds of hand-made quilts for show and sale. The pageant, "Legend of the Magic Water," with a cast of approximately 100, describes in narration, music and humor the legend of the discovery of maple syrup by the Indians and the history of the surrounding area. The pageant is presented April 9, 13, and 16 at 2 p.m. each day.

An additional musical revue will be presented Thursday and Friday, April 14 & 15, by the Hollander Family. Advance reservations are suggested for these performances and both programs are held at the Meyersdale Area High School Auditorium. Hollander Family shows will be at 11 a.m. & 3 p.m. each day.

Other activities of the festival include a Street, Rod, and Classic Auto Show on Sunday, April 10; a horse-pulling contest at the Somerset Co. Fairgrounds on April 10; the Antique Auto Show on April 17, and the Grand Feature Parade at 5 p.m. on Saturday, April 16. There will also be a Maple Run at 1:30 p.m. on Sunday, April 10.

One of the major attractions of the Festival has always been the pancake and sausage meals, served with 100% pure Pennsylvania maple syrup, which are served each day by the local Lions Club from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. There are also numerous food stands throughout the Festival as well as clubs, churches and restaurants serving a variety of menus.

Regular activities of the Festival are open each day from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and a free brochure with a schedule of events may be obtained by writing or calling the Pa. Maple Festival, Box 222, Meyersdale, Pa., 15552, 814-634-0213.

Realtors To Help Build "Habitat" House In Accident

Anita Teter, chairperson of the Garrett Board of Realtors Community Service Committee, has announced that the Board is "gearing up" for participation in its "Yes, I will!" project.

Through volunteer labor by local realtors, along with their cash and material donations, plans are being made to construct a house in the Accident area in conjunction with Habitat for Humanity. Construciton will begin in mid-April and, according to Ms. Teter, the realtors are "very excited" about being involved in a project which is both a service to the community and relates to their field of expertise.

AIDS Awareness Month Proclaimed

The Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DHMH) has joined other public, private and non-profit health organizations in launching AIDS Awareness Month in Maryland, as proclaimed by Governor William Donald Schaefer for March.

With the campaign theme "March Against AIDS" AIDS Awareness Month will serve to highlight AIDS education programs and literature available to citizens.

The goal of AIDS Awareness Month is to educate Maryland citizens about AIDS, how it is transmitted and what can be done to prevent its spread. Individual agencies will sponsor a variety of educational/informational activities during March. State residents are encouraged to increase their understanding about controlling the spread of the AIDS epidemic.

"By observing specific preventive measures, people can reduce or eliminate their exposure to the AIDS virus. The key to preventing the spread of AIDS is education," said Gillian Ann van Blerk, M.D.,M.P.H., director of the DHMH AIDS Administration.

The "March Against AIDS" campaign is sponsored by DHMH and the Maryland Public Health Information Consortium.

"The Consortium consists of a number of AIDS services providers statewide, including community-based organizations, county, city and state health departments and private medical institutions," said Jack Stein, acting executive director of the Health Education Resource Organization (H.E.R.O.). The group was formed to ensure a consolidated and unified response to the AIDS epidemic in Maryland, said Stein.

Saturday, March 20, is the day our whole country will be celebrating National Agriculture Day. It's a day when agriculture will be recognized as the backbone of this nation. Whether they realize it or not, the people of this nation depend on the ag industry for many things, from the food we eat to the clothes we wear and much more.

American farmers and stockmen are the world's greatest providers of food, fiber, fertilizers and feeds. They create jobs and contribute to make a healthy economy as well as provide healthy diets for the nation's citizens.

Ag Day is being celebrated in Maryland by the state Department of Agriculture's open house in Annapolis on Friday. Everyone involved in agriculture knows how important it is to the industry to educate the urban population. To help accomplish this task, the open house will include events planned to interst homeowners and backyard gardeners as well as farmers. It will include "how-to" workshops conduted by experts in home gardening and landscaping.

Panel discussions are being planned to feature a variety of subjects from alternative agricultural enterprises such as herb growing, organic farming, and raising crawfish, to careers in agriculture — both traditional production agriculture and jobs in agribusiness.

Also taking place this weekend, beginning on National Ag Day, is the Maryland Young Farmers Leadership Conference in Hagerstown, with several local young farmers attending.

Here in Garrett County, an exciting new venture is underway — direct marketing using the "Mountain Fresh" logo. With an objective to expand the variety of products grown in the Garrett County-Preston County area and to extend the product-sales time period, the goal of the Mountain Fresh Produce Association is to offer the public the best quality products in the area. The association has a planned marketing and production program and will start on a small scale with the goal of expanding these markets into large commercial outlets.

The association, led by Garrett and Preston Extension agents, and Economic Development personnel, invites both large producers and small backyard growers to participate in the program. They have been heartened by the response from potential growers and buyers in Garrett and Preston counties, and hope to see a large crowd of interested people at the public meeting with MDA Secretary Wayne Cawley or his Marketing Director Henry Schmidt scheduled for March 31 at GCC (see separate story).

Not only agriculture's accomplishments, but goals such as the Mountain Fresh direct marketing program which offers new economic directions for area farmers, make National Agriculture Day a day to celebrate.

Agent Jim Simms Addresses Farm Bureau Directors

"What is Farm Bureau doing here in Garrett County?" This was just one of the questions Garrett County Extension Agent Jim Simms told Farm Bureau directors they should be answering when he addressed their meeting on March 10 at the Hoyes United Methodist Church.

After the meeting was opened by Chairman William DeWitt, Simms gave the group some important things to think about. "How many know what Farm Bureau is all about and how it works for its members?" he asked, and continued, "Farm Bureau should get more involved in county government and let them know what the problems of farmers are and how they can help. You also need to set some goals as to what you need to do, and publish a letter telling what Farm Bureau is doing and ask for suggestions from farmers as to what Farm Bureau can do for them.

"Being a farming community," he said, "there should be more ag classes in our college and high schools. We need a better market in Garrett County for our high quality vegetables and other crops we can grow." He spoke about the direct market program now being developed by the Extension Service and the Garrett County Development Corporation with the help of Farm Bureau, the Maryland Department of Agriculture, and local farmers.

Simms said the group is working hard to get this market going and needs help from all farmers in the area.

He also told the directors that area farmers need to know more about the Beef Referendum which they must vote on in May.

Secretary Clark Kolb reported that a letter had been sent from the Farm Bureau directors to the board of Garrett County Commissioners requesting that Farm Bureau, representing the farm community, be consulted when important laws or changes in the county laws and taxes are being considered. Kolb received a phone call from Commissioner Elwood Groves II, in answer to the letter. In that conversation, Groves said that indeed, agriculture makes up a large segment of Garrett County, and that the commissioners would be glad to get input from Farm Bureau. An initial meeting in the commissioners' office was set for latter this month.

Nationwide Insurance Agent Jerry Ferguson and Nationwide District Manager Don Whaley attended the meeting and showed a film about how Nationwide Insurance Company got started in 1926 by a group of farmers in Ohio. The company then was only for farmers and was named Farm Bureau Mutual Insurance Company. As the company grew, the name was changed to Nationwide Insurance Company and covered everyone, but the company still offers lower rates to farmers and have been working with Farm Bureau ever since. Farm Bureau members can get many benefits from Nationwide.

The directors then discussed membership and studied the membership list to determine how many had not paid 1988 dues. The directors also discussed the on-going campaign to get new members, as they believe every farmer today needs to be a Farm Bureau member.

Farm Bureau is again sponsoring a day in Washington, D.C., to meet with Congressional representatives. This will be April 8, and all members are invited to attend. Garrett County members may call Chairman DeWitt at 334-4337 or Secretary Kolb at 826-8484 for information and transportation.

Oakland Southern States To Hold Membership Day

Election of local board members and Farm Home Advisory Committee members, along with operations reports, will be among the highlights of the annual membership day for Southern States Oakland Cooperative in Mtn. "Elections will be held during the business meeting," said the manager. "Members may vote prior to the meeting by proxy, however. Members who have not marked their ballots should do so and deposit them in the ballot box prior to the beginning of the meeting. All stockholder-members are particularly urged to attend the business session."

Lee Shillingburg of Deer Park will serve as chairman of the local meeting.

John Gray of Winchester, Va., a member of Southern States Cooperative's regional staff, will report on Southern States' supply and marketing operations for the 1986-87 fiscal year. His report will also include a slide/tape presentation entitled "Southern States: The Growing Team." This presentation summarizes changes resulting from recent growth of Southern States and changes initiated to ensure future growth in level of service and quality of products.

Local store operations and services rendered to agriculture in the community will be discussed by Hoalcraft, manager of Southern States Oakland Cooperative, Inc.

There will be a special recognition ceremony for local board and Farm Home Advisory Committee members who retire this year.

Nominees for election to the local board are: Troy Gnegy, Ray Ridder and Kevin Stahl, all of Oakland, and Sam Steyer, Deer Park.

Persons nominated for election to the Farm Home Advisory Committee are: Ms. Judy Gordon, Ms. Becky Moreland, Ms. Shelly Upole and Ms. Doris Wildesen, all of Oakland.

Another feature of the cooperative meeting will be a "Share-A-Craft" display arranged by the local Farm Home Advisory Committee. Members are being urged to bring their handmade crafts for display.

There will also be the presentation of a number of Southern States awards to employees of the local dealership.

The following committee chairmen will assist with the local membership day:

Greeting and Ribbons Committee: Mr. and Mrs. Lee Shillingburg, and Mrs. Esther Stoner, all of Oakland.

Biotechnology Promises Improved Corn And Soybean Crops

Plant biotechnology could make livestock feeding more efficient by making the starch in corn more digestible and by increasing the protein content of soybeans.

Getting improved starch and protein composition can be accomplished through traditional plant breeding methods. But the process is often slow and laborious, says John C. Sorenson, Ph.D., Research Head of Experimental Plant Genetics for Asgrow Seed Company.

"Biotechnology could dramatically speed up the process of developing better corn and soybeans," he says, citing numerous examples.

Some of the starch packed in corn cells is bound in tight packets not easily digested by animals. Through biotechnolgy, the genetic makeup of corn could be altered to make starch granules less stable and more accessible in the animal digestive process.

"We have corn hybrids now that produce a high level of digestible starch, but they're prone to disease and they produce low yields. It's conceivable, though, that we could transfer the desirable starch traits from the weaker, less productive plant and insert them into stronger, high-yielding hybrids," he says.

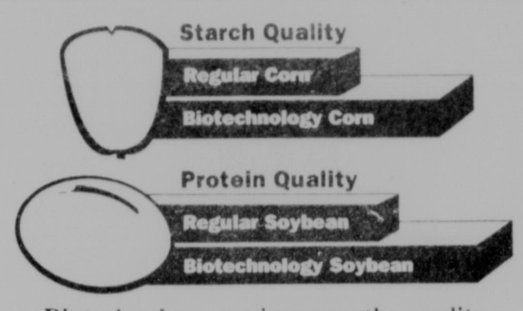

Sorenson sees a similar role for biotechnology in improving soybean quality.

For reasons not yet fully understood, soybeans grown in the southern and central United States contain more protein than those grown in the northern tier. Some buyers, such as turkey feed processors, desire higher levels of protein. They may be willing to pay a premium for better soybeans. Conversely, some buyers may penalize growers for low-protein soybeans.

Sorenson says that one approach to increasing protein content in soybeans involves genetic manipulation. Ascrow scientists are currently using a bacterium to insert protein storage genes from the green bean into the soybean.

They have been able to detect added green bean genes in the soybean tissues, but they haven't yet regenerated a plant that carries the gene. The researchers hope that by simply increasing the number of genes that influence protein storage, actual protein storage will likewise increase.

Sorenson says biotechnolgy could change not only the amount of protein in soybeans, but also the quality of that protein.

Biotechnology can improve the quality of corn and soybeans used in livestock feed.

The protein in soybean meal is relatively low in the amino acid methionine. Biotechnology could increase natural production of methionine, making soybean protein a more complete meal for human consumption and improving feed efficiencies in poultry and swine production.

Many improvements in corn and soybeans will be accelerated by biotechnology. Some improvements were simply not possible until the advent of biotechnology. Either way, those improvements promise greater agricultural efficiencies, which is good news to farmers and consumers alike.

U.S. Cold Storage Highlights Reported

Frozen stocks in refrigerated warehouses on January 31 were greater than year earlier levels for turkeys, pork, frozen eggs, fruits, chickens, potatoes, juice concentrates, and vegetables. Cooler items with stocks above those of the previous year included shell eggs, evaporated and condensed milk, fresh vegetables, fresh fruits, dried and evaporated fruits, and nuts.

Total red meats in freezers increased five percent from December 31 and were 10 percent more than those on January 31, 1987. Frozen pork stocks were the same as a month ago but were 31 percent above the previous year.

Three types of ownership

You may register for the seminar by calling the Garrett County Extension Office at 334-1990.

CONTROLLING THE WESTERN CORN ROOTWORM

At the Agronomy Field Day in early March, I presented a program on rootworm control. For those of you who missed the meeting the following information may be helpful.

First of all, the Western Corn Rootworm was a serious problem in the corn fields last year. I would strongly suggest if you are going to plant corn in a field that had corn last year that you use a chemical insecticide. The other method of control is to rotate the field to another forage such as grasses, legumes, or small grains. The larva of the rootworm must have corn roots to survive.

The following insecticide may be used to control the Western Corn Rootworm:

Furadan 15G — 8 oz./1,000 feet of row;
Lorsban 15G — 8 oz./1,000 feet of row;
Diazinon 14G — 8.5 oz./1,000 feet of row;
Mocap 10G — 12 oz./1,000 feet of row;
Dyfonate 20G — 6 oz./1,000 feet of row;
Thimet 15G — 8 oz./1,000 feet of row;
Counter 15G — 8 oz./1,000 feet of row;
Broot 15G — 8 oz./1,000 feet of row.

The average cost per acre will probably cost between $11 to $14 per acre just for the material. Indications are that the insecticides are more effective if placed in the row with the seed.

If you have any questions, give me a call.

Mountain Fresh Produce Association Sets Public Meeting With MDA

The Mountain Fresh Produce Association has scheduled a public meeting for Thursday, March 31, beginning at 7 p.m. in the auditorium of Garrett Community College.

Featured at the meeting will be a panel discussion on direct marketing. Attending to anchor that panel discussion will be Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Wayne Cawley or his Marketing Director Henry Schmidt.

The meeting will address operations of a direct farmers' market, various direct marketing techniques which have been successful, a review of the needs of the produce retailer and restaurant operator, and various grower assistance topics.

Those with questions concerning any aspect of the Mountain Fresh program should call Garrett County Extension Agent Jim Simms at 334-1990 or Preston County Extension Agent Tom McConnell at 304-329-1391.

Farmers To Lobby On Capitol Hill

Maryland farmers will gather in Washington, April 8, to press their views on pesticide legislation, the diesel fuel tax, and restrictive truck regulations. Farmers from every county in the state are expected to attend the Maryland Farm Bureau's "Washington Drive-In," held near Capitol Hill.

American Farm Bureau lobbyists will brief the group on current issues in Washington, and the Farm Bureau's expectations for the next few months.

Randy Jones, senior vice president of the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives, will counter with his organization's perspective on current agricultural issues in Congress. He will talk about the relationships between national agricultural organizations, and how they influence federal agricultural policy.

Congressional staff aids responsible for agriculture have been invited to serve on a panel in the morning, and to join the group for lunch.

The aides traditionally view this spring "Drive-In" as a time for them to meet farm constituents in Washington for discussions of issues and concerns. During the summer, those same aides are invited to a Farm Bureau-sponsored tour of area farms. They get a first-hand look at agriculture, and the business of farming in Maryland.

Free time is available in the afternoon to visit Congressional offices, attend committee hearings or enjoy historical sights around the Capitol.

The Washington Drive-In is open to all Farm Bureau members. The program begins at 10 a.m., April 8, at the Capitol Holiday Inn. A $15 registration fee includes all speakers, materials and lunch. For reservations, contact the Maryland Farm Bureau (301) 922-3426, or Garrett Co. Farm Bureau President William DeWitt at 334-4337.

IT'S THAT "SWEET" TIME OF THE YEAR AGAIN — a time when maple sugar camps all over the county are in full operation. Tapping began at the sugar camp above, belonging to Owen Stanton in Bittinger, on March 2 this year. "We had a real good run till it got cold," Stanton said, "and when the weather gets right, we'll get started again." The Stantons put out about 1,200 taps and average around 400 to 450 gallons of maple syrup a year, most of which is sold locally. Below, Stanton (center), who usually mans the firebox, is giving pointers on feeding the fire to visitor Fred Learey of Oakland. Another steady helper is Stanton's five-year-old grandson, Brian Stanton, pictured at the left, busy with his shovel.

More Photos, And Writings, Of Leo J. Beachy

by R. Craig Speicher

Editor's note: The Republican published previous segments of this series, "The Photographic Genius of Leo J. Beachy," on October 23 and December 4, 1986 and February 19, 1987, focusing on the photographs and biography of Beachy.

Today, The Republican begins a series that will examine the writings of Leo Beachy and resume previous coverage of his photographs.

Throughout this feature, lightface type identifies material written by Beachy; boldface type represents commentary by the feature's writer.

There are perils that our teachers need to look after. It is hard to believe that the outbuildings on the school grounds should be a menace to either the health or the lives or the morals of children, but all this has happened. The horror of the giving away of the rotten floor of an outhouse and the awful death in the vats below of several little girls last year should cry out constantly for better supervision of such buildings. The air of these buildings is often so foul that an animal would flee from it, while walls bear the shameful evidence of the lowest minds, polluting generation after generation of children.

Leo J. Beachy, possibly Garrett County's most widely lauded artist ever, wrote that account of real life tragedy around the turn of the century, when he concluded his nine-year career as a school teacher and turned to full-time professional photography. The words symbolize a writing legacy that is overshadowed — perhaps unfairly — by Beachy's classical photographs; a legacy sometimes even more fascinating than Beachy's photos, of a world and culture now long vanished!

The wild animals that preyed in the close dense forests and laurel thickets near Bittinger from 1840 into the '50s were plentiful. The large gray timber wolves were plentiful throughout the county and in some localities they kept up such hideous howling at night that some folks got out of bed, took a tin horn and blew a loud blast to scare the wolves away and stop the howling. The bounty for a wolf scalp was as high as $15 and $30.

One day Henry Ruckel came wading along in a deep snow and reported to Uncle Christian Beachy that a wolf had just come down from the Cunningham place, had passed and was wading the deep snow on his way back towards what they called the "Cabin." At this exciting news Uncle Christ, who was a fleet-footed hunter and always fond of the chase, at once mounted a horse bareback and said, "Come quick, Sibert, and don't saddle your horse — you may get fast in your stirrups — we'll catch the wolf." Uncle Christ soon overtook the wolf floundering in the snow, jumped from his horse and caught the wolf by the tail. The wolf tried to snap with his long white teeth, but Uncle jerked him desperately by the tail-hold to the right and left as he kept on snapping his teeth, worried him awhile in this way and then knocked him down with his fist and put his foot on the enraged beast's neck. By that time William Sibert came up and cut the wolf's throat with his pocket knife. After the fight was over Uncle Christian noticed that the wolf had gotten his boot heel into his mouth and its teeth had bitten nearly half through it.

It was a big old fellow which at different times had killed sheep at the Cunningham place by lying in a thicket watching his chance. It was believed that hounds may have routed him from there. He had once been caught in a steel trap and had lost one foot, likely by gnawing it off, but it was healed over when he was caught. . .

One day Michael Otto came riding down the long lane from the Harmon place and told my grandfather that there must be some wild animals at his hogs down in the hog-pen at the shook shop, just across the road from where the Beachy school house stood. A hog was squealing fiercely, and then grandfather called quickly to Billy Fern, who lived nearby in the old house, and they both hurried to the place of the squealing with their flint-lock guns and found a big black bear in the pig pen eating the hind quarters of a live pig.

Billy Fern stayed on guard outside of the pig pen with his flint-lock, to shoot the bear in case he came out. Grandfather's flint-lock would not go off as he stood snapping at the huge bear not over ten feet from him, feasting on the live pig.

Finally the bear ran out of the pen and Fern shot at it, but hit an alder that turned the bullet and missed the bear. The dog Brandy took after the bear but could not bring the beast to bay . . .

At one time the wild pigeons were so plentiful in the county that often when a large flock of them flew across the sky they darkened the sun. Uncle Christian reported at that time the haw bushes were bent with the weight of the wild pigeons, and that at night one might go there while they were roosting and pick grain sacks full of pigeons off the bushes.

The literary legacy of Beachy has been preserved largely by his descendants, with one of his nieces — Maxine Beachy Broadwater, of Grantsville — probably deserving the most credit for preserving his priceless prose.

It consists chiefly of Beachy's never-completed autobiography; a fascinating summary of his teaching career; articles for various newspapers and Motor Travel magazine; at least one known book, published under the pen name of "Max Leo;" and sporadic journal jottings.

Undoubtedly the artist/genius of Grantsville wrote dozens of

SO BRIGHT WAS THE SUNLIGHT reflected by the skylight windows of this early century photography studio on Hare Hollow Road that it could be seen miles away in Springs, Pa. At least, that is how it is recalled by Grantsville resident Alma Orendorf, 77, formerly of Springs. Following the 1927 death of its "far-famed" photographer, the studio was converted to a chicken coop and later, razed. But while the structure still stood two miles south of Grantsville, it represented possibly the greatest artist in Garrett County history: Leo J. Beachy. Even today his fame shines across the land, with the National Portrait Gallery in Washington, D.C., praising his photos as "entrancing, . . . compelling, . . . no mean achievement." Yet until now, it was not generally understood that Beachy also bestowed upon his beloved county a legacy of literary works, some examples of which appear on this page with several previously unpublished Beachy photos.

Published for the first time is this photo of sauerkraut in its earliest stages of prepartation. The young lady was the late Hazel Beachy Yoder, the photographer's niece. (© 1988 MBB)

Photos like this one with a live turkey, seen here by the general public for the first time, led the Washington Post to write in 1984, ". . . the subjects of Beachy's pictures (are) surprisingly relaxed for the era. The casual style . . . was a spontaneity uncharacteristic in photos of the day." (© 1988 MBB)

"Many years hence the name of Leo J. Beachy may still be extolled as a benefactor to his community, as well as the world at large . . . " (—From his 1927 obituary).

"Beachy's photographs are entrancing pictures, composed with naive charm . . . (They) are compelling, summoning up visions of a style of life blessed by innocence, . . . unclouded by the omnipresent threat of global cataclysm." (—National Portrait Gallery, Wash., D.C., 1984) additional pieces that today are lost beyond recall, making his extant writing all the more invaluable. It includes remarkable accounts of local lore and history, like the following excerpt about the vast forests of eastern Garrett County; which were cut for timber before Beachy's time.

As the Black Forest of Germany had its legends and superstitious people, so with these forests. Many now living remember that along Piney Run, from Finzel to and beyond Findley Bridge, a covered wooden bridge in Pennsylvania, a strange noise was heard after dusk and almost any hour throughout the night for many years, by people who were superstitious, as well as by those who were not.

It is said that when the sound was heard downstream at the bridge, it seemed to be echoed the same instant upstream at Finzel, eight miles away. By some it was believed to be a bird or the spirit of a departed Indian; and whenever the phantom was heard, it was referred to as the "old sawfiler," from the noise being like that made by filing a cross-cut saw. For many years residents of that neighborhood were on the lookout to see what made the strange and hideous noise; but no one ever solved the mystery.

My grandmother told by father than when they lived on the William Bender farm, along the north side of the National Road near Grantsville, they often heard the sound of some strange bird only about a quarter of a mile away down on Shade Run, the stream that crosses the National Road southward, just east of Grantsville, known locally as "Little Shades of Death." Grandfather John Beachy often mounted a horse in a hurry and rode down to the Valentine Bender Bridge over Shade Run to find out what kind of bird it might be; but was never able to see it.

Another story told of the pine country around Finzel was of a man who came from Baltimore and cleared about two acres of dense pines near the present town site, along the Mason and Dixon Line. He built a mansion on the cleared lot, but in time the house was entirely abandoned; it was believed that the owner had gone back to Baltimore only for a short while, but he never returned. The more superstitious people believed the great old house haunted; finally some of the farmers about there investigated it, searching and examining the interior from cellar to attic.

It is said that they found a lot of trunks, satchels and valises in the different rooms, and many books on witchcraft. In the cellar they discovered some barrels, in one of which was a bushel and a half of keys; but even with all those keys, the mystery was never unlocked. The house was left standing for many years, and at one time was used as a barn for storing hay; but finally was torn down.

Another tradition was current at Finzel and Blue Jay of "California Kate" Miller, whose husband, Samuel Miller, was one of the gold seekers of California in 1849. It was believed by the superstitious and the children of the community that California Kate possessed the power of witchcraft, and could especially bewitch children, cows and horses.

The children living in the vicinity were afraid to drive the cows to the pasture field after dark; especially was this true of the Finzel brothers, who took fright if asked to drive the cows out to Spruce Hill in the evening, expecting that they might see California Kate standing outside the house with a sheet around her.

Leo Beachy, the photographer, took just about every conceivable picture he could compose before his camera, as his restless mind consistently found meaning in the most mundane matters.

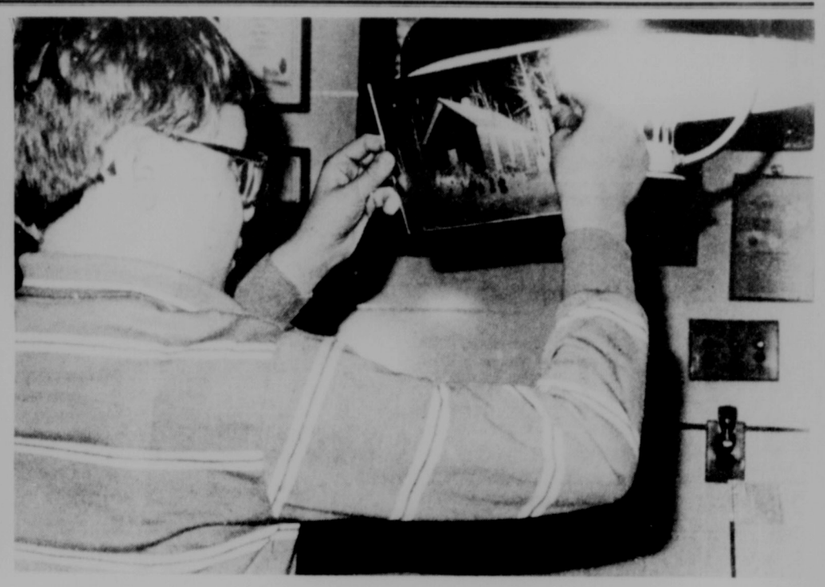

Likewise, Beachy the writer addressed a wide range of topics, from biography to philosophy, humor to history, education to nature.

For someone so gifted in intellect, Beachy wrote in Beachy's pictures "reassure us about our past, and thus give us comfort for the present and for the future. That is no mean accomplishment for an unpretentious small-town photographer." (—National Portrait Gallery, Wash., D.C., 1984)

If this photo — previously unseen publicly — conveys spontaneity, it's probably because Beachy composed it with considerable forethought. (© 1988 MBB)

Environmental Bill Hearing Set By Byron

Simple mathematics tells the story. Forty thousand miles of trails have disappeared from this country in just under 50 years. However, in just 15 years the hiking population has more than doubled. Demand for recreational trails for use by outdoor enthusiasts far outstrip the supply, yet federal funding for acquiring and developing new trails remains virtually non-existent.

Representative Beverly B. Byron developed a method that should prove efficient in adding a significant number of trail miles to the current inventory. Her bill, H.R. 2641, will be the subject of a hearing on March 17 at 10:00 a.m. The Subcommittee on National Parks and Public Lands will hear testimony from witnesses representing federal agencies, national organizations, and state and local governments and organizations. The Senate companion "Rails-to-Trails" bill is offered by Senator Metzenbaum (D-OH).

"The conversion of abandoned rail lines-to-trails makes good sense in a number of ways. Abandoned rail lines make natural trails, and from that point of view it's sensible land use. Furthermore, since most of the rights-of-way are located in the west, through their sale we can generate revenues for trail development in other parts of the country, such as the east, where there is less public land," explained Byron, now in her fifth term on the House Interior Committee.

The National Trails System Act has been officially endorsed by the Rails-to-Trails Conservancy, American Recreation Council, Paralyzed Veterans of America, the National Recreation and Park Association and the American Horse Council. Byron said she is pleased to have introduced the bill with seven original cosponsors.

Nearly Half Of State Income Tax Returns Filed; Common Errors Noted

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein revealed that state income taxpayers are "doing a good job" dealing with the most massive changes in state tax forms in 20 years. "Maryland income taxpayers have filed about 45% of the expected 1.9 million returns, and the error rate is just about the same as in prior years with about one return in seven containing some type of mistake or being filed unnecessarily," he said. "That's good news, considering the large number of changes taxpayers faced this year."

The comptroller noted that, as predicted, more taxpayers are filing simpler, standard deduction returns. "About 73% of the state income tax forms we've received so far this year are standard deduction returns, compared with 52% last year," he said.

More taxpayers are filing standard deduction returns because the General Assembly increased the value of the state standard deduction and provided new minimum amounts of $1,000 for single individuals and $2,000 for married couples filing jointly. An additional $800 standard deduction is available to taxpayers or their spouses who are 65 or older, or blind.

While more taxpayers are filing the simpler, standard deduction return, nearly half of the errors found on tax returns so far occur when people compute their state tax, while other common mistakes include filing unnecessarily, and improperly trying to claim the earned income credit or the additional standard deduction for senior citizens.

"If you qualify to use the tax tables, please use them carefully and be sure you are using the correct table for your filing status. This will help you to calculate your tax correctly," Goldstein said.

Married couples filing jointly cheat themselves by using the tax table for single individuals, for example.

The comptroller also noted that the tax computation worksheets included on page ten of the instructions have been helpful to taxpayers in recent years, but said it's important for taxpayers to choose the correct worksheet for their income and filing status.

"The second most common error we've spotted so far is tax returns coming from people who don't need to file, he said. "We've received more than 11,000 returns filed unnecessarily. You must file a state return only if your gross income is more than the levels for your filing status listed on the first page of the instructions."

Students and other children may find they are required to file federal tax returns for the first time, under provisions of federal tax reform. Maryland, however, treats students and other children as single individuals, meaning that they are not required to file state income tax returns unless their gross income for 1987 was $4,440 or more.

"Two other errors involve changes on the state tax form itself, including the earned income credit and the extra standard deduction for senior citizens. More than 2,000 ineligible taxpayers have tried to claim the new earned income credit. The Maryland earned income credit is available to taxpayers whose income was $15,432 or less for 1987 and who maintained a home for a dependent," Goldstein said. "Maryland's earned income credit is equal to one-half of the federal credit."

To date, the earned income credit has been claimed on 20% of the state returns from Somerset County, 18% of the returns from Dorchester County and 17% of Worcester County's returns. About 15% of the returns from Baltimore City are claiming the earned income credit.

The new, additional standard deduction for taxpayers 65 or older is causing some errors, as taxpayers neglect to check the box on the state long form indicating that they are 65 or older and eligible for the extra benefit. "Taxpayers now seem to be responding to publicity urging them to declare their eligibility by checking the appropriate box if they are at least 65, or blind," Goldstein said.

The comptroller said that, while it is not an error, more taxpayers should be using the label that came on their state tax packet, as long as the information on it is correct. "About one-third of the returns are arriving without labels. That's unfortunate, because using the label on your tax return speeds up your refund check by one week."

The comptroller said that all state income tax offices are open Monday through Friday, from 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m., including all state holidays and during certain weekends between now and the April 15th filing deadline. The extra hours are listed inside the state tax packet.

"For example, all of our offices will remain open on Friday, March 25, 1988, while most other state offices will be closed in observance of Maryland Day," he said.

The addresses and telephone numbers of all 15 Maryland income tax offices are listed on the back of the state tax packet and in most local telephone directories. The statewide toll-free number for state tax assistance is 1-800-MD TAXES.

"WELL, IF IT ISN'T MR. FRIZBE!...THE SAME MR. FRIZBE WHO MADE A HOUSE CALL AND FIXED MY PLUMBING LAST WEEK."

Three Sentenced During Traffic Court Proceedings

During traffic court proceedings held recently in Garrett County District Court, Judge Jack R. Turney sentenced three men to one year in the Garrett County Jail, one for violation of probation and two on drunk driving charges.

The year-sentence was reimposed for Robert Walter Stemple, 50, who was found guilty of violating his probation, imposed as the result of a driving while intoxicated conviction. He had been arrested on the charge in 1986.

Bailey Robert Llewellyn, 40, was also given a one-year sentence after he was found guilty of driving while intoxicated. He was also fined $1,000 as a result.

Eleven months of the sentence were then suspended and Llewellyn was placed on 18 months supervised probation. He was arrested November 14 in Oakland.

James Edward Patton, 39, was found guilty of driving while intoxicated and also received a one-year sentence. Eleven months of the sentence were then suspended. He was fined $1,000 and placed on 18 months supervised probation.

Patton was arrested November 9 on Rt. 39.

Also found guilty of driving while intoxicated was Dorothy Leona Reynolds., 42, who was fined $500 and placed on 12 months supervised probation. $300 of the fine was then suspended.

Reynolds was arrested November 4 in Oakland.

Mark Allen Ford, 29, was also found guilty of violation of probation, and Judge Turney reimposed $300 of his fine, originally set at $500. He was arrested April 25 in Oakland, and was later convicted of driving while under the influence of alcohol.

PARENTS REPORT

At their March 7 meeting, parents of children enrolled in the Eglon Center of Preston Child Development program met with the teacher, Joyce Kisamore, to make plans for the remainder of the school year.

There will be an Easter party at 10 a.m. on March 28 for school children only. Field trips for the children are being planned with various parents helping with the planning of these and plans for graduation were also formulated.

A special treat for the children was on February 8 when Jean Winters told them about Eglon and schools in Eglon in former days.

Attending the meeting were parents Margie Bolyard, Cathy Collins, Teresa Jones, Nancy Shaffer, Brenda Hartsell, Lori Durst, Kathy Stemple, Cynthia Bachtel, Bonnie Edwards, Chris Lantz and Sue Mayne.

CUSTOMS OF HOLY WEEK STUDIED

The secretary and treasurer gave their reports including a letter from the child sponsored through Compassion and an accompanying letter concerning the child. Doris Adams, Betty Fint and Wilda Wilt will make plans for the Buckwheat Dinner for Saturday, March 26. Easter breakfast plans were also discussed. Mrs. Fint read the 1988 goals for the W.V. United Methodist Women to be completed by each unit.

Seven members were present for the meeting.

Four new members were received and three get-well cards signed. Because the regular meeting date falls on Saturday before Easter, it has again been postponed and will be held on the second Saturday, April 9.

President Ted Hardesty adjourned the meeting and Rev. Annabelle Childers dismissed with prayer.

remarkably simple language; yet his words could slash like a sword.

A good example is the following excerpt from a letter he wrote to "Cousin Isabelle," who lived in a Missouri city.

Instead of the silvery moon at night you have witch fires playing in countless numbers over your surrounding landscapes; the atmosphere is sickening with "brimstone" fumes, and the stars of heaven cannot be seen. Your mills rumble all night long; the patient, sleepy toilers before the furnaces half revealed, half concealed are enough to remind one of the lost spirits groping in Hades.

Such is your smoking city. There is heard a bumping and thumping, a winding and grinding, "off again, on again, gone again," and all kinds of noises. The very earth trembles; there is no quiet — no rest. Men in blue coats, brass buttons, and a huge stick of timber in hand walk up and down the slippery pavements in winter, and grassless streets in summer, to guard while the city sleeps. Even your birds in the shade trees at night are disturbed by the arc-light. Man in the city must have regulations and restrictions placed upon himself to be good, then he is not good — only careful, some not that.

One might not guess from that somber passage that Beachy was well known for his constant cheer, despite his endless battle with crippling multiple sclerosis.

The late Grantsville insurance agent, Dan W. Hershberger, got a taste of Beachy humor as a young boy.

Once in a joking way I asked Dan Hershberger, who was interested in chicken culture, whether he knew how to make a hen that didn't want to, sit on eggs. He did not, and I told him to tie her on.

Perhaps five or ten years after that one of his younger brothers made me wise of the fact that Dan went home from me and tried the stunt by tying a rope to a hen's leg.

One day when his mother went outside a hen was hanging out a shop window by a rope, dead from the experiment. Dan had not caught my joke.

The hen had. It killed her.

Beachy also wrote about the youth of his mother:

My mother went to pay school at New Germany in an old log house, where the pupils sawed their own firewood, and she went only to this one school till she was about 15 (there were no high schools at that time) and learned to read, write and spell. She was fond of poetry and wrote with a goose quill made by the teachers. She was never taught arithmetic, because during those days it was thought unnecessary for a girl to learn to cipher. In fact, when her grandmother with whom she stayed found out that the teacher had started to give mother some instruction in arithmetic, she stopped it. It has always seemed to me a sad vexation that she could not add and carry, subtract, multiply and divide with figures.

Beachy contributed frequently to a local newspaper, and in 1910 wrote about another member of his family, his brother, Elmer J. Beachy, who was in the attic watching Halley's Comet while his wife gave birth to twins:

Ever since the newspapers have been talking so much about the awful flight of Halley's Comet through unfathomable space and its approach within sight of the earth, Elmer J. Beachy has been sleeping in the garret of the Mt. Nebo residence. The garret contains four attic windows, two overlooking the eastern horizon and Chestnut Ridge, commanding a view of the moving comet. It was a comet on the eastern sky as it circled the globe and now shows itself on the western sky. The tail has changed position to view and the comet is a "goet." On Wednesday morning (Elmer Beachy) was hurriedly called to a lower floor and (his wife) informed him that he was the father of twin boys.

Much of what Beachy wrote, however, was never intended for publication. Scattered among countless pages of scribbled diaries and notebooks are philosophical insights like the following, which Beachy drew from his beekeeping experience:

The best thing about the bees is that they come home at night — you do not need to go after them. They come home before a rain storm. They work for nothing, pay their own board, give man a surplus of liquid gold, and sting his enemies that attempt to rob him. If the bee can smile, why should not we? Never give up hope. The bees are not forbidden to work overtime.

Yet even while writing Beachy always reminds us that he was, first and last, a photographer.

His first studio, a modest "springhouse loft," was later expanded into the more ambitious structure pictured on these pages.

Although the Hare Hollow Road studio — dubbed "Mt. Nebo" — following Beachy's death was demoted to serving as a chicken coop, and later razed, the classical photographs developed within its walls came to rest, in the ensuing decades of destiny, in the halls of fame: The National Portrait Gallery, in Washington, D.C. and the State Archives of Md., in Annapolis.

Of this studio, the Garrett County legend who spent his entire life in Grantsville from 1874 to 1927 wrote:

For the best part of two years I must have developed photographic plates in our home cellar, mostly at night after working late, going to bed after midnight to avoid light being turned on and fogging my plates and to keep the temper of the women normal. In the meantime I dreamed daydreams of a studio with skylight office, darkroom, large camera and a printed background. I built castles in the air, of course, but afterwards tried to put foundations under them.

So one day I got a young man by the name of Galen W. Beachy to tear a large store box apart to use the lumber to construct a darkroom four by six by seven feet in one corner of the loft over our springhouse. The good cool spring of clear water at the southwest wall overshadowed by two stately pine trees, constantly flowing into the cellar, was ideal for washing photographic plates and pictures, and a pump was at once installed in the darkroom to pump the water up.

Here then the Mt. Nebo studio had its birth. Here, in this old vine-encircled springhouse loft — a sort of couriosity shop containing a discarded baby cradle, a work bench and the huge old silent loom my mother used to weave cloth and carpets — I began the weaving of my photographic toga. Here the wool was spun into knitting yarn for our winter stockings. Here, in this small though sufficient darkroom, I wove my pictures that are being sought today.

Editor's note: R. Craig Speicher, the writer of the various "The Photographic Genius of Leo Beachy" segments, has done extensive research into the life and works of Leo Beachy. However, it was just recently that he discovered that Beachy's first photography studio, pictured with this feature, was built by the late Galen Beachy, who was Speicher's maternal grandfather, D.W.S.

DEEP CREEK REALTY

Real Estate

By ROBERT HUEBNER

Deep Creek Realty

IT'S REAL & IT'S PERSONAL!

When you buy or sell a home, it is important to know what is and is not being sold. Let's say, for example, that the home you are buying has a beautiful brass chandelier in the formal dining room. It will go well with your furniture. But, the day you move into the home, you find only a simple $15.00 overhead light in the dining room. The sellers explain that the chandelier was a gift from a relative and was not included in the sale.

Take a look at the definitions used for real estate and personal property. Real estate is defined as "the earth's surface extending downward to the center of the earth and upward into space, including all things permanently attached thereto by nature or by man." Personal property is considered to be "everything else."

These definitions are especially important when buying or selling a home. Obviously, the home is permanently attached to the land. The chandelier was also attached, and unless specifically excepted from a contract of sale, would be considered part of the "real estate." Items such as furniture, a table-top microwave oven, or a lawn mower are considered "personal" property.

Ask your real estate agent for clarification if you are not sure what is "personal" and what is "real" property. Be sure that specific items are identified in a contract of sale if there are any doubts about whether or not they are to be conveyed. Your agent understands the difference and can answer your questions.

Understanding real estate dilemmas and their solutions is our business, and we'll happily share our knowledge with you. Why not give us a call at 387-5303 or drop by our office at McHenry Plaza.

Three Favorable Reviews On Local DAR Book Noted

It was about one year ago that the Youghiogheny Glade Chapter, National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, Oakland, published a book entitled Maryland's Garrett County Graves. Since the release of the book last spring, three publications have published positive reviews of the book, which are as follows:

January through February 1988 issue of The Genealogical Helper, The Everton Publishers, Inc., Nimbley, Utah: "Researchers with roots in Garrett County will appreciate this new volume by the Youghiogheny Chapter of the D.A.R. containing transcriptions from the cemeteries in the county. The listings appear in order by cemetery, beginning with the name and location of the burial site. The transcriptions from the tombstones generally include the name of the deceased with the dates of birth and death and many contain other notations such as references to family relationships and military service. A comprehensive every name index completes this fine work."

Winter 1987 issues of the Maryland Historical Magazine refers to the book as . . . "a compendium of names researchers have found in every known burial plot. 'Some of the older cemeteries contained only fieldstone markers' says the prefatory key to the volume, 'and we could find no names for some small plots. Time has rendered some markers illegible. Some fieldstone markers have only initials scratched into them while others may have a Christian name but only an initial representing the surname. These things caused problems in compiling a record that is easy to use so we set some basic guidelines to make the indexing possible.' These indexes cover cemeteries, names of persons buried, and names mentioned on markers other than person buried. An indispensable guidebook to Garrett County family history."

October 1987 Western Maryland Genealogy Magazine by Donna Valley Russel, C.G., F.A.S.G.: "Maryland's westernmost county, formed in 1872 from Allegany County, was settled before the Revolution by several pioneer families, including John Friend, Joseph Tomlinson, and William Asbhy. Volunteers for Revolutionary service were encouraged by the promise of land, resulting in the Military Lots and a great influx of settlers after the war. The Youghiogheny Glades Chapter has attempted to transcribe every known cemetery in the county. Separate indexes of 181 pages include the name of each person buried, other names on markers, and the name of the cemetery when known. Most burials of course are from the last 100 years. A valuable addition to Garrett Coutny research."

Maryland's Garrett County Graves is available for $29.00 postpaid by sending a check or money order made payable to Youghiogheny Glades Chapter D.A.R. along with name and address to: Mrs. Randall Kahl, Box 89, Deer Park, MD 21550.

As promised in the book, this project has not ended. The first cemetery in a series of additions and corrections to Maryland's Garrett County Graves will be published by the Garrett County Historical Society in the March issue of The Glades Star, The Society's quarterly publication which is sent to every member.

Membership in the Society is available for $10.00 by sending a check or money order made payable to the Garrett County Historical Society along with name and address to Mrs. Kahl at the above address.

The hearing will be held on Wednesday, March 30, 1988, at 9:00 a.m. at the Frostburg City Hall Council Room, 37 Broadway, Second Floor, Frostburg, Maryland. If necessary, the hearing will continue on Thursday, March 31, 1988, at 9:00 a.m. in the same location. At issue between the parties is the origin, effect and responsibility for a seep located at or near the surface mining operation of Allegheny Mining Corporation (Permit No. SM-84-277) in Garrett County, Maryland. A full adjudicatory hearing on this matter has been scheduled for May 4, 1988. In order to obtain the special relief requested, Allegheny Mining Corporation must show (1) that there is a substantial likelihood that it will prevail on the merits of the final determination of the proceeding, and (2) that the temporary relief requested will not adversely affect the public health or safety, or cause significant imminent environmental harm to land, air or water resources.

PUBLIC NOTICE
PROPOSAL

The Garrett County Board of License Commissioners, under the provisions of Article 2B, Section 184, of the Annotated Code of Maryland may adopt rules and regulations as they may deem necessary to enable them effectively to discharge the duties imposed upon them.

The Board proposes to adopt the following rules and regulations:

The Board of License Commissioners of Garrett County may require licensees holding or applying for, if applicant is an existing Class D Licensee, a Class D (on-sale) or Class D (off-sale) license to produce any or all of the following documents as evidence that the Class D licensee holds the proper Class D license.

A. Invoices
B. Sales Slips
C. Register Tapes
D. Journals
E. Any other accounting or income tax records that may disclose information necessary for this determination.

The Board of License Commissioners of Garrett County require that Class D licensees shall maintain their accounting records in such a manner that facilitates a determination by the Board which type of Class D license should be held by the licensee.

The Board of License Commissioners of Garrett County reserves the right to issue the license having the greater fee to the license holder if the Board determines that a licensee has not maintained or has not properly disclosed records that are adequate for the Board to determine which type of Class D license should be held by the licensee.

The Board will generally make the determination of which Class D license a license holder shall hold based on data pertaining to the year immediately preceding application or renewal. However, in situations involving new licenses, situations where the relationship of on-sales and off-sales may have changed, or in any other situation where the Board deems it to be appropriate, the Board may consider current year information in making its determination.

The Board shall give consideration to special events which may temporarily distort the nature of a licensee's sales and not base its determination on a short time period if annual amounts do or will indicate a different result. The Board will receive written comments in the office of the Board of License Commissioners for Garrett County, Room 301, Old Courthouse, Oakland, MD 21550 until April 25, 1988.

Four Receive Year Sentences In District Court

During Garrett County District Court proceedings held last week, three men and one woman each received suspended one-year sentences. One case involved a Pennsylvania man convicted of a fourth degree sexual offense.

Kurt M. Kleiner, Allison Park, was also fined $150 for the offense, and was then placed on 18 months supervised probation. He had been found guilty in a previous hearing when a presentence investigation was ordered by Judge Jack R. Turney.

The charge was filed by Tfc. R.C. Resh, Maryland State Police, following an August 12 incident at a motel room in McHenry where Kleiner reportedly made sexual advances toward another male occupant there. Stanton D. Levenson was the defending attorney.

Lisa J. Paugh, 18, Friendsville, received a total of one year and 60 days in the Garrett County Jail after she was found guilty, in separate cases, of battery and disorderly conduct in a public place. She was also fined a total of $100.

The sentences were then suspended and Paugh was placed on 18 months supervised probation.

The battery charge was filed by Melissa A. Preston, also of Friendsville, following an Ocotber 10 incident at the Riverside Lounge parking lot in Friendsville.

The charge of disorderly conduct was filed by Cpl. R.J. Graham, Maryland State Police, as the result of an August 17 incident in Friendsville where Paugh was reportedly disturbing the peace while involved in a fight on a public street there.

Robert G. Ford, 32, Oakland, and Mark A. Ford, 29, Swanton, in separate cases, were each given a one-year sentence. They were found guilty of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle in a previous hearing. A presentence investigation was ordered.

Charges were filed by Sheryl Ford, Swanton, after she reported that the two men took her 1981 Chevrolet Citation from the Top Of The Hill Tavern, Oakland, on October 8. John R. Toston, public defender, represented both men.

David F. Moon, 32, Oakland, was found guilty of resisting arrest and a pre-sentence investigation was ordered.

Detective L.E. Gnegy, Garrett County Sheriff's Department, filed the charge following a January 10 incident in Oakland. According to Gnegy's report, Moon resisted arrest after Gnegy was summoned to the scene of a disturbance. Moon was found not guilty on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Robert C. Hesson was the defending attorney.

A pre-sentence investigation was also ordered for Joseph R. Pyles, 48, Oakland, who was found guilty of disorderly conduct in a public place following a February 2 incident in Oakland.

Complainant in the case is Oakland City Police Chief, John K. Sines, who stated that Pyles was intoxicated and using profanity on a public street. Toston was the defending attorney.

Stet Docket Cases

David F. Moon, Oakland, was charged with assault and battery by Linda J. Moon, also of Oakland, who was, in turn, charged with two counts of battery by David Moon.

The charges stemmed from incidents on August 8 and January 10. Toston defended Linda Moon while Hesson represented David Moon.

In two separate cases, James Sebold, 29, Deer Park, was charged with a total of two counts of harassment, two counts of disturbing the peace, and one count of trespassing.

Tammy Kent, Mtn. Lake Park, filed the charges following incidents that occurred since December 24. Kent reported that Sebold annoyed her with phone calls and disturbed the neighborhood while driving in front of her house.

Donald C. Dumire, 30, Oakland, was charged with two counts of destruction of property that stemmed from incidents on December 6 and 7 when he reportedly damaged doors at the residence of Diane M. Ringer, McHenry, complainant. Toston defended Dumire.

Area Accidents Send Ten Injured To Local Hospital

Ten injured persons were sent to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries they sustained in automobile accidents this past week.

A Sunday evening two-car accident sent four persons to the hospital where Robin Tasker, 19, Oakland, was admitted and initially listed in "stable" condition. She has since been discharged.

Tasker was a passenger in a 1984 Ford pick-up operated by James Dwayne Reese, 19, Friendsville. Reese was treated and released from the hospital after the accident which occured when Reese was southbound on U.S. Route 219 at the intersection of Route 50. He apparently failed to stop at a stop sign and his vehicle was struck broadside by a 1979 Chevrolet Caprice, operated by Lewis Waitman Bolyard, 47, Thornton, W.Va. Bolyard and one of his passengers, Danny J. Bolyard, 38, Tunnelton, W.Va.; were treated and released from the hospital. Another passenger, Allen Teter, 36, Kingwood, W.Va. was not injured.

Reese was charged with failure to stop at a stop sign by Tpr. J.K. Moore who investigated the 11:18 p.m. accident.

Two Swanton residents were treated and released from the hospital Friday when their vehicle collided with a Maryland Department of Natural Resources maintenance dump truck at the intersection of the MAKING A NEW FRIEND was this unidentified young man who was among a group of about 50 people, including several persons representing various local and regional media who accompanied Maryland and Pennsylvania wildlife experts on a bear outing Friday afternoon. A mother bear and her three cubs were located in a den near Bittinger on the John Opel property and, while the mother was under the effect of anesthesia, her three offspring were held and cuddled by the visitors. The bear experts carefully counted to make sure that all three of the cubs were back with their mother, and not under someone's coat, when the work was completed. See story and more photos on page 14A.

Local Bills Progress As Session In Annapolis Moves Into Final Weeks

The pace is steping up in Annapolis, as the 1988 General Assembly session moves into its final weeks. Bills that have passed in one chamber of the legislature are now being heard and voted on by the other chamber. Many bills will then move to a conference committee, while others will be placed on the governor's desk to await his signiture.

Glendale Bridge

Delegate George C. Edwards feels that two of his bills, HB-818 and HB-1265, have a good chance to pass the General Assembly. Both bills have been heard by the House Appropriations Committee (the committee Edwards is a member of) on March 18, but no vote has been taken as yet.

HB-818 extends the time which the Garrett County Commissioners have to repay the state bond, and HB-1265 requests an additional $200,000 to pay for the construction of a new bridge. Both bills were filed because of unexpected added cost estimated to complete the bridge since the original bond bill was passed two years ago.

"Whether or not the bridge is built depends on the state. If we can't get the extra $200,000, I'm not sure Garrett County can swing the project," Edwards said.

The corresponding Senate bills, SB-764 and SB-816, were heard by the Budget and Taxation Committee on March 16, but no vote has been taken in the Senate chamber either.

Edwards said he is pretty confident that the bills will be successful, saying that the state committed to this project two years ago. "But there have been tremendous cost increases" in projected figures since then, he explained.

Spill Bills

The Senate voted 42-0 to send to the House two bills sponsored by Sen. John N. Bambacus which would reimburse volunteers and fulltime emergency services workers for equipment damages incurred while responding to hazardous materials incidents.

House versions of the same bills, sponsored by Del. Kevin Kelly, have also passed third reader votes and have been sent to the Senate.

Hunting Bills

The House of Delegates approved, by a third-reader vote, HB-771 establishing penalties for negligence while hunting. Sponsored by the Garrett and Allegany County Delegations, the bill prohibits a person from hunting or pursuing game birds or mammals in such a careless or negligent manner that other persons or any farm livestock are shot, wounded or killed or property is destroyed or damaged.

A virtually identical version of the bill has also cleared the Senate.

Water Replacement

The House of Delegates passed and sent to the Senate Del. Edwards' HB-817 which provides for a way to replace water supplies damaged by mining in cases when the damage is discovered after the state releases the bond to the mine operator after the proper waiting period.

The bill calls for the state to temporarily use one penny from the coal tax — paid by mining companies for reclamation — to establish a $50,000 fund to pay for replacement water systems. The one penny a ton tax would then revert to regular reclamation purposes until the fund is reduced to less than $25,000. At that time the temporary tax would be imposed again.

Bill Updates

SB-11, Careless or Negligent Hunting, sponsored by Sen. Bambacus, has passed the Senate and has been re-referred to the House Judicial Committee and is awaiting a hearing.

SB-22, co-sponsored by Bambacus, has also passed the Senate and was heard yesterday by the House Environmental Matters Committee. The bill extends indefinitely the time for the granting of a homeowner's property tax credit that is based on an increase of more than 15 percent in the assessment of property.

SB-94, also co-sponsored by Bambacus, will be heard today by the House Environmental Matters Committee. The bill would repeal the provision of law that terminates the ban on the use of phosphates in cleaning agents as of December 1, 1989.

SB-245, creating a Task Force on Infrastructure, Development, and the Environment, co-sponsored by Bambacus, was heard Tuesday in the House Environmental Matters Committee.

SB-325 and 326, smoking bills have been heard in the House. SB-325 passed out of the Environmental Matters Committee with two amendments and passed a second-reader vote last Thursday, while SB-326 was killed by the same committee.

A firearms bill has been hotly debated in the Senate Judicial Proceedings Committee this week. SB-484, prohibition of liability for damages caused by certain criminal use of firearms, got a favorable vote from the committee and passed a

Citizenship Test Scores Reveal Slight Decrease

A slight decrease in the pass rate for ninth- grade students taking the Maryland Test of Citizenship Skills has been noted at the state as well as at the county level.

According to Paul Harr, testing director for Garrett County, the pass rate for this year's Garrett County ninth-graders was 82.3% — four points below last year's pass rate. At the state level, according to a news release from the Maryland State Department of Education, the pass rate was 2.5 percentage points below that of last year, with 69.3% of the students passing.

The slight decrease in the pass rate "may be a result of moving the test administration from April to January," state assessment officials said. The change in the date of giving the test reduced classroom time available to prepare for it by three months.

"While the pass rate on the citizenship test took a slight dip this year," commented State Superintendent of Schools David W. Hornbeck, "I consider it important to note that more that two-thirds of ninth graders are able to pass a test in 1988 that they will not be required to pass until 1991."

Harr stated that students in the county still did "quite well" even with less instructional time than before. He added that, "We are pushing for a pass rate in the 90% range."

Northern High School students taking the test passed at a rate of 89.1%. (114 out of 128 students passed.) Of the 211 students at Southern High who took the test, 165 passed, making their pass rate 78.2%.

This year's seniors are the first students required to pass the citizenship test to graduate. Students who did not pass the test this year will receive assistance until they are brought up to the standards set by the test.

The test includes questions on law and justice, rights and responsibilities of citizenship, governmental functions and processes, and citizen participation at all levels. It is one of four tests required as part of the state's competency education program, known as Project Basic.

County Commissioners Express Opinions On Proposed Legislation

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners announced Tuesday that they are asking Senator Frederick C. Malkus to withdraw Senate Bill No. 52 concerning the Chesapeake Bay critical areas. The commissioners also expressed their opposition to House Bill No. 20 and Senate Bill No. 405.

Senate Bill No. 52

The amendments proposed under Senate Bill No. 52 disturbed the commissioners because they feel the amended bill will have a negative impact on the county in the form of more rigid development regulations.

Commissioner Elwood Groves II cited "environmentalists' issues" as the problem.

"While we agree that the issue of the environment is very important," Groves said, " we are just as concerned with the property owners' rights."

He said the clout of the environmentalists continually overrides the property owners' rights. "The situation creates unbalanced policies in state government," Groves stated.

The initial planning area for determination of the Chesapeake Bay critical areas as proposed in the bill would include all wastes and lands under the non-tidal flowing surface of the state that drain into the Chesapeake Bay, including their 100-year flood plains; and all land and water areas within 1,000 feet beyond the landward boundaries of the 100-year flood plains of the non-tidal flowing surface waters of the state that drain into the Bay.

The bill passed the third reading of the Senate on March 11 with 30 for, 13 against, one excused and three not voting.

The commissioners said the bill could be withdrawn by the sponsor any time before it was signed into law.

Because Senator Malkus is from the rural Eastern Shore, he has traditionally backed rural concerns along with the Garrett County delegation.

In a letter to Malkus this week, the commissioners stated, "As you are aware, the Board of Garrett County Commissioners have always supported your battle to protect the private property rights of the citizens of the State of Maryland. We have, in fact, testified on numerous occasions in support of reduced state regulatory powers and infringements on private property rights. . . we respectfully request your withdrawal of Senate Bill No. 52."

House Bill No. 20

The commissioners also opposed the passage of House Bill No. 20, introduced by Delegate John Arnick from Baltimore County. That bill died in committee on February 11.

The bill would have authorized the General Assembly to establish that private property needed by the state for public purposes could be taken immediately by a unit of the state

GCC Evaluation Discussed At Board Meeting

At the regular monthly meeting of the Garrett Community College Board of Trustees, held Tuesday evening, March 15, it was announced by GCC President, Dr. Stephen Herman, that the college was "ready" for the Accreditation Team's evaluation. That evaluation took place this week, with activities scheduled Monday through Wednesday.

A dinner was held Sunday evening at Will O' The Wisp to introduce members of the evaluation team. Monday the chairman and one team member met with the Board of Trustees at a luncheon, and Tuesday, the team met with community leaders to discuss the college involvement with the surrounding communities.

Also at the meeting, chairman Wayne Hamilton, reported that the president's evaluation had been completed by the board members, and that Dr. Stephen Herman had "exceeded the expectations of the board" in his performance at the college.

Included in the evaluation were six areas: 1)the president's relationship with the board, 2) his relationship with the community, 3) his relationship with the staff and personnel, 4) his educational leadership, 5) his understanding of the business and financial matters, and 6) his personal qualities.

It was also reported at the meeting that the GCC student government had allocated $500 to be used by the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival this coming season, and had pledged $1,500 for next season.

In return, according to Dr. Herman, the Board of Directors of the arts festival, established special student rates of $2 for any performance.

Also in the area of student services, a new transfer guide is now being distributed to students to prepare them for visits to other colleges of interest. The packet, said Herman, offers tips to transfer students on how to evaluate other insititutions.

A policy change was also discussed wherein the college would discontiue the hiring of personnel who work in excess of 24 hours per week without benefits.

Herman stated that the objective of this policy change was to structure the personnel so that part-time employees cannot "edge up" to full-time status without benefits. He added that there was no one at present in that position.

Dean of Academic Affairs, Dr. Lillian Mitchell, noted that a total of 150 students were registered in the 12 classes offered this year by the galaxy program. She also announced that schedules were out for the summer and fall sessions.

GCC Comptroller John Culp reported that ending cash for the month of February was at $45,000 and added that projections indicate the college will have approximately $18,000 to $20,000 on hand by the end of the year.

The bulk of the tuition money for the Spring semester was received in February and totals $62,000, he said, adding that the State Aid Check for approximately $500,000 had been received in March.

In his budget comparison report, Culp stated that the college had expended 63% of its budget at the end of February,

Grant Co. Deputy Sheriff Charged In Missing Person Murder Case

Search Continues For Body

Paul W. Ferrell

Catherine D. Ford

A man hired as a deputy by the Grant County Sheriff's Department just two weeks before the disappearance of Catherine Denise Ford, 19, Gorman, has been charged with her kidnapping and murder, according to a spokesman from the Grant County Sheriff's Department. The search for the woman who is presumed dead continues.

Paul William Ferrell, 31, Gormania, W.Va., was arrested early Sunday morning, reportedly at a store and gas station in Gormania operated by his family. He was previously employed there. That business is located just across the street from the Old Mill Restaurant, operated by the missing Cathy Ford's family.

Ferrell frequently ate at the Old Mill before and after Cathy Ford's disappearance.

At the time of his arrest, Ferrell reportedly stated that he had not commited the crime and has made no comments about the case since.

Ferrell was taken into custody by Grant County Sheriff Larry Ours, Deputy Randy Keplinger and West Virginia State Police Sgt. L.D. Sharp. The accused did not resist arrest.

Evidence Revealed

Although Cathy Ford's body has not yet been found, law enforcement officials provided Grant County Magistrate Ruth Michael with enough circumstantial evidence in seeking an arrest warrant for Ferrell for one count of murder and one count of kidnapping.

Cathy Ford was last seen [illegible] February 17 at her parents' restaurant shortly before 2 p.m. She left in response to several phone calls received from someone, she told her mother, who identified himself as an undercover police officer investigating a liquor board case.

Before leaving, Miss Ford told her mother, Rosalie, that she knew the man but could not reveal his identity because of the covert operation. When her mother pressed her for more details, she then warned her mother that a police rookie would be sent to their restaurant to attempt to buy beer.

Earlier she had told her mother that she was to meet a magistrate in Mount Storm in Grant County to discuss a problem with a check.

In a lengthy affidavit presented to the magistrate by the Federal Bureau of Investigations, it was revealed that shortly after the disappearance of Cathy Ford was made public, a number of women reported receiving similar calls. The women, termed "attractive" by police, all between the ages of 19 and 39, reported attempts by a man to lure them into isolated areas. The calls had begun as early as September. Most of the women were suspicious of the calls.

One of the women actually went to meet the caller, but apparently went to the wrong meeting place. When she returned home, the caller phoned again and asked where she was. One police officer stated that was the "most important meeting that woman ever missed in her life."

The mysterious caller once

Two Sentenced By Judge Thayer In Circuit Court

An Oakland man and a Bayard, W.Va. man were each sentenced to one year in the Garrett County Jail by Judge Fred A. Thayer during recent proceedings in Garrett County Circuit Court.

Harold A. Lowdermilk, 32, Oakland, received the year sentence after he pleaded guilty (in a previous hearing) to possession of marijuana. He was also fined $100. The sentence was then suspended and Lowdermilk was placed on one year supervised probation.

Lowdermilk was also charged with conspiracy and maintaining a common nuisance as the result of Grand Jury indictments in September. A pre-sentence investigation had been ordered by Judge Thayer January 14.

John R. Toston, public defender, represented Lowdermilk.

The year sentence was also suspended for Larry D. Hoffman, 28, Bayard, who pleaded guilty to one count of theft. That charge, and one additional count of theft and one count of daytime housebreaking, had been filed January 19 by Sgt. D.W. Broadwater of the Maryland State Police.

Hoffman was also fined $250 for the conviction and was then placed on two years supervised probation.

The charges stemmed from a July 27 incident when Hoffman reportedly broke into the residence of Richard L. Robinson, Deer Park, and stole a Remington Model 700 rifle. Lawrence V. Kelly represented Hoffman.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered for another Bayard man who also pleaded guilty to one count of theft.

Michael T. Blumer, 35, had been charged with two counts of theft and one count of daytime housebreaking as the result of a July 9 incident when he reportedly broke into the residence of Beryl Hanlin, Oakland, and stole various household effects, appliances and blank checks, all the property of Hanlin.

The charges were filed by Detective-Sgt. D.W. Tucker, Garrett County Sheriff's Department. Robert C. Hesson was the defending attorney.

Ricky L. Ahern, 28, Deer Park, pleaded guilty to distribution of cocaine after which a pre-sentence investigation was ordered by Judge Thayer.

Ahern had also been charged with possession of cocaine and maintaining a common nuisance as the result of Grand Jury indictments returned in September. The charges stemmed from incidents last February and March when Ahern reportedly distributed cocaine to a Maryland State Police informant. Robert C. Hesson represented Ahern.

Interlibrary Loans At Ruth Enlow At All-Time High

Interlibrary borrowing activities at the Ruth Enlow Library reached a new high in February, according to Librarian, Edith Brock. During this month 1,705 items — including books, 16mm films, video cassettes, magazine articles and photocopies of reference material — were requested. This compares with a total of 1,173 requests for February of 1987 and 729 requests for the same month five years ago. The previous highest total was 1,293 items requested in March 1987.

Requests from all branches are sent in by Starr Harvey at the main library by electronic mail (computer and modem). Many are filled within two days by the regional library, Western Maryland Public Libraries, in Hagerstown. Others are placed on reserve or sent on to Enoch Pratt Free Library in Baltimore and the many other libraries which make up the Maryland Interlibrary Loan network. If books are not available in Maryland they are often requested from libraries in other states.

This service make available to users of the Ruth Enlow Library of Garrett County a great variety of books, information and audiovisual materials. Statistics show these users are making ever increasing use of this opportunity, said Brock.

MSP Continues Alleged Rape Investigation

The reported rape alleged by an Oakland woman is still under investigation by the Maryland State Police to determine if the charge is founded.

Police reports at the Mc-Henry Detachment indicate that numerous persons in the neighborhood have been interviewed regarding the charge.

Tfc. R.C. Resh is the chief investigator in the case and said he is awaiting additional laboratory results to determine if there is a basis for the case.

Craig Shafer Has Surgery, "Doing Better"

Craig Shafer, 18, Swanton, who received serious spinal injuries in a fall on February 12, has had surgery at West Virginia University Hospital. His stepmother, Lynn Dusic Shafer, said he is "doing better" and has been moved to a room.

Shafer had been scheduled for surgery earlier, but complications prevented the operation to determine the injuries to his spine.

Mrs. Shafer said Craig has been moved to Room 3414.

A young Oakland man was sentenced to one year in the Garrett County Jail after he was found guilty of battery. Judge Jack R. Turney presided during the Garrett County District Court proceedings last ...

The sentence was then suspended for Brian Knox, 20, who was also fined $50. He was then placed on one year supervised probation.

Knox had been charged by Roger Ashby, also of Oakland, following a July 28 incident in Oakland when Knox reportedly assaulted and battered Ashby. John R. Toston, public defender, represented Knox.

A pre-sentence investigation had been ordered in a previous hearing.

A Swanton woman received a six-month suspended sentence and a $50 fine after she was found guilty of battery.

Brenda J. Bittinger, 23, was then placed on one year supervised probation. The sentence was to be served concurrently with sentencing in another case.

Garrett County Deputy Jeffrey D. Murphy filed the charge after a November 25 incident at Bittinger's residence. According to Murphy, Bittinger kicked his leg and foot while he was assisting a social worker with a reported complaint.

Douglas W. Whitacre, 19, Kitzmiller, received one year supervised probation before judgement and was fined $50 on a charge of misdemeanor theft.

The charge stemmed from incidents that occurred during July and August at Murphy's 135 Amoco service station, Oakland, where Whitacre was employed.

According to the owner, Whitacre stole gas and cash in the amount of $2,714 for his own use. Richard F. Green was the defending attorney.

Barbara J. Sines, 33, Swanton, was found guilty on two counts of bad check charges and received one year supervised probation before judgement as a result. She was also fined a total of $10.

Six additional bad check charges were placed on the Stet Docket. All charges were filed by Daniel Meadows, district manager of Shoe Show, Inc., Morgantown, W.Va., after Sines reportedly wrote checks there on eight separate occasions. The total amount was reported at $1,247.24.

Terry L. Ford, 25, Swanton, was found not guilty of battery after the charge was filed against him by Thomas K. Allison, Frostburg. According to Allison, he was assaulted and battered by Ford during a November 14 incident at Ford's residence. Toston was the defending attorney.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered in the following cases.

David H. Ringer, 31, and John P. Beitzel, 27, both of Accident, were each found guilty of battery after they filed charges against each other following a January 29 incident. Toston represented Ringer.

Charles W. Layman Jr., 19, Bayard, W.Va., was found guilty of battery after Tammy Friend, Oakland, filed the charge. The charge stemmed from a February 7 incident in Hutton.

Lions, Firemen Begin Planning Grantsville Days

The Grantsville Lions Club, sponsor of the annual Grantsville Days Celebration, met recently with the Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department to discuss Grantsville Days 1988.

The firemen have agreed to coordinate and co-sponsor the annual parade again this year. This will be their fifth consecutive year of organizing and sponsoring the parade.

According to Duane Stein, Parade Chairman, there will be $1,500 in prizes and trophies this year. The fire apparatus will be judged and trophies will be awarded to 11 different classes of equipment. Bands, floats and other entries will also be judged and prizes awarded. Invitations will be sent to those who participated last year, but those who don't receive an invitation, but would like to participate in the parade, may contact Stein at 895-5297.

The dates for the 1988 celebration are for June 24-26. There will be two fireworks displays again this year thanks to two local businesses. Grantsville Foodland will sponsor fireworks after the parade on June 24 and Kelly's Appliances of Mt. Lake Park and Grantsville will sponsor fireworks Saturday evening after a performance by "Perry Kamp and Kompany."

There will be spaces available for local organizations to sell foods upon approval from the Booth Committee. Groups that participated last year will be sent invitations to attend this year. There will also be space available for craft and other booths. Persons interested in having a booth at Grantsville Days should contact Gary Finzel, booth chairman, at 895-5262. There will be a meeting for any interested group or individual desiring a booth on April 6 at 7 p.m. at the Grantsville Town Building, located next to the Park on Hill Street.

The Grantsville Lions are looking for gospel talent to perform on Sunday, June 26. Individuals or groups willing to perform between 1 and 6 p.m. are asked to contact to Gerry Beachy, chairman, at 895-5177.

Gordon Douglass Boat Company Builds Flying Scot Number 4,500

Gordon Douglass Boat Company, Inc., Deer Park, has reported 1987 as a successful year, as the company sold its 4,500th Flying Scot. The company has launched into 1988 with record sales and continues to receive orders at a faster rate than their hand-built sailboats can be constructed, according to Harry Carpenter, vice president.

The Flying Scot is a 19-foot sailboat, designed by Oakland resident, Gordon K. "Sandy" Douglass, over 30 years ago. The Flying Scot, sold throughout the country, is a family boat made of fiberglass reinforced polyester resin.

Gordon Douglass Boat Company's success is because of the fact that all Flying Scots are of one design, Carpenter said. Every Flying Scot is built from one original mastermold and all are exactly alike. This means that Flying Scot No. 1 is competitive with the recently built Flying Scot No. 4,500. "The Flying Scot's versatile design is timeless. If it's designed well, it doesn't need to be changed," commented Carpenter.

Only minor changes in the Flying Scot rigging are permitted under the direction of the FSSA, the Flying Scot Sailing Association, a national organization of Flying Scot owners.

The Gordon Douglass Boat Company operates under the direction of Eric and Mary Ammann, principal shareholders, and Carpenter.

The company has 12 employees to keep it "small and personal," while upholding its foremost commitment to quality, Carpenter said.

The Company recently celebrated its 30th anniversary. It also supports and participates in boat shows, regattas, and sailing events, such as the National Midwinter Championship, the Second Annual Husband and Wife Championship, the Canadian National Championship, and the North American Championship.

Training Place Notes Results Of Employer Survey

The results of the employer survey conducted by the Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce, the Private Industry Council, Garrett Community College, the Garrett County Board of Education and the Western Maryland Consortium (The Training Place) have been tabulated, according to Sue Shockey, Training Place director.

There were 352 surveys mailed out to employers in Garrett County and 35% of the employers responded.

The response to the question: What are your anticipated hires within the next two years? indicated an increase of 560 jobs for the local area. There were various occupations listed, but the greater number of hires to be generated were in clerical positions such as bookkeepers, data entry operators, receptionists, secretaries and office clerks.

The second highest number of occupations were vocational jobs as carpenters, electricians, plumbing, heating and general laborers.

Third were service jobs as cleaners, restaurant workers and gas station attendants.

The occupations requiring further education, above a high school diploma, were in professional and semi-professional positions, teachers and aides, social workers, medical occupations, (RN's, nursing assistants and technologists), management (foremen and managers), in respective order.

"The Training Place, Garrett Community College and the Board of Education will use the information in planning for training classes in the future," Mrs. Shockey said. "It also gives the employers input into government programs and education in our area."

Employers who indicated an interest in the Federally Funded Jobs Training Partnership Act (J.T.P.A.) Programs offered by The Training Place (Western Maryland Consortium) and the Board of Education, have been sent information packets. The information includes various programs offered in trade skills, office skills, G.E.D./Remedial classes and on-the-job training. The targeted population for the J.T.P.A. Program are the economically disadvantaged, dislocated workers, displaced homemakers and welfare recipients. If any employer has not been contacted or is interested in the survey, he should contact The Training Place at 334-8136.

"We would like to take this opportunity to thank all the employers who participated in making this a very informative, thus successful, survey," Mrs. Shockey said. "Through their efforts, we will be able to serve and meet the employment needs of Garrett County in future hiring."

Free, But Responsible . . .

Our region is in a state of shock over the recent disappearance of 19-year-old Catherine Ford of Gorman and the subsequent arrest of a Grant County deputy, who has been charged with kidnapping and murder. Such bizarre events just don't happen here and thus the reactions of local residents include not only outrage, but fear and confusion, particularly by those who live in the Gorman area.

Dennis DeBenedetto, prosecuting attorney for Grant County, publicly blasted some local media's coverage of the tragedy, saying the press has shown "total irresponsibility" in the handling of the case.

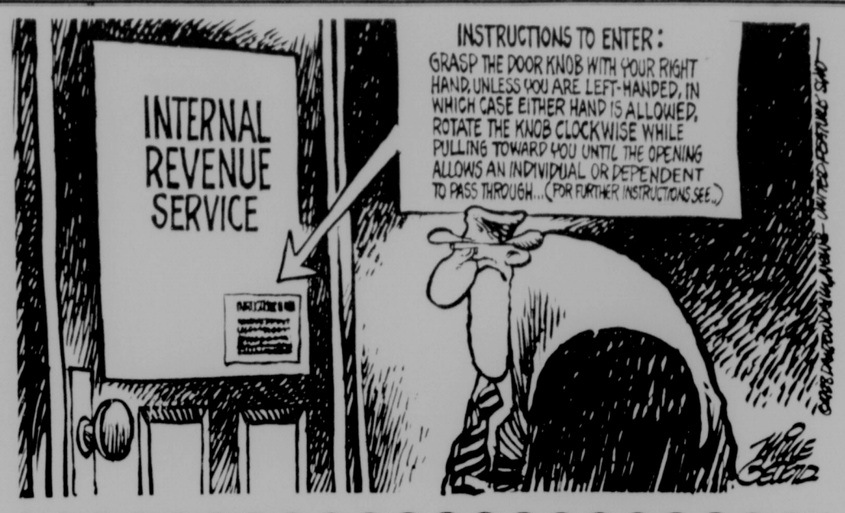

To a certain extent, we agree with Mr. DeBenedetto. It seems that the rather intricate details of the Ford investigation mistakenly ended up in the hands of the Grant County magistrate's office. When that occurred, those details became public record, making it wide open to the media and the public in general.

Some local print media seized the opportunity to publish various details of the case that normally would not be provided. Some of the information published could possibly place other innocent persons at risk. In particular, one newspaper printed the names of the various women who reported to law enforcement authorities that they had received telephone calls similar to the one received by Miss Ford which led to her death.

Although the police seem convinced Deputy Ferrell is the man responsible for the crime, it remains to be seen if there were others involved, who may consider retaliatory action against these brave local women who volunteered this helpful information to the police. Mr. Ferrell, of course, will remain an innocent man until and unless he is found guilty.

Although the newspaper did nothing illegal in printing this information, we believe doing so was careless and without regard to the safety of these citizens.

Freedom of the press is vital to our way of life in these United States, and should be preserved at all costs. But an irresponsible press poses an enormous danger to innocent people. Guarding against such irresponsibility should be a priority of reporters and editors everywhere.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

We want to take this opportunity to publicly express our appreciation to the heroic men of the Oakland, Deer Park and Terra Alta Volunteer fire departments for their dedication and professionalism in fighting our house fire in Mt. Lake Park.

We never truly appreciate our volunteer firemen until their services are needed, and, of course, we never think we will need them. The citizens of our community should be very proud of these well-trained, self-less men who are always there, ready to risk their safety for our welfare, and support their efforts at every opportunity.

To the Editor:

Several weeks ago you printed a letter by J. Edward Gates concerning the creation of a "land bank." Money from sale of some of the Savage River and Potomac State Forests is to be used to purchase properties in the Youghiogheny Corridor. As you know, the requirement to sell portions of the existing public land in Garrett County before any in the Corridor can be purchased stems from a recently enacted law preventing the state from acquiring more land in the county before giving up a comparable amount.

The law is a bad law created without a full understanding of its consequences. The law was created at the insistence of the Garrett County Commissioners under the guise that too much of Garrett County is off the tax rolls. The fact is that considerable numbers of dollars come into the county, some of them in the form of direct payments, as a result of the activities on public lands. Sale of our public lands to private landowners is not going to raise the economic base of the area; in fact, it will have the opposite effect.

Perhaps it is not fully understood that the sale of any public lands will be in the form of "whole-parcel" purchases only. That means it is unlikely that individuals such as I will be able to place a successful bid on any of these parcels. Only developers and surface extraction industries (coal) will have the necessary resources. Except around Deep Creek Lake (where none of the parcels is located), there is no need for housing developments. Secondly, the future of Garrett County is in tourism, not coal. Tourists, including hikers, campers, fishers, hunters, birdwatchers, snowmobilers and other outdoor enthusiasts, do not come to an area to look at strip mines.

Garrett County's greatest asset is its public lands. The Youghiogheny Corridor should be obtained, but not at the expense of existing public lands. These are my lands; they are the lands of all the citizens of not only Garrett County, but the State of Maryland. I want them to remain accessible to me. I don't want them to be turned over to private ownership to be posted or stripped. The law is a bad law. I want it repealed, and I will do everything I can to see this happens. I invite you, as a journalist, to check out Dr. Gates' data and determine if it is not in the county's best interest that you also work for its repeal.

The Governor of Maryland is not happy with the prospect of sale of a portion of our state forests. Citizens, he needs to hear from you. I urge you to express your opinion to him.

To the Editor:

You are to be applauded for your editorial "Metro Steam Roller" as published in your March 17, 1988, issue of The Republican. You are so right about the tremendous strength of the metropolitan counties when it comes to the state legislature and the fact that just three counties have the voting power to create laws to govern we who live in Garrett County. This truly, to use your words, strikes right at our heart of our representative form of government.

I agree that raising a ruckus once in a while and bringing our causes to the attention of the media will help keep the metropolitan steam roller in check. However, in my opinion, it takes considerably more than your stated "once in a while" action if we are not to become second-class citizens governed by the folks in and around Baltimore. Even though a minority position may prevail, situations such as you describe can be overcome. To overcome such situations strong leadership in the General Assembly is needed together with a timely and properly informed citizenry. On both counts there has been a failure in the instance case you described in your editorial. Neither your newspaper nor our elected officials have kept the citizenry properly informed.

The Chesapeake Bay Critical Areas Bill No. 52 was prefiled September 23, 1987. Not until almost five months later, and only one day before the Senate voted on the Bill, did your March 10 issue of The Republican report on implications the bill may have on property owners in Garrett County. Too late to do much about it. I ask you, how can the citizenry stand-up for their rights if they are kept in the dark? How can they support our elected officials if they are not kept informed?

As a matter of interest, the original Malkus Bill only included waters flowing into the Chesapeake Bay. According to staff personnel in the office of Senator Malkus, the amendment of Senator Bambacus was only "window dressing." Also, you can't say very little of our water ends up in the bay since the Potomac and its tributaries drain about one-third of the land area in Garrett County.

You open your editorial with the statement "several years ago when the State of Maryland marched into Garrett County and seized control of the Youghiogheny River Corridor by zoning its shoreline, the reaction of many local property owners was one of outrage." This was not exactly the case. It was our own state senator of the District I who was cosponsor of the Bill which gave control of the Youghiogheny corridor to the State. Moreover, our County Commissioners at that time fully supported the Bill and along with other well known citizens of the County traveled to Annapolis to testify in its support.

Yes, the out-numbered property owners were outraged but they have not been idle (after twelve years the State has not established a definite scenic corridor). The State by its current activity to buy land in the Youghiogheny Valley is beginning to realize if they want to take property rights they must do it in accordance with due process of law and with just compensations as set forth in the fifth amendment of our constitution.

Sincerely,
John E. Hinebaugh

To the Editor,
(and all readers):

Every day someone needs us. That is why we need you! March is The American Red Cross month and that is why the Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross is now conducting a fund drive. The Garrett County Chapter is an all-volunteer organization which handles five programs for the County.

1. The blood program.
2. Assistance to active military and their families.
3. Water Safety.
4. Disaster Assistance.
5. Health Service.

The Blood Program has operated in such an efficient manner with such a wealth of donors and volunteers that the Garrett County Chapter has always been successful. Bloodmobile visits from the Johnstown region are scheduled at Grantsville two times a year and in Oakland three times a year, Garrett Community College, two, and Friendsville, one.

The service to Armed Forces members, veterans and their families, i.e., notification and verification of deaths, births, serious illnesses and financial assistance in emergencies, are available to families and service personnel 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. The case load in the past 10 years has varied from 60 to 200 cases a year, and is growing steadily.

We have expanded our water safety and first aid programs.

In the past we have been involved in flood disaster assistance, aid in buying shoes for fire victims, and a multitude of various services in emergency situations as they arise. The floods of 1985 will remain in the memories of many people a long time. No matter how large or small the disaster, Red Cross volunteers were there to help, but it also takes money.

The Red Cross depends on public support for its funding and that is why we have written this letter. Please help us so that we may continue to help you! Send your contribution now — every little bit helps.

Very truly yours,
Lollie Fridinger
Secretary
Garrett County Chapter

resulting in the college being three percent below even spending. He noted that plant operation in February and March made up about 13% of expenditures, indicating that these months were traditionally heavy spending months for the plant.

Culp projected that the college would have "no problems staying within the budget" this year.

In addition, a budget revision took effect that reflects more revenue being realized from tuition and fees this year.

School Evaluation Teams Introduced At Banquet

Local officials and staff were introduced to the visiting teams involved in the Middle States Evaluation of both Southern and Northern High Schools at a banquet held Monday evening at the McHenry House at the Wisp Ski area.

Individual school presentations to the team members followed the banquet, with students of Dr. Gerald Snelson presenting the school and community portion of the NHS presentation in the form of a puppet show. NHS also presented a slide show to the team explaining the historical and geographic factors affecting the course offerings and student activities at NHS. There are currently 133 course offerings there, according to Principal Edward Green.

The Southern High School presentation also featured a slide show, narrated by Jane Avery. Philosphy and objectives of both schools were explained to the two teams of evaluators.

Deputy Charged

identified himself as Garrett County Deputy Charles Stoner and another time as Grant County Deputy Gene Roy. Ferrell had replaced Roy on the force. It was determined later that neither of them had made such calls.

In two other reports, calls were made to women at Potomac State College in Keyser, W.Va. and telephone records revealed that the calls were made from the Ferrell's store in Gormania to the women's dormitory at the college.

In a number of cases, the women were reportedly asked to drive to the Bismarck Road area in Grant County near the scene where Miss Ford's burned Ford Bronco II had been found March 8 by Miss Ford's boyfriend and brother.

Cathy Ford's burned vehicle was found approximately one-quarter mile off the Bismarck Road and just several hundred feet from a trailer which was being rented by Ferrell and owned by Steve Junkins.

Ferrell Suspected

At that time, the FBI turned to Ferrell for clues in the case. They interviewed Ferrell on March 11 who told authorities that he had rented the trailer to establish a West Virginia residence required by his employment. He said he had spent only one night in it and that he actually resided with his girlfriend, Catherine Bernard, in Deer Park.

The FBI searched Ferrell's trailer with his knowledge that same day. Also that day, Ferrell told police he knew all the women who had received calls.

The FBI affidavit indicates that a letter was received by the Ford family postmarked February 29 in Pittsburgh, Pa. In an interview with Catherine Bernard on March 19, authorities were told that on the day the letter was mailed, Ferrell called her from Pennsylvania.

The letter read: "The only crime here was we had to get rid of the old man's Bronco right away. CATHY is 19, an adult and we had to leave fast. We came into some dangerous money. So here is some money on the Bronco. More will follow. She will call you when she feels it is safe to do so. We are heading where I can get some work. CATHY made me write so you would not worry. She had to get away from Moon (Darvin Moon is Cathy's boyfriend), the restaurant and certain other people. We keep the money, her green bank bag. Tell MOON to leave us alone."

The letter was submitted to the FBI laboratory and it was determined, through the comparison of employment applications, that the printed letter was likely prepared by Ferrell.

Bernard further stated to police that Ferrell had asked her to call people and pretend to be Cathy Ford and to tell them that she had run away.

In addition, a search of Bernard's trailer produced postage stamps from Ferrell's personal effects that were similar in design to the four stamps which appeared on the letter sent to the Ford family.

Further evidence against Ferrell in the case was noted in the FBI affidavit revealing that blood stains, tentatively identified as human, were found under a newly-laid carpet on the floor, under freshly painted walls and ceiling and on the sliding glass door in the rear part of the trailer.

Ferrell told FBI agents that he had replaced the old carpet because it had dark stains on it and smelled of dead animals. He reportedly burned the carpet.

Blood was also found in the rear cargo area of the Ford Bronco police cruiser of which Ferrell had use on the day Cathy Ford disappeared. He was not on duty at the time of the woman's disappearance but did have access to the vehicle, according to the sheriff.

Prosecuting attorney, Dennis DiBenedetto, said Wednesday that a preliminary hearing has been set for Ferrell for Wednesday, March 30, at 1:30 p.m. Ferrell is currently being held in the Grant County Jail without bond.

Rumors Dispelled

As in the case of any violent crime, rumors have been circulating regarding the Cathy Ford case.

DiBenedetto told The Republican Wednesday that no other arrests were currently pending in the case despite rumors that more arrests were expected.

Last Friday, Sheriff Ours said the case has generated more rumors "than you can shake a stick at." He stated that no mutilated body has been found in Grant, Garrett or Allegany counties as had been rumored.

West Virginia State Police Officer Terry Shrader confirmed that a search did uncover a grave in the woods near Ferrell's trailer. That grave contained the remains of some silver foxes from a fur farm. The foxes had died of food poisoning.

An FBI spokesman said earlier this week that no federal charges have been lodged in the case, although further investigation may provide evidence for a prosecutable federal offense. Garrett County police may also be filing charges as new evidence is gained in the case.

Full-Scale Search

Garrett County Sheriff M.Van Evans said Wednesday that a "full-scale search" is currently underway by all the investigating agencies involved in the case which include the FBI, Grant and Garrett county sheriff's departments and West Virginia and Maryland state police.

Evans said that all investigating agencies have begun looking for old mine pits which he feels may have been a deposit site for the body of Cathy Ford.

The sheriff said they are combing the areas surrounding Gorman, Gormania, Mount Storm and Bayard. Many volunteers, including Cathy Ford's family and friends, continue to search the area also for any clues in the perplexing case.

Gov. Schaefer Speaks Out

Let's Make Our Colleges Number One

by Governor William Donald Schaefer

Perhaps the most-debated topic before the legislature right now is a plan to "restructure higher education governance." I cannot think of a duller-sounding topic that is more important to all of us.

What's really going on here? What are we trying to do, and what does it mean to you? What will "the restructuring of higher education" mean to the citizens of Maryland?

Those are my first questions and probably yours. It is not nearly as complicated — or as dull — as it sounds. In fact, I think this is one of the most important — and one of the most exciting — opportunities we have had since the election.

We have the chance to move Maryland's colleges and universities to the top rank of higher education systems in the United States. It is that simple. And that is why this proposal is so important to each of us, and to the state of Maryland. Better education means better jobs. A stronger educational system means more opportunities for you and your children.

Some people have said to me, "Why are you so anxious to change things? We have a good educational system now." I did not just wake up one morning and decide that we had to remake higher education in Maryland. Many of our best thinkers and leaders have been concerned that our schools are not the best we can make them. They worry that Maryland's universities and colleges are not ranked among the best even though the state is clearly one of the country's best. Just two years ago, this concern prompted both houses of the General Assembly to pass resolutions asking the governor to analyze the administration of state colleges and universities.

We have found that there are many very good colleges and universities in Maryland, but, overall, we cannot say that we have an excellent system. No Maryland public college is consistently recognized as among the very best in the nation. And they should be.

That's where the governance part comes in. Improving our colleges begins with improving the way we run them. We must make them more efficient. We must give them better leadership. We must reduce the duplication and waste that mark many of the programs we now have in place. Before we allocate more money for our schools, we must create a system to get the most for our schools, we must create a system to get the most for that money, a system that is accountable to the citizens and the taxpayers of the state. That is why we have started with how the schools are governed.

As a beginning, our proposal would make two significant changes in the state's higher education system. First, it would create a new coordinating board, the Maryland Higher Education Commission, to examine the higher education needs of the entire state and to help plan the programs of all our schools, both public and private. This would result in better planning and less duplication, and it would strengthen the overall program at every school. It would give us the tools to do a better job in meeting the individual needs of every school and thus, of every citizen.

Second, our proposal would bring together the five campuses of the University of Maryland with the six schools currently under the Board of Trustees of State Universities and Colleges to form a new University of Maryland system. We have too many different boards and offices running our schools. This way we would have one system of eleven schools. Two state schools, Morgan State University and St. Mary's College, would retain their independent status. Each of these schools has a very unique history and tradition.

We recognize that excellence also requires increased funding, so we have proposed the largest funding increases for higher education in the state's history.

We are asking for an increase of $63.5 million to fund new scholarships, to repair and construct facilities and to establish new programs and centers. Significantly, we are also asking for a large increase for community colleges. I am committed to a strong community system and this is an important part of our overall plan for higher education in the state.

Dull? No way, unless you regard a bright future as dull. It is Maryland moving forward — gaining that special momentum I am always talking about. We cannot afford to miss this opportunity. We owe it to our future and to the future of all those who come behind us.

As always, I look forward to hearing from you. Write to me: Governor William Donald Schaefer, State House, Annapolis MD 21404.

second-reader vote Tuesday.

Several parole and restitution bills, SB-545,546,547, and 548, along with Sen. Bambacus' Domestic Violence, Warrantless Arrest bill, SB-817, were heard by the Judicial Proceedings Committee. All were given a favorable report by that committee, however, some were amended. All of the bills passed a second-reader vote on the Senate floor Tuesday or Wednesday, and the Warrantless Arrest bill is scheduled for its third-reader vote today.

HB-859, co-sponsored by Del. Edwards, passed the House. This bill would increase from $6.45 to $8 the per capita dollar amount that is required for fiscal year 1989 for each county public library system that participates in the minimum library program of the state, and provides a percentage means of calculating the per capita dollar amount for fiscal year 1990 and each subsequent year, thus providing additional library funds.

HB-126, a bill that would require the Commission on Indian Affairs to identify tribes indigenous to Maryland in 1790, passed its third reader in the House yesterday, while a similar Senate bill has passed out of committee and is awaiting a full-floor vote. The Indian recognition bill has been under consideration for two legislative sessions, and if passed and signed by the governor, will recognize tribes and qualify American Indians indigenous to the state for minority status. Del. Edwards is a co-sponsor of the House bill.

upon payment of an amount estimated by the unit to be the fair value of the property, subject to subsequent additional payments awarded by a jury.

"That was a very threatening bill for Garrett County," said Groves.

Senate Bill No. 405

In a letter to the Senate budget and taxation committee last week, the commissioners expressed their opposition of Senate Bill No. 405.

That bill, introduced by Senator Edward J. Kasemeyer of Howard and Montgomery counties, would increase from $20,000 to $40,000 the amount of the exemption from the state transfer tax for the consideration payable for an instrument of writing for residentially improved owner-occupied real property.

The commissioners's letter stated, "The bill as proposed is usurping local county governments' authority by mandating certain exemptions on transfer and recording taxes. Garrett County already has a limited tax base. Our assessible base only generates approximately $38,000 per penny value. If these amendments are adopted as proposed, it would severely impact our financial picture and would certainly prompt a real estate tax increase to compensate for the loss of revenue."

Commissioner Groves compared it to "signing a blank check."

Red Cross Month Is Proclaimed. Local Chapter Seeking Donations

In recognition of March as National Red Cross Month, the Garrett County Chapter of the Red Cross has placed a display in the main office of the Ruth Enlow Library, Oakland, and is presently conducting a fund-raising campaign by mail.

The library display provides information about all of the services provided by the Garrett County Chapter, including the blood donor program, assistance to active military personnel and their families, first aid and water safety instruction, disaster assistance, and health service.

According to Norma Hesen, local chairman, the Garrett County Chapter is one of the few remaining all-volunteer chapters in the Rolling Hills Territory, which consists of Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia and Maryland. Most of the other chapters are supported by the United Way, while the Garrett County Chapter relies solely on donations from individuals and businesses.

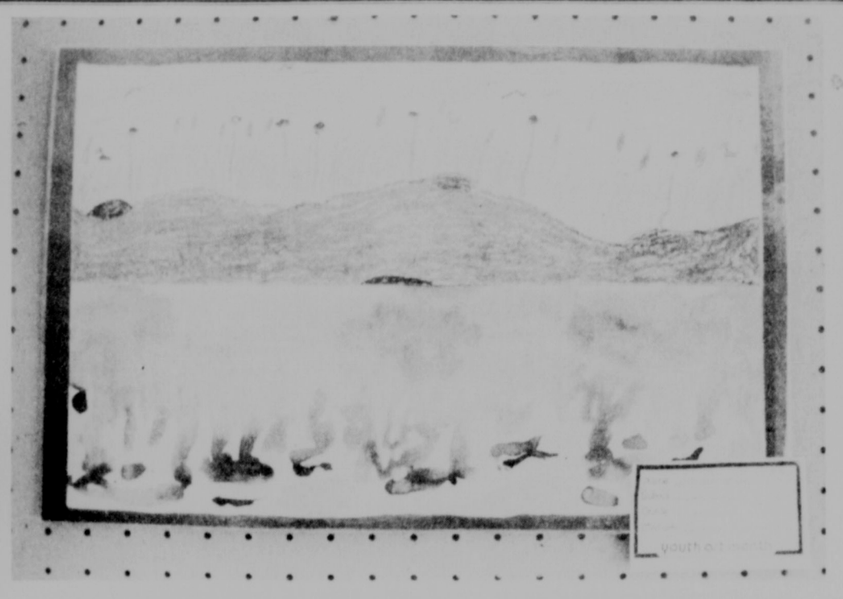

Mrs. Hesen said that persons wishing to make a donation to the Garrett County Chapter may do so by sending their tax-deductible checks to Garrett County American Red Cross, Rt. 5, Box 38, Oakland, MD 21550 and request that the donations be used for national or local purposes.

Specific local uses noted by Mrs. Hesen were: $10 will send eight emergency messages from families of military personnel worldwide; $50 will assist in chapter classes for three different first aid levels, CPR, and blood mobiles; $200 will cover the cost of training water safety and swimming instructors; and $375 will buy one resuscitation training manikin for teaching CPR.

Mrs. Hesen also noted that May 8 will the be the 125th worldwide Red Cross Day. That date is selected because it is the birthday of Henri Dunant, the Swiss humanitarian responsible for the founding of this organization.

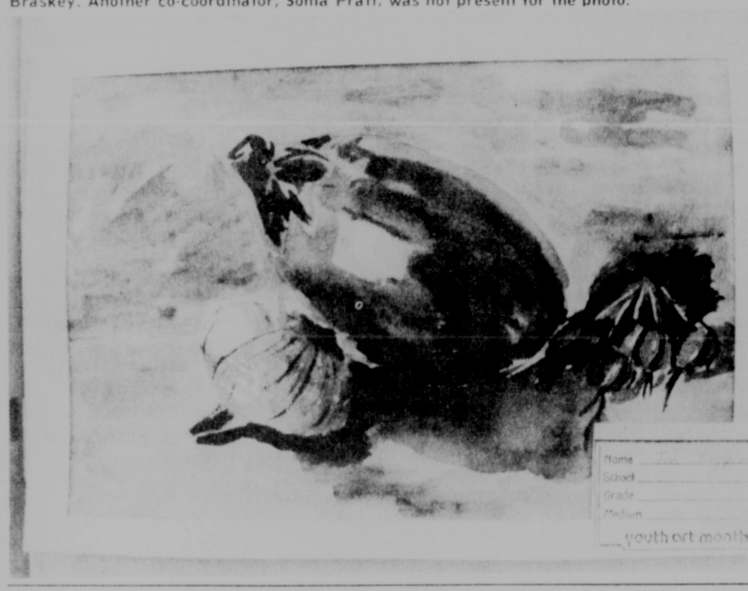

YOUTH ART MONTH PROCLAIMED — The Board of Garrett County Commissioners last week proclaimed March as Youth Art Month in Garrett County in connection with national Youth Art Month. In the proclamation, the commissioners cited children as our most precious asset and noted the importance of art in education to develop well-rounded children. Youth Art Month serves as an advocacy program developed to demonstrate art programs and their importance in education. The observance was established in March of 1961 and has since been sponsored by The Crayon, Watercolor and Craft Institute, Inc., a non-profit association of manufacturers of quality children's art materials. It is co-sponsored by the National Art Education Association and the National Parent Teachers Association. Youth Art Month co-cordinators, Frances C. Kenna-Schenk, left, and Marcette Danner, are shown above with Commissioners Ernest Gregg Jr., Elwood Groves II and John G. Braskey. Another co-coordinator, Sonia Pratt, was not present for the photo.

Energy Assistance Announces Closing

Community Action reminds residents that March 31 is the last day for families to apply for energy assistance. The Energy Assistance program provides grants to help eligible families with their heating costs.

Any Garrett County family that has not received a grant since October 1987 may apply for this money. Income guideline information is available from the Energy Assistance Department at Garrett County Community Action by calling 334-9431.

Applications For Preservation Funds Being Accepted

The Maryland Historical Trust, an agency of the Department of Housing and Community Development, is now accepting applications for 1989 (Fiscal Year 1990) State Capital Grant funds for historic preservation projects. The application deadline is May 1, 1988, and grant funds will be available after July 1, 1989.

Grant funds may be used for acquisition or capital improvements to all categories of historic properties. Local governments, non-profit corporations and foundations, and individuals may apply but may be subject to matching requirements. While applications for assistance to properties owned by individuals or business entities are accepted, the Open Project Selection criteria discourage their selection unless they are of outstanding architectural or historical significance.

Projects for which funds are sought must either be listed in or eligible for listing in the Maryland Register of Historic Properties. Grant recipients must agree to convey a perpetual easement to the Trust in exchange for the grant funds. The average grant is $30,000.

Monica Mally And James Fries Are United In February Ceremony

The marriage of Monica Renee Mally and James William Fries took place on February 27, at the Loch Lynn Church of God. The Rev. Robert Fletcher officiated. Jody Welch was the organist and soloist, singing "You Light Up My Life," and "I Pledge My Love To You."

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Jacquline Crawley of Baltimore and Robert Crawley of Shelby, North Carolina. The groom is the son of James Henry Fries, Oakland.

Escorted to the altar by her brother, Steve Crawley, the bride wore a taffeta gown with Venise lace. Sequins and pearls accented the stand-up neckline and close-fitting bodice. Sheer Illusion net front yoke and Elizabethen sleeves with a flattering basque waist fell into a lace-accented full skirt extending into a sweeping chapel-length train.

The bride wore a heart-shaped headpiece made of a taffeta wrapped V-shaped band trimmed with daisy patterned Venise lace, decending into a pearldrop nylon net pouff and nylon fingertip-length veil.

Terry Atkinson, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Rose Fries, sister of the groom; Barb Fulk, friend of the bride; and Delaina Dahl, niece of the bride. Crystal Zorn, niece of the bride, was a junior bridesmaid, and Christina Crawley, another niece of the bride, was the flowergirl.

The maid of honor and the bridesmaids wore wine colored gowns of raschel lace over satin, with bateau necklines, V-backs, close fitting bodices, dropped basque waists and puffed sleeves. The junior bridesmaid wore a long white gown with Chantilly lace. The flowergirl also wore a long white gown, white hat and carried a white basket with white and wine colored roses. The bridesmaids carried bouquets of white and wine colored roses adorned with baby's breath.

Randy Sweitzer served as best man. Ushers were Doug Hardesty and Brian Sanders, friends of the groom, and Jimmy Brown, nephew of the groom. The groom wore an all white tuxedo with tails. The groomsmen wore white tuxedos with wine colored ties and cummerbunds and a pink rose.

A reception was held at the Will O'the Wisp on Deep Creek Lake, with music provided by Disc Jockey Freddie Stoner.

The couple now resides in Oakland.

Efforts Underway To Organize Ostomy Group

Efforts are underway in Garrett County to organize a local chapter of the United Ostomy Association.

According to Linda Higgins, a registered nurse at the Garrett County Health Department, an ostomate is a person who has had specific types of surgery, leaving them with an altered method of bowel or urinary function, such as through a stoma or opening in the abdomen. Although such procedures give many persons a new lease on life, ostomates and members of their families face many adjustments in daily routines following surgery, creating a need for support among ostomates and family members.

The first ostomy association was created in 1949 when five ostomates met together to share their knowledge and experiences and try to improve techniques and equipment, Ms. Higgins said. There are now over 747 chapters and satellites of the UOA in North America, making it the second largest self-help group in the nation.

To be able to begin meetings, Ms. Higgins and Helen Heath, R.N., are seeking information as to how many local persons would be interested in forming a chapter to serve Garrett County and surrounding areas of West Virginia and Pennsylvania. To provide such information, or to ask questions about the organization, persons may contact Ms. Higgins or Ms. Heath at 334-8111 or 895-3111. Persons may leave a message if they are unavailable at the time.

THE MT. ANTHEMS MIXED CHORUS will perform Sunday, March 27, at 7:30 p.m. at the Oakland Church of the Nazarene on Eighth Street. The 35-member group is directed by Menno Beachy of Salisbury, Pa. The group has performed in 21 states, the District of Columbia and Canada. Rev. Jonathan Cramer, pastor of the Oakland church, invites everyone to attend the performance.

Butscher To Be Sixth District Delegate To GOP

Brenda J. Butscher, Oakland, along with Raymond Beck, Carroll County, and Donald F. Munson, Washington County, will be among the delegation representing the Sixth Congressional District at the Republican National Convention this summer in Atlanta, Ga. The three are all George Bush delegates to the GOP convention.

Beck and Murson are members of the Maryland General Assembly. Butcher is vice chairperson of the Garrett County Republican Central Committee. Ths will be the fifth time that Butscher will serve as a delegate to a GOP national convertion.

On March 26 the state party will select 17 at-large delegates.

Local votes also elected seven Sixth Dstrict Democrats who will attend their political party's convention as delegates committed to presidential candidate Michael Dukakis.

The delegation includes Mary Jane Stakem and James F. Combs, both of Cumberland; Karen Blood, Frederick County; Ellen Willis, Carroll County; Darleen Strock, Washington County; and Frederick H. Hoover Jr., Washington County.

Stakem is a state welfare investigator and member of the Allegany County Democratic Central Committee. She collected the second highest number of votes among the female delegate candidates.

Combs is president of the Cumberland-Hagerstown Building Trades Council and is business representative for Local 307 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

A final tally of absentee ballots has not yet been completed and it's therefore unclear whether Willis or Strock will be a delegate and alternate or an alternate and delegate. The others will be full delegates.

The Maryland Democratic Party will meet May 17 to appoint 23 delegates and eight alternates.

John Willis, vice chairman of the state Democratic Party, said the delegates will most likely be selected from the uncommitted delegate candidates as well as candidates for Dukakis and Jackson. Only those candidates collecting at least 15 percent of the delegate vote can be selected as an uncommitted delegate, according to party rules.

Sheriff's Dept. Probes Thefts

The Garrett County Sheriff's Department is investigating three cases of theft reported to them recently.

The Sherman L. Friend residence in Swanton was the scene of a breaking and entering and theft over the winter months resulting in a loss of over $6,700. The theft allegedly occurred while Friend was vacationing in Florida. Taken from the residence were numerous pieces of furniture, appliances, household items and tools. Assistant Chief Deputy P.J. Pratt is investigating.

Friends Electronics Unlimited was also the scene of a breaking and entering and theft between March 10 and March 15, according to Larry F. Friend, owner.

Over $1,900 worth of televisions, stereo systems and video cassette recorders were taken from that establishment. Chief Deputy Harland Tichnell is heading the investigation.

An Oakland man also reported a theft to the Sheriff's Department last week.

Kenneth W. Pavol told police he was transporting a new loveseat he had purchased in LaVale to his home last Thursday when his vehicle became disabled on U.S. Route 48 at the Finzel exit. He said he went for assistance and when he returned to his vehicle, the blue loveseat, valued at $300 was missing.

Deadline For Creative Writing Contest Monday

The local Area Agency on Aging is urging all Garrett Countians aged 60 and over that there is still time to write about "Why Maryland Is Beautiful To Me" in the 1988 Senior Citizens Creative Writing Contest sponsored by Governor William Donald Schaefer, the Maryland You Are Beautiful Program and the Maryland Office on Aging.

"Many people may have been putting off writing before, and now the March 28 deadline for receipt of entries is just around the corner," said Nancy Abrams, Maryland Office on Aging director. "This is the perfect time to sit down, either at home or with friends at a senior center writing party and put on paper some of those good memories about life in Maryland."

According to Mrs. Floraine Applefeld, director of the "Maryland You Are Beautiful Program" response to the contest has been good. "County coordinators around the state are telling us that people are calling for information about the contest, and that enthusiasm is high. We are encourging everyone, even people who think they can't write, to enter this contest. We are not looking for professionals, but for people who have a love for Maryland and want to share it with others," Mrs. Applefeld said. "All it takes is a pen, some paper, a stamp, and a few minutes to share your thoughts on "Why Maryland Is Beautiful To Me". You may want to have someone actually write down your thoughts for you. But whatever method you choose don't forget that entries must be received by Monday, March 28, for consideration. There is still time to enter and win."

Guidelines for entering the "Why Maryland Is Beautiful To Me" Senior Citizen Creative Writing Contest are: writer must be age 60 or over; must be a resident of the county where entry is submitted; one entry per person; one 8½x11 page, single-spaced, typewritten or printed; mail entry to contest coordinator, Ms. Anita Beeman, Area Agency on Aging, P.O. Box 449, Oakland, Maryland 21550. (phone 334-9431).

All entrants will receive a personalized certificate from their county, and each county winner will receive a gift from Governor Schaefer at a special reception in the Governor's Mansion on May 24. Entries will be judged by a panel of professionals, and winners will be notified by mail.

SPECIAL EASTER CONCERT — The Deep Creek Baptist Church invites the area public to an Easter season evening of sacred music. The church choir, consisting of sopranos Ruth Fike, Patty Croston, Donna Harvey, and Donna Wagner; bass baritones Paul Perrine, Earl Savage, and Don Wilson, and the church pastor, under the direction of Karen Otto, will present a variety of sacred selections highlighting the Easter theme. The concert will be presented April 1 (Good Friday), at 7:30 p.m. There is no admission fee and persons are invited to come comfortably attired. The choir will sing eight selections ranging from the popular "Because He Lives" to the anthem, "Hosanna, Loud, Hosanna." There will be quartets, duets, and solos as well. The church is located along U.S. Rt. 219 about eight miles north of Oakland, next to the Garrett National Bank Branch.

Rams To Open Season Today With Only One Starter From Last Year

Although the Southern High School varsity baseball team is coming off a 16-3 record and a number one ranking in area standings last season, Coach Jim Bosley will have only two fulltime starters from that squad returning this year, and one of them continues to be sidelined with an injury sustained during basketball season.

This situation, combined with the fact that the Rams are facing one of their toughest schedules ever, should mean that they are going to have a difficult time winning many games this year. Yet, Coach Bosley sports one of the winningest programs not only in the history of Southern High School, but also in the entire region. His success, plus considerable talent emerging from last year's bench and junior varsity team could well result in another excellent season for the Rams.

Seniors Bo Butler and J.R. Bosley, who have already generated interest from West Virginia University, Frostburg State, Davis & Elkins, and Marietta, Ohio, are expected to lead the Rams' effort this year, although Bosley will be on the sidelines for at least the first four games while his broken wrist from the February 5 Northern basketball game continues to heal.

Butler, Bosley, Bob Bernard and Jamie Colaw are expected to fill four of the nine starting positions, as all four played American Legion baseball this past summer for Garrett Legion Post in the tough Mt District.

Bosley was the Rams' fourth-leading hitter last year with a .358 average, and led the team with 22 runs scored, 21 runs batted in and 10 stolen bases. The center fielder, who has one of the area's strongest arms, will also be Southern's number two pitcher this year.

Butler was the Rams' top pitcher and one of the area's best in 1987. The lefthander drew Southern's stiffest competition and posted a 3-2 record, striking out 65 batters in only 44 innings, and posting a 2.17 earned run average. Two of his wins came against Allegany (2-1, 15 strikeouts) and Valley (6-5, 15 strikeouts). Butler hit .395, and will play in the outfield when he is not pitching.

Others who will most likely fill starting roles are Shawn Nesselrodt, who is coming off a successful Senior Division season, and the following members of the 10-2 1987 jayvee team: Shawn Craver, Brent Sanders, Dave Upole, Marshall Pike, Zack Gibson, Scott Watson, Charlie Paugh, Bob Horner, and Nesselrodt.

Rounding out the roster are players who saw limited action last year on varsity, including Scott Damon, Jason Park, Mike Householder, and Dave Nesselrodt, all of whom are performing well in early practices, according to Bosley.

"As one can see, there is little high school varsity experience on our team, but plenty of other experience," Bosley said, which will be needed as the Rams face teams such as Elkins, winners of 60 games in eight years and with nearly every starter back from last season's 20-game winning squad.

Other foes Bosley believes will be among the best in the area include Frankfort, which placed five players on the Cumberland Legion team that finished second in the state last year; Keyser, which is averaging 20 wins per season over the past four years; Northern, a top contender for the Region I Class C title; the Petersburg Vikings, who won the West Virginia State title two years ago, rebuilt last year, and are primed to win the state championship again; always-strong Berkeley Springs, a team which Southern has swept only one time in a doubleheader; and Bishop Walsh, which has a new coach this year who is expected to upgrade the Spartans' program.

The 1987 Rams' team was the only Southern sports team ever to be ranked number one in the final poll of the Cumberland Times/News, and two years ago, the Rams won the Region I crown and made it to the state semi-finals.

"Pitching and defense will be our mainstays this year," Bosley said. "Plus we have good speed, which we hope will pick up the slack on our offense."

The Rams are slated to open their campaign this afternoon at Petersburg. They will travel to Valley for a 5 p.m. game on Monday and then participate in the Keyser Easter Tournament April 1-2.

Club shirts were awarded to the 1988 Maryland State Qualifying Team. The team members are Tony Slovak, Karl Hamrick, Steven Friend, Bill Deckman, Bob Nestor, Bill Teter, Jimmy Iden and Anthony Hamrick.

Deckman was recognized for making the 1987 State Maryland Team that fished in the Eastern Divisional held at Raystown, Pa.

Teter was recognized for making the 1988 Maryland State Team, which will be fishing in the Eastern Regional Tournament in the Ohio River. Tom Meadow also qualified to fish in the tournament.

The guest speaker was Ken Pavol, State DNR biologist, who commended the club for stocking 2,800 large mouth bass and 300 small mouth bass in 1987 in Deep Creek Lake. A total of 29,000 bass has been stocked by the club in the last four years.

Pavol noted that the small mouths were introduced in the Yough River in 1984 are spawning and doing well.

Tony Slovak, chairman, reported on the results of the 1987 tournaments. The club caught 123 large mouths and 242 small mouths. Of this total, 359 were returned to tournament waters.

The club started its 1988 tournament season March 20. Only two anglers braved the 25° degree weather and heavy snow at Mt. Storm Lake, where Dave Friend won first place with Dave Thayer finishing second.

Hunting Season And Bag Limit Proposals Noted

The Forest, Park and Wildlife Service of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources has announced proposed 1988-89 hunting and trapping seasons, bag limits, and regulations for Upland Game, Forest Game and Furbearers.

"This year's proposals reflect an attempt to increase hunter participation and opportunities, while carefully maintaining the biological integrity of wild populations," said Agency Director, Donald E. MacLauchlan.

"The state wildlife agency encourages all interested persons to attend the upcoming public hearings. Public participation in the way we determine regulations, seasons and bag limits for game is critical. Evenings are scheduled around Maryland in early April to give state officials and the public a special chance to exchange views. Staff presentations, followed by open dialogue, provide biologists with a forum for plans and progress reports. Likewise, people in the audience ask questions, usually about hunting and trapping but covering a broad range of topics. Feedback from the community, and suggestions, are the most important tools of responsive government. In this case, deliberately, every spring, we address hunting and trapping in the state and supply information to sportsmen and women who pay — with taxes, license, stamp and permit fees — for most Maryland wildlife programs," he said.

Proposed changes and additions to 1988-89 regulations include:

Turkey: Rifles are banned for turkey hunting in the fall. Handguns are prohibited to hunt bearded turkeys.

Lakers Crush Germantown, Edged By Anne Arundel, Split With Chesapeake

After opening with a dismal 1-9 record, the Garrett Community College Lakers played .500 ball this past week by rolling over host Montgomery-Germantown last Thursday, 16-0; being nipped by Anne Arundel Community College on Friday, 1-0; and splitting a doubleheader on Saturday at Chesapeake Community College, winning the first game, 8-3, and dropping the nightcap, 6-5.

A doubleheader at Catonsville Community College slated for Sunday and another twinbill set for Monday at Boyce Campus had to be cancelled because of inclement weather. The Lakers are scheduled to travel to CCAC-North in Pittsburgh for a doubleheader this Saturday, move on to Montgomery-Rockville for two games on Sunday, and play a pair at Marietta College (jayvees) next Thursday.

Much of the credit for the Lakers' big win over Germantown last Thursday was awarded to pitcher Jeff McIntyre, who struck out 14 batters, walked only two, and gave up just two hits, while his teammates recorded 14 hits and 11 steals.

Garrett wasted no time scoring, as Dwayne Hedrick led off the first inning with a triple and scored on a grounder by Eric Watts. Kyle Martz then reached on an error and scored on a triple by Darryl Dupert. Jay Baker followed with a walk, Joey Allen singled home Dupert, and Baker scored as Allen was picked off at first to give the Lakers a 4-0 lead.

Hedrick scored again in the second inning when he walked, stole second and third, and came home on a single by Watts.

The Lakers added three more runs in the third frame, as Mike Campbell walked, stole second, and scored on a single by Allen. Pat Estes followed with a walk and Warren Hook rapped a single to plate Allen. Hedrick followed with a single that scored Estes, to give the Lakers an 8-0 advantage.

Martz led off the fourth inning with a single and stole second. Dupert then reached on an error that allowed Martz to score. Campbell reached on a fielder's choice, stole second and scored on a single by Baker.

After a scoreless fifth inning, the Laker onslaught continued in the sixth and seventh frames as they scored two and four more runs, respectively.

Dupert finished with two singles and a triple and also scored three runs, while Hedrick had two runs, a single and a triple. Baker had two singles and two RBIs and Allen, Watts and Estes each finished with a pair of RBIs.

Although the Lakers matched Anne Arundel in hitting (5-5) on Friday, an unearned run by their opponents in the top of the sixth resulted in Garrett's 10th defeat of the season.

Joey Allen pitched well for the Lakers, striking out seven batters and walking just two, but his counterpart, Harry Hebb, recorded back-to-back strikeouts in the bottom of the ninth with runners on second and third to halt a Laker rally and win the game.

The only run of the contest came when Randy Randazzo reached on an error to lead off the sixth inning, Steve Seiver smacked a single, and Joe Harding followed with a single to right field. The third base coach held Randazzo at third, but waived him home when the right fielder bobbled the ball.

Besides stranding two runners in the ninth, the Lakers did so in the second and fourth innings as well. Two-out doubles by Jay Baker and Kyle Martz in the seventh and eighth frames, respectively, were also for naught.

Garrett's attempted rally in the ninth began with a lead-off single by Mike Campbell, a perfect bunt by Pat Estes, and a sacrifice bunt by Kurt Engle which advanced Campbell and Estes. Hebb fanned the next two batters to preserve the win for the Pioneers.

A pair of home runs by Campbell, coupled with a no-hitter going into the sixth inning by Kyle Martz, highlighted the Lakers' 8-3 win in the opener against Chesapeake on Saturday.

Garrett scored a pair of runs in the second inning, as Bill Cassella recorded an RBI single and Jay Baker rapped a run-scoring double.

The Lakers added another run in the third when Scott Lohr singled and came home from second base on a fielder's choice.

Campbell, who finished four-for-four, smacked solo homers in the fourth and sixth innings to give Garrett a 5-0 advantage.

Southern Middle Team Captures Tourney Title

A 27-point performance by Brett Rice highlighted a 57-48 win for the Southern Middle School team over Simpson's Auto Supply (Keyser) in the championship game of the George's Creek Athletic Association Seventh and Eighth Grade Tournament Friday at Valley High School.

Meanwhile, Northern Middle School crushed Bruce, 62-38, to capture the third place trophy, as Northern's John Houser finished with 65 points in three games.

Rice was named the Most Valuable Player of the championship game, while Houser was awarded Most Outstanding Player honors and the most points award.

Winning fifth place was Washington Middle School, who edged Fort Ashby, 43-41.

Fort Ashby received the Team Sportsmanship trophy.

Named to the All-Tournament First Team, along with Rice and Houser, were Britton Martin, also of Southern Middle; Rusty Wilson and Jay Twyman, both of Simpson's Auto.

Second Team All-Tourney selections were: Lamon Thomas of Northern Middle; Todd McMahon, Bruce; Bobby Shanholtz, Fort Ashby, Tim Hammontree, Jim Hatcher, and Chris Coleman, all of Simpson's.

The Southern Middle team is sponsored by Garrett Construction Company.

Correction Noted

It was reported incorrectly in The Republican last week concerning the Mt. Top Basketball League championships that Martin's had won eight of the last 10 league titles. In fact, Martin's has won seven of the last 10 championships, while Liller's Sports Equipment has won three of the last five.

The 14,000 fresh-cut daffodils were distributed throughout the county by Patti Batista, Eric Paugh, Nancy Pagenhardt, Jan Shaffer, Sharon Schwalm, Patsy Stewart, Sue Sines, Sherry Gosnell, Marsha SanJulian, Shirley Panther and Nancy Railey.

NEWBORNS RECEIVE GIFT FROM SCOUTS — As part of the celebration of the 76th anniversary of Girl Scouting in America, Oakland area scouts donated bibs to the Garrett County Memorial Hospital, one of which was to be given to each baby girl born during Girl Scout Week. On the bibs are a sketch of a small girl, plus the words "Future Girl Scout." Local scout leaders define the goals of the Girl Scout program as developing self-potential and values, and teaching young girls how to relate to others and contribute to society. Pictured left to right, front row, are Lorrie Filsinger, Stephanie Filsinger, Diana Hetrick, Kerri Tressler, and Lisa Wolford. In the second row, same order, are Heidi Savage, Melanie Ellis, Jessica Yost, Jennifer Wolford, and Melanie McCloud.

Correction Noted

It was stated in an obituary in last week's issue of The Republican that James B. Knotts, Aurora, W.Va., who died March 14, had two grandchildren and three stepchildren.

The article should have read that he had three stepgrandchildren instead of stepchildren. We regret the error.

Interim Library Director Encourages Communication Via Computers

by Joan Sussman

Linking GCC's library with its classrooms is a major goal of Jim Stevenson, who is spending six months as director of GCC's library while on sabbatical leave from Frostburg State University, where he is a member of the library staff.

"Computers are the newest educational tool to support the teaching function," Stevenson said. "A lot of the library's work is tutorial — helping students access the information they need to succeed in the classroom — and the computer, because it is infinitely patient, lends itself perfectly to the tutorial framework."

In recent weeks, an Apple 2 GS microcomputer, one of 20 donated to GCC by Potomac Edison last year, has occupied a prominent place just inside the library entrance. Stevenson and members of the GCC Library staff have encouraged and assisted library users to try out one of the many programs made available from the FSU collection.

"Many library users have never been face to face with a computer, and the Apple GS 2 is a super choice of educational microcomputer because it is extremely easy to use, even entertaining. Its color and graphics are attention-grabbing and appealing to non-computer types," Stevenson observed.

Much of the available software from Frostburg was a gift from Potomac Edison to Frostburg several years ago. A wide variety of subjects are available in the Apple software, including tutorials in mathematics, language arts, sciences, and business. Business programs are available for calculating profit and loss, utilizing spreadsheets, and performing costing functions, among others. Stevenson plans to work with the GCC faculty to determine which types of programs can enhance their educational effectiveness.

An IBM computer with 640K memory capability has also recently been added to the library. "This kind of computer is excellent for business use. Area business persons are welcome to come in and check out the IBM program at any time," Stevenson said.

Besides encouraging the use of computers in the educational setting, Stevenson is focusing on upgrading the library's audio-visual collection, weeding out outdated titles and establishing priorities for future acquisition, once again with extensive faculty involvement to ensure that the school's educational mission is supported.

Library promotion has always been a top priority for Stevenson who co-coordinates the popular Maryland Author series at FSU. In recent years, the series has brought a number of successful children's authors and illustrators to Frostburg to present seminars to the general and university communities.

In April, Mary Hanes, a noted children's author, will talk about her writing and publishing experiences at FSU and Garrett Community College as part of that series. "We hope to have students from Garrett County's middle schools participate, as well as any interested members of the public," according to Stevenson.

"My time at Garrett has been a real pleasure so far," Stevenson said. GCC has a very nice library for a small school. "The reference section especially is well-rounded, and there is a wide selection of periodical titles available. But the GCC library's greatest asset is its super staff. They are exemplary in capability, skill level, and especially attitude."

Stevenson, who will return to his position as Media Librarian at Frostburg in July, is a graduate of ACC and Frostburg State. He received his master of library science degree in 1970 from the University of Pittsburgh, and a master of science in management degree from Frostburg in 1981.

He began his career in librarianship by serving as the K-12 librarian for the Salisbury, Pa. school district from 1967 to 1975, when he joined the Frostburg State library as special materials cataloger. He was promoted to head the media department in 1983.

His notable career achievements include creating a review and evaluation center for K-12 software to support university teacher education students and local educators, garnering grant support from RESA and Potomac Edison to establish a circulating software collection, providing storytelling field experience for education students, directing a regional libraries project to create and produce audio-visual programs for use in higher education, coordinating a regional workshop on the use of audio-visual materials for librarians, and planning, developing and implementing a new elementary school library.

Stevenson is married to the former Jessie Ann Cummings of Frostburg, and has one daughter, Julie Ann. He currently resides in Frostburg.

"ON LOAN" — Jim Stevenson, who is currently serving as Garrett Community College's full-time interim director of the library as the result of a loan from Frostburg State University, is in the process of linking GCC's library with its classrooms via computers. Stevenson was granted a sabbatical leave by FSU as part of a program of reciprocation by the two institutions.

GETTING READY to approach a bear's den includes the careful loading of a tranquilizer gun, which is used to anesthesize the mother bear so she and her cubs can be handled safely. Below, wildlife personnel use a radio receiver to pinpoint the location of the sow, who was equipped many months earlier with a radio transmitter collar.

A NEW COLLAR which contains a radio transmitter was applied to this mother bear named Robin while she slept peacefully with the aid of anesthesia. Various biological data is also recorded by the bear experts, which is used to follow the progress and identify problems with the local bear population. Weight, length, size of teeth, and paw measurement, demonstrated in the photo below, are among the data which are recorded. The researchers have about one hour to perform the work before the effects of the tranquilizer begin to wear off.

Yes, There Really Is B'ar In Them Thar Hills!

Besides the arrival of six babies this week at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, there were nine other newborns discovered last week in the county, to the delight of local wildlife personnel.

Three sets of three bear cubs each received ear tags this week, while their tranquilized mothers were equipped with new radio transmitter collars so wildlife officials can continue to monitor their whereabouts and activities.

However, tragedy struck on Thursday when one of the sows, named Hazel, who was in a den on Negro Mountain near Bittinger, failed to recover from the anesthesia. Despite life-saving procedures performed by wildlife experts, including mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, she did not survive.

In checking and re-checking the dosage of the anesthesia, it was discovered that all was as it should be and that Hazel should have recovered.

"Once in a while something like this happens," said one bear expert. "There is always a slight risk with anesthesia, just like their is with human beings."

After an autopsy of the animal, it was discovered that she had a variety of weaknesses and abnormalities that probably contributed to or caused her death.

Hazel's three orphaned cubs were quickly relocated with another sow presently caring for her own three offspring about 10 miles away. Dubbed Mabel, the 265-pound bruin has accepted the newcomers and wildlife experts are confident that she will have no problem raising them. The average litter contains five cubs anyway and the sows are equipped with six mammaries.

About the only procedure necessary to cause the surrogate mother and her own cubs to accept the orphaned cubs is rubbing petroleum jelly on their noses, which sheilds the scents for a few days and causes all to forget the once familiar and specific scent.

"Plus, our research shows that bears are smart, but they can't count very well," stated one expert.

The third set of cubs and their mother, Robin, were located in a den on the property of John Opel near Bittinger and, on Friday, various members of the media were invited to witness and participate in the work, as is evidenced by the photos on this page.

Among the other media represented, besides The Republican, were the Frostburg Journal, the Baltimore Sun, Associated Press, and a Baltimore television station.

A team of wildlife personnel cautiously approached the den, which measured about two feet high and 14 feet long, with two entrances. Their first attempt to tranquilize Robin inside the den failed, as she whirled around and slapped the eight-foot pole to which the dose of anesthesia was attached, destroying the unit. A tranquilizing gun was then used successfully, resulting in a deep sleep that lasted approximately one hour.

Once Robin was completely under the effect of the anesthesia, the three cubs were removed from the den, passed around to the various onlookers, and then given ear tags for future identification. A new radio collar was placed on Robin and a variety of physical measurements recorded. Her weight was 165 pounds, somewhat below average.

Boric acid was placed in the eyes of Robin so they would not dry out during the work and, once again, petroleum jelly was rubbed on the noses of all four bears to remove the human scent. All four were then placed back in the den.

The purpose of inviting the media to witness and participate in the project, according to Al Bourgeois, district wildlife manager, and biologists Tom Matthews and John Mash, was not only to show appreciation for the past support of the bear project by the media, but also to give the opportunity for the media to gain more knowledge that can be passed on to the general public.

Mash stated that the black bear is still often thought of as a savage, dangerous animal, "thanks to fairy tales and misunderstanding," but in reality, the animal is basically docile and will run away from humans rather than attack them.

He said that Pennsylvania and the Western Maryland region are the best black bear habitats in the country because of an ample food supply and relatively mild winters, compared to those in the west and mid west.

"Consequently, we have the healthiest black bears in the world here. It's just that their numbers dropped dangerously low in recent years because of indiscriminate killing and overhunting, and we are trying to revive the population," he said.

The Pennsylvania black bear population was estimated to be as low as 3,000 10 years ago, but because of the revival project, the population is now thought to be over 9,000.

There is a closed hunting season on bears in Maryland and indiscriminate killing of the animal draws heavy fines.

IT WAS MEDIA DAY on Friday, as Maryland Forest, Park and Wildlife Service personnel invited representatives of various local and regional media to accompany them on a bear outing last Friday. As expected, the highlight of the excursion was the touching, holding and cuddling with three two-month old cubs, who readily accepted their human visitors. The cubs, one male and two female, weighed about six pounds each and were equipped with a metal ear tag for future identification purposes.

Oakland Student Named Scholar At Hood College

Lorie A. Damon, Oakland, a sophomore at Hood College, Frederick, has been selected by the National Endowment for the Humanities as an NEH Younger Scholar for 1988.

Ms. Damon was selected in a nationwide competition of high school and undergraduate college students who submitted proposals for independent summer research projects in history, literature, philosphy, foreign languages and other humanities disciplines.

Ms. Damon is one of 121 college students and 45 high school students to win NEH Younger Scholar Awards for 1988. Winners of this year's awards were selected from 774 eligible applicants representing 48 states, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico.

Under the guidance of her project advisor, Dr. Carol K. Kolmerten, associate professor of English, Ms. Damon will use the NEH grant of $2,200 to work on a project entitled, "Portraits of American Aristocracies in 'Lost Generation' Literature."

The announcement was made by NEH Chairman Lynn V. Cheney, recipient of an honorary degree and commencement speaker at Hood in 1987.

"The NEH Younger Scholars program offers high school and college students a unique opportunity to explore a topic of their choosing within the disciplines of the humanities," said Dr. Cheney. "The intellectual rigor of these project proposals comes as refreshing evidence of the outstanding academic ability of many of our country's high school and college students. We at the Endowment take pride in supporting these projects."

At the end of the grant period, Ms. Damon will submit to NEH a substantial research paper, with bibliography, and a final narrative report on the nine-week project.

The National Endowment for the Humanities is an independent federal agency that supports research, education, and public programs in the humanities.

Ms. Damon is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Damon, and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald B. Glotfelty Sr., all of Oakland.

Low-Interest Mortgage Funds Now Available

Governor William Donald Schaefer has announced that the Department of Housing and Community Development has over $54 million available in low-interest mortgage money for income-eligible Maryland homebuyers. The funds are available through DHCD's Maryland Mortgage Program (MMP).

"The Maryland Mortgage Program is one of the creative financial public/private partnerships that has enabled low-and moderate-income people to achieve homeownership. More than 15,000 Maryland families and individuals have purchased homes through this program," Governor Schaefer said.

To qualify for a 30-year fixed-rate mortgage loan through MMP, individuals can earn up to $28,000 a year, families up to $33,000. In most areas, borrowers cannot have owned their own homes within the last three years. This requirement does not apply in Allegany, Caroline, Dorchester, Garrett, Kent and Somerset counties, nor in the cities of Baltimore and Hagerstown.

Two interest rates have been established for the program, depending on household income. For people earning $22,000 a year or less, the interest rate will be 7.9 percent. Those earning more than $22,000 a year, up to the program's maximum income limit of $33,000 will pay 8.9 percent interest.

Newly-constructed and existing houses, including semi-detached houses and townhouses, can be purchased through the program. Condominiums acceptable to the mortgage insurer also are eligible. Modular homes qualify for financing if they carry the state seal of approval for code compliance.

Maximum purchase prices vary depending on location and whether the home to be purchased is newly constructed or an existing house. The maximum purchase prices differ in other jurisdictions in order to conform with federal law. In Garrett County they are $66,000 for existing homes and $77,000 for newly-constructed homes.

Interested people should apply directly to a participating lending institution. Borrowers must have a signed sales contract on a qualifying home before applying for the loan. Borrowers should make their sales contracts contingent upon receiving financing through the Maryland Mortgage Program.

Homebuyers must have established credit and a good credit rating. At the time of application for the mortgage, borrowers will be expected to pay fees for a credit report and an appraisal of the property. When the loan is settled, borrowers will pay points, closing costs, and prepaid items such as the first year's property taxes. In most cases, borrowers are charged one point, or one percent of the loan, on MMP loans.

Garrett County residents may apply at the following lending institutions: E.B. Mortgage Corporation, Richard Miller, 647-7111; First Federal Savings Bank of Western Md., Dick Wheeler, 359-0279; Hopkins Federal Savings Bank, Gail Padgett, 675-2828; Magnet Mortgages, Inc., Pam Reininger, 759-2800; Mercantile Mortgage Corporation, Bonnie Boswell, 689-1111; Society Mortgage Corporation, Janis Costell, 995-0710; and Southmark Mortgage, Jane McQuilken, 220-3700.

The program is administered by DHCD's Division of Housing Finance (Community Development Administration) which recently sold the tax-exempt mortgage revenue bonds for the program.

For more information about application procedures, borrowers should contact a participating lending institution. For a program brochure, persons may contact the Homeownership Program office at 1-800-638-7781.

Good Food and how to prepare it!

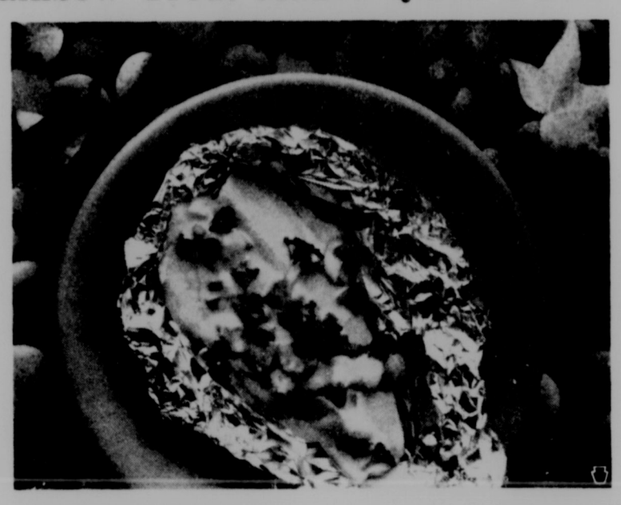

Foil Wrapped Rainbow Trout Makes Quick Stew

Reminiscent of a campfire stew, rainbow trout and vegetables wrapped and baked in foil packets make a quick, nutritious meal with little clean-up. These individual packets are perfect for one as well as a crowd. They can be prepared ahead, refrigerated, and baked just before serving.

In this recipe for Rainbow Trout Pocket Stew, fresh fillets, seasoned with lemon juice and placed on individual squares of foil, are topped with sautéed broccoli, cauliflower, shallots, and carrots. A rich, gin flavored white sauce smothers the vegetable topped trout. A sprinkling of freshly grated Parmesan cheese is the final touch before baking this non-traditional stew in foil.

Served with a tossed green salad, sautéed new potatoes and a warm pear crisp for dessert, Rainbow Trout Pocket Stew makes a quick and easy meal.

For additional recipes featuring rainbow trout, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: Winter Trout Recipes, c/o SY&T, 460 Boulevard Way, Suite 200, Oakland, California, 94610.

RAINBOW TROUT POCKET STEW

1 tablespoon minced shallots
1½ cups each finely chopped cauliflower, broccoli, and carrot
4 fresh mushrooms, sliced
2½ tablespoons butter, divided
1½ tablespoons flour
¾ cup milk
3 tablespoons gin
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground white pepper
⅛ teaspoon ground nutmeg
4 Idaho Rainbow Trout fillets (4 ounces each)
Fresh lemon juice
2 tablespoons freshly grated Parmesan cheese (optional)

Preheat oven to 450°F. Butter 4 sheets of 16x16-inch parchment paper or foil. Over medium heat, sauté shallots and vegetables in ½ tablespoon butter for about 1 minute. Remove and set aside. Over low heat, melt remaining 2 tablespoons butter; stir in flour. Cook and stir for about 5 minutes, being careful not to brown. Add milk, stirring constantly until thickened. Stir in gin and next 3 ingredients; cook another minute; set aside. Place a trout fillet, skin-side down on one-half of paper. Drizzle lemon juice over fillet; season with salt and pepper, as desired. Cover with ¼ of vegetables; top with ¼ of sauce. Sprinkle with cheese as desired. Repeat with remaining trout, vegetables, and sauce. Double fold paper edges to seal. Bake about 10 minutes until paper browns and puffs. Do not overcook. Open at table. Makes 4 servings. About 328 calories per serving.

Drop Anchor for Great Fishing!

Fish fillets are a pleasure to prepare and eat, thanks to simple preparation.

As these recipes show, a deft use of seasonings will enhance the delicate flavor of fish. One thing to remember when preparing fish — bake it only until the flesh can be easily flaked with a fork; overcooking makes it tough and dry.

Properly prepared, fish is moist, tender and delicately flavored. It's best to eat fish within two days after it has been purchased or caught.

¼ cup flour
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon cayenne pepper
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
4 catfish fillets

3 tablespoons lime (or lemon) juice, salt, pepper to taste
2 onions, chopped
2 cloves garlic, minced

8-ounce can plain tomato sauce
8-ounce can stewed tomatoes, well broken up (or 1 large ripe tomato, chopped)
1 large fresh (or ½ cup defrosted) bell pepper, seeded and thinly sliced, optional: 1 or 2 jalapeno peppers, to taste

Cook gently uncovered, until fillets are cooked through and sauce is thick.

Or, to bake: Arrange fillets in a single layer in a non-stick baking dish and spoon the hot sauce mixture over them. Consider

After the bleakness of winter comes Spring. Fulfilling a promise of long ago, the seasons follow one another in divinely planned succession.

All around us we see evidence that evil prevails throughout the world, but the Church gives positive assurance that God is ever present. As Spring brings new life to nature so God, through the Church, brings more abundant life to human beings.

Consider the daffodil—its freshness and beauty speak of hope. Consider the Church—its steadfast faith reaches out to undergird and strengthen mankind. God creates daffodils without our help, but intelligent cultivation makes them even more beautiful. Likewise, He depends on us to work in His Church, helping to spread its influence, to broadcast its message, to make a better world.

Let us accept this tremendous challenge and come a part of God's Church today.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE SILENT VICTOR

March 27, 1988

Background Scripture: Matthew 26:57 through 27:61.
Devotional Reading: Isaiah 53:4-12.

Matthew's story of Jesus' last hours is a study in power. There is the mighty power of Rome vested in the Pilate, the Roman Governor. There is also the power of the chief priests and elders. It is not an absolute power, but, although the Jews have been subjugated by the Romans, the latter cannot rule successfully without some cooperation from the former. And there is the power of the people—subject though they are to Roman military might, Pilate cannot afford to ignore their potential for disruption of the Pax Romana, the peace of Rome.

Then there is Jesus.

At first glance, it would seem that he is powerless. The chief priests and scribes arrest him in the Garden of Gethsemane and hand him over into the custody of Pontius Pilate. Jesus appears helpless against both Jerusalem's religious leaders and the occupying Roman Empire. Furthermore, he is apparently in the power of the crowd, for Pilate puts it to them whether he shall release "Barabbas or Jesus?"

HOW POWERFUL?

Yet things are not what they seem. For all of the might of Rome, Pilate is obviously uneasy about this situation. When Jesus remains silent in the face of his questions, instead of flying into a rage, Pilate gropes for some alternative to Jesus' crucifixion. To further unsettle him, his wife sends word: "Have nothing to do with that righteous man, for I have suffered much over him today in dream" (27:19). If Pilate had the power of life or death, why would he feel compelled to publicly wash his hands of all responsibility?

Pilate, a man accustomed to controlling large armies and administering Rome's holdings in Israel, could not compel Jesus to confess or deny the charges brought against him: "...he gave him no answer, not even to a single charge; so that the governor wondered greatly" (27:14).

Consider also the chief priests and scribes. Neither are they as powerful as one might suspect. It must have galled them to have to come to Pilate to petition him for permission to put Jesus to death. These guardians of religious rectitude, for all their pow couldn't get Jesus convicted w out false witness, perjury, a manipulating the mob. If th were so powerful, why did th have to resort to all of that?

Those who comprised th crowd outside Pilate's palac were also engaged in the struggl for power. But their power was a delusion. Pilate gave them the power of life and death over Jesus, but he was simply using them, letting them take responsibility should this prove to be an unpopular decision. The chief priests and scribes also used them, manipulating them to call for the release of Barabbas and the death of Jesus.

So who was in control here? Not irresolute Pilate, not the impotent chief priests and scribes, nor the frenzied crowds. As one reads this account over and over, it becomes apparent that it is Jesus who really is in control. Jesus, the silent victor teaches us all the nature of true spiritual power. Jesus could have made a brilliant legal defense, disrupted the court with violent outbursts or played upon the sympathy of the mob. But, refusing to play their power game, he conquered them with his silence.

'Y&R' star Leighton paid her dues with minor roles

By Kimberly Redmond

I'm a big fan of "The Young and the Restless," and especially of Roberta Leighton. Can you give me some background on her? – K.K., Tresoose, Pa.

Roberta Leighton

Leighton graduated from Stephans College in Columbia, Miss., with degrees in acting and writing. After graduation, Leighton spent two years with the L'Homme Dieu theater company in Alexandria, Minn., before she moved to Los Angeles to look for acting work. Within six months she had a guest-starring role in the series "Baretta."

Before joining "Y&R" in 1978, Leighton appeared in many television series, including "Barnaby Jones" and "Switch." She had roles in the feature films "One on One" and "Stripes."

Ross Kettle (Jeffrey Conrad on "Santa Barbara") looks so familiar. Has he appeared on another soap? Can you tell me where he's from? – T.B., Newfoundland, Canada.

Ross Kettle

Before he joined "SB," Kettle portrayed Lord Stewart Markham Cushing on "As the World Turns." Kettle was born in South Africa, and as a young man moved to England where he studied acting at the London Academy of Music and Dramatic Arts. He moved to New York City in September, 1984.

Did Stephen Schnetzer (Cass Winthrop) of "Another World" appear in the TV movie "Illusions"? – T.G., Houston, Texas.

We could find no record of Schnetzer appearing in "Illusions," but he may have had a small role in the film.

'ET' reporter's passions run to composing, not acting

By Toni D'Amato

Is John Tesh of "Entertainment Tonight" an actor? Please tell us something about him and where we can write to him. – W.P., Portland, Maine.

John Tesh

Tesh worked as a reporter in news and sports before joining "Entertainment Tonight" in 1986 as the show's co-host. He's also a trained musician and plays the piano. When he's not working on "E.T.," he works on music projects.

"I enjoy doing the show and am glad it's been successful for me," Tesh confides. "But actually, everything I've really worked hard on has worked out."

Tesh and his wife Julie, a former ballerina, have been married six years. "My wife is my biggest critic and she's been great about all my work," he says.

Tesh owns a clothing store and two restaurants. But music seems to be his biggest interest. He has created the music for CBS's coverage of the Tour de France for the past six years, as well as other compositions for CBS sports programs.

Send mail in care of Entertainment Tonight, 5555 Melrose Ave., Los Angeles, CA 90038.

Whatever became of Alan Young after the series "Mr. Ed" went off the air? We loved him in that show. – C.P., Eau Claire, Wis.

Young broke into television with "The Alan Young Show" (1950-53) and won an Emmy for best actor in 1950. He worked in TV variety and dramatic anthologies, but made his biggest mark as Wilbur Post in "Mr. Ed" (1961-66). He left TV in the late '60s to work for the Christian Science Church. In the '70s he returned to the stage and TV and also did voice work in such cartoons as "The Smurfs." He is now on a mid-season replacement series called "Coming of Age," which also stars Glynnis Johns, Phyllis Newman and Paul Dooley.

(Do you have a question about a celebrity? Write Toni D'Amato at 200 Park Ave., Room 602, New York, NY 10166. Questions cannot be answered personally, but those of general interest will be answered in future columns.)

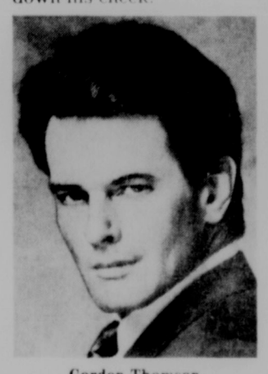

A young man (Jason Naylor) provides Jennifer (Tina Yothers) with a date for the sophmore dance on NBC's "Family Ties." It airs Sunday, March 27.

'Dynasty' actor in stitches; Vanna White breaks a pox

By Cindy Adams

Gordon Thomson, whose character Adam Carrington is one of "Dynasty"'s handsomer faces, recently had that handsome face sewn up. As Thomson now recalls it: "The accident occurred during filming. My action was to run and get a doctor for my 'mother' (that's Joan Collins, who plays Alexis). We rehearsed earlier where I was to turn and run, but then, during the filming, what wasn't there before was suddenly there – a video camera that weighs several tons. Luckily, I didn't break my nose." Thomson now has 50 very small stitches across his nose and down his cheek.

Gordon Thomson

Tom Selleck's next is Warner's romantic suspense comedy "Her Alibi." He's a novelist involved with a murder suspect. ... Judith Ivey tells me she's got a TV series. She'll play a rich Texan. Sounds redundant. ... Lee Remick tells me she's just finished the CBS movie "Jessie," about a practical nurse who practices without a license. ... Placido Domingo tells me nothin', but I know that "Goya," his stage musical, may premiere in Tokyo. Sony is doing the album soundtrack. ... Joanna Carson, Johnny Carson's ex, will spill it in "Glass Houses," a novel about wives who chair charities.

Vanna White

George Hamilton's new threads at Dimitri, his tailor, brings the total to 500 suits – not including Alana's divorce suit. ... Vanna White once wished a pox on Hugh Hefner for publishing photos of her in the nude. Well, in Malibu The First Letter Turner just bumped into The First Playboy. Result? The whole feud has now Vannashed. I knew you'd want to know.

BEHIND THE SCENES

Prejudice about the elderly addressed in new CBS series

By Frank Lovece

Emily Marshall has come of age. After writing, producing and story editing for years, she's finally created her own series. The title? Appropriately, "Coming of Age." The CBS series, starring Paul Dooley and Phyllis Newman as a forcibly retired airline pilot and his wife, airs Tuesdays.

Emily Marshall

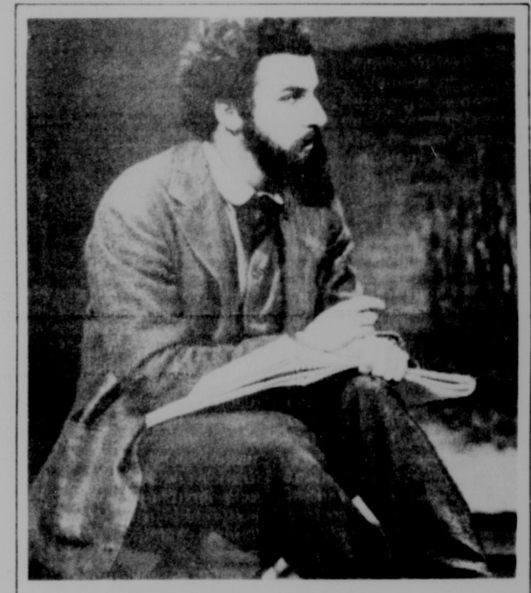

Though her show is a comedy, Marshall intends to explore a serious issue: prejudices and preconceptions about older people. She hasn't experienced it firsthand – despite the fact that at 45, she's a veritable grand dame in the TV business – but Marshall has seen its effects. "Six years ago, I had the idea for this show," she recalls, "but because it was about older people, a red flag would go up. 'Nobody wants to see that.' But thank goodness for 'The Golden Girls.' Without it, I might not have had the chance to do this show."

The seed came from first-hand knowledge. "My parents moved to a retirement community about 15 years ago," she relates. "That was my inspiration. A lot of what went on was incredibly funny, but also frustrating and sad. People who ran businesses the week before were suddenly thought of as 'nice old folks.'"

Marshall's sensitivity to ageism springs both from her marriage to an older man – 60-year-old "Tonight Show" bandleader Doc Severinsen – and from her own experience with sexism. "I began in television in the mid-1960s, before women's liberation, when we weren't allowed to even wear slacks to the office," she marvels. "But I was lucky. I worked in New York as a production assistant to David Susskind, a remarkable man who was very supportive of women in the workplace." Marshall emigrated to Los Angeles in 1969, working her way up from a "Tonight Show" assistant to a writer and story editor on such series as "Laverne and Shirley."

Now, with the help of executive-producer Barry Kemp, creator of "Newhart," Marshall has the chance to make some points about a topic close to her heart. "I'm happy," she says, "to be able to address whatever it is in this society that doesn't allow us to grow old with dignity."

PBS

Mandy Patinkin stars in the rebroadcast of Stephen Sondheim's Pulitzer-prize winning musical "Sunday in the Park with George." The "American Playhouse" presentation airs Wednesday, March 30, on PBS. (Check local listings.)

Michael Jackson special sees the music, not the man

By Connie Passalacqua

Why has Michael Jackson had so much plastic surgery? Does he really sleep in a giant cryogenic glass coffin? And does he really spend his free time with children and his strange menagerie of pet animals?

Michael Jackson

These are three questions not answered on "Motown on Showtime: Michael Jackson," a one-hour documentary airing March 27, March 31 and April 2. For answers to those questions, try the tabloids. But if you'd like a one-hour overview of Jackson's 20-year career exploring his incredible talent, here's the ticket.

A bit too worshipful and not terribly deep, the documentary still provides excellent background for those who didn't become familiar with Jackson's work until he became a worldwide phenomenon with his 1983 "Thriller" album, which sold 40 million copies.

Too much has been made of Jackson's physical transformation via surgery, yet you'll still gasp when you see what he looked like when he was singing in The Jackson 5. The documentary's strongest suit is its copious early clips of the Jacksons, culled from such early '70s TV series as "The Jim Nabors Hour," "The Flip Wilson Show," and "The Ed Sullivan Show."

Jackson, who was only 13 then, was a true sensation, leading the group with its early hits like "ABC" and "The Love You Save." The special was produced by Motown, The Jackson 5's first record label. Motown is a very canny packager, and it chooses to show the musical clips in their entirety. Particularly powerful is Jackson's 1983 performance on TV's "Motown 25: Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow," which helped shoot the "Thriller" album to its best-selling heights.

The special does get a little heavy-handed when Jackson's famous friends like Elizabeth Taylor are trotted out. "Michael is the real E.T.," she says, dewy-eyed.

Still, it's hard to not to agree when Hollywood choreographer Hermes Pan compares Michael's dancing talent to Fred Astaire. And Katharine Hepburn is right when she observes, "What really makes Michael a star is that when he's on stage, you can't help but look at him!"

Extra Hours Of Tax Help Slated By Comptroller

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein says his state income tax offices are "doing a big business" helping taxpayers this year, and extra hours of free assistance will be offered through the April 15 filing deadline to handle the crowds.

"Our offices are helping 20-60% more taxpayers this year compared to last year. So we're going to keep our offices open until 5 p.m., Monday through Friday as an added convenience to taxpayers," Goldstein said.

The comptroller said his offices will also remain open on Friday, March 25, while most other state offices will be closed in observance of Maryland Day. The hours of assistance are 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Other opportunities for free assistance include:

Good Friday, April 1, 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m.; Saturday, April 2, 9 a.m.-1 p.m.; Monday, April 4, 4:30-7 p.m. (phone assistance only); Saturday, April 9, 9 a.m.-1 p.m.; Monday, April 11, 4:30-7 p.m. (phone assistance only); and Deadline, Friday, April 15, 8:30 a.m.-9 p.m.

"We've received nearly 950,000 state income tax returns so far and mailed out 613,424 refund checks, averaging $267 each," Goldstein said. The comptroller expects to receive a total of 1.9 million Maryland returns by the end of the filing season.

Goldstein offered other important tips for taxpayers:

—do returns in ink;

—complete the federal return first, then the Maryland return;

—taxpayers 65 or over should remember to check the box in the upper right corner of the Maryland long form;

—those who qualify to use the tax tables should be sure to use the correct table for filing status; —double-check all calculations;

—itemizers must include a copy of their federal Schedule A with their Maryland return;

—be sure to sign return;

—and use the yellow address label, if it's correct (using the label can speed up refund checks by a week).

"Above all, if you need help, call or visit any Maryland income tax office and we'll be happy to help you. We'll even complete your Maryland return free of charge, as long as you bring a completed copy of your federal return and all W-2 statements," Goldstein said.

The addresses and telephone numbers of all 15 Maryland income tax offices are listed on the back of the state tax packet and in most local telephone directories. The statewide toll-free number for free state assistance is 1-800-MD TAXES.

Applications To WVU Rolling In At Record Pace

MORGANTOWN, W.VA. — State high school principals and guidance counselors should have received a letter from West Virginia University officials last week urging them to encourage seniors interested in applying to the university to do so as soon as possible

Director of Admissions and Records Glenn G. Carter said the letter was sent in response to the sharply increased number of fall applications received by his office.

"As of this week, we are more than 20 percent ahead of last year's pace in the number of freshmen applying for admission," Carter said, indicating that 7,200 freshmen have made application to date, with 6,000 having been accepted.

"We're seeing increases in just about every category," Carter noted. "In-state applications are up 10 percent, out-of-state applications are up 30 percent and black student applications are ahead of last year's by 20 percent. We have already admitted nearly as many students as our total as of fall of last year.

"The surge in freshman applications for fall is indeed exciting news," President Neil S. Bucklew said. "However, our highest priority and responsibility is to provide access to West Virginia students. Therefore, we're encouraging those qualified high school seniors who want to attend the university to make application soon so that we can reserve a spot for them."

The September forecast is also welcome news to Provost Frank Franz, who said the quality of students being admitted to WVU is improving as well as the numbers.

He attributed the "bright enrollment picture" to a dynamic university image, increased direct contact with students, additional scholarship aid, on- and off-campus visitation programs, faculty and staff support and alumni involvement.

Fuel Use Dips For Second Month

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said motor fuel use dropped slightly in January, 1988, for the second month in a row. Consumption of gasoline and diesel fuel totaled 176.7 million gallons, nearly one percent less than the 178.4 million gallons used during January, 1987.

Comptroller Goldstein said motor fuel tax revenue for February, 1988, which is based on January sales, totaled $32.5 million, up more than 33% from the $24.4 million collected during the same month last year.

"This growth reflects the nickel a gallon motor fuel tax increase enacted by the General Assembly last year and effective June 1, 1987," Goldstein said. Maryland's motor fuel tax rate is now 18.5 cents per gallon.

For the first eight months of fiscal year 1988, motor fuel tax collections amount to $308 million, up 37.4% from the $224.1 million received during the same period of the previous fiscal year.

"That revenue is based on sales of 1,588,055,847 gallons of motor fuel, an increase in consumption of 3.6% over the 1,563,314,557 gallons used during the same period last year," Goldstein said.

Personal Stress Management Class To Begin Apr. 4

Charlotte Bock, R.N., director of nursing at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, will give a free introductory lesson on stress management on Monday, April 4, at 6:30 p.m. in the Hospital's Board Room.

Ms. Bock received her training a year ago from the developers of this program, The National Center for Health Promotion, of Ann Arbor, Mich.

"Designed by psychologists and physicians, this program helps participants recognize, control, and positively use the stressors that not only affect our daily routines but come unexpectedly, too," said Ms. Bock. "Participants will learn how stress affects them physically and emotionally.

"Anyone who wants to just see what the class will offer him or her is welcome to come to the free introductory session on April 4," advised Mikal Moomau, Wellness Together program coordinator. "Intense stress can lead to heart disease, migraines, backaches, colitis and more than 30 other symptoms. That's losing control of your life in the worst sense — losing your health," continued Ms. Moomau. "The Wellness Together staff is pleased to offer this program to community residents because proven methods of stress management — over 100 techniques — are taught to participants. They build the skills necessary to respond positively to stress and improve their personal health."

Wellness Together coordinators urge anyone who feels they are poorly managing their stress, by drinking, eating, or yelling too much, to come to the introductory session on April 4. Persons who have questions about the program or wish to pre-register for the class are invited to call Wellness Together at 334-2155.

Both Nagulendran and Garcia were sponsored by the Fort Cumberland American Legion Post 13. Kepple was sponsored by Proctor Kildow Post 71. First-place winner Nagulendran advanced to the Maryland State Contest held in Annapolis on March 6, where he won sixth place.

Revival Services Set

Revival services are slated at the Walnut Bottom Assembly of God, Route 1, Swanton, with guest evangelist, Rev. Darrell Tichnell. Services will be held March 27 through April 1 at 7 p.m., except Monday.

Rev. Christopher Crawford, pastor, invites all to attend.

Sen. Sarbanes' Representative To Visit Oakland

Senator Paul Sarbanes has announced that his Western Maryland representative will be in Oakland next week to seek citizens' views and assist with problems relating to the Federal Government.

"I have asked Nina Conway, my Western Maryland representative, to be available in the Garrett County Courthouse Annex, County Commissioners Meeting Room, 203 South Fourth Street, in Oakland on Monday, March 28, from 11 a.m. until 3 p.m., so that she may meet with concerned citizens and report to me the views of Garrett County residents about current national issues and the difficulties they may be having with Federal agencies," Sarbanes said.

"I urge all concerned citizens to meet with Mrs. Conway so my office can continue to provide effective assistance to and representation for all Marylanders."

Constituents who are unable to meet with Mrs. Conway during this time may contact her at 1906 Frederick Street, Cumberland; telephone (301) 722-5369.

IN MEMORIAM
Of Our Precious Mother
Grace E. Resh
Who passed away March 30, 1971

For each sunset there's a sunrise, in a land we cannot see.
There's a place of love, endless dawn, that is called . . . eternity!
In this land there are no shadows, and no deepening shades of night,
And no candle is ever needed, for God provides the light!
No pain or sorrow enters there, no teardrops ever fall,
And there is no such thing as parting, within its golden halls.
Cares and worries are forgotten, in this land where trials cease,
And the heart knows only gladness, and the bliss of perfect peace.
And in time there'll be reunion, sweeter far than words can say,
With those who've gone and await us, in this land of endless day!

Poison Prevention Week Proclaimed By Gov. Schaefer

Governor William Donald Schaefer has proclaimed March 20-26 "Poison Prevention Week" in the state of Maryland as sponsored by the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DHMH).

"There are a lot of things around the house that can be dangerous and even lethal if kids get their hands on them," said Governor Schaefer. "The purpose of "Poison Prevention Week" is to educate Maryland citizens about those dangers," he said.

Recent figures from the Poison Center show a slight decline in Maryland in the number of accidental poisonings of children. In 1987, there were 32,255 such cases — a 1.6 percent decrease from the previous year. Of those accidental poisonings, there were 25 fatalities.

For the past 26 years, "Poison Prevention Week" has focused on preventing poisonings among children under 5 years of age. "Although our efforts have done much to reduce the incidence of childhood poisonings, as long as one child is accidentally poisoned, our efforts must continue," said David L. Resh Jr., Director of the DHMH Office of Food and Product Health.

"Underlying our whole poison prevention program is the assumption that all childhood poisonings are preventable," said Resh. "If we all use child-resistant packaging and if we keep medicines and household chemicals out of the reach of children, we should be able to save a number of young lives."

Following are some general guidelines to help prevent accidental poisonings:

•Whenever possible, purchase household products and over-the-counter medication that is packaged in child-resistant containers. Specifically request that the pharmacist package your prescription in a child-resistant container.

•Store medications and hazardous household products out of sight and out of reach of young children, whether or not the products have child-resistant caps.

•While using hazardous household products, do not leave them open and/or unattended.

•Grandparents and other individuals without young children should take special care to keep their medicines and hazardous products locked up when young children come to visit. Additionally, these individuals should be aware that medication in purses or suitcases is particularly attractive to young children.

•Keep the number for the nearest Poison Control Center by the telephone. In a poisoning emergency, having this number readily available could save a child's life. Maryland Poison Center number is (toll-free) 1-800-492-2414.

YOUR NAME AT THE TONE!

Can you imagine buying a home from a recorded message? Listen to this imaginary conversation: "I'm sorry, but we are not at home to sell you our home at this time. At the tone, please leave your name, the price you are willing to pay and a deposit of $1,000.00. Our answering machine will call you back with our acceptance as soon as we return."

Sounds crazy, doesn't it? Yet, many home sellers attempt such a sale each year without utilizing the knowledge and expertise of a real estate professional. Oh, sure, they place an ad in the newspaper and a sign in the front yard, both of which are important steps to locating a buyer. But what happens next?

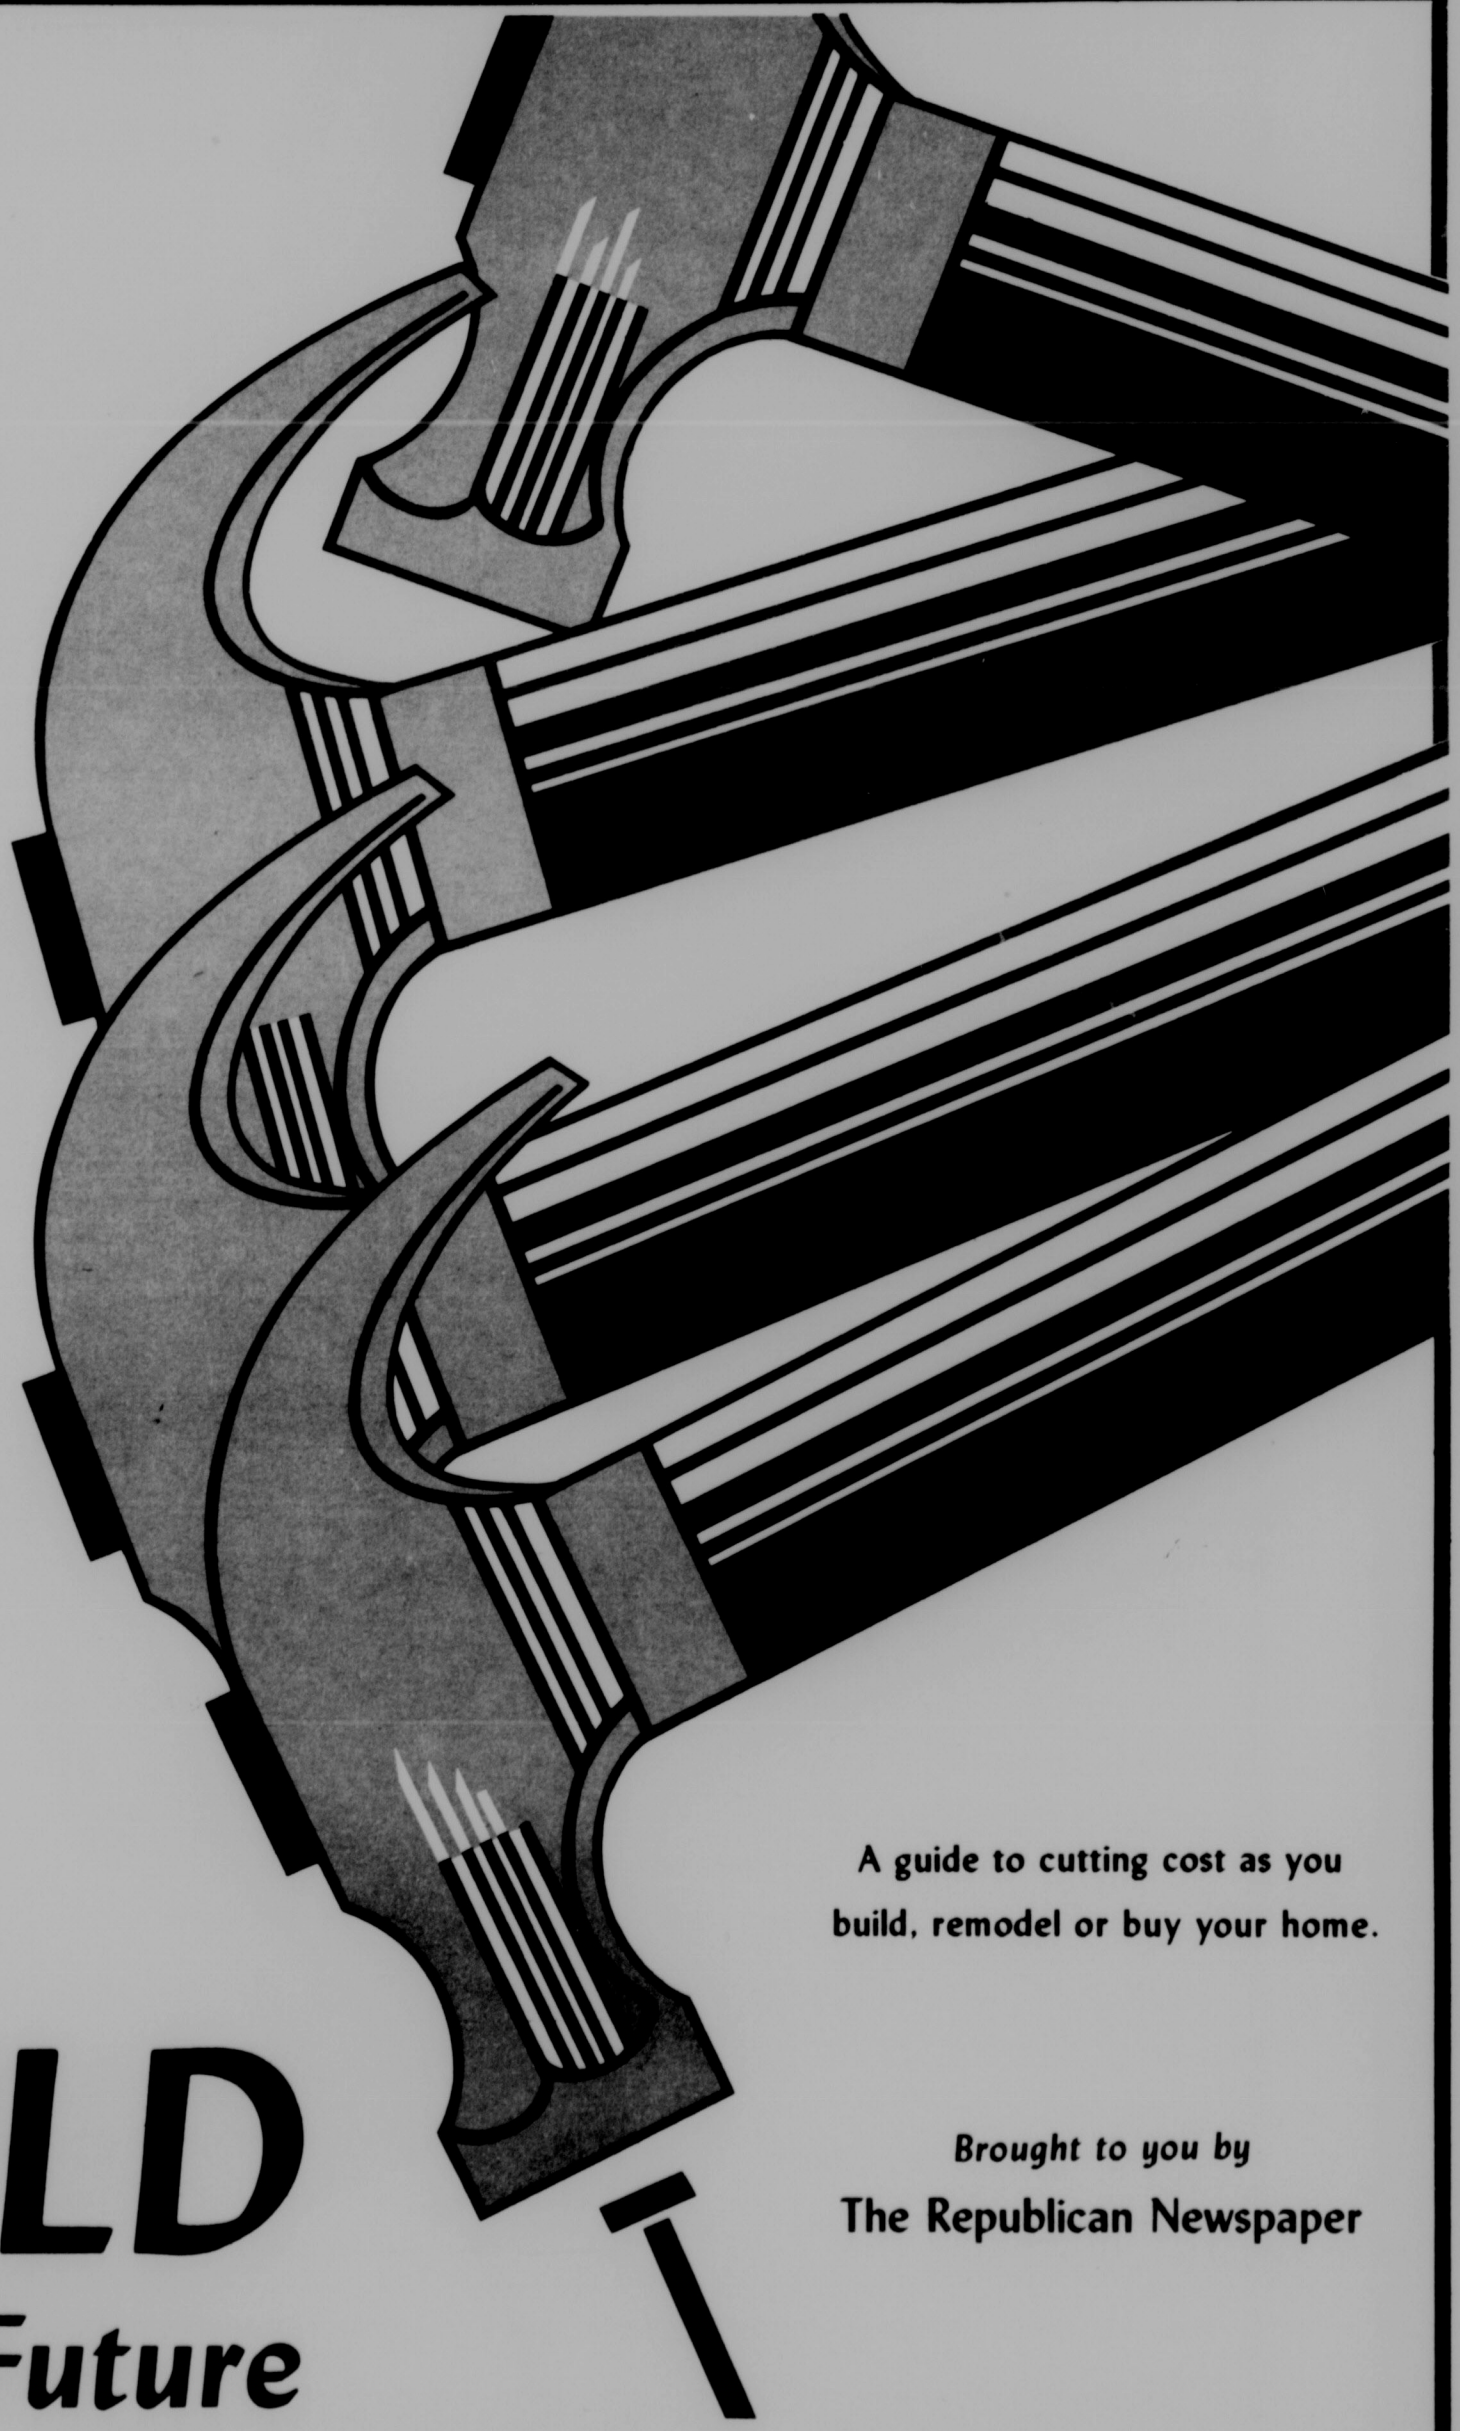

Serious home buyers are ready buyers, which means they want information about various homes, and lots of it. They want their questions answered accurately and quickly. In short, they are ready to act (to buy a home) and any delays are a definite "turn-off." As a result, a "no-answer" or "recorded message" gets no second chance.

A home which is listed with a professional real estate agent is sure to get wide exposure and will be made available to the public at all hours. Phones are answered by qualified, helpful agents, and at virtually all hours of the day, so there are no missed calls. Serious buyers are given immediate attention. Your home listed with a successful agent can yield "peace-of-mind" and a quick sale at top price.

If you're planning to sell your home soon and would like information on its current value, give us a call at 387-5303, or come by our office located at McHenry Plaza.

OUTDOOR LIVING

Patios, decks, furniture for easy backyard living

By Gretchen Fallon
Copley News Service

America's back yard isn't what it used to be. Consider: Eleven million (let the number sink in!) outdoor charcoal grills are sold in the United States each year. Add to that another 3 million gas-fired grills for the upscale "patio gourmet," plus an uncounted number of imported hibachis ... and you have mega-barbecuing.

And there's much more happening behind the hydrangeas than mere burger-making. In fact, while the barbecue grill cooks, folks lounge on high-style casual furniture, kids frolic beneath a vine-covered pergola, and neighbors drop by for cocktails served in coordinated barware.

Once a scruffy patch of green and raked dirt, the back yard has now become the American home owner's newest room.

As the season approaches for firing up the grill, thoughts turn naturally to making the most of a patio, porch, deck or garden — or creating an outdoor area where none may exist.

Providing a space for outdoor fun can be as simple as having a contractor pour out a concrete slab or as elaborate as constructing a multilevel redwood deck. It all depends on your taste, lifestyle and budget.

One of the newest trends — particularly attractive with Southwest design — is unstained redwood decking. Simple and durable, all it needs is a clear protective finish to stand up to the biggest party or strongest sandstorm.

A more elaborate — and more colorful — flooring alternative is tile. An expensive option, whichever of the myriad patterns or colors you select is guaranteed to generate oohs and aahs from impressed guests.

For a more traditional look, bricks laid in attractive patterns create a patio surface worthy to support the social event of the season. If you're on a budget, consider interspersing concrete with patterned bricks.

For a country flair, use concrete or wood for a base patio, surround it with a grassy area filled with plants, stones and boulders strategically placed for effect.

Once you've defined the area, you'll need to keep in mind three fundamental needs to turn your back yard into a worthy outdoor room: seating, shade and privacy.

BEST SEAT IN THE HOUSE

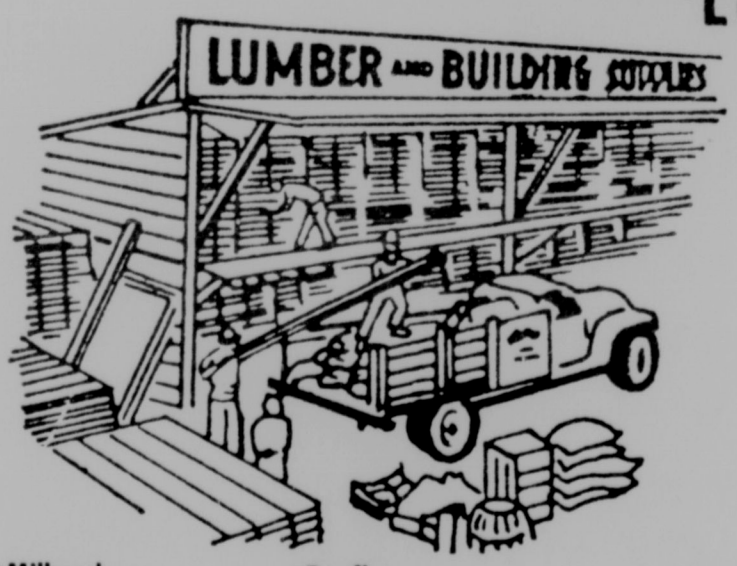

Patio and garden furniture, a billion-dollar business, is the fastest-growing segment of the furniture industry. Such phenomenal interest means today's porch-potato is demanding, and getting, far more than that old standby, the folding aluminum chair with a grid of green-and-white webbed straps.

Patio furnishings of the 1980s are fashion-conscious, comfortable and durable. And not just the chairs, but also chaises and ottomans, cocktail tables and barcarts, come in a dizzying array of colors and frame styles and cushion options. (This year's trend finds the consumer moving away from beiges and earth tones toward more pastels.)

In addition to fashionable varie-

GCC Students Preparing To "Build Their Futures"

A unique training program designed to meet the growing need for productive, skilled employees in the construction trades is now underway at Garrett Community College. This 17 week, 555 hour program, offered in cooperation with the Western Maryland Consortium, is preparing students with the capabilities they'll need to enter the building trades this spring. Students will be trained to assume positions as carpenter helpers or carpenters, masonry helpers, electrician helpers or carpet installers. They will also be equipped to function effectively in retail sales associated with building, and in the manufacturing of building materials as well as in service, remodeling and maintenance positions.

Students, who range in age from 18 to 59, began their studies by learning basic math for carpenters, building trade terms, blueprint reading and retail selling fundamentals. They have now progressed to "hands on" learning activities in Frame Carpentry. This includes learning how to frame floors, walls, ceilings, and roofs, as well as how to build steps and do repairs. They will soon be specializing in eight week sessions in either masonry, plumbing, electrical wiring or finish carpentry. Throughout the training, students are learning building techniques by constructing a small building which will be sold at the end of the session. Upon completion of the course, each student will have achieved specific competencies in Frame Carpentry as well as in his individual speciality area. Students also will have been trained in appropriate work habits, getting along with coworkers and employer-employee relations. In May, those students who have demonstrated a high level of competency in all areas, will be ready to join the building trades work force.

In order to familiarize local businessmen with the scope of the training program and the students' capabilities, the College will sponsor a luncheon on April 27th at the McHenry campus. Any local contractors, employers or realtors who are interested in learning more about the training program are welcome to attend and should call for reservations. In the meantime, employers who plan to hire construction trade help this spring, are urged to call to obtain student resumes and recommendations. Those wishing more information about students, the luncheon, or future training programs, can call Sue or Sandy at 334-8266.

Patios, Decks

ty among high-end lines (Brown Jordan and Tropitone are two well-received choices), the action is in action furniture — anything that rocks, glides, slides, swivels or swings. If it moves, it's desirable.

Still popular, too, for basic seating, is the traditional garden set of an umbrella table and four chairs (a very basic set costs about $200; a "fully loaded" version could well cost 10 times that amount).

European styling plus vaunted low maintenance are available in the lacquered resin lines (commonly from French manufacturers like Grosfillex and Triconfort). Other options include PVC-pipe furniture (generally lower price ranges), wrought iron (traditional, but heavy), and wood and wicker.

Not to be overlooked are two classic garden seats that have been revived recently in great fashion colors: the shell-back, cantilevered metal porch chair and the wood Adirondack chair with its slanted seat and broad arms.

MADE IN THE SHADE

When the patio or deck is a small, unprotected spot, the splash of a brightly colored umbrella or awning may be sufficient to shade the lounger during peak sunny hours. One home owner, who liked the look of jaunty, striped umbrellas but whose deck stretched the entire length of his house, stationed five umbrellas in portable stands along the deck rail, for eye-catching pockets of sun and shade.

To provide respite from the sun in larger areas, wood shade structures — arbors, pergolas, gazebos — are making a big comeback.

They can be used to cover a child's play area, a favored dining spot or a spa. The most successful shade structures are planned with location in mind, to take advantage of favorable views.

It is also possible to adjust the amount of light your shade structure lets in by using movable louvers or brightly colored removable fabric panels.

PRIVATE PARTY

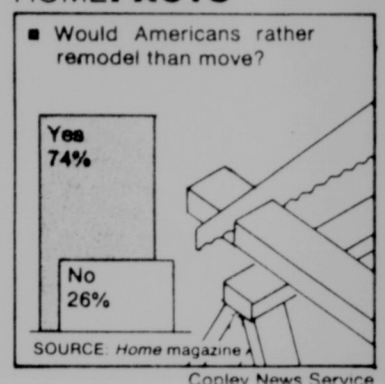

To screen your outdoor room from a nearby driveway, an adjoining street, or even the best neighbor's yard, there are a wealth of fencing options. And a fence does much more than mark a boundary. It can camouflouge an eyesore, such as a nest of garbage cans. It can obscure service porches, garages or toolsheds. It can direct views or route foot traffic.

The matter-of-fact chain link of old is coming down in favor of some very sophisticated options — from the easy charm of short white pickets as an ornamental border, to mammoth screens of masonry and latticework, which are designed for view enhancement as well as for safety around a pool or spa.

And what about that service-able old chain-link fence? It can be rendered as pretty as it is practical with judicious plantings of fast-growing trees and shrubs.

In fact, today's landscape architect, who studies engineering in equal parts with horticulture, can create for you a unified scheme of structure, driveway and entrance, as well as integrating all manner of fencing and paving options with decks, shade structures and plantings. If your backyard dreams are elaborate, it would be wise to consult the professionals.

Shelves Use Wall Space

Don't let valuable wall space go to waste. Metal grids, colorful hooks (from cup hooks to clothes hooks), coat racks and shelves all look great in children's rooms. Select shelves that fit the objects you're storing. A good rule of thumb is 12-inch-deep shelves for bulky games, 9-inch for books and 4-inch for toiletries and small toys. (CNS)

HOUSE HUNT HINTS

Do homework before completing the sale

By Dan Benson
Copley News Service

You may have found your dream house — whether it's a 15th century Irish castle that comes complete with ghosts or a post-World War II two-bedroom California bungalow with hardwood floors — but some practical "homework" is required before you sign on the dotted line.

We're talking here about such non-dreamy realities as plumbing, wiring, termites and location ("Location, location, location" quoth the agent).

After all, how much fun can it be to go fox-hunting on your medieval estate if you know the toilets won't flush back at ye olde castle. Or to go wandering along your million-dollar beachfront property, knowing that your neighbo operates Bob's 24-Hour Auto Body Shop from his garage.

So before you fall too deeply in love with just another pretty view, it will pay you to look past the skin-deep attractions and make sure your dream house will become "Home Sweet Home" and not "Welcome to My Nightmare."

USED-CAR APPROACH

Do you know all you should about houses? Probably not. That means you should get an inspector to take a look at the prospective homestead.

Many home shoppers take the "used-car" approach to buying a home, according to Kenneth T. Austin, chairman of HouseMaster of America, the nation's leading home inspection and warranty service.

"There may be no tires to kick, but flicking a light switch or flushing a toilet should not be the extent of your home inspection," Austin said.

It's a good idea, then, to employ a professional home inspector who has no interest in the sale of the home. Professional house inspectors are trained to spot structural, mechanical, electrical and plumbing defects.

Austin suggests that your purchase contract have an inspection clause in it to allow you to renegotiate, or even cancel the contract, should the inspection turn up something significant.

"This is likely the biggest investment you'll ever make," Austin said. "Don't enter into it without checking under the hood."

When it comes to choosing an inspector:

• Expect to pay about $200 for an inspection of a 2,000-square-foot house.

• Make sure he's a professional and is licensed by the proper state agency. Stay away from inspectors in the repair and construction business. They could have a conflict of interest.

• Insist on a narrative report, not a quick checklist. Ask to see samples of past reports to get an idea of how the information will be presented.

• Get a written guarantee that if the inspector misses any defects, he will either repair them for free or refund the cost of the inspection.

• Accompany the inspector on his rounds. It's a good opportunity to be more familiar with the report and to get some good preventive maintenance tips.

Accompanying the inspector on his tour of the house is a sure cure for the "self-hypnotized," Austin said.

"Self-hypnosis" occurs "when a buyer becomes so impressed with a particular feature of a prospective new home — a sunken living room, a finished basement — that other aspects of the house become blurred, until after they move in," Austin said.

"Going through this step-by-step process will help you learn much more about the home from a practical standpoint — whether you can realistically live there day-in and day-out," he said.

A good inspection also will help the buyer determine what it will cost to maintain the property.

PRECHECKING

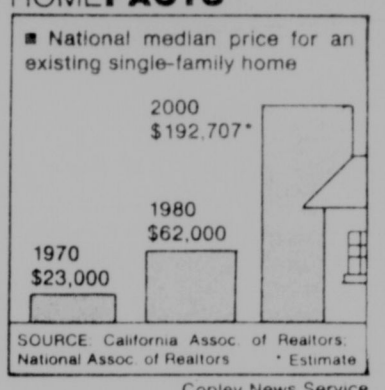

You can help the inspector and yourself by prechecking the structure. This will help you direct the inspector to specific details that concern you.

Some things to look for:

• In the basement: Check walls for inward bulging, cracks or crumbling mortar, fresh patches and high water marks. Check the floor for signs of leaks, seepage or a damp odor. A sump pump indicates frequent flooding.

Check pipes for corrosion. Hot-water pipes should be copper and insulated. Cold-water pipes should be copper or plastic.

A pocketknife that can be easily inserted into wood shows termite or decay problems. Also look for these danger signs on joists: marks of water seepage from kitchen or bathroom, pulling away from supporting masonry, notches more than one-third into the joist for pipes.

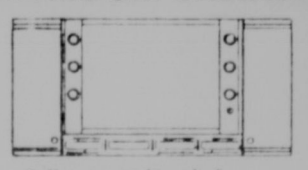

The fuse box should have 16 to 20 circuits for a eight-to-12-room house.

• Outside: Check for sag, alignment of walls, missing mortar, broken bricks, cracks in walls. Extra-wide mortar joints on stair steps may indicate a shifting house. Aluminum siding is a plus. If siding is wooden, look for peeling paint that may indicate too much moisture inside the wall. Fresh paint on window sills may indicate an attempt to hide rot.

Look for broken or missing shingles and tar paper bubbles. Look

BEYOND BOUDOIRS

Modern bedrooms mix sleep with shape-up spaces

BEYOND BOUDOIRS — Modern bedrooms blossom with the touch of romance provided by canopies and wallpaper.

By Debra Lee Baldwin
Copley News Service

Back in the 11th century no one had heard of bedrooms. The place where everybody slept was one big room, used for cooking, eating, bathing — anything and everything.

By the 17th century, royal bedrooms were the setting for important ceremonies, including weddings. If VIPs wanted an audience with the king, chances are they'd find him reclining on one of his many velvet-draped beds.

Today's bedrooms combine the best of both past and present. They incorporate activity areas, baths and exotic beds into the design — but they're also private.

According to Home magazine, "Amidst the hustle and hurry of daily life, the bedroom is emerging as a tranquil retreat from household hubbub."

When you design your new bedroom or remodel your old one, make it the center of your private life. To keep pace with the times, it should be a retreat from the outside world, a place where you can be yourself. Plan it as a space that surrounds you with comfort, envelops you with calm, and nourishes your senses and soul.

Begin your plans by examining your lifestyle. Have you always wanted a private place where you could exercise and watch TV at the same time? Determine what soothes you — simple surroundings or mounds of softness? Would you rather unwind by the fire — or in your own deluxe indoor spa?

And if you love waterbeds but worry about your back, you may find the new "hybrids" give you the support and comfort you crave.

One couple wanted exercise equipment, a TV and an ocean of serenity — all in the same bedroom.

Designer Marilyn Jaeger chose a white and pale gray color scheme, combined with simple furnishings. "Simplicity is deceiving. It requires as much thought as elaborate furnishings."

The bed is in an elevated area, separated from the rest of the room by a sheer white curtain. When drawn, the curtain sequesters the bed from exercise equipment and an audio-video system. One person can watch TV or exercise in private while the other relaxes in bed.

To keep visual distractions to a minimum, Jaeger kept the walls plain — no artwork. All storage is built in. Even magazines are stored out of sight in bins behind the headboard. Accents are gray and chrome.

When the curtains are drawn, the sleeping area is enveloped in a sea of white. The room provides the owners with activity as well as serenity — in a small space.

Designer Tish Hooker thinks bedrooms should have ruffles, lace and piles of pillows. But she also believes many women shy away from such "feminine" bedrooms because they think their husbands would be uncomfortable.

As a result, according to Hooker, a lot of women don't consult their husbands. "They play it safe and do the room in a tailored fashion. It ends up looking like a boring motel room. When I see a room like that, I think the couple must have an uneventful, unimaginative relationship."

Hooker adds, "I think a lot of men would say they like pastels and ruffles, too, if they were ever asked."

For her own bedroom, Hooker chose a romantic, feminine look with lavender, leaf-green and white sheets in the "Portico" pattern by Utica, the fashion brand of J.P. Stevens.

She used the sheets not only to dress the bed, but also for draperies and for a canopy over the bed. "Ever since I was a girl, I dreamed of having a beautiful canopy on my bedit adds such an air of elegance to the bed and makes the room special."

Hooker also believes every woman should have her own dressing table. "It's the most elegant way I know for a woman to relax and pamper herself."

If the idea appeals to you, make it soft and feminine — but don't forget the personal touches. Display photos and mementos on the table to remind you of favorite people and past events.

Give the dressing table itself special meaning. Says Hooker, "I draped my dressing table with my grandmother's antique lace tablecloth and covered my bedside table with a wonderful old patchwork quilt."

If you're remodeling, consider bumping out a wall to make room for a fireplace or tub-for-two. The trend in bedroom bathing is openness. If you have an enclosed garden outside the room, make one wall glass and bring the outdoors in. If not, wrap a wall in opaque glass block. It lets in almost as much light as a clear window but gives you complete privacy.

Can't expand outward? Expand indoors — visually. Use mirrors, windows or glass block inside. Chances are you have a bathroom adjacent to the bedroom you're going to remodel. Knock out the wall and install glass. Suddenly both rooms are larger, lighter and brighter.

Orthopedic surgeons recommend a firm-to-hard innerspring mattressbox spring combination for the best back health. But if you love the luxury of a waterbed, you'll be happy to hear of the new "hybrids."

A hybrid is a combination waterbed-standard mattress. The mattress contains water-filled vinyl cylinders that give the comfort of a waterbed without waves. The cylinders act like mattress springs. They let you sleep undisturbed by your companion's tossing. It's easier to fill and you can use the headboard from your bedset.

Other popular options include brass daybeds dressed in ruffles and lace that convert for sleepers or a futon cotton ticking mattress draped on a black or white platform bed.

Dressing up the bed is half the fun as well. Instead of a headboard, why not opt for a Japanese kimono draped behind the bed? Or a series of large fans and lacey ficus trees to create a jungle theme? Matching sheets and pillowcases finish the theme.

And if a bedspread is too much trouble in the morning, check out the fantastic array of comforters.

Children's rooms

There are styles and trends in juvenile rooms, just as in other interiors.

"Pastels have finally died," says Cindy Greenwald, owner of a store that specializes in children's furniture. "Five years ago brights sold instantly. Then washed-out pastels came in. They had no lasting power. I'm so happy to see the deep rich colors coming back to children's bedding."

The latest in beds for the very young (and very discerning!) are designer cribs from Italy. The Judy crib, for example, has curved beechwood arches at each end." The most-in-demand baked enamel finishes are silver and ivory.

Other bed designs for the preschool set are crafted to resemble race cars and beetles. Bunk beds are popping up in PVC and iron, as are daybeds with and without canopies — all accompanied by coordinated shelves, toy chests and dressers.

Upscale children's furniture showrooms also contain miniature tables for work and play. Custom-created theme items are also popular. Designs include city scapes, castles, sports and hearts — expressed in wall murals, sheets, posters and furniture stenciling.

Children are working with interior designers to create their own "personal space." One designer gives her "little clients" a coloring book and crayons. "I have them show me their favorite colors and they point out which pictures they like best."

It may seem excessive to have a designer do your child's room, but it could be well worth it. A professional interior designer will pass on purchasing discounts to you — and save you time in searching and locating furnishings.

CREATIVE COOKSPACE

Today's kitchen is heart of the home

By Steve Hurtado
Copley News Service

The kitchen of the '60s was an avocado green and gold laboratory. The family saw it as cramped and inhospitable and visited only for meals.

Times have changed.

"The kitchen is now used for more than just eating," says Francis Jones, executive director of the National Kitchen and Bath Association. "It has become a living area, a communications center, a place to socialize."

Today's kitchens are open-plan. There's space for people to gather as well as for food preparation.

"Two-income couples have placed more demands on family time because time is limited," says Mary Jane Pappas, a St. Paul, Minn., kitchen designer. "They read the mail in the kitchen, sometimes a magazine. The kids may do homework there so they can be with mom and dad while dinner is being prepared."

Familes of the affluent '80s not only congregate in the kitchen, they're going all out to make that room the high-tech hearth of the home.

Remodeling is rampant. The resulting no-nonsense kitchens are anything but sterile and cold. Priorities are efficiency — both in space-planning and appliances — and a warm, pleasant atmosphere that welcomes family and friends.

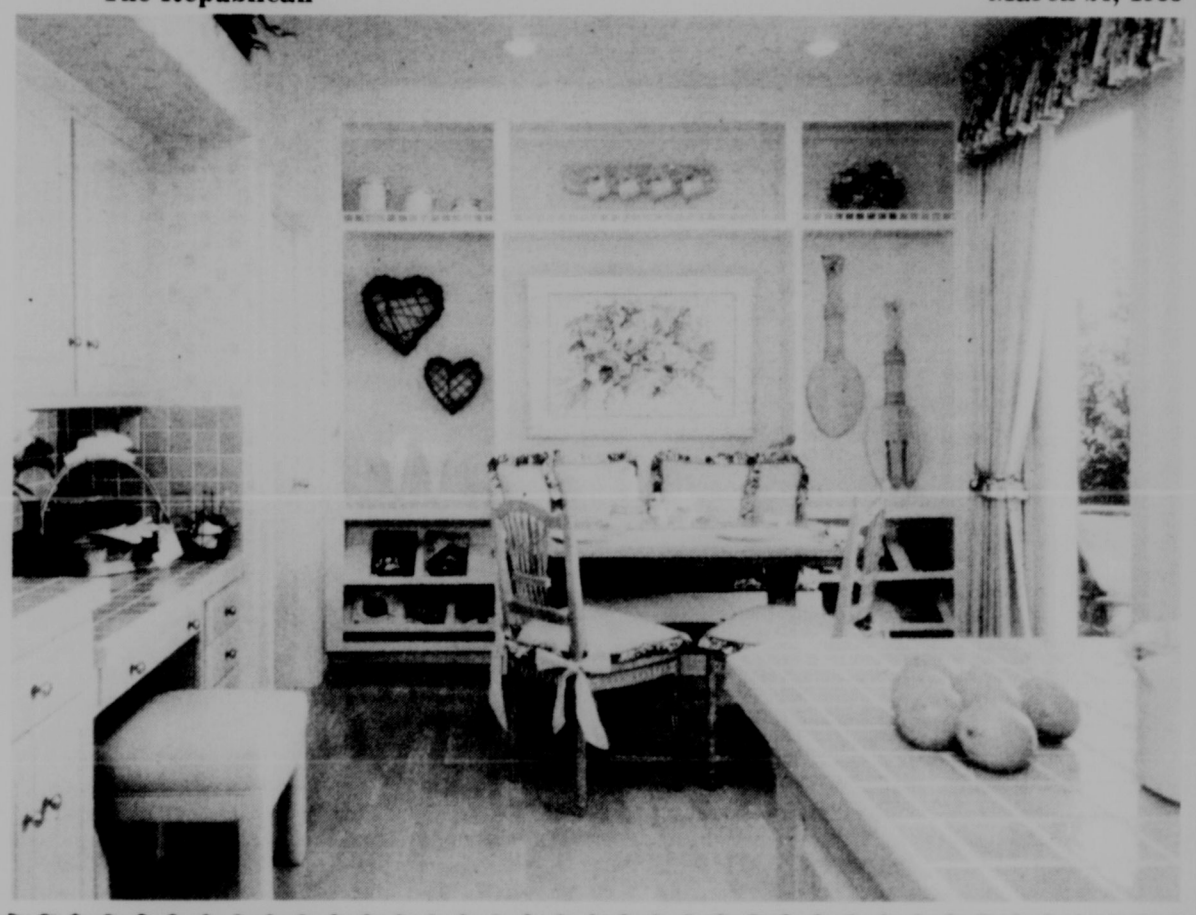

LIFESTYLE DESIGN

If you plan to remodel your kitchen or design a new one, keep your lifestyle in mind. Your kitchen should fit cook and caboodle like a cozy pair of loafers.

"You really have to keep in mind those people who actually use the kitchen," says Colleen Langston of Euro-American Kitchens in California.

Langston, who has been a kitchen planner for 30 years, asks clients how often they shop for groceries. "Once a day, once a week or once a month makes a difference. It affects the number, type and size of cabinets and the size of the refrigerator and freezer."

She also asks about pets. "People often don't plan their kitchens with their pets in mind, and then they find themselves tripping over a pet's food dish.

"I always tell people that they should sit down by themselves for a while and really think about how they use their kitchen," says Langston. "Then, if they come to me or any other kitchen designer, they'll have done their homework and we can plan a lot better for them."

Key elements of kitchen-lifestyle planning are traffic flow, location of major appliances, number of people who use the kitchen and the heights of those people.

Also, functions of the room other than food preparation, how frequently it will be used, and how much storage is needed.

If there's a remodeled kitchen in your future, you probably enjoy visiting kitchen showrooms and reading magazines that highlight home interiors. Start now to make a "dream kitchen" file of product brochures and photos from articles. Use it to show your kitchen planner what you like and want.

WHAT'S HOT IN KITCHEN DESIGN

What's your personal style: Country French or Sleek European? How about nostalgic art deco or simple, elegant Japanese?

Keep style in mind when you plan your kitchen remodel, but feel free to have fun with it.

"There's a warming trend in today's kitchen design, and individuality is the new byword," says Metropolitan Home magazine. You may want to add personal touches to your new kitchen such as architectural details or unusual utensils on hanging racks.

Many contemporary kitchens have European styling. "These are sleeker looks," says Anne Patterson, editor of Kitchen & Bath Concepts, a trade magazine for design professionals. "Knobs are recessed. Appliances are integrated with the cabinetry in a flush arrangement."

Kitchens with Eurostyling often include softer lines, like curved cabinetry. Low-voltage (halogen) lighting is popular. Also hot is the granite look, both real and faux, in laminates and other synthetic materials.

For kitchen colors, white is still the standard, combined with almond. Black is a strong accent in glass-fronted ovens, dishwashers and appliances of all sizes. Finishes for wood are lighter, often pickled.

ISLANDS IN THE STEAM

The kitchen island is one of the most desirable aspects of new kitchens — if you have room for one. Designers prefer 36 to 48 inches between an island and its opposing counters.

An island can serve as an area for eating, cooking and food preparation. It can include a sink, dishwasher, waste-disposal unit, oven, cook-top — and lots of storage space.

And don't overlook the space above the island. Use it to hang pots and pans, install cabinets or hang a hood vent for a cook-top.

KITCHEN INNOVATIONS

Kathy Custara's career keeps her busy. Her hobby is cooking; she has remodeled her kitchen once, and is planning to do it again. This time she's going to include at least one "appliance garage." She says, "It's a great idea. You just park your appliances behind the door. They're out of sight until you need them."

The ideal appliance garage has tambour doors, the kind that roll open and shut like a secretary desk. It fits under cabinets, recessed behind the countertop. It can be several feet long — great for hiding blenders, can openers or anything else that makes a kitchen look cluttered.

Another new and nifty kitchen storage idea is roll-out shelves. There are pop-up shelves, too, that store mixers and food processors until the cook elevates them to counter height. Here's a clever way to dispose of a toaster: a new one by Modern Maid slides into the wall. Only one stainless steel side, with a black handle, shows.

The latest in high-tech cooking are the convection oven and cook-tops of glass or ceramic tile.

Fan-circulated air in a convection oven keeps the interior temperature constant. It cooks more evenly than a standard oven and is also energy-efficient. New on the market are combination convection and microwave ovens.

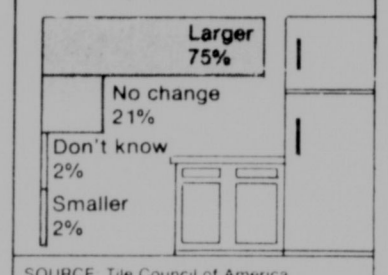

Innovative smooth cook-tops of glass or ceramic tile heat with electromagnetic induction. There are 99 temperature settings, including one that lets you boil water in 15 seconds. Induction is the cleanest possible source of heat. There are no burned pot bottoms because the cook-top acts as an energy transfer agent — it doesn't even get hot.

WALK ON AIR

Natural or carpeted, floors draw design raves

By Janet Gordon
Copley News Service

What to do about that scarred and scoured floor? You can take it down to bare and beautiful or you can cover it up. Both solutions have merit.

After years of being hidden under wall-to-wall carpet, hardwood floors have re-emerged in all their underfoot elegance. Now that they're back, they're even easier to maintain.

Thanks to a new interest in hardwood, companies are now producing flooring prefinished with several coats of polyurethane to make waxing obsolete.

The new hardwoods also come in a wide variety of styles, widths and colors — from chestnut parquet to bleached-white solid oak, to a wide plank, ranch-style wood with walnut pegs.

The new floor finishes make cleaning a breeze. The Oak Flooring Institute cautions that water and wood don't mix and offers a few general guidelines for keeping hardwood floors clean.

For routine cleaning, remove surface dirt with a dry mop, a slightly damp mop or a vacuum cleaner. Stains can be wiped with a damp (not wet) cloth.

Rub chewing gum, crayon marks, candle wax or tar with ice cubes wrapped in a plastic bag. When the residue is brittle enough, scrape it off. Use cleaning fluid to loosen any substance still sticking to the floor.

Distressed wood floors that have been wire brushed to an antique, textured appearance, are particularly notorious dust-trappers. Vacuuming is the best way to remove surface dust caught in their uneven surfaces. If soil remains, sweep and re-vacuum.

If floors are scarred and worn, you may have to refinish them before they're fit to walk on. The entire process takes about five days, so plan ahead.

The first step is to replace any damaged boards with cut-to-fit strips of the same type of wood. Cracks should be filled with wood filler. Then sand off the old finish using a floor sander and edger. After the wood dust and surface dirt are removed, you're ready to apply the new finish.

Stains, paint, bleaches, penetrating sealers, varnishes and urethanes (resin finishes) are your choices. Varnishes tend to scratch and they can darken or yellow, so if the floor is in a high-traffic area, urethane finishes are your best bet.

If refinishing seems too elaborate, you might want to consider painting your floors. Two of the hottest floor treatments being used today grew out of a need to camouflage damaged floors.

Spatter-painting a floor involves using a dark or light background color and then spattering dots of one or more contrasting colors with an almost dry brush and a bit of wire screen. The result is a special effect that can pull a room together by using the colors of individual elements.

Stenciling is popping up everywhere, from furniture to fireplaces to floors. One of the easiest painted effects to achieve, it needs only a stencil, paint, brush, ruler, and a steady hand.

For floors that are too far gone to reclaim, tiling may be the only solution. Once relegated solely to bathrooms and kitchens, tiled floors are making a comeback. Vinyl tiles now come in an array of colors and textures unheard of 15 years ago. But the trend in tile is imported.

Italian and Dutch tiles are being used to create richly textured floors that complement a wide variety of decorating schemes. Marble has become newly affordable, with the advent of smaller, less expensive tiles at $4.25 to $20 per square foot.

One of the drawbacks to bare floors is that walking on them tends to be noisy. In a city apartment or town house, it's almost essential to use carpeting in one or more rooms to keep the noise level down.

Comfort, warmth and a "furnished" look can be achieved with wall-to-wall carpet or room size rugs. In the past, experts have recommended against the use of carpet when easy care was a design issue, but this is no longer true.

"The introduction of stain-resistant carpets has revolutionized the manner in which carpet can be used in the home," says Michael West, a consultant to Monsanto. "Floors are now protected from most household stains."

Tweeds, tone-on-tones and pebbled textures in rugs are a help in hiding dirt and lint. Pattered designs and stain resistant carpets are the wisest choice for areas in the spill zone.

Colors in carpeting run the gamut from neutral to noticeable, but Catherine Crane, author of "What Do You Say to a Naked Room?" offers this advice to prospective carpet buyers:

"If you choose a bright and lively colored carpeting, the color must be repeated somewhere else in the room — say on the sofa pillows or drapery trim. Otherwise, it will look as if you just moved into someone else's home."

Some rooms may demand less formality — that calls for a rug.

A neutral fiber rug may be the best choice, and these grass or straw rugs are easily maintained. Vacuuming will remove everyday soil and undyed rugs can be washed with soap and water.

For the past decade, though, the last word in rugs has been Oriental. The deeply toned rugs are perfect for traditional homes and the lighter pastels work well with more informal styles.

Most rugs come from Persia (Iran), China, India, Pakistan and Turkey. Each region has distinctive styles. Persian rugs, for instance, are known for their soft colors and allover designs. Most Chinese rugs feature soft shades; symbols, such as trees, clouds and dragons, and sculptured pile.

The size, fineness (number of knots per square inch) of weave, intricacy of design and rarity all contribute to the price of an Oriental rug, but they are affordable.

Even carpeting can be treated a rug. Trim a carpet to create a space within a room, exposing natural wood.

Since a floor has to be underfoot anyway, you might as well make sure that it's has a style of its own.

CONTRACTOR CROSS FIRE

Choosing a remodeling pro or do-it-yourself advice

By Gretchen Fallon
Copley News Service

"Dirt and confusion." That's how one veteran of the remodeling process describes his experience.

After six months of acting as his own general contractor for a major renovation of his home, this do-it-yourselfer gained a new family room and kitchen, bath and laundry room, and a new master bedroom suite.

"It was a monumental undertaking," he says of his self-appointed job of organizing and supervising the work. "I never drew an untroubled breath for the whole time."

And that from a happy survivor, one who is satisfied with the results.

On any redo, from a "simple" kitchen makeover to a full-blown gut and reframe remodeling, the general contractor (or GC) is the project's field marshal and dictator: he is the man (or woman) with the clipboard of blueprints and access to the purse strings, with trade connections and business contacts around town.

HEADACHES BY THE NUMBER

Before you decide you want to "play the general" on your home remodeling project, consider these less-glamorous elements of the GC's job:

- He selects, buys and arranges for delivery of all materials, and then plans to be there to accept delivery and sign for the materials.
- He supervises all work, organizes all processes, and inspects all installations.
- He hires (and fires) all "subs" (subcontractors).
- The GC is the one who "has words" with the brick man in your front yard (progress is too slow, cost is too high, the brick doesn't match).
- He is the master of the schedule — so that you do not wake at 6:00 in the morning to find the painter standing at the foot of your bed. So that you do not head out the driveway only to find a ton of Sheetrock blocking your path.
- He is the on-the-spot authority, the person to whom every worker turns when there's a problem to be solved or a judgment call to be made.

DOLLARS AND SENSE

Why would any home owner knowingly let himself in for such grief? In a word — money.

By acting as your own GC, you can hope to save about 20 percent to 25 percent of the redo's total costs — essentially the GC's fee. On a $40,000 kitchen remodeling and room addition, the savings could be about $10,000, which can be quite an incentive to run the show yourself.

Commonly, though, the home owner who successfully plays general is not a total novice.

He has some experience with construction (perhaps on an earlier, small project), and may have worked with many subcontractors. Where his own knowledge is thin, he is able to rely on the expertise of friends or family members (Dad is a plumber).

In addition to know-how and resources, this satisfied amateur GC has an invaluable asset — time. Invariably, the successful home owner-GC is someone who can spend every day, all day, on the job site.

"If I'd only been able to stop by once a day," reasons the veteran DIYer, "there would have been problems discovered after-the-fact. That means ripping something out, and that means delays and more money."

FINDING A PRO

If you're convinced a professional GC is the person to handle your remodeling headaches, consider these tips on shopping for a good one.

- Don't skimp on time and attention in the selection process. Comparison shop; invite several GCs to submit bids on the job. Choose as carefully as you'd choose your family doctor. The choice is particularly crucial if you will be living in your home as it undergoes surgery.
- Professionals in the business agree: Word-of-mouth is the best advertisement. Shop for a GC by talking with friends and neighbors who have survived the redo process and are happy with the results.
- Look for a GC with a track record. That's someone who has been in the business awhile (mere survival is a good business indicator) and is a permanent member of the local business community.
- Ask a prospective GC for names, addresses and phone numbers of former jobs and clients. Then drive by the jobs andr call the home owners. (But, you wonder, wouldn't a GC be annoyed by these inquiries? "Not unless he's got something to hide," responds a pro.)
- Don't automatically select the GC with the lowest bid. Keep in mind that a wildly out-of-line low bid is probably cause for suspicion.
- Choose a GC whose standards coincide with yours. Example: Your plans call for matching existing trim. One GC says he can "come close." But, for some people, close isn't good enough. The pros believe in giving a client all the options — explaining, for instance, that an exact match on trim can be achieved, but it will require millwork, and that will cost money.

For more information, send a stamped, self-addressed business-size envelope to the N.A.H.B. Remodelers Council, 15th and M Streets NW, Washington, DC 20005 and request the free pamphlet, "How to Choose a Remodeler Who's on the Level."

WAYS TO SAVE

If you decide to hire a general contractor, but still want to save money on the project, the pros can suggest ways for you to participate in the battle, and thereby save, too.

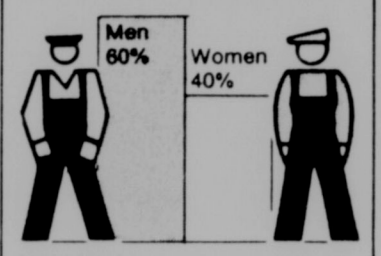

The best way to save money on a redo is to "front load" the project. That is, invest in a complete and fully documented set of architect's plans (a "custom, detailed" set). Prior planning means you'll save money in the long run by avoiding costly problems, changes and delays.

Do as much of the legwork as you can. You can go to the lighting fixture supplier, make your selections, and deliver them to the job site. You can be sure to choose paint (tile, wallpaper) color well before time to use it.

PASTEL PIZZAZZ

Spring/summer home fashion colors are soft, seductive

By Leatrice Eiseman
Copley News Service

Remember when home decor conformed to "the" look, and people scrambled to redecorate to stay in style?

Now consider some of today's moods and trends: The comfortable country look of Ralph Lauren. The splendors of the Southwest a la Georgia O'Keefe. The drama of chrome and mirrors. The soft shimmer of a Monet watercolor.

People now are proud to express their individuality through their homes. In doing so, they are aided by the rich and diverse array of available moods, fabrics, and textures. The result is often a highly personalized atmosphere that looks lived-in and homey — regardless of style. In fact, a single home can successfully combine several decorating moods; if the rooms are unified by linking the color palette throughout the home, this eclectic approach works beautifully.

To be sure, economics are having an impact on home decor; fewer people are refurnishing, while more are redoing. Slipcovers have made a comeback as a practical way to achieve an instant change without a huge expense. And fresh coats of paint are providing many rooms with a much-needed lift at comparatively little cost. The vast choices in fabrics and paints make even such limited changes great fun to effect.

Color this spring is dominated by pastels — not the washed-out, blah variety, but tones that are at once vibrant and gentle.

Take your cue from Monet's watercolors, for instance. Monet used soft yellows, setting them off with a splash of lavender here and a splash of pink azalea there. Or he set off those lavenders and pinks with strokes of bright, citrusy greens.

People are trusting the artist's inspiration in combining certain colors they might not otherwise have considered. They're saying, quite rightly, "If it's wonderful in that painting, it will work well in my living room, too."

The Monet watercolor mood is being carried out most successfully by using fabrics of polished cotton and other materials with shimmer and iridescence.

Paint manufacturers have made an all-out effort in recent years to make the sheen that has long been considered suitable for woodwork and trim also accepted for walls.

Finishes that are called eggshell or pearlescent are actually a low-level enamel, with a patina that's perfect with the watercolor motif. The image is that of looking into the still, lovely surface of a clear lake. Of course, not all the surfaces are shimmery; matte finishes provide a contrast that enriches the total effect.

Even within a particular home-fashion trend these days there are wide variations.

The country look, now undergoing a revival after having been lost in the art deco shuffle, is favored by many for its warmth. But country can be as strong as Ralph Lauren or as delicate as Laura Ashley. It can range from sophisticated English country to folk art Americana.

Pastels are notable in the country look, too, but they're accented by crisp periwinkle blues and buttery yellows — with splashes of fun cast in here and there by bright reds.

Another home-fashion trend centers on the use of neutral shades, which have been used less often in the past several years.

Neutrals are considered safe in times of economic uncertainty; they blend well with everything and are never offensive. And the popularity of neutral-color leathers has spawned a new spectrum of neutral tones, such as palomino leather, ivory, ecru and bisque. Leather upholstery, it's worth noting, is more practical than you might think; it's quite durable and easy to clean.

Drama and elegance are also favored home environments. The dramatic look features strong clean lines, geometric patterns, and lots of chrome and mirrored surfaces. Black is essential, but it's brightened by touches of coral, watermelon red and vibrant jade in accessories, pictures and objets d'art.

Elegance is created by choosing sophisticated colors and sophisticated combinations of colors. Shades of camel and varying gray tones are used together, combined with slate blues and accented with touches of jewel tones such as ruby red or burgundy. Slate blue may also be drawn together with plum and camel. With bright jewel tones accenting the softer neutral shades, a truly rich interior evolves.

The Southwest look continues to march across the country, bolstered by artist Georgia O'Keefe's sensational exhibit at the National Gallery in Washington, D.C. Many of the creative people in home decor will be playing out the marvelous colors of her Southwest sunsets in their fabrics and designs.

Santa Fe colors continue their extraordinary popularity in those wonderful dhurrie rugs. Cotton and rag rugs — which are also very big — are showing some of the loveliest pastels to best advantage.

Colors this spring continue to be warm rather than cool; there's a warm undertone in just about every color. Pink is a fine example; it's a very popular color, but we're seeing warm pinks and peach tones rather than the cooler blue pinks.

The warmth of the colors is indicative of our needs. We turn to warm tones in uncertain times. When we're frightened of the outside world, our homes become a safe haven where we can feel nurtured and protected.

Taking a cue from Mother Nature, balance these warm colors with a touch of cool. The effect achieved, a kind of equilibrium, at once reflects and encourages our hope for the future, our desire to look beyond our current anxieties to the more reassuring times we are confident lie ahead.

Choosing

It is a good idea, say some GCs, to do some of your own light cleanup: sweeping up at the end of the workday, clearing trash from the job site, washing windows and tubs. (Cleanup might yield a savings of $500-$1,000 over the course of a job.)

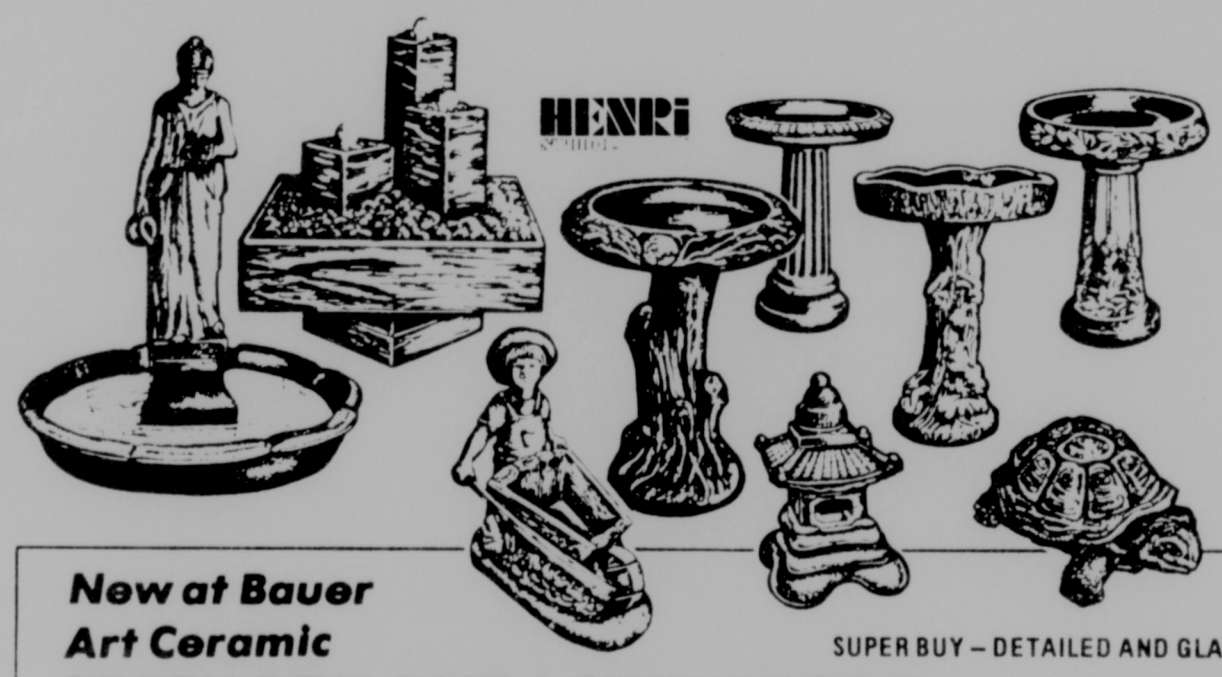

If you take on the extra burden of renting a truck to haul away heavy debris, you might save several thousand dollars. Investigate the possibilities and check with your GC.

You also can do some tear-out jobs to save money. You might remove an old tree from the back yard or tear out an old deck. Again, check with the GC for suggestions.

LAST WORDS

If you are convinced you are up to the hassles and frustrations of acting as your own general contractor, and if you have the time and temper to do it successfully, consider this parting shot from an architect who has done it.

There may be nothing structurally unsound with your redo, but "there will always be something not quite right — a door poorly framed, kitchen cabinets ever so slightly out-of-plumb. There will always be evidence of a struggle."

WALL WOW

Paint, paper, paneling for jazzy room re-dos

By Katherine P. Tomlinson
Copley News Service

Pale is passe. Off-white is out. Beige is blah. This year, walls are no longer going to fade into the woodwork. In 1988, walls are going to do a lot more than just separate the floor and the ceiling.

IS THIS A COVER-UP?

Wallpaper is the first line of defense against boring rooms. If you've always painted rather than papered, it's a good idea to keep some general guidelines in mind.

Dark papers generally make a room appear smaller, while light papers do the reverse. Vertical stripes will raise the ceiling visually, and horizontal stripes will broaden walls.

The scale of the print should roughly relate to the size of the room. For instance, mini-prints work best in small spaces, while larger, open patterns look better in bigger spaces.

The number and variety of patterns available have mushroomed in the past few years. The old "cabbage rose" designs of the 1950s are a thing of the past.

For bachelors, there are more masculine prints, including traditional plaids, stripes and textures with coordinating borders.

For a high tech look, companies such as Fashon offer new-fangled mylars that avoid the glitz of earlier papers. You'll see more multiple use of metallic threads, precious metals and styles that epitomize elegant glitter.

Wall-papering isn't as easy as painting a room, but it's still a good beginner remodeling project.

You'll need a large flat surface on which to cut and paste — the floor of the room you're wall-papering should do nicely — and the following tools:

- plumb line, chalk, tack or level
- scissors
- wide-blade putty knife or window squeegee
- razor knife and blades
- seam roller
- smoothing brush
- water tray (for prepasted wallcovering)
- bucket and wallcovering paste brush or roller, adhesive (for unpasted wallcovering)
- wall-preparation materials (see directions for your type of wall)

Wallpaper doesn't cost much, either. While matching an antique paper for a restoration project can run into the thousands, for less than $100 you can produce the look of a designer room.

Many of today's wallpapers are strippable, so by tugging at a corner, an entire strip may be peeled off.

Wallpaper now can be applied to textured walls as well.

WALL WOW — Paint, paper and stenciling are just part of the new look of walls.

Damaged, concrete block, paneled or ceramic tile walls can be papered after an application of bridging paper, a wall-lining material.

Bridging paper smoothes out inconsistencies without spackling and is available wherever wallpaper is sold. The material sells for about $8 per 5-yard roll.

Bordering with wallpaper is very popular this year. Bands of prints, solids and contrasting elements are used around the ceilings and floors of rooms to provide a finishing touch.

Cutouts of print also can create "islands" of interest in solid-colored walls or on painted surfaces.

Western Wallcovering Distributors Association offers a free illustrated, step-by-step guide to measuring and hanging wallcoverings. Send $1 for postage and handling to: WWDA, 3600 Wilshire Boulevard, Suite 200, Los Angeles, CA 90010.

FUNDAMENTALLY FABRIC

Wallpaper too sticky? Why not use fabric or sheeting as wall upholstery? Simply staple the cloth directly to the wall, and voila! A star room is born.

Commercial fabric wallcoverings usually come with paper backing, and are stuck on the wall with a wallcovering adhesive. Unbacked fabric also can be attached to the walls with adhesive, but first test and be sure the glue doesn't leave the fabric stained after drying. Apply the adhesive to the wall, not the fabric. Edges can be covered with ribbon, wood, braid or metal trim.

Paint, Paper

For a more finished look, nail lath strips to the top and bottom of the wall with vertical pieces every 5 to 6 feet. Staple the fabric to the lath with a staple gun. You can make finished seams where the fabric joins by stapling from the backside over strips of cardboard.

One of the newest looks in fabric wallcovering is the "upholstered wall effect."

To replicate the look, staple bonded polyester batting to the wall first and then use one of the non-adhesive methods.

For a shirred wall, you will need three times the fabric as the width of the wall. The fabric can be gathered with shirring tape or threaded on a rod that is attached to the wall.

For heavily damaged walls, or to camouflage a too-high ceiling, fabric also can be tented from a central ceiling point. The look is extremely exotic, but worth the effect if the underlying wall is in bad shape.

STENCIL SUCCESS

The age-old art of stenciling has returned to prominence as a wall decoration this year.

Buy ready-made stencil kits at art supply stores, or make your own by tracing a chosen motif on cardboard and cutting it out. Transfer the motif to a piece of acetate and cut with a sharp instrument. Use paint that dries quickly, such as artist's acrylics. And always test a sample first.

Stenciling is relatively simple but can produce a variety of effects.

Produce solid, one-colored images by a basic "pounding" technique. The paint is applied to cutouts with an up and down "pounding" motion.

Spray paint gives softer-edged images and dry-brush stenciling reproduces the faded look of very old stenciling, a lovely accent in a renovated vintage home.

For special effects, stencil with a sponge or use the spatter painting technique so popular now. Shaded and dimensional stenciling adds depth to the designs, which also can be sparked with extra colors.

BRUSH UP ON YOUR TECHNIQUE

The quickest way to change a wall's personality is by slapping on a coat of paint. But styles in wall colors, like styles in clothing, change. Wimpy neutrals are out.

This season, the best-dressed walls will be wearing deep jewel tones and warm salmons and pinks.

Aqua, teal and shades of blue green also will be important. Think of the colors of a Georgia O'Keeffe landscape, spunky neutrals that are as appropriate to Santa Fe-style as they are to a New England salt box.

Walls are shinier than they've been in years and a variety of special effects serve to make them pop out of the background. Spatter painting, a technique using an almost dry brush, is being used to create the illusion of texture. The effect is particularly spectacular when carried over to floors and ceilings, or used as an accent.

Murals and tromp l'oeil whimsies have replaced the angular supergraphics that graced walls in the 1970s and early 1980s, and more traditional designs are being reproduced from such diverse sources as Victorian picture-books and scraps of museum wallpaper.

POMP AND PANELING

Paneling has changed almost as much as wallpaper. No longer relegated to the library of a stuffy men's club, paneling has a new attitude.

Designer plywood paneling is now available with embossed, scenic, floral and woven surfaces.

Fine wood paneling is available in light and dark and every shade in between, with exotic woods offered at a premium price.

Paneling is a reasonably easy do-it-yourself project, and it can cover a multitude of cracks and gouges. An instructional video such as "Principles of Paneling" can help get you started with the basics of cutting, glueing, nailing and finishing the paneled room.

Paneling offers a low-maintenance surface for walls that take a lot of abuse. Good wood paneling should be treated like fine furniture. If the surface is coated with dirt, use a commercial furniture cleaner (not polish) and clean with a cotton cloth.

LOCATION

Hey, listen! What's that sound? Everybody look what's going down ... the street?

It's a school bus, and it and 30 of its brothers come down your street every day, twice a day, at 7 a.m. and 3 p.m. Real estate agents have two words to describe such a situation: bad location.

The house may be perfect for your needs and the inspector may have given it an enthusiastic thumbs up, but if it feels as though the house is on the runway of a major international airport, it may not rate as the house of your dreams.

Other questions to ask yourself:

• Are there schools nearby?

• Is it easy to get to shopping?

• How is the area's crime rate?

• Are there any problems with the neighbors?

Also, does the house really fit your lifestyle. For instance, the house may be surrounded by a beautiful half-acre lawn, perfect for croquet and lawn parties, but who is going to mow it? Either you do or else you had better get a tribe of goats (if zoning laws allow).

GETTING HELP

Here are some publications that can help you in looking for a new home:

• "Your New Home and How To Take Care of It" is a booklet published by the National Association of Home Builders. The booklet can help prepare home buyers "for the minor adjustments and repairs necessary in most new homes," according to the NAHB.

The 56-page booklet can help you know what to expect whether you buy a new or "used" home.

Single copies of the booklet can be obtained for $3.50 from the Publications Department, National Association of Home Builders, 15th and M St. N.W., Washington, DC 20005. Be sure to specify the title when ordering.

• "The Home Price Comparison Index" compares housing costs in 136 cities nationwide. Published by Coldwell Banker, the largest full-service real estate company in the nation, the pamphlet also compares percentage change in value over the past year, the average number of days a house stays on the market, annual taxes and typical mortgage (or rent) payments.

Send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: The Home Price Comparison Index/Public Relations, 4000 MacArthur Blvd., Suite 10000, Newport Beach, CA 92660.

• "47 Guidelines to Help Select a School" is published by School Match, a computer-based information service created to help find private or public schools that suit a family's needs. Besides providing the free pamphlet, School Match offers detailed "profiles" of schools in the area to which you wil be moving.

For $35 you can get nine categories of information, including pupil-teacher ratio and percentage of local families with school-age children. More in-depth profiles also are available.

Write to School Match, Dept. FC, Blendonview Office Park, 5027 Pine Creek Drive, Westerville, OH 43081.

MULTIFUNCTIONAL SPACES

Family rooms combine entertainment, elegance

By Karen Caldwell
Copley News Service

Near the fireplace, Mom reads the toddlers a bedtime story. Elder brother practices shots at the pool table. Dad and Grandma watch TV; he's on his stationary bicycle, she's on an overstuffed sofa. And over by the patio, Sis works on a science project.

This is the multifunctional room of the '80s: home space that's flexible, practical and fun. Depending on its inhabitants, the room can be an entertainment center, exercise area, guest suite, sewing room, game room — you name it.

"It's part of the open-planned home," says one interior designer. "Walls are coming down between dining rooms, kitchens and family rooms. Larger spaces provide more options." But even small rooms, such as seldom-used spare bedrooms, can become multifunctional.

The criteria is lifestyle: Who is going to be using the room, and what does he want to do there? Evaluate and plan the room's furnishings and "extras." Whether you consult a designer or assemble the room yourself, here are tips to keep in mind.

How do you get ideas for multifunctional interiors? Read home sections of newspapers and magazines that focus on home design. Visit furniture showrooms and antique stores. Consult an interior designer. Finally, close your eyes and imagine the perfect multipurpose environment.

Here are some examples:

• One family defined their multifunctional room as a space for munching, music and games. They installed a mini-kitchen, complete with microwave and refrigerator, and easy-to-clean, hard-working tile flooring.

They refurbished a player piano and gave it a place of prominence. Finishing touches were an arcade game and two antique slot machines.

• A couple with grown children decided to knock down the wall between the kitchen and dining room of their home. The result was a "great room," an informal area with a kitchen at one end, a vaulted ceiling and a fireplace. Their goal was to create a welcoming, informal atmosphere for food preparation, dining and relaxing with guests.

• A young professional couple installed an indoor whirlpool bath in their bedroom, with exercise equipment and a TV. "First you sweat, then the reward," was their comment.

• A family with working parents and small children designed an intimate family retreat around a fireplace and media center. Along one wall are shelves and bins for the children's books and toys. Sofas are soft, long and low — perfect for snuggling and bedtime stories.

There are many elements to juggle — televisions, guest needs, office needs — when designing your family room.

Know what's missing from most model homes? Television sets.

The decorators of these meticulous interiors know that a TV set can be instant death to good design.

What if some family members are avid sports fans and insist on a large-screen TV? Your design dilemma is to tame the one-eyed monster so it doesn't dominate the space.

Incorporate the TV into a larger open storage and display system, holding games, stereos and books. This mutes the importance of the TV and tempts the eye with interesting objects that suggest alternative activities.

Minimize the impact of the TV screen by creating other focal areas in the room.

A chess table can be located next to windows with a view and natural light.

The more options you provide visually and physically, the more likely you are to get a genuine recreating room and not just a movie theater.

Other TV-concealers are pull-out shelves with swivel bases. The shelves make it possible to turn the TV toward various parts of a room; cabinetry with doors camouflages the cyclops when not in use. Or transform an antique armoire into a television and video cabinet.

Even though you rarely have overnight guests, you need a guest room. How can you have both a media and a guest room?

Make comfort a priority. A cozy armchair and overstuffed convertible sofa will probably be all the major furniture the room can handle.

Two or three small nesting tables will serve you better than a heavy coffee table. When you have a guest and pull out the bed, these tables can be easily stacked and moved aside.

Use a light color scheme with bright punches of color in accessories. The furniture in the room should be in a similar light fabric so it "disappears" against the walls. Mini-blinds are more space-saving than curtains.

Do you have a post-college child at home in your small spare room? Fix it up as an officebedroom that you can use as a den uest room when he leaves.

You'll need storage, a desk, seating and a place to sleep. See how many ways you can combine these functions in a minimum of floor space.

For example, a desk can double as a headboard for a bed that by day is a sofa. A built-in can store books, clothing and TV; its countertop can be used as a work surface and for serving refreshments. Omit the need for bulky, space-stealing lights with recessed ceiling lighting.

Well-designed space key to productivity

By Debra Lee Baldwin
Copley News Service

If you're planning to work out of an office in your home, chances are you'll be spending a lot of time there.

"People who work at home tend to work more, not less," says Judy Graf Klein, architect and author of "The Office Book" (Facts on File).

"Procrastination isn't the problem people think it is," she told Metropolitan Home magazine. "The problem can be tearing yourself away from your work."

Whether you're generating income at home — or just working on occasional projects — you need a special place dedicated to productivity. The home office should be welcoming, personal, comfortable, private — and efficient.

Location is a key consideration. You need adequate space, convenient access and seclusion. A desk tucked into the corner of a family room or kitchen might be convenient, but it won't give you much room or peace and quiet.

If possible, find an area you can devote to your work. A den or spare bedroom is ideal; a garage or attic may be adequate, too. If none of these is available, use a folding screen to isolate your office from a larger room. Just be sure the work area is out of the flow of household traffic.

"Anything you can do to separate work and living areas is to your advantage," says Klein. "I've seen a lot of half-height walls work as dividers in small spaces." A platform is another way to define separate space; so are area rugs.

Chances are you'll need every inch — especially if you're adding a computer, printer and several software packages to the routine assemblage of desk, filing cabinets, telephone, bookshelves and swivel chair.

You may find you need two desks: One for the computer gear and one for everything else. It also helps to have a second desk so you can spread out to write a letter or open a book or magazine.

Ask furniture dealers and suppliers of office equipment to show you designs that incorporate space-saving extras. For example, some desks have pull-out shelves that slide away when the office "closes up."

When selecting a desk, table or other work surface, beware of highly polished finishes. The shine of marble, stainless steel, glass and glossy woods can cause eye-straining glare.

Minimize the contrast between paperwork and surface colors. Avoid a black table, for instance — your eyes will ache if you work with white paper.

If you have a hulking file cabinet, use it for long-term storage. Keep it in the garage or some other out-of-the-way place. For the files you use every day, a roll-out cart parked under your desk is probably all you need. (Besides, file cabinets are a reminder of the office drudgery you left behind!)

For a homey touch, store phone books, computer paper and office supplies in a credenza or a cabinet — or even an antique armoire. For maximum storage efficiency, however, few things can match modular wall systems. Customize them with closed compartments, drop-down ledges and sliding shelves.

It's possible to have an office in a space as small as a walk-in closet. One way to avoid claustrophobia is to install proper lighting: place a small clamp-on desk lamp directly above the working surface in addition to an overhead light that brightens the entire area.

If you lack square footage, go vertical with shelves. Try mounting wire racks (the kind often used in kitchens) with bins and baskets arranged for your needs. Add a magnetic bulletin board. You can get a small-scale office chair, but don't compromise on quality.

"There's just no substitute for a corporate-caliber office chair if you're to be tied to a desk," says Metropolitan Home. "They're engineered for endurance. Test drive one thoroughly before you buy — it should fit your body like a glove."

A swivel chair on wheels adjusted to proper height is a must. You need to be able to turn and move from one desk or work space to another smoothly and efficiently. Protect your carpet with a sheet of plastic or Plexiglass, available at office supply stores.

Use a conventional office chair for desk work and a wing chair or chaise for reading reports. Moving from chair to chair can keep fatigue from setting in while you're sitting down.

Minimize back and eye strain by making sure your computer keyboard and screen are properly positioned. You should be looking slightly down when you look at the screen — gazing up for hours can cause neck pain.

Spare your shoulders and back by positioning the keyboard at elbow-height — or slightly lower — when you're seated.

Glare is often a problem for computer users, too. Window shades or draperies that block out light may be your best bet. Or buy a "glare screen" to put over the surface of the computer's monitor. The screens costs less than $25 and are available from computer dealers and accessory suppliers.

REAL ESTATE FINANCING

Spend money wisely for your castle

By David Hatz
Copley News Service

You and your spouse are on Cloud Nine because you've found the house of your dreams. Unfortunately, now it's time to wake up to reality and ask the question: How are we going to pay for it?

If Aunt Martha didn't leave you her estate or you don't strike it rich in a lottery, you will have to finance your dream home.

Financing a home is the most complicated monetary investment/transaction in which most people will ever be involved. But it doesn't have to be a nightmarish experience. A little preplanning and the willingness to shop around can make the process easier, reduce the possibility that your loan application will be rejected, and ensure that you get the best possible terms.

DO WE QUALIFY?

Qualifying for a home mortgage today is different than a few years ago. There are almost as many qualifying formulas as there are loan types — and there are a lot.

FHA-insured and VA-guaranteed loans often are the only types of financing possible for the first-time buyer or others squeaking by on a minimal down payment and marginal income.

Loans insured by the Federal Housing Administration have lenient buyer qualifications compared with other types of loans. The FHA insures full payment of the mortgage to the lender, and will loan a maximum of $90,000.

Generally, FHA's qualification guidelines say a buyer may not spend more than 38 percent of his net monthly income for mortgage payments (principal and interest), real estate taxes, insurance and utility bills.

Loans guaranteed by the Veterans Administration can be obtained with no down payment. It guarantees up to $27,500 of the loan, or 60 percent of the property's value, whichever is less. The VA will loan a maximum of $135,000.

Conventional home loans usually carry tougher qualification standards and require more of a down payment. But with private mortgage insurance, a conventional loan can be as high as 95 percent of the purchase price.

A loan of no more than 80 percent of the property's value does not require PMI coverage. And without the PMI cost, the loan applicant is more likely to qualify for the loan.

Qualification formulas for conventional loans vary because of the range of loan types offered in today's market. But, generally, lenders require that borrowers spend no more than 25 percent of their gross monthly income on mortgage payments, and no more than 33 percent for all housing-related costs.

FIXED OR ADJUSTABLE?

Once you have an idea of the type of loan you can secure, you must decide which kind of mortgage best fits your needs.

The basic fixed-rate mortgage is again America's clearly preferred type of home loan. But there also are new concepts appealing to many home buyers.

About 88 percent of home buyers who obtain new mortgage financing go for a fixed-rate loan, according to the National Board of Realtors. A fixed-rate loan is simple: Its rate doesn't change, its monthly payment doesn't change. And it's paid off in 15 or 30 years, depending on the length of the loan.

The main advantage of this type of loan is that the payment remains the same, even if interest rates go up. The disadvantage is that if the overall interest rates go down, your rate on a traditional mortgage will not. You would have to refinance, a transaction that can cost thousands of dollars, to take advantage of the lower rates.

While the basic fixed-rate 30-year mortgage is the most popular in today's market, the 15-year mortgage is becoming increasingly popular. The difference in monthly payments between a 15-year and 30-year mortgage is surprisingly small. And the savings in interests costs is huge. For example, total interest payments on a 30-year loan of $100,000 at 10 percent amount to $215,926. But interest payments on a 15-year loan at 9.75 percent comes to $90,685 — 15-year mortgages often carry slightly lower interest rates than 30-year loans.

Adjustable-rate mortgages, which became popular in the early 1980s when interest rates were much higher, can be complex.

ARMs are advantageous because their rates start out lower than fixed rates. But, depending on how the interest rate fluctuates, these mortgages can skyrocket past the fixed-rate figure.

ARMs are good to consider if you believe: a) that rates are going to fall to levels lower than they are today; or, b) you plan to keep your house only for a few years, and an ARM looks less expensive in the short term.

SPEEDING UP THE PROCESS

If you're looking to pay off your loan in a shorter period of time, one option to consider is a biweekly mortgage. With this loan, the borrower simply makes half of the regular monthly payment every two weeks. Because there are 26 two-week periods in a year, the equivalent of 13 monthly payments is made each year. This reduces the term of a 30-year mortgage to about 16 to 22 years.

The biweekly payment schedule can be used with both 30- and 15-year mortgage loans.

If you need quick approval on a loan — you can't wait the months it often takes for a standard loan to be approved — look for a quick-processing loan. These loans are usually closed within two to three weeks from the day the application is completed.

In these loans, the amount of cash down payment is usually 25 percent to 30 percent of the purchase price. Therefore, the lender's security is pegged more to the large equity in the property rather than in the personal qualifications of the borrower.

Quickie loans usually carry a higher interest rate than a standard mortgage loan and should be used only when there is a special and important need for a quick closing.

Regardless of the type of loan you try to secure, be sure to shop around. Large metropolitan areas may include as many as 150 lenders among banks, savings and loans and mortgage companies, with mortgage rates that vary from 0.375 to 0.50 for the same product. That difference amounts to $350 a year on a $100,000 fixed-rate mortgage at 10 percent.

Rates can change daily, and making 15 to 20 calls will help ensure that you get the best possible terms. Remember, most loan officers are commissioned salesmen and try to sell you loans they have and are most familiar with.

REFINANCING

There are many reasons you might want to refinance your home, but all basically fall into three general categories:

- Saving money by paying lower interest rates.
- Borrowing more money.
- Restructing (changing from one type of mortgage to another).

Saving Money: According to "The Mortgage Kit" (Thomas C. Steinmetz), mortgage interest rates have gone up and down more sharply during the past six years than they had previously since World War II. Rates today are the lowest they have been since the 1970s. If you bought or mortgaged your home with a fixed-rate mortgage between 1980 and 1985, you can probably lower your monthly mortgage payment and save thousands of dollars in interest by refinancing your old mortgage.

One general rule of thumb is: If can save at least 2 percent on the interest rate and plan to stay in your house for at least another two to three years, you should consider refinancing. Lowering your interest rate by as little as 2 percent on a $100,000 mortgage can lower a mortgage payment by $150. A 3 percent drop could drop your monthly payment by $228.63.

Refinancing costs run between $2,000 and $6,500, depending on a number of factors, including:

- The lender and loan that you chose.
- The cost of settlement services in your area.
- The recording fees charged by your local government.

But actual out-of-pocket expenses usually don't amount to more than a few hundred dollars. By increasing your mortgage amount to cover the cost of refinancing, your cash outlay should be minimal.

Borrowing More Money: A home purchased in the 1970s is almost certainly worth more money than you paid for it. Additionally, since you have been paying off your old mortgage, you now have equity.

You can borrow more money using this equity as collateral by replacing your old mortgage with a larger new one, or by getting a second mortgage — leaving the first mortgage in place.

Both methods have advantages and disadvantages. The choice usually is based on what you plan to do with the extra money, how much you need and how quickly

HOME IMPROVEMENT HOT LINE

Spring/summer fix-up projects made simple

By Katherine P. Tomlinson
Copley News Service

There's a reason why there's a spring. Not only does it provide a respite from the winter-wearies, it also allows breathing space before the onslaught of summer heat.

And if it weren't for spring, when would we do spring cleaning?

SPRING HAS SPRUNG

Spring is the season for sprucing up, fixing up, and generally taking stock. After a long, hard winter, even the best-maintained home can look a little weather-beaten.

Now is the time to check the insulation around doors and windows — particularly attic windows — and replace weatherstripping and recaulk as necessary.

Check attic insulation to make sure it's adequate. If your rooms were drafty and chilly last winter, you can bet you'll bake this summer.

If your home is air conditioned, conduct a pre-summer systems check of your equipment. Dirty filters will prevent the efficient heat transfer process, so remove and wash them.

Check exposed coils to make sure they're free of debris such as pine needles, dirt or cat hair. In window units that are permanently installed, check drain lines to make sure that water is draining properly.

Inside and outside cooling fins should be vacuumed. If any vents are bent, straighten them with a pencil.

Outdoor central air conditioning units should have been covered in winter and should be checked for dirt or debris before using.

If you need additional cooling power, check with your local air conditioning specialist. Among the factors that affect the system you need: The area of exposed wall; number and type of windows; amount and kind of insulation in the walls, floors and ceiling; type of siding.

Beach and river homes that sit on pylons will experience much more heat transfer (a cooling process) than those that are set on slabs. Another factor to consider is the number of people in a room.

If you're shopping for a new system, write to the Air-Conditioning & Refrigeration Institute for its free pamphlet, "How to Keep Your Cool and Save Cold Cash." Write ARI, 1501 Wilson Blvd., 6th Floor, Arlington, VA 22209.

You can find out how energy-efficient air-conditioning units are by contacting either the Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers (20 N. Wacker Drive, Chicago, IL 60606) or the American Council for an Energy-Efficient Economy (1001 Connecticut Ave., NW, Washington, DC 20036).

FANDANGO

There are varying schools of thought regarding the efficacy of ceiling fans. One group thinks that all they do is stir up hot air. The other group thinks they at least create the illusion of a breeze, plus adding white noise to drown out summer bug sounds.

Whatever your opinion, a three-speed (and reverse) Casablanca ceiling fan with polished brass and walnut paddles costs about $250. A 42-inch fan will cool a room with dimensions up to 15 x 15 feet. For larger rooms, a 52-inch fan works best.

Whole-house fans are extremely effective in cooling houses and circulating air on all but the hottest days. They are usually installed in an attic floor, although they can be installed in a wall, gable or window. Whole-house fans are normally operated at night when outside air is cooler than air inside the house.

CHILL OUT

Another way to prepare the house for the coming heat is to summerize the furnishings. Roll up heavy carpets and leave floors bare or covered with cotton dhurries, floor cloths and rag rugs.

Rooms that get a lot of sun, such as enclosed porches and solariums, can be furnished with summery wicker, slicked up with a fresh coat of paint in a new color.

Canvas-covered deck chairs and sturdy, good-looking lawn furniture can also help make the transition between seasons.

HEAT UP

If your home currently doesn't boast a "sun space," why not consider adding a solarium or Florida room? In addition to adding a work place, private retreat or entertainment center, the updated sun porch helps reduce fuel bills by capturing and trapping solar heat.

Modern sunspaces evolved out of the old greenhouse. Typically, such a room features panels of front glass that capture solar energy and insulated roof and side and knee walls that allow storage and utilization of heat.

GREEN GROW THE LILACS

April showers bring May flowers. Spring is the time to organize your summer planting. Start by breaking up the soil so water and nutrients can soak into the earth. Roses can be planted as soon as the threat of frost is past, so if you want a rose garden in high summer, early spring is the time to plant.

Contact your local gardening supply store or nursery for the best time to plant other flowers and shrubs. Most have preprinted instruction sheets that offer advice on springtime soil preparation.

FAST FIX-UPS

As snow melts and spring rains give way to summer breezes, it becomes evident to home owners that winter has taken its toll. Paint is peeling from windows, shutters and fences. Gutters and downspouts are ready to give way. Lawn furniture, hastily stored in the fall, is in dire need of repair.

Among the easiest do-it-yourself repair jobs you can tackle is painting. Next comes general refurbishing. If the aluminum welds on your storm windows and door frames have failed, it's an easy matter to fix them.

Using a rivet gun, drill the necessary number of one-and-one-third-inch holes along the joint to be repaired. Be certain to go all the way through both thicknesses of metal. (A hole every four inches should be sufficient.) Use one-and-one-third-inch short aluminum rivets to make a neat and very strong repair.

If your lawn furniture is looking shabby, it's a simple, if tedious, matter to replace the worn webbing. Rolls of webbing are available at any lawn furniture store. Simply follow the directions on the package.

MORE STATELY MANSIONS

Sometimes spring cleaning isn't enough to satisfy the urge for new surroundings. The next step, short of moving, is remodeling.

The two major areas that lend themselves to renovation are the kitchen and the bathroom. Total makeovers in these areas can run from $10,000 to $20,000 and up, so you may want to consider a less ambitious project.

Among the face-lifts that can add value to a home are refacing cabinets, painting, changing flooring or wall coverings, and replacing a sink, countertop or fixtures.

Whether you plan to do the remodeling yourself or hire a professional, coordination is the key.

Consider whether a remodeling project will add to your home's value or limit its resale potential. You don't want to overbuild. Extra bathrooms are almost al-

WINDOW WATCH

Curtains, mini blinds hang new look on old windows

By Dean Carroll
Copley News Service

If you think a window is just a hole in the wall, you're missing what's new in architectural style. Banish casement or sash treatments; windows aren't even rectangular anymore.

Say hello to clerestory windows, half-rounds, portholes, oversized squares, skinny oblongs — and that's just the beginning.

"Today windows do more than just admit light and air," says interior design writer Judith Findsen.

"The right windows can increase the usability of a room without costly reconstruction. And carefully selected and properly installed windows can reduce energy loss."

A really energy-efficient window will be double (or even triple) glazed, with two or three sheets of clear glass with an airspace in between. Double glazing is the most common, and a quality window will have double-glazed glass measuring at least ½-inch thick overall.

Low-emissivity glass has a thin, metallic, transparent coating. The finish reduces winter heat loss and summer heat gain and filters out ultraviolet rays that fade and deteriorate drapes, carpets and furniture.

New resilient weather stripping materials— particularly rovel and thermoplastic rubber — retains its shape and effectiveness despite temperature variations.

Practical concerns aside, window options span the gamut from curtains to mini blinds. One of the newest twists in window dressing is the use of glass bricks in place of conventional windows.

Once seen only in older houses, this born-again building material is a perfect solution to lightening oddly shaped dark spaces. Equally at home as an interior design accent, glass bricks offer a maximum of privacy, eliminating the need for bulky curtains or blinds.

Greenhouse windows — a variation on the reliable old bay window — are also in vogue. Easily installed, the windows provide a little green to urban space.

Along with skylights, they are one of them most requested "extras" in new buildings. Greenhouse windows also provide a low-cost alternative to the traditional last resort of the city gardener — window boxes.

While window boxes make attractive additions to country-style dwellings, greenhouse windows can blend with many architectural styles and moods and add to the resale value of a home.

For the individualist, stained glass offers the most personal of window treatments. Look for them inantique stores that specialize in architectural cast-offs, a good source for other design remnants like cast-iron fencing and solid wood doors.

Or commission a stained-glass artist to transform a favorite design into a glowing jewel-toned window.

Whether you choose traditional colored glass or a simpler, more modern design of beveled clear glass, there are some rules in getting your money's worth in a custom-designed window. First find an artist whose work you admire. Visit crafts fairs and studios in your area to look at samples of the work.

Be prepared to give the craftsman the following information:

- The size of the window you want to build.
- The location of the window.
- How much money you are willing to spend.

A low-cost alternative to traditional stained glass is hanging a series of colored glass ornaments at different levels in the window. The effect of sunlight streaming through the colors can be just as dramatic as a Tiffany-style window, with the added benefit that the design can be changed at whim.

Sometimes the amount of sunlight coming into a window can cause problems. If your upholstery fabric or carpets are starting to fade, remember that tinted windows aren't just for limos anymore.

The most effective kinds of window tinting are the very thin window tint and insulation films. These are best applied by professionals to avoid the inevitable air bubbles. When completed, the final result compares to tinted window glass rather than a covering applied to clear glass.

Or install exterior curtains over the outside of a window area. Whether roll-up canvas or bamboo curtains, you can let down during the heat of the day when direct sun is on that side of the house.

A vintage-style home might look nice with a old-fashioned awning. Choose among somber neutrals — dark green, slate gray or chocolate brown — or pastel coded to your decorating scheme.

For those who like to shut out their sunlight from the inside, blinds still offer the most versatile options. They're not the clunky wood and metal slats our parents used.

The invention of mini blinds opened up a whole new high tech look for windows and the new micro-minis (with slats of ½ inch) virtually disappear when they are opened. These slatted blinds have long been available in a wide range of decorator colors, but the newest look is graduated color and textured designs.

You'll even see blinds with designs silk-screened on the slats for a now-you-see-it, now-you-don't effect.

WINDOW WATCH — Curtains, mini blinds and unusually shaped windows are part of this season's new looks.

Vinyl vertical blinds are an excellent choice for the energy-conscious consumer: they close tightly, creating a storm window effect. With horizontal blinds, 30 percent more heat is lost in winter.

While vertical blinds don't yet come in the wide variety of colors offered by horizontal blind manufacturers, you can find vinyl louvers for unusual window shapes such as curved, slanted, notched, cathedral, bay and A-frames. In addition, they have the added advantage of being easier to clean than horizontal blinds.

Curtains probably dress a window more beautifully than any other treatment. More is better when it comes to drapes. Double hanging curtains with a sheer undercurtain topped with ruches or balloon-bottomed over-curtains offer a formal air to almost any room. Bed linen companies are now making curtains to coordinate with their sheets and bed sets for a well-matched room.

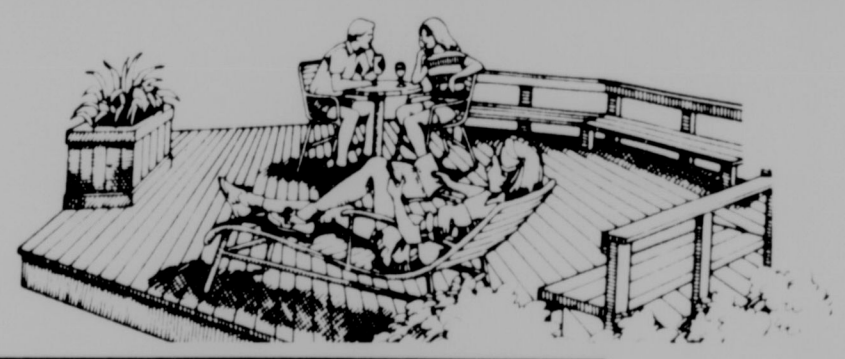

The big news though, is lace — as in lace curtain. It's a simple matter to throw a length of lace over a curtain rod to improvise a curtain. Lace works equally well with prints and solids, and can accommodate a variety of decorating styles.

If eyes are the windows of the soul, windows are the soul of a house. No longer is rectangular the only shape a window can be. Like the best of modern design, a window can add a unique touch to a home, the touch that says an individual lives here.

Remove Closet Doors

To save space in a small room, replace closet doors that swing open with bifold or sliding doors. Or remove the door and decorate the inside of the closet to match the room. (CNS)

BUDGET DESIGN

Your first furniture can be stylish, inexpensive

By Bea McLean
Copley News Service

You've just moved into a house or apartment. The walls are empty. The floors are bare. Your college-era furniture is behind you, and you're ready to begin from the beginning.

You have a limited start-up fund, but you want to make the right choices.

Good design is available with any budget. Anyone can create a comfortable living space that fits his or her lifestyle. With a limited budget, however, a single or a couple needs to be more creative and resourceful.

Beginners should avoid family cast-off furniture unless they are pieces of superior quality. According to one designer, the tears of joy that parents shed at weddings are over the old couch they finally can get rid of. The young couple doesn't want to hurt their feelings, so they get stuck trying to work with something they really don't like.

A better idea is to invest in a few anchor pieces that will be focal points within a room. For example, choose an armoire in golden oak or pine if you like the country look. An Adirondacks Mountain-style dining room table or kitchen hutch is another non-pricey purchase that you can build around.

When you start decorating, ask yourself how you will use the room. Do you need a wall unit to handle your TV and stereo? How many people will you entertain? Will you host buffet dinners for a large crowd or hold intimate dinners for four? The answers will dictate what anchors you need.

For a budget of $1,000, designers suggest purchasing an armoire, two director's chairs and a fabric-covered twin mattress with bolsters and colorful pillows. Pharmacy lamps, a brass floor lamp, poster art and basket work would complete the look.

Start simply. Select items that can be shifted to other rooms as money becomes more available and upgrades are sought.

Decorators suggest that someone starting out seek multipurpose furniture — you want furniture that is not just pretty to look at. The right sofa table can serve as a desk or look just as good later in a foyer. A nightstand can double as a dressing table. A hide-a-bed is another good purchase.

Laminate wood furniture to update older pieces, and you'll have something indestructible. New laminated wood-frame furniture can be purchased in stock sizes or cut to order.

Reupholstering used furniture is another option worth considering by those on a budget.

If buying new, select a neutral wraparound sofa that will adapt to other colors of carpeting in future apartments, townhouses or homes. As an option, the combination of two love seats and an ottoman will accommodate six people.

Add a floor lamp and a good-sized coffee table and your living room is set. The purchase of floor lamps instead of table lamps will save the cost of lamp tables.

Go for a clean, uncluttered look whether you're going contemporary or traditional. Avoid the knickknacks and gingerbread.

Color is your least expensive decorating tool, and paint is a powerful weapon. Faux finishes — such as a "rag" look applied with a sponge — add interest to walls.

Wallpaper can help a sparsely decorated room, too. A string or nubby texture can set a casual look, a silky finish sets a more formal tone.

For those with a tight budget, decorators suggest partial papering. Drop wallpaper borders 12 to 15 inches from the ceiling with two different colored paint borders above and below.

Window treatment, designers say, is the touch that will pull together your decorating look. Colored shades in vinyl or fabric, or made from laminated wallpaper fabric to match your sofa, pleated shades or vertical blinds are among the possibilities.

As an elegant touch, add a fabric valance or a decorator pole, which you can wrap yourself with an inexpensive linen or gauzelike material.

If decorating an apartment, it may be unwise to spend heavily on window treatment. However, modestly priced window treatments such as mini blinds often can be sold later to the incoming tenant.

A quality look can last as long as 15 years, and in the long run save you money. For example, the popular French Country style, marked by small-print fabrics and golden oak, combines nicely with hardwood floors and throw rugs and could transfer later to a home with a fireplace and other niceties.

With French Country, why not reupholster a couch with a cotton or corduroy fabric?

Above all, avoid impulse buying. Keep an overall plan — and color scheme — in mind as you go along. Your purchases should be pieces to the puzzle. An interior designer can help you formulate the plan, whether the look you want is contemporary or formal, feminine or masculine.

LIGHT CUISINE

Lamps, illumination ideas for flattering rooms

By Debra Cooper
Copley News Service

It looks like an inquisitive alien. It has three parts: podlike base, long skinny neck and one unblinking light-emitting eye. Sitting on a table, a high-design halogen lamp is passive and helpful — if a bit snoopy.

The new halogen light bulb makes its predecessor, the incandescent bulb invented by Thomas Edison, seem bald and elderly. Because of its adaptable size, halogen has revolutionized lighting design.

But making halogen lamps do tricks is only part of the fun of modern lighting. Today's lighting isn't so much about bulb and fixtures as it is about drama.

The source of light often is hidden, but the effects are breathtaking.

Lighting designers wash home interiors with carefully selected splashes of light — from a living room's soft glow to a workspace's no-nonsense brilliance. But light design, though a subtle art, is a specialized one. It takes a delicate balance of light-blending to make rooms inviting as well as functional.

Part of the drama of home lighting involves the way it illuminates inhabitants. If you're doing your taxes on the rug or reading, you need a high light level. But if you're enjoying an intimate evening at home, you can use lighting to create a softer effect that flatters everyone in the room.

LIGHTS TO LOOK LOVELY BY

How intense the light in your house should be depends on whether you are trying to see or be seen. If the mood is romance or simply an avoidance of harshness, stage lighting experts have tips on using light to enhance your appearance.

"Strong directional lighting is the least flattering," says Dr. Roibin Huber, a lecturer in theater arts. If you take a spotlight and aim straight down on a person, it's going to make every indentation on the face stand out."

Huber suggests using multidirectional and diffused lighting (lighting from many different angles) to soften and flatten out facial lines.

"Don't be afraid to use pink bulbs," he advises. "They can be very effective. Pink makes skin look warmer. It gives the illusion of a glow."

You can also paint a wall a warm tone and bounce light off it to keep your skin looking summery. But watch out if you have a blue or green wall. "Avoid bouncing light off a cool color," says Huber. "It might not be as flattering."

According to Huber, one type of fixture that helps create complimentary lighting is the wall sconce. Mounted at eye level, it washes the wall with light.

"It creates a glowing wall with indirect lighting. You come into a room with the walls lit. It creates back lighting, silhouette lighting. The end result is much more flattering."

Huber advises investing in good indirect lighting sources such as scones, torchieres and spotlights which can be directed against walls. A torchiere is a standing lamp in which the light source is aimed upward.

The professor of theater arts also suggests buying switches that can dim or brighten light sources.

"It's worth every bit of your money to get fixtures that either have internal dimmers or to buy dimmers for them. That's the only way you can select the right intensity for all times with diffused light."

LIGHT ON TRACK

Low voltage track lighting has been around for over 20 years but its popularity surged during the last five years. It offers a concentrated, narrow lighting pattern ideal for focusing on a room's special features.

Track or recessed accent lighting can range from a narrow pencil beam directed at a specific object to a broad spotlight washing over an entire wall.

Use it to create special effects. Spotlight wall hangings and art objects. Place a floor "can" light so it shines into the branches of a ficus or potted palm.

LET THE SKY IN

Skylights work magic in small dark spaces. They splash rooms with natural light, making them warm, bright and inviting. Have a dark, stuffy attic you'd like to transform? A skylight may be the answer.

It doesn't matter if you have a sloped or flat roof, thick roofing tiles or asphalt shingles.

The number of skylight designs and features have been going through the roof, along with skylight sales.

New on the market are fully-assembled, ready-to-use skylights that reduce installation time and human error. And there's an attic over the room you want to light, a contractor or carpenter can install a light shaft. It will direct daylight from the rooftop skylight into the location you desire.

BATHLUMINS

The right lighting displays a new bathroom at its best and also adds to its safety and convenience.

Convert all bathroom fixtures to fluorescent to improve the room's lighting quality and reduce electricity costs.

"For applying makeup or shaving, two lamps or fixtures at about eye level, 36 to 40 inches apart, will evenly light both sides of your face," says Changing Times magazine. "This arrangement is more flattering than the light over the mirror in most bathrooms."

HELLO, HALOGEN

A halogen bulb consumes approximately half the power of incandescent light and can last seven times as long. It will produce a crisp white light more sunlike than any other type of artificial lighting.

Without a big bulb to house, halogen task lights bob and sway with light that appears to come from little more than a stretch of wire. A slender, reedlike halogen torchiere can provide enough power to wash a room with high-noonlike brightness.

Sound too good to be true? OK, here are the disadvantages of halogen: It's expensive (at least at first — in the long run, it's economical); the bulbs get — ouch! — hot. Even if the bulbs are cool, handle halogen with care: the oil from you fingertips can destroy the bulb.

Spend Money

you plan to pay it off. Remember, you are borrowing, not saving, money, and your new monthly payments probably will be higher.

Restructuring: In the early 1980s, many houses were purchased with the buyers assuming an existing mortgage and the seller taking back a short-term second mortgage. Now that these second mortgages are coming due and interest rates are down from previously higher levels, it is possible to replace old loans with new ones.

Depending on the circumstances, the same options used in borrowing also are available for restructuring. Again, the choice is a price-comparison decision.

GOURMET BATHING

Boring bathrooms become hedonistic 'bodyrooms'

By Eric Jude
Copley News Service

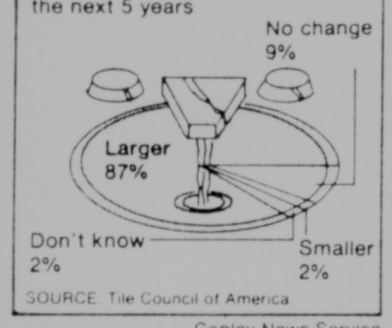

After a hard day at the office, more working couples are rushing home to the bathroom, says the Wall Street Journal.

These baths aren't ordinary. They're high-end affairs with features such as marble walls, VCRs, stereos and whirlpool tubs.

According to Doris Bachman, president of International Bath & Spa, more two-income families want — and can afford — a luxurious place "to get ready for their busy days or recuperate from them."

HOMEFACTS

■ Trends for bathroom design in the next 5 years

SOURCE: Tile Council of America

Copley News Service

Designers are responding to a demand for big showers with lots of nozzles, push-button steam sytems, futons, window benches, dual-headed showers, heat lamps, exercise equipment and toilets that flush whisper-quiet. These "Bathstyles of the Rich and Famous" can run upward of $25,000, plus installation.

Only the well-heeled are spending that kind of money, but bathroom renovation is booming. According to the National Kitchen & Bath Association, baths are the most frequently remodeled room in the house.

Even modest bathrooms are fun as well as functional. Gone are the traditional 5-by-7-foot tiled spaces dedicated to utility. And more often than not, today's remodeled bathrooms combine with bedrooms to create "bodyrooms" and "bath suites."

What if you yearn for opulence but are stuck with a small space? Don't despair. Designers have come up with creative ways to transform small baths into mini-Roman spas.

Americans are spending billions of dollars on bathrooms each year.

"It's certainly the glamour room," Gary Bradbury of Kitchen and Bath Design News told Newsweek magazine. "It's no longer the room down the hall."

Before you remodel your bath, you owe it to yourself to find out just how luxurious this once-humble room can become.

Talk to designers. Snip pictures from magazines. And visit showrooms of hardware dealers and furniture suppliers who specialize in bath design.

Ask to see the Sensorium. It's a top-of-the-line whirlpool that American Standard claims is "a total environment which turns the bath into a bathing experience."

For $25,000 you can get Sensorium with Ambience, a microprocessor that can be programmed by phone. Call it from your office or car, tell it to select a water temperature, close the drain, fill the bath, dim the lights and turn on your TV or bathroom stereo.

Have you been to the Bath Womb yet? It's a whirlpool by Water Jet that comes with a built-in stereo, reading stand and a special massage function. A pillow attached to one domed end of the Bath Womb has a jet that sprays water and massages the neck.

If you've ever thought the only thing wrong with your bathtub is that it's too hard be sure to hop into the next Soft Bathtub you see. These new tubs have an inch-thick foam cushion covered by tough, puncture-resistant "elastomeric" film. The special construction holds heat, keeping the bath water warm longer. And it's safer, too.

GOURMET BATHING — Boring bathrooms are now hedonistic sanctuaries for bathing and relaxing.

Remember that choosing today's luxury tubs requires planning. According to Home magazine, "With molded acrylic tubs, there is virtually no limit to shape, size or volume.

"Consider a tub for two or more, but make sure the room will accommodate it and that you can wedge it through the door when you have it installed." Be sure your bathroom floor can support the extra weight.

Remember when everyone had to have a teakettle designed by a famous architect? It was the design accent for the kitchen.

Now the bathroom is coming into its own, with fixtures that resemble objets d'art. Faucets are sleek and European, whimsical, elaborately baroque — even high-tech.

American Standard's Ceramix Electronix is a faucet that takes its own temperature. A solar-powered digital readout ensures that your toes or fingertips will never be scalded (or chilled) again when testing the water.

Some sinks are shell-shaped, others are elegant ovals. Hand-painted porcelain designs match tiles, wallpapers and fabrics. If you can't afford real marble (or onyx, lapis lazuli and malachite), you can probably find it in faux.

"The trend is definitely toward larger, more luxurious bathrooms," Russell Platek, director of education for the National Kitchen and Bath Association told The New York Times. "But we're also seeing more and more people who want the same creature comforts and indulgences out of their small bathrooms."

By keeping the original size, designers and architects can hold costs down. One of the ways they make a bathroom seem bigger is to install smaller fixtures.

And when bathrooms are less than 60 feet square, designers suggest scaling down everything, from sink to tiles. And they lower tall ceilings, which can accentuate narrowness.

Mirrors placed next to patterned wallpaper can "lengthen" the pattern. Designers often put mirrors on two or more walls, getting reflections of reflections, which opens up the room. Or they use mirror to capture and spread light.

Don't mix materials in small bathrooms; the hodge-podge will break the continuity of the surfaces. Designers usually choose one or two surface covers — such as tile and marble, marble and paint, or paint and wallpaper.

But not all bathroom designers agree on color. For small bathrooms, most designers prefer white and light colors. A few, however, lean toward the dark end.

Sometimes when you use dark material like black tile, the space is no longer well defined. Reflective surfaces enlarge spaces while all that black makes the corners disappear.

SMALL BUT BEAUTIFUL

Fool-the-eye space expander ideas

By Sharon Owen Haven
Copley News Service

Short on space and money, but long on spacious looks?

There are a variety of strategies you can employ to expand visual space that are not necessarily expensive.

Skylights should be given top consideration for your redecorating dollar. They are not necessarily expensive (especially if you install them yourself) and they contribute more than any other single alteration to expanding visual space.

Of course, skylights may not be feasible for all rooms or structures, but do consider them where possible.

Simplify interior space by removing fussy or unnecessary architectural detail. Removing space-constricting moldings, chair rails, etc., may also modernize the appearance of your home.

Use light colors. Paint is a very inexpensive way to make a small space look larger. Any very pale shade will work. Paint the ceiling the same shade as the walls or lighter.

If you prefer wallpaper to paint, a directional geometric pattern can often extend walls visually. Keep the background color light and dominant throughout.

Use the same flooring throughout the house and keep it light colored. This serves to extend the visual flow from space to space. The very best option (if you are lucky enough to have it) is hardwood flooring with a light or whitewashed finish and a glossy sealer.

Maximize your windows. The brighter a room, the larger it looks. Likewise, by drawing your eye outside, windows make spaces feel bigger. You can maximize the effect of your windows by leaving them uncovered or by using a low-profile treatment like shades or blinds that "disappear" when pulled up (especially if they match the walls in color).

Minimize your furnishings. Keep them few, small in scale, light in color, and go easy on pattern. Rich texture can provide interest in lieu of pattern. Use glass tables for their "invisible" quality. Place furniture in corners and against walls — never in the center of the room.

Use mirrors. You need not go to the expense of custom mirroring entire walls. Ready-made mirrored closet doors are available quite reasonably. Even a single wall-hung mirror next for the dining table, for example, can make a major difference in a small space.

Happily, all the efforts you make to enlarge your home should modernize its appearance, as well.

Organizing your closet

Copley News Service

The closet has come out of the dark ages. No longer is it a crammed cave, full of archaeological mysteries. Today's closets are organized with coated wire trays, shelves and compartments in innovative space-saving arrangements.

If it seems like the last thing you need is to put something else in your already overstuffed closet, you'll be amazed what the addition of a storage system can do.

To begin with, you'll be able to see everything at once. Wire mesh storage units not only allow you to see into them, but also allow ventilation. And they require no maintenance — nor do they gather dust.

A well-designed, fully equipped closet might include door and shoe racks, hooks, stacking drawer units and bins. In addition, tiered shelf-and-rod installations can double clothes hanging space and increase storage for knits.

You might want to install a high-low clothes hanging arrangement in half the closet. This would allow space for a stack of easy-glide, snag-free drawer systems. Use them to store intimate wear, socks, scarves, sweaters and hobby gear. Hang full-length dresses, coats and robes in the remaining portion of the closet.

Door-hung or wall-mounted shoe organizers will eliminate the time you spend on your hands and knees, rummaging through shoe boxes. Shoe organizers also allow air circulation, which helps prevent mildew.

Tiered shelves make use of every inch of your closet's vertical space. They hold bedding and linens and have vertical dividers that prevent them from toppling over.

Once a basic system is installed, you can customize it with components from major home centers, hardware outlets and department stores. Many of these accessories can be easily snapped or clipped on to the existing system.

Fix-Up Projects

ways cost-effective; extra bedrooms may not be.

BUG OUT

Spring also marks the return of the insect kingdom. If bugs bug you, now is the time to do battle.

There are two basic kinds of insecticide sprays approved by the Environmental Protection Agency, according to the Aerosol Packaging Council. One type, the airborne, is sprayed into the air to destroy insects on contact.

Second are the residual sprays, which have a dual purpose. They contain quick-killing chemicals, like pyrethin, which are sprayed where bugs crawl, killing on contact. Then the compound dries, forming a residual barrier which remains effective for several weeks.

Many aerosol cans provide a long plastic tube attachment that allows application of the product in an inaccessible location, such as behind the refrigerator and range.

Since household bugs live and breed in dark, moist places, preferring decomposed vegetable matter, be sure to keep your home free of such hiding places, indoors and out.

Check vegetables that are stored outside the refrigerator, like potatoes and onions, and discard any that have begun to rot. Clean up decayed leaves against the house, with special attention to window wells if you have a basement.

RESTORATION WALTZ

If you don't have the money or inclination to do a remodeling project, why not start small with a refinishing project?

According to a national survey commissioned by The Flecto Co., approximately one in five consumers has tackled an interior wood finishing project in the past year. Wood furniture refinishing was more prevalent than larger projects such as woodwork/trim, floors and paneling.

When asked to describe the type of project completed most recently, 60 percent cited furniture such as cabinets, tables, dressers, bookcases and chairs.

You don't have to be an expert to repair every-day furniture.

Among the tips for bringing new life to furniture are:

• To remove white rings left by glasses or hot dishes, buff furniture with a 50/50 mixture of toothpaste and baking soda on a damp cotton cloth. When the spot is gone, buff with a dry cotton cloth to restore luster.

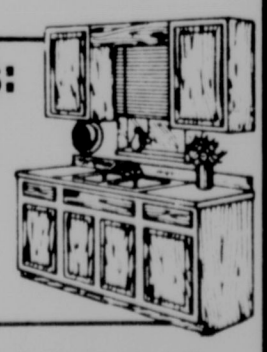

• Fill scratches in wood with crayons. Prepare by tying a nail to a pencil. Heat the nail over a candle, then wipe the soot from the nail. Pick a crayon close to the wood's color and hold it to the heated nail. The crayon will melt into the scratch. Let the crayon cool one hour. Then take a credit card and gently scrape away the excess.

• To clean furniture, Formby recommends mineral spirits or a commercial furniture cleaner, both available at hardware stores. Wet a cotton cloth with mineral spirits and wipe the wood thoroughly. Let dry and repeat if necessary.

Once you start with your spring projects, it may be summer before you realize it.

ANTIQUE ACCLAIM

Vintage furnishings and collecting made easy

By Gretchen Fallon
Copley News Service

For most of us, there's something slightly scary about a truly superb 18th century drop-leaf table.

A modernist collector might be just as intimidated by a supremely simple (and technologically revolutionary) Charles Eames bent plywood chair.

They are pricey items, yes, but more often it's the challenge of securing a "good buy" in a highly specialized field that robs us of confidence.

But there's nothing really mysterious, say the better antiques dealers and vintage furniture shop owners, about their love for fine furniture.

Most are enthusiasts as well as merchants. And, whether their inventories include very old, handcrafted mahogany pieces or the simple chromed tubular-steel vintage items from the 1930s and '40s, most dealers are happy to share their knowledge with a potential customer.

So, for Old World charm or retro chic, the experienced dealer is an invaluable resource. Herewith, tips from the dealers to aid your collecting search.

Don't be intimidated by antiques or vintage classics. On this the dealers are almost unanimous: You should buy something only because you love it and can really use it.

Don't be mesmerized by age alone. "Old for old's sake," is how one dealer describes this lamentable syndrome. He adds that "there were perfectly dreadful things made in every period, just as there will be some perfectly beautiful things created in this century, which will always have value." Age, alone, is not enough.

Know that imitations exist. Remember that 18th century designs were revived and reproduced throughout the 19th century, and that knockoffs of 20th century classics (like the Marcel Breuer chair or Mies van der Rohe's famous 1930 couch) are widely available. The best defenses against outright frauds is to work with a reputable dealer and to know what you're looking for.

Do your homework. It's really the best place to start, and it's a labor of love for true collectors who are interested in a chosen field or period.

By dipping into the wealth of documentary material on antiques, you'll know that country-of-origin stamps only began to be used about 1890. So if a piece says "Made in England," you can be fairly certain it was made after 1890.

Also, you'll not be deceived by something called a "Chippendale sideboard" — it's a simple fact that 18th century cabinetmakers did not make sideboards.

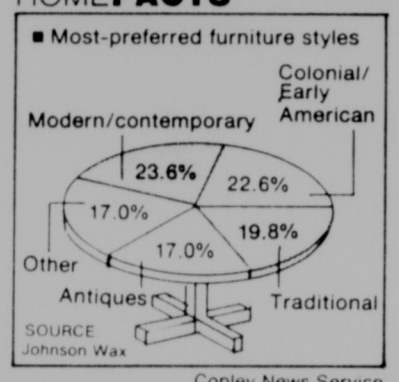

For 20th century collectibles, the scholarship is thinner, but some good books are available. No matter the period, read up on it, and become familiar with the distinguishing characteristics (markings, patterns, places of manufacture) that other collectors prize.

Adapt and use antiques. Since most of us are not museum curators, many dealers suggest we loosen our purist respect for antiques and make sure we can really use them in the home. Case in point: Lamps made from the many Chinese porcelain vases that were imported into England in the 17th and 18th centuries. "How many vases can you use?" asks one dealer. "But you can never have too many lovely lamps."

Cultivate the dealers in your collecting field. Since most antiques shops and vintage furniture stores are small, private businesses owned and operated by a family or individual, part of your shopping fun should come from chatting with the proprietor. Make use of this conversation.

For example, most dealers are glad to take "want" lists, if you don't see just what you're looking for. Also, don't be afraid to ask questions, to ask for advice, to ask about alternatives in your price range. Ask, too, if your purchase will have trade-in value should you want to upgrade later.

HOMEFACTS

Copley News Service

Ferret out "as is" treasures. Ask the dealer about a back room or warehouse where he might be storing pieces that have yet to be made ready for sale.

If you see something you like that hasn't been refurbished, you may be able to discuss choices of color or fabric with the shop owner. For the vintage furniture collector, some dealers keep rolls of mint-condition vintage vinyl to use in reupholstery.

Consider being adventuresome in your search, if you're looking for bargain-basement prices. Go where the dealers go, to auctions and estate sales, to secondhand furniture stores and institutional clear-out sales.

Most vintage collectors are veterans of the thrift shop, flea market and garage sale trail. Their hope, of course, is to find an "antique of tomorrow" for less than half the price it would fetch in a dealer's shop.

Be forewarned about competing with the professionals. Going where the dealers go can be a gritty experience; at the least, it requires lots of time and a fair amount of expert knowledge.

Enterprising dealers and their scouts (or "pickers") are skilled at sifting through mounds of merchandise everywhere from rummage sales to wrecking and salvage company clearances. They know how, where and what to pay should an item need refurbishing.

The used-furniture market can offer great savings to the dedicated shopper, but it also demands a daunting investment of time, energy, and shoe leather.

Great garage sale saavy

By Shirley Remes
Copley News Service

You need to give a garage sale.

You want to clean out all that bargain stuff you never used that you bought at other people's garage sales.

Or you're moving and want to see if you can get a good price for those new kitchen stools you won't need at your new place.

Or you want to see if you can recoup some of your investment on three consecutive sizes of like-new boys' designer jeans, because your son grows faster than you can keep him in clothes.

Organization is the key to getting rid of most of your stuff, and maybe making a small profit in the meantime.

First of all, you have to get the word out. Tell all your friends, relatives and neighbors, "Hey, I'm having a garage sale."

Then you want to advertise your sale. You can post notices on free bulletin boards in stores, at work, at church, or at clubs and organizations.

Put an ad in the newspaper and say you are having a "giant" or "mammoth" garage sale, that you'll have "lots of good junque." Don't put in long lists of items, but be sure to give clear directions to your house, and don't forget the time and days. Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday are the most popular days.

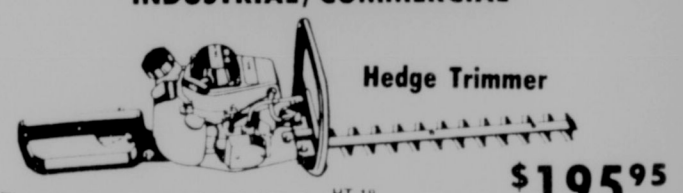

Don't put your phone number in the ad or you'll be bothered with telephone calls with people asking to come early.

As in real estate, location is important. If you're not in a heavy-traffic location, be sure to post clearly marked signs all the way in to your sale.

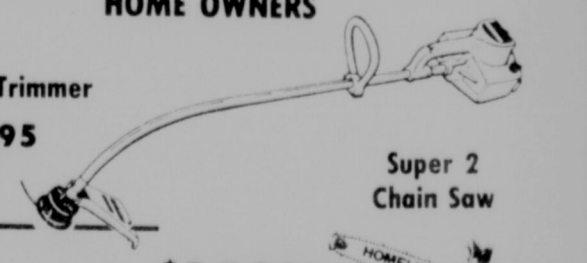

Drive-bys account for a lot of business. Newspaper ads and

SPA SUPERIOR

Bathing at home in beauty and comfort

By Monica Perez
Copley News Service

It all started with the shower massage. Those pulsating, variable-speed jets of water were the nearest most people could get to the soothing, magic water fingers of a Jacuzzi. And then health club memberships prices soared and people were no longer content to pay money to feel good.

The home spa was born.

The first place the new spas showed up was in the bathroom. Jacuzzi-jets became available for tub installation, turning ordinary baths into whirlpools. In new condominiums and luxury apartments, spa-equipped bathrooms became standard amenities.

From that humble beginning, spa fixtures began to take over until it became possible to build elaborate gym-bath complexes featuring such things as steam cabinets and pre-fabricated saunas.

Some supremely water-conscious types even added such items as isolation tanks — with their super-saturated saline baths — and aromatherapy and botanical baths to their water closet wonderlands.

Spas were ideal because they could be built anywhere indoors, so long as the floor would support the extra weight.

But it took the invention of the all-wood "California hot tub" to get people out of the bathroom and into the backyard. Freestanding wooden tubs have been in use for centuries in Asia, but it took the Western world a little longer to catch on to the benefits of a long, luxurious soak.

Today hydrotherapy spas and hot tubs account for a major portion of the billion-dollar pool industry.

Like pools, they have evolved in style, becoming more elaborate and refined. It's not uncommon to see pool/spa combinations that feature such whimsical additions as waterfalls, flower-draped decks and fountains.

Outdoor spas can be connected into indoor living spaces with the use of decking material. Antique tiles can be salvaged from stores and building sites to give a spa a classical look. A more modern dwelling might require concrete or brick to finish off the look.

The most popular spa size is 6 to 7 feet in diameter and 3 feet deep, which makes it perfect for city dwellers where space is at a premium.

If your lifestyle is a mobile one, you might consider a portable spa rather than an "in-ground," permanent one. In addition to being less expensive (by about $2000), portables offer flexibility. You can move them from indoors to outdoors or from one location to another.

Among the questions you need to ask when considering a spa purchase are:

■ Where will it go? There are advantages to both indoor and outdoor designs. You'll need to check building code restrictions before installation, and that may affect your final decision. One advantage to indoor spas is that they can be enhanced with special infrared and ultraviolet sun lamps for winter use.

One compromise to the in/out question is solved by placing the spa in a solarium or other semi-open structure. Customized, prefab rooms are available from a variety of sources. Greenhouses have been adapted to this use.

■ How many people will use the spa? Portable spas come with as many amenities as permanent spas, and can seat up to eight people.

■ Where will the jets go? Consider the areas of maximum muscle tension — neck, shoulders, leg muscles. If the spa will be used by a family, consider multilevel seating so that mother, father and children will be equally comfortable.

■ What kind of purification system do you want? There are many kinds of chemicals on the market, but you might want to consider one of the systems that uses ozone or ultraviolet light.

■ What style do you want? The basic choice is between the fiberglas models and the all-wood hot tubs. Fiberglass is generally easier to maintain, and it is insulated and will retain heat longer. Otherwise, it's a matter of choice.

Garage Sale

word-of-mouth are important as well as advertising. And directions to the exact location are important. Take the people from the main streets all the way in to your location with good signs.

Put signs at your house, and clearly marked directions on major intersections near your home.

You can hold the sale either inside your house, your basement or in your yard, not necessarily in your garage.

People will come to your garage sale for many reasons.

They may come looking for a specific item, or they may buy an item on implulse if they think they may have a use for later. The serious collectors or dealers will probably come early or late.

And some people come because they are bored and looking for something to do.

Common things people look for are appliances, tools, toys, clothing, furniture, books, sporting goods, bric-a-brac, or new merchandise from business, auctions, bankruptcy sales, etc.

A large display means people spend more time looking, so if you don't have a lot, consider going in with some friends to gather more loot.

A good selection of low-priced items also keeps people browsing, and a selection of toys gives the kids something to do while their parents shop.

Clean, well-presented merchandise sells the best. Put the tallest things in back on your tables. Use sturdy tables, and leave roomy aisles in between them.

Have an outlet ready to test appliances. Hang coats and clothes, don't put things under tables where people won't see them.

Don't be afraid to put anything out, no matter how useless it seems to you. It may be just what someone else is looking for.

But remember, everyone is looking for a bargain. So be sure to price your items accordingly.

If you're not sure about pricing, go to a few garage sales in your area first and see what other people are asking. Or ask a few of your friends who frequent garage sales what prices will move your items.

Don't make people guess. Mark the prices prominently. And remember, many people will buy something, even if they don't need it, if it's at the right price.

The first few hours of your sale are the most important, so be ready.

Have your merchandise displayed and have the doors ready to open about an hour before you advertised for the sale to begin. If you planned to open at 9:30 in the morning, some people will start arriving as early as 8:30 or 8:45. You'll probably see the most on the first day.

Get coins and singles for change. Decide your policy on checks and have everyone who will be collecting money aware of it.

Plan who will handle the money, and clear out your box occasionally, putting your proceeds in a safe place.

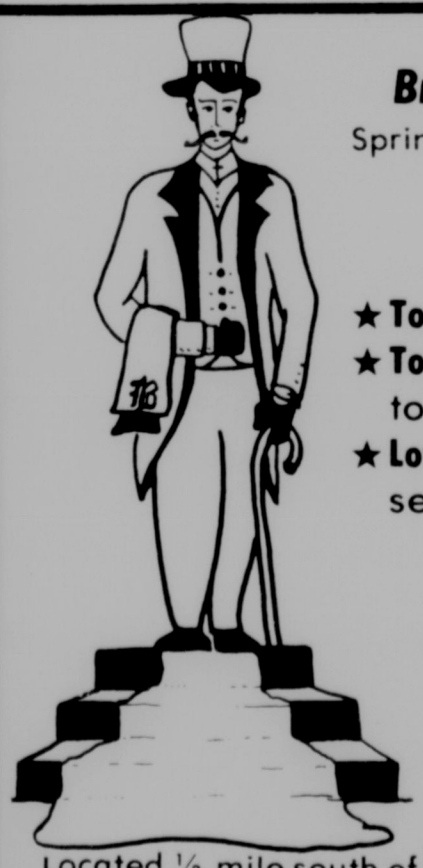

Follow these suggestions and you may have a successful garage sale.

DECADENT DESIGN

Choose signature look from this year's styles

By Allison Ashton
Copley News Service

If you're like one-third of all Americans, you redecorate some part of your home every two to four years. And 18 percent of your fellow redecorators update their rooms every year.

This is a great year in design if you're planning to re-evaluate your surroundings.

Interior design is stretching two wonderfully livable ways in 1988. The traditional is being updated with exuberant colors and irreverent finishes. And high-tech interiors are warmed up with a little color and personal details.

The operative word in design for '88, from the East Coast to West, is "luxury."

Exciting color, riveting details, sensuous textures and rich fabrics lend what many designers feel is a necessary touch of decadence.

Comfort and personality are two more features coming into play this year. The overwhelming feeling is that homes should reflect the people who live in them. The glossy, lacquered showplaces of the past few years have given way to warmer, more traditionally oriented rooms.

Reaching for the timeless and elegant, designers are avoiding anything overtly trendy.

Both modern and traditional interiors have a strong sense of home as a haven. This year, people want their homes to have a timeless feeling of family and security.

"Years from now, you don't want to pinpoint a room with a dated look," says Jamie Goller of the Phyllis Morris showroom in Los Angeles.

OLD EUROPE, NEW WORLD

One way to create your own warm and timeless environment is to borrow elements of the past.

The period of choice for 1988 is the Renaissance era. Metropolitan Home magazine calls the look "Venetian" because it connotes the richness and luxury of the canal city under the doges.

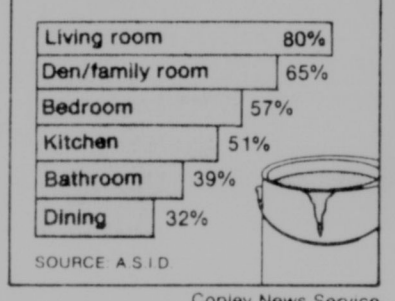

For the rich, antiques re-create the period with unbeatable accuracy, and the current passion for Old World interiors has renewed interest in antiques.

DECADENT DESIGN — Choose a theme from this year's styles, whether Southwestern or early Renaissance.

But for the rest of us, quality antique reproductions of both furniture and accessories are available and fit a limited budget.

Look for heavily carved wood (dark wood is really Old World), perhaps with a sparkling touch of gold leaf. Quality printed cottons reproduce the rich look of brocade fabrics without their cloying heaviness. Hand-painted silk is another modern luxury that perks up old-style furniture.

A whole industry of artisans has grown up around old-world interiors to re-create the antique look at a fraction of the price. Oxydized brass, copper, bronze and steel, for example, is used to give chairs, tables, vases, plates and other accessories a wonderfully historical verdigris finish. (Perfect, considering that green is a key color this year.)

You can create the look of marble (an important element in old-world rooms) with quality faux marble tiles. Avonite, a relatively new material, re-creates the look of granite, which is very popular for kitchens and bathrooms.

Keeping your old-world interior from looking like a museum exhibit is the key to making it work.

Covering an antique chair in a bright jewel tone makes it delightful, even in an otherwise contemporary room. Combine modern taste with classical elegance by covering antique pieces with wild-stenciled hides.

A faint wash of teal blue or pale green brings the wood on antique pieces up to date in an unexpected way.

A DASH OF SALSA

That's what Metropolitan Home calls the mutation of the popular Southwestern look in 1988. The sleepy pastel shades of Santa Fe are replaced by the zippy, bright colors of Mexico, capturing the brilliance of a desert sunset.

Even Roche-Bobois, the French furniture retailer whose trademark is contemporary sofas and chairs, has branched out into cotton fabric sectionals boasting bright geometric patterns reminiscent of an Indian blanket.

Salsa, however, means more than south of the border. Don't shy away from vibrant ethnic furnishings or accessories with a lively Caribbean or Mediterranean flavor. The flat-weave texture and bold geometric patterns of a Turkish kilim also adds an exciting dash of salsa.

THE NEW MODERNISM

Some of us will always yearn for the clean lines of Bauhaus and the elegant functionalism of Le Corbusier. That doesn't stop modern interiors from acquiring a sense of fun and humor this year.

Curvy, streamlined furniture loosens up with light jazzy prints. A formerly austere cabinet can show off the collectibles of your choice, and Art Deco pieces are right at home.

Even the harsh, sterile white interiors of the 1970s are softened with texture and subtle variations of white. Metropolitan Home calls it "a whole rainbow of whites." Eggshell, cream and oyster, coupled with such textures as raw silk, wicker and blonde woods, make the white room inviting where once it was intimidating.

SOPHISTICATED COUNTRY

Country-style interiors convey the feeling of family and tradition in a more casual way than Old-World. This year, country interiors back away from a cutesy, precious

DINING DENS

New designs for nights around the table

By Kevin Anderson
Copley News Service

Your dining area should reflect your lifestyle. How often do you host formal dinners — frequently, seldom or never? Does your family like to linger over meals, or is its attitude toward food hit-and-run?

More and more families are eating meals in newly remodeled, enlarged kitchens instead of separate dining rooms. The trend is toward informality and practicality.

If your dining area is small, there are decorator's tricks you can use to make it appear larger. And there is furniture you can buy that will fit — without sacrificing comfort.

Before you consult a professional to help you create the dining room of your dreams, remember that style is comprised of many factors.

Take note of distinctive architectural features, cabinet design, door styles, fixture shapes, color and accessories. Visit furniture showrooms displaying different styles. And watch for home shows in your area.

From California to New York come innovations in dining tables as well as the seats that surround them. In general, today's dining spaces have lighter colors, furnishings with unusual textures and finishes, and chairs that say "comfort."

In families with working parents, the trend is for the whole gang to gather in the kitchen to socialize, participate in meal preparation and eat in a relaxed, informal manner.

Even older couples with grown children no longer prefer a traditional dining room.

"You start moving the sofa and the cocktail into the kitchen," says Washington architect Hugh Newell Jacobsen.

An eating area at countertop height can do double duty as extra kitchen work space. It lets guests watch the chef perform — or join in the food preparation, if they're so inclined.

"Using mirrors to make a room look larger is an old trick, but it works," says Don Kenneth, a decorator who specializes in apartments. "Mirrors can double your lighting at no extra expense, too."

Kenneth recommends that you avoid confining mirrors in frames. "Cover an entire wall with a mirror — it makes your dining room look like it goes on forever."

According to Kenneth, a light-colored, monochromatic color scheme also will help your dining room seem bigger. "Whitewash the wood of the dining room set, and any cabinets, brick walls and fireplaces. Use white, pale gray or pale pastel fabric for upholstery and drapes."

A common mistake many people make is to guess what size table they need.

"A lot of people assume a dining table they like will meet their needs and fit the space. They find out the hard way — by living with it — that they guessed wrong," says Mary Jo Page, a Baltimore design consultant.

A round table must measure a minimum of 36 inches for four people and 48 inches for six. Less space will not accommodate the necessary dishes and serving pieces. Rectangular tables should measure at least 36 by 60 inches.

Built-in booths require less floor space because you do not need to allow for the standard additional 36 inches required for passage space behind the chairs. However, booths are less convenient for serving and seating. They should be 22 inches deep.

Kenneth suggests "a glass table top is good because it disappears in a cramped space. Keep accessories to a minimum. Add color with your table setting, floral arrangement or centerpiece."

For a small space, look for small-scaled chairs made specifically for dining or game tables. It's possible for the chairs to be roomy and comfortable, but make sure they have casters that enable them to be moved easily.

"The most exciting thing we've seen recently are aniline dyes for wood," says designer Barbara Blair. "It's a dye normally used on leather. The wood is bleached before it is dyed, and it can be done in just about any color. It's sealed with a polyester resin that shows the grain so beautifully it almost shimmers — especially when applied to a wood like bird's-eye maple."

One way to create an unusual dining table is with a glass top above a pedestal of fossil stone from the Philippines. Made of the fossilized shells of tiny sea creatures, the stone comes in three colors: light tan, vibrant salmon and dark black-gray. It's as formal as marble when polished. When left unfinished, it has a matte look, like wood or adobe.

If you like the new whitewashed finishes, you'll love them in rattan. And look for reproductions of Victorian wicker pieces, like your great-grandmother used to have. Woven into the toast-colored wicker are patterns in mint green, cinnamon or soft gray.

For those who love long, leisurely evenings over food and conversation, new upholstered armchairs are custom-made for dining.

"They're like executive office chairs," says a New York designer. "They tilt and swivel. They make a dining room look like a corporate conference room — only more comfortable."

Upholstered armchairs do take up more room and involve more maintenance since occasional spills are likely. But if your entertaining tends to focus on food and you like to linger at the table, you might as well be comfortable.

Cover chairs with the same fabric you use for drapes. If the fabric you choose is washable, preshrink it first and have it treated with a fiber seal. Or have if "vinylized." This process suffuses the fibers with waterproof vinyl that is impervious to stains. A damp sponge wipes the fabric clean.

Choose Signature

look in favor of cleaner, more sophisticated styling.

Laura Ashley is inspired by the jubilant expressionistic art of England's Bloomsbury artists of the 1920s.

Chintz is still a popular way to bring colorful, garden-inspired freshness into your rooms, and Victorian wicker garden furniture also comes indoors to create luxurious, but casual elegance.

Nowhere is the romance of interior design this year more apparent than in the bedroom. Big, comfortable, elegantly appointed beds take center stage.

Whether you opt for old-world elegance or more contemporary comfort, remember to dress the bed with big plump pillows, soft sheets that are pleasing to the eye and touch and, for a real sense of luxury, a cozy down comforter.

Hire a designer

Copley News Service

Redecorating your home is a major financial investment and, of course, you want it to turn out just right. No matter how eclectic, or personal or expressionistic interiors are this year, an interior designer still can help you create a pulled-together look that you will relish for years.

Good interior designers can be found through recommendations by friends, local furniture store referrals or newspaper ads. Once you find someone, set about building a good rapport — communication is the key to making it work.

- Find out if the designer is a member of the American Society of Interior Designers or other professional organizations. Members of such organizations keep abreast of the latest trends and design techniques, and they probably have access to furniture sources and materials that aren't open to the public.
- Comb through interior design magazines and show the designer pictures of what appeals to you, and what doesn't.
- Ask to see some of their finished residential projects. Good designers are proud of their work and will be happy to arrange a brief tour of the homes they've done, if it's at all possible.
- Above all, make your expectations clear. In order to do a great job, the designer must know how you live and how you plan to use the rooms.

Do you need a formal dining room for entertaining? Do you reserve the living room for visitors, or do you really live in it all the time? Is hand-painted silk ideal, or do you need fabrics and carpeting that resist staining. How you need furnishings, carpeting, window coverings and lighting to function are key issues to discuss with a potential designer.

Adding A Fireplace Can Add $4,600 To Value

Adding a fireplace can add more than warmth to your home. It can raise the resale value of your place as much as $4,600.

That's a 38 percent gain on your investment, for the average cost of installing a fireplace is $3,350, according to a study by Remodeling Contractor magazine.

However, returns on fireplaces can vary within areas of a city, points out A. Joseph Wolf of Louisville, Ky., an appraiser and member of the Society of Real Estate Appraisers. "A person shopping in the $40,000 to $45,000 market range may be willing to pay an additional $500 for a fireplace," he said, "whereas someone else looking for a higher-priced home may pay $1,500 or more." POOL PERFECT

Make a splash with the newest wet looks

By Katherine P. Tomlinson
Copley News Service

The backyard pool used to be the ultimate status symbol, right up there with a Rolls-Royce in the garage and a Rolex on the wrist. But a funny thing has happened to this one-time luxury. The fitness fad became a lifestyle and suddenly, owning a pool became just one more way to keep in shape.

The pool and spa industry now exceeds $5 billion in sales yearly. More than 4 million pools — traditional and lap — exist in the United States. That's a lot of chlorinated water.

POOLISH CHOICES

If space or expense is a factor in your pool planning, consider a lap pool. Usually about 40 feet long and one-lane (about 5 feet) wide, lap pools are about half the cost of traditional pools. They are easier to maintain than larger pools and can be constructed in side yards or long, narrow back yards that are too small for regular pools.

A sloping back yard can be terraced and used as a setting for a graduated series of pools, wading pools and spas. Plantings of water-loving flowers and greenery can enhance a pool's setting.

The traditional-shaped pools (rectangular, round, kidney and figure-eight) are still used where space is available. The most frequent request, however, is for the free-form look.

Born of necessity and odd-shaped spaces, the free-form pool can transform an ordinary back yard into a secluded grotto. Using native stone to pave the patio and walkways around the pool emphasizes the dramatic effect. Using dark blue for the bottom rather than the traditional light blue adds to the mysterious quality of the pool while cutting down on heating costs.

One disadvantage to using either a design on the bottom or a dark color is that a swimmer in distress won't show up as quickly as one against a light blue background. If there are children or poor swimmers in your household, it's something to consider.

The old "bath house" idea has been revived with the increased use of such enclosed and semi-enclosed structures as pool houses and gazebos. These go far beyond the cabanas of the '50s, and can be used year-round. Decks have expanded to wrap around the pool, but they also flow into entire backyard entertainment complexes.

Wood is the overwhelming choice for such decking detail and it's easier on bare feet than brick, concrete or ceramic tile. If you do choose tile for a special effect, remember that slick, wet tile can be lethally slippery, particularly if there are young children around who never walk when they can run.

Pool floors can be installed on interior pools to make swimming spaces do double duty. And, where climate permits, a pool can be integrated into an indoor/outdoor arrangement.

For those who like to listen to water music but aren't physically inclined, the water garden is an old-fashioned lily pond gone uptown. Like regular pools, ponds can be constructed with concrete (the most expensive), fiberglass or vinyl liners. Shallow ponds can even be improvised using a child's blow-up wading pool.

But what's a pool without accessories? Add a slide, a fish fountain, or go for something less permanent.

There are rafts with built-in holders for your cocktails, rubber duckies that hold ice tea drinks, floating chairs, water volleyball nets and water-resistant cameras for unforgettable shots.

Check your local pool and patio store for the latest in poolside accessories.

'Smoke-Grained' Furniture

A furniture decorating technique used on painted pieces in the 19th century was called "smoke-graining."

A candle was held close to a freshly painted, tacky surface and moved in circles. The heat and soot from the candle made a smoky cloud pattern in the paint. It remained when the paint hardened.

"Smoke-grained" furniture was popular in New England in the early 1800s. Such a finish in good condition adds much to the value of a piece. (CNS)

A HOME OWNER'S COMPENDIUM

Safe, smart homes take tech to the max

By Sharon Williams
Copley News Service

Proud home owners spend thousands of dollars annually on the most visible of improvements — remodeling and redecorating.

But, sometimes, the smartest additions to a home are the ones that can't be seen.

These smart improvements may not elicit the compliments that a new piece of sculpture would inspire. Or keep the neighbors wondering about the outcome of an elaborate remodeling project.

But they can make a home a safer, more energy-efficient and convenient place to be, thanks to innovations in the high-technology and home protection industries.

HOME CONTROLS

We're still several years away from making the move into futuristic automated houses that do virtually everything for their owners.

But there are many home improvements available today that can give high-technology enthusiasts a taste of the worry-free, energy-efficient lifestyle that smart homes can offer.

Programmable timers can take on the responsibility of turning on sprinkler systems or lights at preset times of day while the home owner works or plays. Some timers are smart enough to calculate the changing hour of sunset for each day of the year, so lights always go on at dusk.

Many of these programmable devices work with touch-pad ease. Programmable set-up/set-back thermostats automatically turn down the heat when everyone's gone, and have the house warm and ready when everyone returns.

Computerized bath and Jacuzzi controls turn water on and off at programmed times and to the desired temperature, so the weary home owner needn't worry about overfilling the bathtub or bringing water to the boiling point in a hot tub.

Other devices go beyond the touch-pad. Motion detectors in a room can automatically turn off lights when the last person leaves, and turn them on again when someone enters, while solar-powered fluorescent patio lights automatically turn on at dusk and off at dawn.

Intercom systems are updated with no-hands operation, offering communication throughout the house and in adjacent buildings, such as the garage. Infants can be monitored and outside doors can be answered from any room.

Even tools have gone high tech. The Digitape, a handheld device measures distance by ultrasound. The operator determines distance at the speed of sound simply by pushing a button.

With so many smart devices on the market, some home owners are opting for home automation devices that activate everything from lights to thermostats to home entertainment equipment with one remote-control system.

HOME SECURITY

It only takes one break-in to convince a home owner that a smart home is a safe home.

When it's protection from an intruder that the home owner desires, the best place to start is at the front door. The newest locks offer deadlocking latches that are virtually impossible to pick, and protect the frames as well with screws that anchor locks all the way to the framing studs. "Panic proof" inside knobs let residents out quickly in case of fire or an emergency.

Today's security systems go far beyond the barking watchdog. Sensors for doors and windows and perimeter devices such as foil strips, sensors that detect glass breaking, and wiring sensors for window screens keep tabs on action outside the house.

Pressure pads under the carpet, heat sensors, photoelectric beams, infrared lights and ultrasound waves can reveal an intruder's presence quickly once he's in the door.

The simplest security systems come in do-it-yourself kits that even a self-confessed klutz could install.

More elaborate versions offer single-function keys that let the user change system status at the touch of a button on a security center.

The consumer simply selects his protection on a modular basis, so he's free to move around in some parts of the house while protecting others. LCD panels show information on system status.

Other security systems offer the ultimate in burglary deterrent — making the house look lived in by adjusting temperatures, dimming lights, and turning appliances on and off at specific times through home-control systems.

Home owners can even purchase mini versions of the quintessential corporate security system — mini sight-and-sound surveillance systems with cameras that mount to the door or wall and deliver an image to a screen.

HOME PROTECTION

No matter how safe and high-tech a house, the potential for fire is as close as the nearest match, electrical outlet or fireplace. But today's smoke detectors can warn home owners before flames get out of hand, threatening lives and damaging their dwellings beyond repair.

Today's smoke detectors are smart enough to work when there is a power shortage. Some models offer extras such as a horn that can sound the alarm in remote parts of the house. Others offer amplified sound to awaken sleepy home owners and flashing lights to penetrate and illuminate through smoke.

Indoor pollution is a silent danger in many homes that can be curtailed with air conditioners, air cleaners or ionizers. Charcoal filters help eliminate cigarette smoke.

Green-leaf plants also can clean air of many impurities.

INSURANCE

Oftentimes, the smartest purchase for the home is the one that lies hidden in the file cabinet — the home owner's insurance policy.

Replacement coverage can help home owners cover the replacement value of their belongings in case of fire or burglary, and is available from most insurers through a home owners policy endorsement. Standard policies insure possessions for their cash value — the cost to replace them, minus depreciation, but endorsement policies will provide enough money to replace damaged or stolen items without deducting for depreciation.

The endorsement usually costs an additional 10 percent of the yearly premium for home owners.

Home insurance agents also recommend keeping an inventory of belongings and saving receipts for big-ticket items. They suggest photographing or videotaping each room of the house and paying attention to antiques and other expensive pieces.

The smartest home owners keep the inventory sheet — along with insurance policies and other valuable records — in a safe deposit box or fireproof home safe, just one more example of how the smartest additions to a home don't always meet the eye.

'Efficient' Is Watchword

The watchword for kitchen remodeling is "efficient," according to the National Association of the Remodeling Industry (NARI) — energy-efficient appliances, efficient use of work space, efficient use of storage space and practical and efficient functioning.

Says NARI President Robert Rasmussen, "A well-planned, practical kitchen remodeling can be one of the most valuable improvements a home owner can make. The job can run anywhere from about $5,000 to more than $24,000. A major remodeling would include the replacement of all cabinets and appliances; a minor job just one appliance and the refinishing, rather than the replacing, of cabinets." (CNS)

Ladders Hurt 90,000

If using a ladder while remodeling, be very careful, for 90,000 people a year are treated in hospital emergency rooms for injuries suffered in tumbles from ladders. (CNS)

"Smart House" Uses Gas

The first laboratory "SMART HOUSE," built and operated by the National Association of Home Builders Research Center, features innovative natural gas appliances, systems and equipment.

The house is designed to use a completely new delivery system for energy, information, communication, security, safety and entertainment.

Billed as the most revolutionary development in home design since indoor plumbing, the "SMART HOUSE" uses a hybrid cable that combines power, communications and control signals. Gas and electric appliances, telephones, televisions, and other equipment can be plugged into any outlet and controlled from locations throughout the house.

Built on the research center's 51-acre tract in Bowie, Md., the laboratory house showcases natural gas technologies appropriate to the household of the 1990s, such as residential cogeneration; gas outlets for appliances with quick connections and disconnections, zoned heating, ventilating and air conditioning systems, and remote appliance control systems.

Special focus has been given to semirigid natural gas piping that provides convenient gas outlets in every room of the house as well as outside the home for using gas grills.

Gas appliances can be programmed to function for authorized persons only, and have a built-in safety feature that automatically interrupts the energy flow should the equipment malfunction or a gas leak be detected.

Apartment decorating takes creative hand

By Marsha Kay Seff
Copley News Service

Just because you're mobile doesn't mean you have to live like a vagabond.

The way you live reflects the way you feel about your own life. Even renters need to live in apartment that feels like home.

So decorating an apartment doesn't have to be a secondary art form. If anything, it's a higher art form because space is so valuable and you can't afford to make mistakes.

Designers who specialize in apartment decor treat every piece of space as a treasure. You can't afford to decorate an apartment on impulse. Everything has to be planned and thought through more carefully.

If your landlord will allow it, a new coat of paint is one of the easiest ways to brighten up your apartment. Even if you live in an apartment for just a couple of years, it's a long time to live in a room without color.

Obviously, you have to get the landlord's permission ahead of time; some will limit your palette to more neutral colors. Offer to repaint the walls with the standard white before you move out. It might also be worthwhile asking about strippable wallpaper.

If you're fond of color, by all means use it, said Los Angeles designer Nick Kloman, who has decorated a number of apartments. But remember, "The minute you start painting the walls, the room shrinks."

To make the room appear larger, a light, neutral color may be the best choice, Kloman said. Light colors, like tan, off-white and beige give the illusion of more space. "Then you can bring in color with a beautiful flower arrangement, for example."

Apartment dwellers who want to add substance to "cardboard" walls might consider Zolatone or a faux finish, Kloman suggested. Zolatone is a spray paint that looks like the inside of an oven, a granite look. The speckled paint comes in several colors, including white, gray, beige and green. A faux finish resembles granite, marble, limestone, tortoise shell or even oak paneling.

Both finishes must be applied by a specialist, and cost is considerably higher than for traditional paint. It costs about $300 a day for a faux finish painter, and it takes four to five days to paint an entire apartment.

To save money, he suggested using the techniques on one focal wall or, perhaps, only the baseboards. Even these techniques are easy to whitewash when you're ready to move.

Most apartments have a combined living and dining room. Separate them, but be careful not to cut the room completely from floor to ceiling or from wall to wall.

Create a visual barrier with a three-panel folding screen, painted on both sides.

Potted trees are another alternative. Even a strategically placed sofa can do the job.

In his own studio, Kloman has hung Olympic banners from the ceiling, leaving space to walk between them. Remember that whatever you use, it has to work equally from both sides.

Limited storage is another typical problem of apartment living. If you can't build in storage units or you want to take them with you, consider units made of plastic laminate or basketwire. Several manufacturers now offer this inexpensive, flexible furniture.

Because many apartments do not offer great views, you might want to pay special attention to window coverings.

One of the newest designs that lets light in while hiding the view is honeycomb fabric shades that close from the bottom up. With them, you can raise the shade to block the view, but allow light in from the top.

To improve the view, he recommended planting a vine outside and running it up a trellis.

Additional apartment decorating tips include:

■ If you plan to take your furnishings with you when you move, never buy anything that is too extreme in size. Never buy too tall, too wide, too heavy or too big. You're better off with smaller, modular furniture.

■ If you don't like the existing carpet, add some throw rugs of your own. If there's no carpet, try to get by with a 6-by-9-foot rug, which is more versatile than an 11 by-14 when you move.

■ If you can't get permission to paint, you might consider tacking fabric to the walls.

■ Rather than adding ceiling lights or track lighting that will leave holes, consider floor and table lamps or torchiers (shadeless lights aimed at the ceiling).

■ Apartment living doesn't mean all your furniture should be cheap and tacky. Inexpensive things don't have to be tasteless. There's never been a time when there has been a better choice of mass-produced furniture.

It's easy to take a coffee table, needlework pillows or even a rolled-up rug with you. So even if most of your furniture is inexpensive, you might want to add a few good accessories.

Your Guests Will Like The New Sofa-Beds

You can turn just about any room into an additional bedroom by adding a new, comfortable sofa-bed. It's a far cry from the squeaky contraptions they used to be.

Modern smooth-unfolding beauties even have the full-depth mattresses used in conventional bedding sets. And they're large enough to sleep two adult house guests in real comfort.

They provide seating comfort, too, competing with conventional sofas in that respect. In purchasing, check for durable construction. Examine the frame. Is it hardwood? Have the salesperson let you check the underside. Are the joints glued, screwed and doweled, not just glued? Are the corner blocks built the same way for maximum strength?

Make sure the padding is thick enough that you can't feel the frame through it without a fair amount of pressure. Check the folding mechanism to make sure the welds and connections are sturdy and free of burrs that can tear upholstery. Also check the workmanship on the sofa part. Cushions fit well? Seams all neat and strong? (CNS)

Try Touch Latches

Try touch latches for a clean, contemporary look on cabinet doors. These spring-loaded latches are completely hidden when the door is closed. Slight pressure inward on the door releases the latch, letting the door spring open. Installation is very simple, and the latches cost only about $1.50 apiece. (CNS)

Don't Overlook Hallways

Hallways are an often-overlooked area for storage. If your hallway is wide, consider floor-to-ceiling bookcases along one wall. Install a row of hooks for coats, hats, book bags. (CNS)

'Plank' Baby Down!

To make a work area for you and a changing table for the baby, top a grouping of bookcases, filing cabinets or chests of drawers with a long plank or a flush door. (CNS)

Wholesale Housing Center Moves; Offers Unique Building Panels

Wholesale Housing Center recently moved into its new headquarters at the corner of Routes 219 and 42, Deep Creek Lake.

The building is not unlike most other structures found in rural areas. Its twin gables and cedar log siding are reminiscent of the "fort" buildings constructed when the country was expanding west. The structure's 41,000 cubic feet of space are heated by a single stove. Even during periods in which the building is not heated there is no appreciable heat loss, and furthermore, even with an extreme drop in temperature within the building, it is easily re-heated without the problems associated with high density masses such as masonry, according to officials.

The design and construction are based on the same technology that has been employed by commercial refrigeration houses for over 30 years. Now, instead of keeping the cold in, it is kept out. The construction method uses stress skin panels, which are pressure laminated with various widths of polystyrene insulation and are sandwiched between sheets of construction grade fiberboard, plywood, or drywall. When a section of wall or roof panel is installed, it is the equivalent of four completed steps of construction, (framing, exterior skin, insulation, and interior skin). In many cases the outer and inner skins are themsevles the finished product. Furthermore, R-values remain consistent throughout the life of the structure. The polystyrene insulation is lightweight, resists growth of mildew and fungus, and is not affected by moisture or the freeze/thaw cycles.

R-factors can vary from an R-17 for a four-inch wall to an R-44 for a 10-inch wall or roof panel. The durability and versatility of this building technology affords ease of construction as well as labor and time savings in addition to fuel savings in the summer and winter. This technolgy also offers the choice of a conventional style house or the look of a log home. The stress skin panels are adaptable to almost any design.

Wholesale Housing Center will be offering free seminars on subjects varying from wood foundations to panelized construction, at their new headquarters for contractors and the general public. For more information on these seminars, persons may write, visit, or call the office, which is open seven days a week. Inquiries welcome!

Certificate Of Boating Safety To Be Required

The Maryland Natural Resources Police, Outdoor Education Program, is busy preparing for the upcoming boating season. The Outdoor Education staff is recruiting volunteer instructors and organizing boating education courses to ready Maryland boaters for July 1, 1988, when Maryland becomes the first state in the nation to require a "Certificate of Boating Safety Education".

Cpl. Ralph Parker, spokesman for the Natural Resources Police, explained effective July 1, 1988, anyone born after July 1, 1972, must possess a Certificate of Boating Safety Education in order to operate a vessel which is required to be numbered or documented for recreational use in Maryland waters. Parker said this excludes canoes, rowboats and windsurfers that are not required to be numbered.

The Natural Resources Police offer the basic boating course throughout the entire state. Additionally, the course is offered through local school systems, the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, U.S. Power Squadron and some community colleges.

For information on courses or to volunteer in teaching the basic boating course, persons may call the Outdoor Education Program at (301) 974-2247.

BITTINGER VFD AUXILIARY DONATES $5,000 — The Bittinger Volunteer Fire Department Auxiliary recently made its annual donation to the fire department, this time in the amount of $5,089, which has been earmarked for the VFD's new base station and two hand-held radios. The Auxiliary raises most of its funds by serving dinners at the fire hall and during 1987 they served 48 bookings for a total of 3,010 dinners. They also assist the firemen with monthly chicken barbecues from May through September, plus a special July 4th dinner. "Without the constant financial support we receive each year from the Auxiliary, our own fund drive would never provide enough to see us through our annual expenses," stated Roy Beitzel, president of Bittinger VFD. Pictured left to right, front row, are Margie Brenneman, Doris Knox, Ferne Beachy, president of the Auxiliary; Kathryn Bowser, treasurer; and President Beitzel. Sheriff's Dept. Notes Arrests

The Garrett County Sheriff's Department noted several arrests recently as the result of investigations and/or complaints.

Carla R. Ringer, 20, Fayetteville, N.C., was arrested and charged with the theft of road signs belonging to the State of Maryland, the C&P Telephone Company and the Garrett County Roads Department.

Deputy Russell R. Drenning made the arrest. Ringer was released from the Garrett County Jail on $100 bond and will stand trial at a later date.

A criminal summons for two counts of theft was served against Sincle A. Brown, 25, Oakland, on March 13 by Deputy P.J. Pratt.

Donald R. Filsinger, 30, Oakland, was arrested for violation of probation on Monday by Deputy Pratt.

A charge of assault was lodged against Freeman M. Eckenrode, 29, Mtn. Lake Park. The charge was filed by the mother of a 10-year-old Mtn. Lake Park boy who alleged that Eckenrode struck her son. Deputy Russell Drenning served the criminal summons.

B&L, EMPLOYEES DONATE TO HEART ASSOCIATION — Bausch & Lomb, Inc., and its local employees recently made a donation of $654 to the Mile of Quarters program, sponsored by WFRB Radio, Frostburg, for the benefit of the American Heart Association. The employees contributed $347 to the cause and the company then matched that figure. The funds were raised in memory of three B&L employees: Jesse A. Bowen, Donald Harvey, and the local plant's first manager, Pat Fischetti, who had retired in 1981. Pictured are Mary Rush, left, of the B&L Human Resources Department, and Linda Riley, chairman of the Mile of Quarters campaign.

DNR Sponsoring Boater Course

The Department of Natural Resources is sponsoring a Basic Boating Safety Course for the first 30 responders. The course is free of charge and will be held in three sessions, Friday, April 22; Friday, April 29; and Friday, May 13, at Garrett Community College.

The classes will be held from 6-9:30 p.m. each session. Participants must come to each session to complete the course and pre-registration is mandatory. Interested persons may register by calling the Deep Creek Lake Management office at 387-4111 and must give their Social Security numbers.

A DNR spokesman said the course is being offered because of a new law which goes into effect on July 1 stating that anyone under the age of 16 must successfully complete the safety course to operate a boat alone.

Carla Graham To Attend Youth Leadership Event

Carla J. Graham, a sophomore at Northern High School, has been nominated to represent her high school at the Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation (HOBY) State Leadership Seminar. The four-day expense-paid program will be held April 21-24 at the Royce Hotel, located near the BWI Airport.

The seminar will bring together outstanding high school sophomores from throughout the state to discuss and analyze the American System with prominent leaders from business, finance, government, education and the professions. Each school selects one student who has demonstrated leadership potential to attend the event. Bringing together tomorrow's leaders with those of today is the vehicle through which HOBY pursues its basic philosophy, which is to seek out, recognize, and reward leadership potential in high school sophomores. Last year 10,600 young people representing all 50 states, the District of Columbia, the Bahamas, Canada, and Mexico, went through the program.

Founded by actor Hugh O'Brian, HOBY is celebrating its 30th year as one of the nation's outstanding youth leadership organizations.

Miss Graham has been a junior varsity JV cheerleader for the past two years. She is very active in the NHS Council and NHS Band. She was recently selected for the Garrett County Honor Band. She is a member of St. John's Lutheran Church, ELCA, in the Cove and is the treasurer of her church youth group.

Carla resides in McHenry with her parents, Bill and Nancy Graham.

Local Serviceman Stationed On Tiny Pacific Island

by David A. Losleben

JOHNSTON ATOLL, Central Pacific — Picture an island with white sandy beaches, palm trees swaying in the wind, and lush green tropical forest. This vision of paradise may have been what Army Pfc. Gary E. Feller and more than 200 other servicemen pictured when they received orders for a one-year tour of duty on Johnston Atoll.

However, this isolated, wind swept, coral atoll in the Pacific has few of the things associated with an island paradise. From its drab, featureless buildings to its plutonium and Agent Orange contaminated sections of land, Johnston Atoll more closely resembles "Devil's Island" than it does a fantasy one.

Located some 717 nautical miles southwest of Honolulu, Feller, 20, son of Paul and Caroline F. Viragh, Loch Lynn, serves on the "end of the earth," a name used by many of the residents of these four desolate islands.

"In my job, I provide security and protection of the secured area on Johnston Island as a physical security guard," said Feller, a military policeman.

The reason for Johnston's existence and importance to the government is to support the Department of Energy and the Defense Nuclear Agency in the event a return to atmospheric nuclear testing is necessary. The U.S. Army Chemical Activity-Western Command, manages toxic chemical warfare munitions stored here and the Johnston Atoll Chemical Agent Disposal System Project. The atoll is also important to the Fish and Wildlife Service, which maintains a wildlife refuge on one of the islands that boast many species of birds and marine life.

"When I found out I was going to Johnston I was upset at first, because my wife was pregnant at the time," said Feller. "However, I was eager to leave my last assignment at White Sands Missile Range, N.M."

Yet, despite the island's reputation, many of the servicemen on Johnston found some surprising advantages to being stationed in the middle of the Pacific Ocean.

"I enjoy the recreational activities, the sun, and the friendly people on Johnston," said Feller. "I've also been able to save a lot of money out here. But I don't like the isolation, or being away from my wife and child."

For many of the servicemen, being stationed on little more than one square mile of crushed coral creates a certain amount of stress. However, most seem to find ways of venting their frustrations.

"I handle my stress by listening to music, reading, drawing, going to the gym and working out," said Feller.

"My stay on Johnston could be improved if we had a bigger recreation center where we could check out musical instruments. It would also help if we could bring our families out here with us. And we need more live shows and television channels so we can watch football playoffs.

"When I get back home, I want to hug my wife, kiss my baby, and then go three-wheeling. Then I'll go find a job."

Feller is a 1985 graduate of Southern High School. He and his wife, Tammi, have a daughter, Cassandra, 5 months old.

We're Hear To Help

by Pamela A. Martin, CCCA

MUSIC TO YOUR EARS

At the age of thirty, the German composer Beethoven had begun to notice that he was losing his hearing. From that point on, he proceeded to compose his greatest works. In fact, by the time he had completed his greatest symphony, the ninth, he could not hear well enough to acknowledge the thunderous ovation that hailed him upon its first performance. Until his death, Beethoven lived in near isolation. His reclusiveness was brought on by his deafness. Today, no one with the great composer's hearing problem need suffer so much. Otosclerosis, Beethoven's probable disease, is correctible by surgery. It is not necessary to bury individual greatness beneath the avoidable depression brought on by a hearing impairment.

Many hearing impairment problems can be alleviated by the correct hearing instrument which is properly fitted. ALLEGANY HEARING & SPEECH ASSOCIATES has the knowledge and resources to help you in the selection and fit of the instrument that will let music return to your ears. Come in and see us today.

Otosclerosis causes an immobilization of the stapes, a tiny bone in the ear that transmits vibration.

STORYTELLING was a special activity for students at Dennett Road Elementary School recently, as Dr. Gail Herman, one of the best-known professional storytellers in the east, shared this talent with students in grades one and five. After each group session on two other occasions, she worked with the fourth grade gifted/talented students to teach them storytelling techniques. The program was made possible by a Superintendent's Curriculum Enhancement Grant awarded to Rosetta Rodeheaver, resource teacher for gifted/talented students.

In Loving Memory Of

Bessie Uphold

Who died two years ago, on March 21

Grandma Bessie

I remember being close to you and talking every day.
I think of the way you made me laugh, and brightened up my day.
Little things you did for me, I'll cherish in my heart,
And though I cannot see you, we're never far apart.
A Grandma is what you were to me, the mother of my mother.
My best friend is what you were to me, a friend above all others.

Love, Sandy

WVU Among Top Research Colleges

MORGANTOWN, W. VA. — The Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching has again rated West Virginia University as a Research II university, one of only 26 such public institutions in the nation.

The foundation classifies nearly 3,400 colleges and universities into 10 divisions based on the level of degrees awarded, the fields in which degrees are given, enrollment, federal research support and selectivity of admissions criteria.

"We are pleased to see our continued designation among the leading research institutions in the country," Provost Frank Franz said. "As the only research university in the state, we believe WVU has a special responsibility to provide research and development to help build a strong state economy."

Created in 1970, the system is used by college administrators, education researchers, grant makers and government officials.

Designation as a Research II university means that WVU offers a full range of baccalaureate programs and is committed to providing graduate education through the doctorate level. It also indicates that a high priority is given to research.

A Research II institution must receive annually between $12.5 and $33.5 million in federal support for research and development. Additionally, it must grant at least 50 Ph.D degrees each year.

Garrett Farm Bureau Meets With County Commissioners

The Garrett County Commissioners met Tuesday with 14 directors/members of the Garrett County Farm Bureau to help form a closer bond between the farm organization and local government.

To open the meeting, Extension Agent Jim Simms gave the commissioners an update on the Mountain Fresh Produce Association, and a draft plan of rules and regulations for "tailgate" marketing was presented.

Simms invited the commissioners to attend a membership meeting to be held March 31 with either Secretary of Agriculture Wayne Cawley or his Marketing Director Henry Schmidt leading the program. (See separate story.)

Simms explained the long-term goals of the group, and outlined some of the possibilities for direct marketing quality produce grown in Garrett County. He told the commissioners that after a survey taken last winter, the cooperation and needs of local restaurants and the interest of local producers has astounded the association.

A wide variety of other issues was brought before the commissioners by the farm group, including the interest of Farm Bureau members to serve on county boards when a need arises.

An important concern to all those present was the gypsy moth spray program, and the commissioners were asked for an update. A concern was that stands of commercial timber are being ignored and priority given to more urban/residential areas.

The commissioners agreed and added that although the county's 25-percent share of the costs (federal and state funds pay the rest) have totaled approximately $60,000 so far this year, most of the land sprayed by the state has been state-owned land. They promised to continue looking into the problem, and to check with the Maryland Department of Agriculture, the agency in charge of the spraying.

Other issues discussed included the method of cleaning ditches along county roads and the need for reseeding and mulching to prevent erosion. It was suggested that the County Roads Department work more closely with the Soil Conservation Service and Stormwater Management.

The diminishing services provided by the Department of Motor Vehicles in Oakland was another topic of discussion along with the situation between farmers near the Piney Dam and the Department of the Environment and the city of Frostburg.

The commissioners were requested to contact the offices of Senators Paul Sarbanes and Barbara Milkuski and ask them to commit themselves to stopping the implementation of a 15-cent federal diesel fuel tax payment for off-road use by farmers which will begin April 1 unless preventive legislation is passed.

Farm Bureau members commended the commissioners on the creation of a dog ordinance and the success of County Animal Control over the last couple years in relation to dog attacks on sheep. Also discussed at length was the damage done to farmers' fields by deer and bear and the lack of significant compensation for such damage.

The group stressed a need for increased law enforcement in the county, told of their interest in an associate's degree in agriculture being created at Garrett Community College, and asked the commissioners to continue their support of 4-H and FFA.

It was agreed that the group from Farm Bureau would meet with the commissioners again this fall, before the start of the 1989 legislative session for additional input.

AG-WEEK

MARCH 20-26 1988

AGRICULTURE WEEK IN GARRETT COUNTY was celebrated Tuesday in the commissioners office by members of various ag agencies and Oakland FFA members who brought, as symbols of agriculture, a lamb, a dairy calf, a tractor and several ears of corn. An official proclamation was issued by the commissioners in honor of National Agriculture Week, March 20-26, stating that American farmers are the world's greatest providers of food, fiber, fertilizers and feeds; create jobs and contribute to make a healthy economy as well as provide healthy diets for the nation's citizens. Pictured above, back row left to right, are: Shaun Sanders, Garrett County Soil Conservation District manager; Tom Jones, Garrett County Economic Development director, holding the "Mountain Fresh" logo symbolizing a new method of marketing and production being explored for the benefit of the area's farmers and consumers; Mike Kozier, ASCS County executive director; Commissioner Ernest Gregg; Commissioner Elwood Groves II; and Jim Schlossnagle, SCS district conservationist. In the front row, left to right, are Oakland FFA members Randy Lucas, Mike Kepple, and Randy Marple. The local U.S. Department of Agriculture agencies celebrate National Agriculture Week by assisting the agricultural community in the county with services from its different sister agencies. The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) helps with different commodity programs and agricultural cost-sharing programs. The Soil Conservation Service (SCS) assists the county with technical advice, conservation planning and soil surveys. The Farmers' Home Administration (FmHA) helps with financial and loan assistance. The Cooperative Extension Service (CES) informs and educates the public on all types of rural and urban agricultural matters. The Garrett Soil Conservation District also assists on conservation needs of the county. In proclaiming this "Agriculture Week In Garrett County," the commissioners asked all citizens to support all area farmers and agribusinessmen and to recognize agriculture as the backbone of this nation.

Crop Insurance Application Date Deadline Set

The final date to apply for crop insurance protection is April 15 for corn, grain sorghum, oats, soybeans, sweet corn, tobacco and tomatoes — processing coverage in Maryland, according to William Foose, district director of Federal Crop Insurance Corporation. Crop incurance is a USDA sponsored program which allows interested farmers the opportunity to protect their crops against unavoidable losses of production. Causes of loss include drought, hail, excess moisture, excess heat, unavoidable disease and insect infestations. Farmers may elect between three coverage levels: 50, 65 and 75 percent of their actual yield history.

The crop insurance program has changed in recent years to allow for insurance protection based on growers own production records. Losses of production are compensated at between three pre-selected price elections. The highest price election is targeted at 90 percent of the projected market value of the commodity.

The crops covered by a crop insurance program have been increased for 1988 spring seeded crops, according to Foose. New crop programs include processing snap beans and lima beans. The specific policy provisions and premium rates are currently being developed by officials of the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation. Crop insurance agents will have 30 days to accept applications once they receive their actuarial.

Crop insurance premiums are subsidized by up to 30 percent by the United States Department of Agriculture. Further information can be obtained through local insurance agents servicing crop insurance policies. In Garrett County, the servicing agent for crop insurance is Jerry Ferguson, Nationwide Insurance.

Tri-State Rabbit Conference And Trade Show Set

The fourth Tri-State Rabbit Conference and Trade Show will be held Saturday, April 9, at the 4-H Park in Denton.

According to Desiree Mundell, marketing specialist with the Maryland Department of Agriculture, a full agenda is planned. The conference will feature workshops on rabbit management, nutrition and show breeding. A special added attraction will be a question and answer panel made up of rabbit growers discussing their successful trade secrets.

Breeding stock will be on sale throughout the day in the exhibit building along with a complete model rabbitry and numerous commercial exhibits.

Registration in advance is encouraged, says Mundell, "so hop to it." A check or money order for $6 along with a self-addressed, stamped envelop should be sent to Tri-State Rabbit Council 1987, c/o Milford D. Pettit Sr., R.D. 3, Box 207, Harrington, Delaware, 19952. The deadline date for pre-registration is March 31. The registration fee includes a "delicious hare-raising" lunch.

The show is open to anyone interested in rabbits. Registration is from 8 to 9:30 a.m. The workshops are scheduled from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. (Travel directions: take Rt. 16 W off of Rt. 404 east of Denton to Detour Road. Turn left on Detour Road to 4-H Park.)

The Tri-State Rabbit Conference is cooperatively sponsored by the Delmarva Rabbit Growers Association, Caroline County Extension Office and Md. Dept. of Agriculture.

Plans For Mountain Fresh Produce Information Meeting Finalized

The steering committee for the Mountain Fresh Produce Association finalized plans Monday for its membership information meeting scheduled for Thursday, March 31, at the Garrett Community College auditorium at 7 p.m. Featured at the meeting will be a panel discussion presenting the various aspects of direct produce marketing to both the retail restaurant customer and consumer customer.

Those attending will be briefed on the planned functions of "Mountain Fresh" during the upcoming season. At least four "tailgate market" sites will be operated this summer in Garrett and Preston counties. The "Mountain Fresh" trade name will be advertised throughout the area, and at all "points of sale."

In addition to locally grown produce it has been decided that other producer-made products, such as maple syrup, honey, cider, eggs, cereal grains, and certain baked goods will be sold by producer/members. Some of the "tailgate markets" will also be selling locally produced craft items.

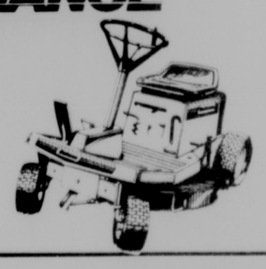

Applications for membership will be distributed at the March 31 meeting. Accompanying the application will be a list of the benefits of membership in the Mountain Fresh Produce Association. The membership fee for 1988 is $10. Youth membership is available to any 4-H and FFA member, or anyone under the age of 16 at $5. If not able to attend the March 31 meeting, interested persons may get an application packet by calling either the Garrett or Preston County Extension Office.

Compliance To Safety Regs Is A Must On Large Farm Trucks

Maryland's farmers should be sure that they are complying with the state's safety regulations for farm vehicles weighing over 10,000 pounds gross, according to Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Wayne A. Cawley Jr. Adopted by the state in 1985, and based on federal motor carrier safety regulations, these state regulations will be stringently enforced all across the state.

"Every farmer in Maryland should know exactly what's required," said Cawley. "As a farmer and a businessman, I want to be sure my equipment meets the standards, and it's up to the farmer to find out what the requirements are and to comply — nobody wants to pay a fine," he stated.

In a cooperative effort to spread the word statewide, the Maryland Farm Bureau and Maryland State Police are co-sponsoring a series of regional informational meetings to provide farmers with detailed information and to answer questions concerning the specific requirements of the farm vehicle safety regulations. The meetings will be held as follows:

Talbot County Ag Center, Easton, March 24, 7:30 p.m.

Kent County Library, Chesterstown, March 28, 7:30 p.m.

South Hampton Middle School, Elkton, (Moore's Mill Road between US 1 and MD 22) April 5, 7:30 p.m.

It is extremely important that all owners and/or operators of farm vehicles weighing over 10,000 gross attend one of these meetings. These safety regulations are in effect and are being enforced. Driver qualifications, safety equipment, log books, and both interstate and intra-state travel are covered by these rules. Violations can result in fines up to $1,000.

For further information, interested persons may call the Maryland Farm Bureau at 301-922-3426, or the Garrett County Extension Office at 334-1990.

January Dairy Product Report Issued

January dairy product reports for the United States show that butter production was 125 million pounds, 14 percent above both January and December 1987. Total cheese output during January was 433 million pounds, five percent above January a year earlier but five percent below December production. Creamed cottage cheese production was 51.0 million pounds, eight percent below January 1987 but three percent above December. Lowfat cottage cheese production was 21.0 million pounds, one percent below January 1987 but 13 percent above December.

Farming In Maryland

Farmers Fight Unnecessary $.15 Diesel Tax

Maryland farmers are fighting federal attempts to collect a tax from them which they do not owe, says Maryland Farm Bureau President Robert Wilson.

The 1987 Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act changed the collection point for the diesel fuel tax from the retail level to the wholesale level. Although farmers retain their exemption for fuel used on the farm, the new legislation requires them to pay the 15 cent per gallon tax anyway and then apply for a refund later.

"There are not many farmers who can afford to lend the federal government hundreds of dollars, interest free, for up to a year," said Wilson. He said Farm Bureau members are doing everything they can to push correcting legislation through Congress before April 1, when the new regulations take effect.

Congressmen Bentley, Dyson and Byron have co-sponsored legislation that would exempt diesel fuel used on the farm from the collection of excise taxes.

According to the pending regulations, farmers could apply for quarterly refunds if their refund for the quarter totals $1,000. Wilson estimates that very few, if any, farmers in this state are that large. Instead, most farmers will have to apply for a tax credit on their tax returns at the end of the year.

"Many farmers would have to include this new outlay of cash in their annual operating loans. That means our farmers could end up paying interest on money that the federal government is using," said Wilson. "And I can't even begin to calculate the cost of the bureaucracy that would have to be established to collect and then refund these taxes," he added.

Wilson said Farm Bureau members have been contacting their Congressmen through letters and phone calls to urge their support of one of the bills designed to remedy the problem. "Unless the IRS agrees to postpone inplementation of the tax collection, April 1 is the magic date for us," said Wilson.

Maryland Won't Copy Diesel Tax Law Changes

A change in the way the federal government taxes the on-road use of diesel fuel by farmers is not being copied by Maryland, according to State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein.

"Lately, several Maryland farmers have contacted our office with questions about the method of paying Maryland's fuel tax on taxable use of diesel fuel in on-road vehicles. Fuel used by farmers in farm equipment, or 'off the road,' is not subject to the motor vehicle fuel tax," Goldstein said. "I want to stress that Maryland will not copy the change in federal procedure which begins on April 1."

Under that federal change, farmers will no longer have the option of buying the diesel fuel free of federal tax and then paying the tax due, generated by on-road use. Instead, they will have to pay all of the diesel tax up-front and then apply for a refund.

In Maryland, farmers who purchase both taxable and tax-exempt diesel fuel will continue to have two options of how to pay for taxable diesel fuel. Any farmer who is a member of the Maryland Farm Bureau is automatically covered by the Bureau's surety bond. They can purchase diesel fuel tax free. Then, each month, they file two forms with the state comptroller's office — one showing their opening and closing inventory (GTD 300) and a worksheet calculating the tax due for fuel used in on-road vehicles (GTD 313).

"This procedure, which we worked out with the Farm Bureau, is easier than it was several years ago, when each individual farmer had to have a bond," Goldstein said.

"This is a change from the four which used to be required. And our Motor Vehicle Fuel Tax Division has prepared a set of line by line instructions on how to use the worksheet."

Farmers who purchase both taxable and non-taxable diesel fuel have another option. They can pay the tax on the fuel purchased and then file for a refund on the non-taxable fuel.

"Agribusiness people who use this option are usually filing for a refund on non-taxable use of gasoline, too, since all gasoline must be taxed when it is sold," Goldstein said. "Farmers whose only diesel use is non-taxable, off-road use just need to file for an annual exemption. They don't need to file monthly statements or file for refunds."

According to the comptroller, farmers who are using any of those methods of reporting diesel use automatically receive the forms they need from the Motor Vehicle Fuel Tax Division.

"But anyone who needs forms or instructions, has questions or wants to set up an account shouldn't hesitate to contact the division's Taxpayer Service Section by calling 301-974-2215, or by writing to Comptroller of the Treasury, Motor Vehicle Fuel Tax Division, P.O. Box 1751, Annapolis, Maryland.

American Trends: 1988 Looks Like The Year Of The Dairy Cow

Americans are going cow crazy. Cow figures are turning up on everything from mugs to T-shirts to sheets. There are fluffy toy Holsteins for hugging and wooden Holsteins to serve as door-stops. Cow "stuff" can be ordered from virtually every direct mail gift catalog, including cow ties, cow sweaters, and cow notepads.

"Our dairy farmers are honored that their beloved cows are in such demand," said Louis Calcagno, dairy farmer and chairman of the National Dairy Board. "It seems that cow paraphernalia is hot."

According to Ted Tamarkin, designer for New York-based giftware company, H.J. Stotter, Inc., when cow items turned up in droves at the New York Gift Show, owner H.J. Stotter's celebrated sixth sense picked up the cow trail. One of the nation's premier trendspotters for specialty items, Stotter picked a winner. "Now they're definitely in," confirms Tamarkin.

"Advertising Age" is calling this year a bull market for cows, noting that the gentle creatures have pushed dinosaurs aside on the marketing merry-go-round. You can even "adopt a cow" on Suzanne and Steven Panagakos' 180-acre farm in Hopkinton, Rhode Island. "Parents" receive adoption certificates, are allowed to name their adoptees, visit them once a month and throw them birthday parties. All of his heifers, says Panagakos, have been signed over, and there are expectan parents on his waiting list. "We just can't keep up with the demand." Anyone thinking Cabbage Patch dolls were once an investment, should take heed — cows cost between $250 and $400 to adopt.

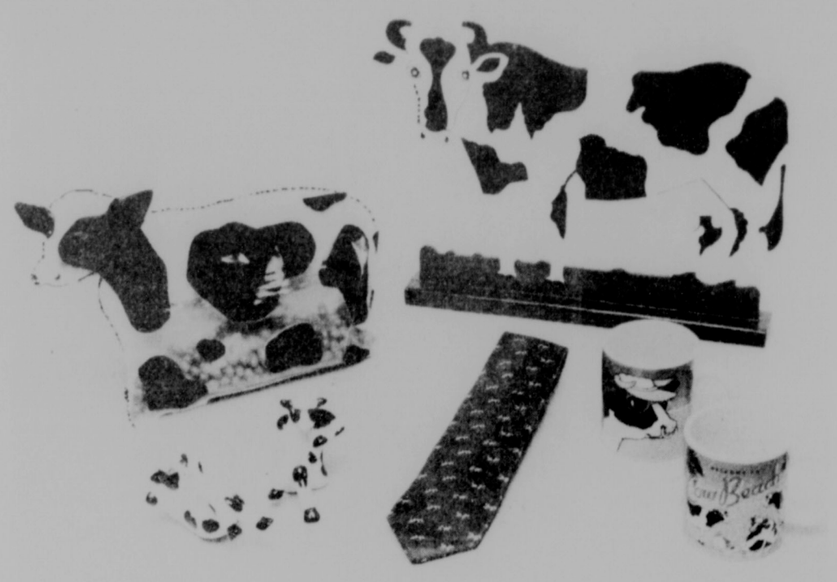

Currently, the best selling greeting card in Boston's Rainboworld Cards' line is a Holstein wearing heart-shaped shades and Hallmark offered a cow valentine this year.

Trend or no trend, cows are everything for Arleen Baker and the cross section of people she describes as "city folk, country folk, the upscale sophisticates, the down-to-earth, the rich, the poor" who make up her clientele. Everything Cows, Baker's Edgartown, Massachusetts gift shop, does a brisk business selling everything in cows: clothes, kitchen and bathroom, toy and gift items. Baker sees the trend staying hot for at least a year.

Is it any coincidence that sales of dairy products are also up? The National Dairy Board reports that Americans are eating more cheese, scooping into more ice cream and drinking more milk than ever before. In fact, overall milk product consumption has risen nearly ten percent over the past three years, an industry record.

"Cows are a basic American animal and dairy is part of a basic American diet," explains Michael Carberry, president of HJK&A, a Washington, D.C., PR and advertising firm. The interest in cows is part of a return to the traditional we're seeing in everything from entertainment to cooking. Fad diets are out. Food-group nutrition is in and dairy products are an important part of basic healthy eating."

Judging from the increase in dairy consumption, along with the distinctive cow-inspired items gathering in gift shops and stores around the country, this could well be the year of the dairy cow. Or, as one spokesperson for the National Dairy Board chuckled, "It's a moo-vement."

"YEAR OF THE COW!" — Pictured above are just a few of the items offered through catalogs and in shops where cow items have become very popular. Clockwise from the bottom are a Holstein tie, salt and pepper shakers, a plastic Holstein case, a wooden Holstein stand, and Cow Beach coffee mugs.

MT. FRESH PRODUCERS ASSOCIATION

If you are interested in becoming a part of the Mt. Fresh Producers, I encourage you to attend a public meeting on Thursday, March 31, 7:00 p.m. at the Garrett Community College Auditorium, Mt. Fresh Advisory Board will present a program on what Mt. Fresh is all about. We feel this program can return many dollars back to the people who participate in the program. Wayne Cawley, Secretary of Agriculture, or his representative will be on hand to speak on direct marketing. Also, there will be a panel discussion on area successes in direct marketing of fruits, vegetables, etc. The public will have the opportunity to ask questions.

DIESEL FUEL — WHEN TO BUY?

On April 1 a Federal tax of 15.1¢ per gallon will be tacked onto each gallon of diesel fuel purchased for off-highway use, unless members of Congress and farm organizations can persuade the Internal Revenue Service to delay beginning this program. If you pay it this spring, you'll get it back next winter when you file your Federal income tax. In the meantime, farmers will have loaned the Federal government about $400 million during this period. Carrying the government in this manner will cost you nearly 2¢ per gallon. However, the bottom is falling out of the petroleum market, so you could save some money by buying fuel as needed this spring. But, if IRS doesn't delay the tax, any savings will be offset by the extra 15¢ you'll pay. My suggestion: before April 1, buy the minimum amount of diesel fuel needed to get you through spring work. Don't buy any off-highway gasoline ahead of actual need. You already have to pay that tax up front.

DO YOU NEED TO SPRAY FOR GYPSY MOTH?

I now have the map of the areas that the State will be spraying for Gypsy Moth. Also, if you have not yet received personal spraying information from MDA, chances are your property will not be included in the spray area. If you are interested in having your property sprayed by a private aerial spray company, please call my office immediately 334-1990. A representative of the High Tech Applications, Inc. from Elkins WV, will meet with people who may be interested in spraying Gypsy Moth this spring. Questions will be answered on costs, spray materials, etc. The meeting will be held Tuesday, April 5, at 7:00 p.m. at the Garrett County Extension Office, Courthouse, Third Street, across from Southern Office Supply, in Oakland. This may be your last chance.

Questions And Answers About The Beef Check-Off

Reprinted from the NCA's weekly "Beef Business Bulletin."

With the beef check-off referendum coming up on May 10, the National Cattlemen's Association would like to clear up some of the misunderstanding about what NCA does and does not do in relation to the check-off and beef promotion through the questions and answers below, submitted by the NCA.

Q. What does NCA have to do with the $1 check-off?

A. State cattle associations and NCA took the lead in obtaining the national check-off legislation and the "order" which implements the program. But NCA isn't involved in collecting the funds or deciding how they're spent.

Q. Who handles the check-off?

A. The check-off itself is handled by state beef councils and the national Cattlemen's Beef Promotion and Research Board and its executive committee. The Beef Promotion Operation Committee (made up of representatives of the Beef Board and the Beef Industry Council of the Meat Board) contacts with the BIC to carry out most of the promotion and other programs at the national level.

Q. But doesn't NCA have something to do with the advertising and promotion programs?

A. Again, the Beef Board and the Beef Promotion Operating Committee, along with the BIC, make decisions on national programs. Sure, numerous persons who are NCA leaders also are involved with the Beef Board and its committees, and NCA is a "constituent organization" of the Meat Board. But NCA as an association has nothing to do with the Beef Board/BIC promotion programs.

Q. What if I have something to say about the current promotion program?

A. You can send your comments to NCA or your state cattle or breed association, and they'll be passed on. For direct input, contact your state beef council, your Beef Board representatives, or the BIC in Chicago.

Q. Doesn't NCA receive check-off funds?

A. Not for promotion — and not for any of NCA's normal services to members. NCA's roles are to lobby and influence federal legislation on behalf of cattlemen (like getting the check-off enabling legislation); to inform influential persons and organizations (including government) on the safety and wholesomeness of beef; and to serve as national spokesman for the beef cattle industry. These services are paid for with your NCA membership dues dollars, not with check-off funds.

Q. Does NCA have anything to do with the check-off program now?

A. Yes. The Beef Board has only one employee, the Beef Board coordinator. In order to avoid setting up another organization, the Beef Board contracts with others for administrative and program services. NCA has a contract to handle accounting and other administrative services. Through the National Cattlemen's Foundation, NCA has been assigned certain "industry information" projects (programs to provide information about the industry and thus enhance the industry's image). These projects relate to beef safety and modern beef production. Also, NCA, along with the BIC, has a contract to provide "feedback" information to producers on what their dollars are used for.

Q. If NCA isn't involved in beef promotion, why does it even have a Consumer Relations Committee?

A. The committee is responsible for several activities related to the image of the beef industry and its product. The committee helps establish policy and oversees lobbying work on public issues, such as government diet advice. It maintains liaison with the Meat Board/BIC and the different beef business segments. NCA is involved in "influencing the influencers" — working with the media and other opinion influencers. It serves as industry spokesman. When a beef issue comes up in Washington, an ag/food news reporter generally calls NCA, as the trade association for beef cattle producers. Many product issues are production-related. When it's appropriate, inquires are referred to the Meat Board.

Q. Okay, so what does NCA do about the image of beef?

A. For one thing, it works on issues related to the healthfulness and safety of beef. When asked to determine priorities for NCA, members rate as the top priority "ensuring that agencies, organizations and media portray beef as healthful."

Q. Wait a minute. Isn't NCA duplicating what can and should be done by the Meat Board/BIC?

A. No. NCA coordinates its activities, particularly technical and public information activities, with the BIC, but activities are not duplicated. The BIC focuses on product promotion, publicity and research. NCA focuses on production and government related issues like safety, wholesomeness and healthfulness.

Q. Okay, give me an example of what NCA does.

A. First, take NCA's role in the combined industry/public/government affairs area. NCA was responsible for getting the Consumer Retail Beef Study off the ground. That consumer research resulted in closer trimming of retail cuts of beef and in an improved image of beef. NCA works with both industry and government on hot fat trimming and grading. It advises public research institutions on beef research needs. NCA speaks for cattlemen on supplies, economics and prices. At meetings conducted by the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute in Washington and attended by the nation's top nutrition/health authorities, NCA officers and staff, representing producers, showed shy modern beef should be part of recommended diets.

Q. What else?

A. Take the producer spokesman role again. NCA has conducted industry tours for retail and packing industry leaders and for consumer affairs directors of food chains. It has run tours for 50 national food writers. Meat Board/BIC staffers take part, and the Meat Board's work with food editors is enhanced. Writers and retailers who talk one-on-one with producers, on the producers' farms, ranches and feedlots, have more confidence in production technology and the safety of beef. They appreciate the economics of beef production. They recognize that many beef cuts do indeed belong in healthful diets. As national spokesman, NCA answers at least 1,000 inquiries a year from news reporters.

Q. Where do NCA's strictly lobbying responsibilities fit into all of this?

A. With its Washington presence, NCA lobbies both federal agencies and Congress on government diet advice; on scientific reports; on food consumption surveys, on nutrition legislation; on inspection, labeling and drug/chemical issues; and on government purchases for food programs. State and national check-off enabling legislation does not permit use check-off funds for lobbying government agencies or legislative bodies.

Q. Why are you telling me all this?

A. Cattle producers, who provide the funds, need to know what the different organizations do to improve producers' profitability. Cattlemen also need to know that the funds used by NCA to provide services to members and the industry are not coming from anyone else. NCA does not receive funds for, or handle, beef promotion.

Maryland Tree Farmers Growing Benefits for You

T.W. Clark
Maryland Forest, Park, and Wildlife Service

The world's population is climbing, the ozone layer is thinning, and the forests are dying. Everyday we read about our inheritance of decades of excesses and abuse. Man, as much as nature, is to blame for the recent famine in Ethiopia. Since the turn of the century, deforestation for firewood has reduced their forests from 40 to only four percent of the land. Without the spongy forest floor to absorb rainfall and moderate the climate, the problems of droughts were compounded. On the other hand, too much rainfall caused extensive flooding in Bangladesh because mountainside forests have been cleared as marginal agricultural land. Such devastation brings to mind the fears of the Sixties and the words of Jackson Browne in his song, "Walk Me on the Water:" "Oh, people, look around you. The signs are everywhere. You left it for somebody other than you to be the ones to care."

Yet, there are those who heard nature's warnings. India's Parliament, faced with the problem of deforestation for firewood, is now considering a prison term of from five to seven years, plus a stiff fine for illegal tree cutting. China has undertaken a massive reforestation program of a million acres a year to fight soil erosion.

Here at home, the Maryland General Assembly has passed several bills which have placed conditions on the management and removal of forests in an effort to reduce the pollution and sedimentation of the Chesapeake and other bodies of water. Still, we are fortunate to have nearly forty percent of our land in forest cover. It remains the single largest land use in the state.

Nearly all of Maryland's forests are in the hands of private owners. Farmers make up the largest group, but the list is endless: doctors, factory workers, executives, teachers, businessmen, and retired persons, to name a few. There are over 95,000 individual forest landowners in all. Government and the forest industry together own only a fraction of the total.

While people own their land for many reasons, surveys show that the majority of forests are part of the farm or family residence. Most of us are too busy with other things to realize the full benefits of our forests. Those who do are not only protecting their investment and improving their land for themselves and their children, but they are also growing benefits for all of us. Everyone gains from their conscious effort to be good stewards of the land. Their healthy, productive forests provide not only wood fiber but also clean water, wildlife, habitat, recreation areas and scenic beauty. It is these owners who care about their land that the American Tree Farm System endeavors to recognize as "Tree Farmers."

The Maryland Tree Farm Committee has been active in Maryland since 1948. During 1988, the Committee and the more than 1,000 members of the Maryland program will be celebrating forty years of tree farming with the slogan, "GROWING BENEFITS FOR YOU!"

Our first certified Tree Farm is a 200-acre tract in Charles County owned by the Glatfelter Pulp Wood Company of Spring Grove, Pennsylvania, but most are owned by individuals. These Tree Farmers are special people with a love for their land. A sampling of our progress over the years will tell the story.

Maryland was the Tree Farm System for a little more than five years before certifying our tenth Tree Farm. Owned by Anne Arundel County farmer, Y. Kirkpatrick-Howat, the property was purchased by Mr. Howat's mother in 1919. The land had been cropped and grazed heavily. Using fences to control the grazing, the woodlands were immediately placed under management. Respected for his experience and knowledge of forestry, Mr. Howat has hosted several groups, including representatives of Congressional committees interested in the Chesapeake Bay and a contingent of Bavarian foresters interested in improving the diversity of their forests. He has cooperated with the Smithsonian Institution in their forest research. Mr. Howat was recognized as Maryland Conservationist of the Year by the SCS in 1975.

By 1966, the Maryland Tree Farm program had reached number 100 when Gerald and Moyleen Smith had their property certified. Lifelong residents of Hancock, the Smiths are now retired, active in church affairs, and are well-known members of the community. Although their land provides a beautiful setting with its oak-covered slopes rising from Tonoloway Creek, the most interesting aspect is the variety of planted trees and shrubs. The Smiths earned much of the money for their daughter's education by collecting and selling the periwinkle that covers most of the woodland. In 1968, they shipped 17,000 plants which were used to landscape the U.S. Air Force Academy.

Tree Farm #1000, owned by Philip and Madelyn Griffith, joined the Tree Farm System in 1986. This farm is also located in Charles County, not far from our first Tree Farm. The property is composed of forty acres of crop land and 200 acres of forest. Acquired by Mr. Griffith's maternal ancestors, the Dement family, in 1813, the land has a long history of sound management. Mr. Griffith is the sixth generation of his family to live on the land.

These Tree Farmers are only part of the story. In every county of the state, there are a dozen or more just like them. Next time you have a chance, visit a Tree Farm near you and see the growing benefits.

Beef Check-Off Referendum Set For May 10

Cattle producers across the country will be casting their votes on May 10 to determine whether or not the beef promotion and research program will continue.

The program, authorized by the Beef Promotion and Research Act of 1985, is funded by a $1 per head assessment on all domestic and imported cattle and by an equivalent assessment on imported cattle, beef and beef products.

"Cattle producers, or those who imported cattle, beef or beef products between October 1, 1986, (the date the program began) and March 31, will be entitled to vote in the referendum," said J. Patrick Boyle, administrator of the United States Department of Agriculture Agricultural Marketing Services.

Nationally, the program has funded several projects — all designed to improve the image of the beef industry. The efforts have included new advertising campaigns, television and radio ads, increased point of purchase materials and educational beef nutrition materials provided to elementary and high school teachers and supermarkets.

The national Beef Promotion and Research Board says that one of the reasons the program has been such a success is because state beef councils may retain 50 cents on each dollar of check-off funds collected. This half of the assessment is used by each individual state to fund their own state programs or it is invested back into the national program.

Since the program began, Maryland has collected a total of $219,666. From that total, the state has kept half, or $95,000 (two percent is deducted for administrative costs) for its spendable budget.

That money, said Scott Barao, secretary/treasurer of Maryland's beef council, has been spent on educational efforts (75 percent) and promotion (25 percent). Research, he said, will take a much bigger commitment, and for now, the national program is taking care of that.

Cattlemen may register and vote at the same time by visiting their county Extension Office during normal working hours on May 10.

Absentee ballots may be obtained by contacting Dr. Scott Barao, Room 1129, Animal Sciences Center, College Park, Maryland, 20742, in writing or in person only.

February Milk Production Increases

Milk production in the 21 selected states totaled 9.74 billion pounds, six percent above production in these states in February 1987. The extra day in February 1988 would account for about a four percent increase with the same daily rate.

Production per cow in the 21 selected states averaged 1,126 pounds for February, 74 pounds more than February a year ago.

The number of cows on farms in the 21 selected states was 8.65 million head, 18 thousand less than January 1988 and 117 thousand less than February 1987.

During the October-December 1987 period the 21 states accounted for 85.0 percent of the U.S. production.

AURORA-EGLON NEWS

MAPLE FESTIVAL AT AURORA

The 2nd annual Maple Festival will be held in the Aurora community on the March 26-27 weekend and again the April 2-3 weekend. There will be food and activities available in a number of different locations.

The Aurora VFD will sponsor a shooting match at the fire hall at 10 a.m. on March 26. Soup, sandwiches, and Easter candy will be available from the Auxiliary at the same location.

Buckwheat cakes and sausage will be served at the Aurora U.M. Memorial Building from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. with a $4.00 charge for adults, $2.00 for children 6-12, and children under 6 eating free. The Aurora Extension Homemakers will have a table of baked goods available for purchase.

MEMBERS RECOGNIZED

At a covered dish luncheon in the home of Martha Bolyard, the Aurora Extension Homemakers held a recognition ceremony for their members who have served 50 or more years. The March 15 meeting was attended by only nine members, partially because many were ill.

Following the noon meal, devotions on a St. Patrick's Day theme concerning the Trinity were presented by Mary Jane Hanline.

Mrs. Virginia Martin was assisted by Martha Bolyard in presenting a lesson on the history of the Aurora club and, at that time, members were given vases of red and white carnations in recognition of the many years of service. Those recognized were: Vesta Stemple and Pearl Stemple for 58 years, Eva Watring and Beulah Lipscomb for 53 years and Ernestine Sisler and Mildred Kovalk for 50 years. All reminisced about former activities and experiences.

New name tags are available at $3.65. A $5.00 assessed fee was sent to be used by the Young Homemakers Committee. Plans for a bake sale table on March 26 for the Maple Festival were finalized.

The next meeting will be on April 19 at 1 p.m. at the Aurora U.M. Memorial Building with the Eglon Extension Homemakers invited to hear a presentation by Janice Roth Snider on the court system.

A trip to Pittsburgh has been set for April 5 for club presidents, with Aurora president Betty Fint, planning to attend.

A special feature at the meeting was a bonsai tree arrangement shown by the hostess.

In addition to the hostess, those attending were Betty Fint, Jary Jane Hanline, Fern Jamison, Mildred Kovalck, Virginia Martin, Dean Sisler, Ernestine Sisler and Vesta Stemple.

DINNER FOR THE WINNER

An after-church dinner was held on Sunday at the Maple Spring Church with losing Sunday School classes, GRC and Youth, serving dinner for the Young Adult and Junior classes and their guests. This was the result of a recent contest between the classes.

PERSONAL MENTION

Visiting this weekend with Artenis Harsh in Eglon were Merrill and Joy Fiory of Fairborn, Ohio. On Sunday, guests there were Robert and Norma Harsh and Leroy and Doris Harsh, the latter of Bridgewater, Va.

On Saturday, March 19, Melvin and Dove Stemple of Aurora were accompanied by Lorrain and Mary Jane Hanline to Circleville, Ohio, where they visited the former's sister, Margaret Case, at the Logan Elm Health Care Center where she is recovering from Guillain-Barre syndrome. From being completely paralyzed, she has progressed to being able to move her legs and is fitted with braces to re-learn walking, is able to feed herself with the use of special appliances, and is now making progress in other areas.

Frank and Pearl Stemple visited Sunday in Morgantown with their grandson and wife, Danny and Elaine Stemple, who were celebrating a tenth anniversary of their wedding.

Ron and Avenell Parsons of Eglon accompanied Bill and Sandra Hauser and their three children on Stemple Ridge on a weekend trip to Medina, Ohio, where they were guests of Glenn and Norma Lantz and also visited with their children, Glenda and Charles and families, and with Doyle and Helen Roth and their family.

Maynard and Bonnylin Lantz returned Friday to their home at Brookside from a business visit to Florida.

Willis Harsh of Stemple Ridge will enter Heartland at Kingwood this week to become a resident there.

Returning Sunday to Eglon was CW04 Thomas E. Lewis, who, as a member of the 146th Medical Detachment of the WVAANG located in Parkersburg, had accompanied a battalion of WV engineers to Honduras where they were one of the two-week rotation workers on the farm-to-market road being constructed there. The helicopter support is necessary due to the rugged terrain and lack of roadway transportation.

SP4 Toni Milo has returned to the military base at Weisbaden, Germany, after undergoing surgery in a Frankfort hospital. Toni is the wife of SP4 James Milo of Port Arthur, Tex., and the daughter of Retha Johnson, Horse Shoe Run.

E2 James Johnson visited last weekend with his mother, Retha Johnson, and sister, Annie at Horse Shoe Run prior to his leaving for a tour of duty in Germany. He also visited by phone with another sister, Teri Wachman, in Mexico.

EASTER CANDY

Persons may order or purchase Easter candy, both molded chocolate and cream-filled eggs, from the Aurora VFD Auxiliary by stopping by the fire hall or by calling there at 735-5797. Persons may also call 735-5493 or 735-3601 when no one is working at the hall.

AURORA VFD REPORTS

There will be a 12 gauge shotgun shooting match on March 26 at the Aurora Fire Hall. Weather permitting, the match will begin at 10 a.m. with each shot at $1.00. Ammunition is provided and 50/50 cash prizes will be awarded each round.

Residents in the 735 calling area may now use 911 to reach fire department assistance, either for Aurora or Mt. Grove areas. The switching to the appropriate source will be done in Parsons.

Donations made to the Aurora VFD during February were from Jessie Fedrow and Elmer Stemple.

A public hearing on the following tentative Determinations will be held:

April 29, 1988
At 11:00 a.m.

in the Washington County Office Building, Second Floor Conference Room, 33 West Washington Street, Hagerstown, Maryland.

State Discharge Permit Number: 85-DP-1357, NPDES Number: MD0054348, Basin Number: 05.02.02.01. Garrett County Sanitary District, Inc. has applied for a renewal permit to discharge at a rate of 0.6 million gallons per day of treated municipal wastewater from Deep Creek Lake Wastewater Treatment facility into Deep Creek which is Class III water, protected for natural trouts.

The Deep Creek Lake WWTP has a design capacity of 0.6 million gallons per day and utilizes oxidation ditch for treatment of ultraviolet unit for disinfection of wastewater.

Tentative Decision: to reissue discharge permit, wastewater to be treated to meet the following effluent limitations: BOD_5, 30 mg/1 maximum monthly arithmetic mean, 45 mg/1 maximum weekly arithmetic mean; total suspended solids, 30 mg/1 maximum monthly arithmetic mean, 45 mg/1 maximum weekly arithmetic mean; fecal coliform, 200 MPN/100 ml maximum monthly log mean value; dissolved oxygen, 5.0 mg/1 minimum at any time, 6.0 mg/1 minimum daily average; and pH maintained between 6.5 and 8.5. The discharge of wastewater containing chlorine or chlorine compounds is prohibited. The effluent limits are necessary to comply with the State of Maryland Water Quality Standards. The expiration date of the permit may be adjusted, if necessary, to a maximum of five years after the actual date of issuance of the permit.

A public hearing on the following tentative determinations will be held:

April 29, 1988
At 11:00 a.m.

in the Washington County Office Building, Second Floor Conference Room 33 West Washington Street, Hagerstown, Maryland.

State Discharge Permit Number: 87-DP-0765, NPDES Number: MD0023981, Basin Number: 02.14.10.06. Maryland Environmental Service has applied for a renewal permit to discharge at a rate of 6,000 gallons per day of treated municipal wastewater from New Germany State Park Wastewater Treatment facility into Poplar Lick Run which is Class III water, protected for natural trout.

The New Germany WWTP has a design capacity of 6,000 GPD and is utilizing septic tank and sand filter for treatment of wastewater. The facility is currently using chlorine for disinfection of wastewater which is in violation of its permit requirements. Therefore, a separate enforcement order may be issued, if needed.

Tentative decision: to reissue discharge permit, wastewater to be treated to meet the following effluent limitations: BOD_5, 30 mg/1 maximum monthly arithmetic mean, 45 mg/1 maximum weekly arithmetic mean; total suspended solids, 30 mg/1 maximum monthly arithmetic mean, 45 mg/1 maximum weekly arithmetic mean, fecal coliform, 200 MPN/100 ml maximum monthly log mean value, dissolved oxygen, 5.0 mg/1 minimum at any time, 6.0 mg/1 minimum daily average; and pH maintained between 6.5 and 8.5. PUBLIC NOTICE PROPOSAL

The Garrett County Board of License Commissioners, under the provisions of Article 2B, Section 184, of the Annotated Code of Maryland may adopt rules and regulations as they may deem necessary to enable them effectively to discharge the duties imposed upon them.

The Board proposes to adopt the following rules and regulations:

The Board of License Commissioners of Garrett County may require licensees holding or applying for, if applicant is an existing Class D Licensee, a Class D (on-sale) or Class D (off-sale) license to produce any or all of the following documents as evidence that the Class D licensee holds the proper Class D license.

A. Invoices
B. Sales Slips
C. Register Tapes
D. Journals
E. Any other accounting or income tax records that may disclose information necessary for this determination.

The Board of License Commissioners of Garrett County require that Class D licensees shall maintain their accounting records in such a manner that facilitates a determination by the Board which type of Class D license should be held by the licensee.

The Board of License Commissioners of Garrett County reserves the right to issue the license having the greater fee to the license holder if the Board determines that a licensee has not maintained or has not properly disclosed records that are adequate for the Board to determine which type of Class D license should be held by the licensee.

The Board will generally make the determination of which Class D license a license holder shall hold based on data pertaining to the year immediately preceding application or renewal. However, in situations involving new licenses, situations where the relationship of on-sales and off-sales may have changed, or in any other situation where the Board deems it to be appropriate, the Board may consider current year information in making its determination.

The Board shall give consideration to special events which may temporarily distort the nature of a licensee's sales and not base its determination on a short time period if annual amounts do or will indicate a different result. The Board will receive written comments in the office of the Board of License Commissioners for Garrett County, Room 301, Old Courthouse, Oakland, MD 21550 until April 25, 1988.

Opposition Of Fluoridation Noted By Towns

At a public hearing held recently for the towns of Mtn. Lake Park and Loch Lynn, water system improvements, including fluoridation, were discussed by members of the governing bodies and residents of each town.

A "straw vote" was conducted at the time and, according to Wendell Beitzel, Garrett County Sanitary District administrator, the majority of those present indicated opposition to the inclusion of fluoridation in the towns' water systems.

Total estimated project cost is $698,810, according to Beitzel, who added that the estimated installation cost of the fluoridation system would total approximately $35,000.

Mtn. Lake Park town council member, Welton Lane, indicated that the estimated amount did not include maintenance and materials costs, but Beitzel noted those costs would be "minor" adding that the major cost would be the construction of a separate building to house the fluoridation equipment.

Beitzel also stated that the record has been held open for a period of 10 days from the public hearing held last Tuesday. March 22, but that no official word has been heard from the towns' governing bodies regarding the issue.

Residents, he said, should voice their opinions to their respective town councils before April 5, but added that the fluoridation system could be added even after construction of the water system improvements has begun.

LAMBS OF GOD? The lamb has been associated with the person of Jesus Christ for centuries. Especially during the Easter season, Christians sing of the Lamb of God who takes the sin of the world. Children are also known to be called little lambs when they are not being naughty. These children, Andrew and Sharon Harvey, children of Scott and Sandy Harvey, Pleasant Valley Road, were being anything but naughty when our photographer Craig Phillips captured them playing with a real little lamb. The passage "The lion shall lie down with the lamb" comes to mind when a closer inspection of the photo reveals not a lion, but certainly a feline, observing the merriment below.

Pa. Man Given Three Years For Drug Distribution

During Garrett County Circuit Court proceedings held last Thursday, a Pennsylvania man was sentenced to three years in the Maryland Department of Corrections and fined $1,000 on a charge of distribution of cocaine.

The sentence was then suspended and Benjamin C. Perry, 27, Valencia, was placed on three years supervised probation by Judge Fred A. Thayer.

Perry pleaded guilty to the charge in a hearing held January 21 when a pre-sentence investigation was ordered. He had also been charged with possession of cocaine as a result of a September Term Grand Jury session.

According to court records, Perry distributed cocaine to a confidential police informant on May 6 of last year. Jack I. Mullen was the defending attorney.

The probation time is to be served in Pennsylvania.

Ministerial Group Schedules Annual Sunrise Service

The annual Easter sunrise worship service sponsored by the Mountain Top Ministerial Association in cooperation with the management of Memorial Gardens, Oakland, will be held this Sunday, April 3, at 6:30 a.m. at Memorial Gardens.

Leading the service will be Rev. John Grant, of St. John's Episcopal Church, Deer Park, who will give the welcome and the sermon; Rev. Martin Feild, of St. Peter's Catholic Church, who will give the invocation, prayer and benediction; Rev. Sylvus Flora, who will read the scripture; and Rev. Michael Pumphrey, of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, Oakland, who will also lead prayers.

The service will be held regardless of weather conditions. Memorial Gardens is located along Memorial Drive, Oakland.

New Postal Rates Will Take Effect Easter Sunday

The cost of mailing a first-class letter will rise to 25-cents beginning Sunday, April 3, but Baltimore General Manager/Postmaster James A. McDougald urges customers not to wait until the last minute to make their new stamp purchases.

"We have an ample supply of the new 'E' stamp available for sale at all post offices, stations and branches," McDougald said. "The stamp has a postage value of 25-cents, the new first-class rate, and will remain on sale until we receive new denominated postage that conforms with the new rate. Also, we have a good supply of one, two and three cent stamps that can be used with customers' existing stocks of 22-cent stamps to meet the new first-class rate."

McDougald emphasized that the new "E" stamps are for use within the United States only. "Their use is prohibited on international mail, which requires denominated postage," he said.

The new first-class rate and increases for other classes of mail were approved March 22, 1988 by the Governors of the U.S. Postal Service. It is the first rate adjustment in more than three years.

The increase for first-class mail represents a 13.6 percent rise while the cost of second-class mail (magazines, newspapers) will rise 18.1 percent, bulk regular third-class will go up 24.9 percent and parcel post will increase 14.8 percent.

Not all the rates went up. According to McDougald, the minimum cost for sending an Express Mail letter will be $8.75 for up to eight ounces.

Correction Noted In Martin Case

In a story appearing in the March 17 issue of The Republican, it was stated that Ernest R. Martin, owner and operator of an Oakland junkyard, faced up to 10 years in prison and a $500,000 fine after a plea of guilty in Baltimore Federal District Court to possession and storage of a dangerous substance.

The charge, instead, carries a five-year prison term and a maximum fine of $250,000. Martin, however, stated that he would probably not be required to pay a fine and certainly would not serve a prison term for the offense.

Martin also stated that he pleaded guilty to that charge as a result of plea bargaining.

Another "Save" Is Recorded By County Dispatcher

Another member of the Garrett County Office of Emergency Management has been credited with giving life-saving directions to a caller over the 911 emergency telephone line.

According to Brad Frantz, director of the office, dispatcher Phil Rook received a call at 12:22 p.m. on March 6 from Betty Bishoff of the Accident area. Mrs. Bishoff told Rook that an elderly woman in her care had apparently suffered a stroke and was not breathing, noting that the woman was turning blue.

Rook proceeded to give Mrs. Bishoff instruction in mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and, Mrs. Bishoff was successful in restoring the breathing of the woman by the time the Northern Rescue Squad arrived on the scene.

The patient was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital and placed in the intensive care unit, but was later placed in a regular patient room.

Frantz noted that this was the fourth "save" by Garrett Emergency Management dispatchers in the past several months. All of the dispatchers are certified emergency medical technicians and one of them is also a cardiac rescue technician.

Ecumenical Good Friday Service Set At St. Anne's

A service to remember the meaning of Good Friday will be held at noon this Friday, April 1.

This hour-long gathering is sponsored by the Casselman Valley Ministerial Association. The site for this annual observance will be the St. Anne's Roman Catholic Church along Alternate Route 40 east of Grantsville. The community is invited to attend.

The Casselman Valley Ministerial Association consists of an ecumenical group of pastors and spouses of local congregations. The group meets monthly for fellowship and discussion of local concerns and needs. The Association administers a fund to assist transients in the community.

Churches represented in the association are St. Paul's United Church of Christ, Salisbury, Pa.; St. John's United Church of Christ, Grantsville; Trinity United Church of Christ, New Germany; the churches of the Grantsville charge of the Board Of Public Works Approves Sale Of Additional State-Owned Land

Governor William Donald Schaefer announced Board of Public Works approval this week for the disposal of 1,105 acres of state-owned land that have been declared surplus in Garrett County.

Chaired by the governor, the Board of Public Works also is comprised of Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein and Treasurer Lucille Maurer. The board is empowered by the General Assembly to approve major construction and consultant contracts, equipment purchases, property transactions, and other procurement actions.

The parcel, which is administered by the Department of Natural Resources, is a detached section of the Potomac State Forest and is located off route 135 near Swanton. The land will be packaged for public sale by the Department of General Services. This packaging will include subdividing the parcel to make it affordable to the general public, stated John Nelson, Garrett County Planning and Zoning administrator.

The land sale will enable the state to continue with its voluntary land acquisition project along the Youghiogheny River scenic corridor in Garrett County. Under the program, the state is seeking to purchase tracts along the Youghiogheny from willing property owners, and sell an equal amount of land elsewhere in the county. By law, the state is not permitted to increase its land holdings in Garrett County.

"The Youghiogheny River project is important to Garrett County and to the state of Maryland," Governor Schaefer said. "The effort will help preserve the scenic beauty along the Youghiogheny, and will consolidate the state's holdings which are scattered in Garrett County."

This action by the Board of Public Works represents the second land sale approved for the Youghiogheny project. In January, the board approved the disposal of seven parcels of land totaling 1,078 acres. These lands are tentatively scheduled to be auctioned to the public sometime in mid-August.

The state is cooperating with local officials and state legislators in the effort.

Timely Reminder

Tiredness will prevail beginning Sunday as Daylight Savings Time will officially begin Sunday at 2 a.m., robbing us of one precious hour of sleep. Citizens are reminded to set their clocks ahead one hour before retiring Saturday night.

Another Reminder: The Republican will be closing Friday at noon in observance of the Good Friday holiday. Advertising and news deadlines will not be affected by the closing.

House Committee Kills Critical Areas Legislation

The House Environmental Matters Committee unanimously rejected on Monday a controversial piece of legislation already approved by the Senate that would have expanded restrictions on development of waterfront property to include every river and stream in the state east of the Eastern Continental Divide.

By an 18-0 vote, the committee rejected a bill that would have severely restricted development near virtually all freshwater rivers and streams across the state. The Chesapeake Bay Critical Area program already limits development on land within 1,000 feet of tidal waters in 17 Maryland counties.

The Senate, with a 30-13 vote, passed a bill March 11 sponsored by Sen. Frederick C. Malkus, D-Dorchester, to extend the critical areas law. Sen. Gerald Winegrad, who co-sponsored the bill with Malkus in the Senate, said it would extend to every county in Maryland the restrictions on development within a 1,000-foot strip along the bay, rivers and streams. He said it would in-

Paul W. Ferrell Kidnap/Murder Case Held Over For Grant Co. Grand Jury

The case against Paul William Ferrell, 31, Gormania, W.Va., has been ordered held over for the Grant County Grand Jury by Grant County Magistrate Ruth Michael. Ferrell had been charged and held in the Grant County jail without bond for the kidnapping and murder of Catherine Denise Ford, 19, Gorman, who has been missing since February 17.

Ferrell will continue to be held without bond until his appearance before the grand jury. The preliminary hearing was held Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. with only 14 people permitted to attend.

Those in attendance were Magistrate Michael, the defendant, Ross Maruka, defense attorney; Dennis DiBenedetto, Grant County prosecuting attorney; Det. Donald Tucker of the Garrett County Sheriff's Department, a court recorder, Catherine Ford's brothers, Gary and Richard Ford, her aunt, Anna Sutton; her boyfriend, Darvin Moon; one armed guard and three representatives of the media.

Called to testify for the state were Federal Bureau of Investigations's Agent Everett Robinson III and Grant County Sheriff Larry W. Ours.

Robinson's testimony reportedly centered around the official 14-page affidavit in the case. Ours' testimony dealt with Ferrell's employment with the Grant County Sheriff's Department. Ferrell had been hired as a deputy just two weeks before Cathy Ford's disappearance.

The defense called for no witnesses and no questions were directed to Ferrell who did not make a plea in the case.

DiBenedetto said there are some 55 witnesses involved in the case thus far. During the course of the hearing, Maruka voiced several objections citing the hearsay statute. All his objections were reportedly overruled.

Additional evidence was revealed in yesterday's testimony at the hearing. The blood initially found in the trailer rented by Ferrell was determined to be human. The blood was found on a wall divider strip, portions of the ceiling and floor, on the edge of a closet door mirror and on a mattress. Blood was also found on a blanket in the back of a Ford Bronco police vehicle to which Ferrell had access on the day of Ford's disappearance.

Ferrell's live-in girlfriend, Catherine Bernard, Deer Park, also reportedly told FBI agents that on the day Cathy Ford disappeared, Ferrell had come home from work "upset, had tears in his eyes and had scratches on his side."

With a strong objection from the defense attorney, Robinson testified that he felt Cathy Ford was dead "based upon the totality of the investigation."

The FBI is now in the process of determining the blood type of the blood found in Ferrell's trailer.

In addition, Maruka argued that no witnesses had come forth to show that Ferrell had been seen with Ford the day of her disappearance. He added that Bernard had stated that Cathy Ford had been seen with Ferrell outside the family's restaurant.

Members of Cathy Ford's family previously stated that Cathy was familiar with Ferrell only because he frequented the family restaurant to eat.

Funeral Service Held For Fallen Peace Corps Worker, Scott Glotfelty

A eulogy from the director of the Peace Corps, the presentation of a personal letter of condolences from President Reagan, a powerful message from Pastor Louise Knotts, the presence of persons from as far away as Togo, Africa, and special music by members of the Garrett Choral Society were among the events of a funeral service held yesterday in Bittinger for 27-year-old Dr. Scott Glotfelty, who died last Wednesday, March 23, in Togo after being attacked by bees.

Dr. Glotfelty was a Peace Corps volunteer, having been assigned last June to Togo where he was doing research in animal husbandry. According to Robert Nicolas, director of Peace Corps activities in Togo, Glotfelty was by himself when he was attacked by the bees near the village of Mandouri. He was found lying under a tree by other Peace Corps volunteers, who rushed him to Dapong Hospital, Dapong, where he died.

Family members said that Glotfelty was allergic to bees and usually carried a bee sting kit with him, but he did not have it with him at the time and the stings were probably too numerous for it to have helped anyway.

Nicholas, who accompanied Glotfelty's body on a 30-hour non-stop trip from Togo to Bittinger, stated that the loss of Glotfelty to the Peace Corps and to the people of Togo was so significant because of his research.

"Scott was just beginning a pilot project to increase the level of protein in domestic animals, such as chickens and pigs, which would improve the quality of the animals and then greatly upgrade the diets of the people," he said. "His death is such a terrific blow to this effort because we do not get many volunteers who are veterinarians and who are so skilled."

He went on to describe the relationship of Glotfelty with the other volunteers and the local people. "All volunteers first go through about 10 weeks of orientation and training, and in just a few weeks, Scott emerged as one to whom the others looked to for support. He was just an outstanding person and it will take a long time for the rest of us to recover from his loss."

Before entering the Peace Corps, Glotfelty had been employed at the Pineview Veterinary Hospital in Oakland, where he performed relief and emergency veterinary service. He received a bachelor of science degree in zoology from the University of Maryland, where he was named a chancellor scholar. He then earned a doctorate of veterinary medicine from the Virginia-Maryland Regional College of Veterinary Medicine. He was a member of Emmanuel Lutheran Church, Bittinger, the American Veterinary Association, and the Garrett Choral Society, having played one of the lead roles in the Society's last musical, "HMS Pinafore."

Emmanuel Church was packed beyond capacity yesterday, as over 200 persons attended the funeral. Among the speakers were Nicholas and Loret M. Ruppe, who has been the director of the Peace Corps since 1981. She brought with her a letter from President Reagan to Glotfelty's mother, Ruth DiPaolo. In part, the letter read: "Scott distinguished himself and brought honor to his country as a Peace Corps volunteer. His generous gift of self is a shining tribute to the finest qualities of the American spirit and to the vital contribution that the Peace Corps is making in furthering goodwill and valuable technical assistance to countries throughout the world."

In her comments at the funeral, Ms. Ruppe said that the Peace Corps volunteers and staff "will remember the spirit of selfless giving and dedication he brought to the Peace Corps."

She continued, "Scott was an idealistic young man who hoped that his concern and efforts would help the Togolese obtain a better understanding of the United States. He truly exemplified the ideals upon which the Peace Corps was founded."

Also in attendace were Carroll Buchard, regional director for the Peace Corps programs in all of Africa; Jorina Ahmeb, a Peace Corps social worker who made all the arrangements for transportation of the body back to the United States and SHAKEN AND SADDENED by the death of one of their most outstanding Peace Corps volunteers were Loret Miller Ruppe, director of the Peace Corps, and Robert Nicolas, director of the Peace Corps effort in Togo, West Africa, who were among the more than 200 mourners yesterday at the funeral of Dr. Scott A. Glotfelty. The 27-year-old veterinarian, who joined the Peace Corps last year, died Wednesday, March 23, in Togo after being attacked by bees. Ms. Ruppe brought with her to the service, which was held at Emmanuel Lutheran Church in Bittinger, a personal letter of condolences from President Reagan. A native of Bittinger, Dr. Glotfelty is survived by his mother, two sisters and two brothers.

County Plumbers' Test Among Topics Discussed By Commissioners

Among the many topics discussed at a press conference Tuesday with the Board of Garrett County Commissioners was the first plumbing test administered recently for county plumbers hoping to achieve master or journeyman status.

In the past year, state officials determined that plumbers in Allegany and Garrett counties were not in compliance with state regulations in the capacities in which they had served — some of them for many years.

In an agreement with the county commissioners, district legislators and the State Board of Licensed Practical Plumbing, it was decided that plumbers could take a special test which, if passed, would permit plumbers to continue practicing in the county.

Prior to the first test, a review of the content of the test was given at Garrett Community College. Of those taking the master test, 44 percent passed. Those taking the journeyman test resulted in a 22 percent passage rate. The state has yet to release how many in each group took the initial test, although over 100 applications were approved by the state board to take the test.

Gary Mullich, county general services superintendent, met with state plumbing officials last week and said that the state intends to bring Garrett and Allegany counties "in line" with the rest of the state regarding plumbing legislation.

Mullich did say that there was a discrepancy on one of the questions for the journeyman test that when resolved may result in several more plumbers passing the initial test.

A second review and test is scheduled in a few weeks for those who failed the first one, according to the commissioners.

At the press conference, Commission Chairman John G. Braskey, who has gone on record as not being in favor of such state mandates, said, "I didn't want to enforce it in the first place and I still don't want to."

Commissioner Braskey also said the board was researching the far-reaching ramifications the legislation might have on the county, including the fact that the county may have to hire an inspector to review the mandated applications for not only minor plumbing repairs but for industrial and developmental plumbing regulations.

Open Space Funds

Also Tuesday, the commissioners announced that the Department of Natural Resources had approved state Program Open Space funding for the Northern High School regional recreational fields, sponsored by the commissioners, and the Kitzmiller school park project, sponsored by the town of Kitzmiller and the Garrett County Board of Education.

Those funds for development will become available on July 1.

The Northern project cost has been set at $75,000, half of which will be funded this fiscal year. The cost of the Kitzmiller project is $50,000. The state funds 90 percent of those projects while the local share is 10 percent.

Other Commissioner News

In other commissioner news, the county board approved the proposed Crellin Sanitary District as amended. They have given Wendell Beitzel, Sanitary District administrator, directions to review a number of petitions received by Crellin residents.

The commissioners also opened bids for the repair of the roof on the new courthouse. Those submitting bids were Tri-State Roofing of Cumberland, L.R. Lloyd of Hagerstown, Carl Belt, Inc. of Cumberland, and Reliable Roofing of Elkins, W.Va.

County administrator, Robert Fousek, said the bids ranged from a low of $24,573 to $42,987. The bids have been turned over to Gary Mullich for his recommendations.

Finally, the commissioners took comments from seven county residents at a public hearing on a proposed junkyard in Crellin at the Gibson site. The record will be held open for written comments on the proposal until April 7.

Board Of PW Grants Funding For Group Homes

Governor William Donald Schaefer today announced Board of Public Works approval of construction contracts totalling $1,455,489 to design and build five group homes, one in Garrett County, for clients of the Developmental Disabilities Administration (DDA) of the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DHMH).

Chaired by the governor, the Board of Public Works also is comprised of Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein and Treasurer Lucille Maurer. The board is authorized by the General Assembly to approve major construction and consultant contracts, equipment purchases, property transactions and other procurement actions.

The contracts call for the design and construction of group homes in Capitol Heights and Suitland in Prince George's County, two in Silver Spring in Montgomery County, and one at the intersection of Weber Road and U.S. Rt. 219 in Oakland.

"These group homes will provide much-needed services to developmentally disabled persons and their families," said Governor Schaefer. "One of the best things we can do for these people is to make it possible for them to stay in their own communities," he said.

Each home will accommodate four to six persons with multiple impairments, plus one resident counselor and another during certain daytime hours. The houses will be constructed with specially designed bathrooms, kitchens and hallways capable of being utilized by persons with walkers or wheelchairs.

Residents of the homes will do the cleaning, laundry, and other household chores. During the day they will be in programs outside the home learning to better care for themselves and training for tasks for which they can be employed.

The contracts were awarded as follows: Edward G. Wilburn, General Contractor, Inc., McHenry, $283,176; Smith & Haines, Inc., Rockville, $314,000; Tito Contractors, Washington, D.C., $290,000; John L. Mattingly Construction Co., Inc., Waldorf, $296,169; and R & L Carmichael Co., Inc., Laurel, $272,144.

Drunk Driving Apparent In Two Separate Mishaps

Drunk driving appeared to be the cause of two separate automobile accidents this week in the county, according to reports filed at the Maryland State Police.

A 17-year-old juvenile was charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol, driving an unregistered vehicle and failure to keep right of center following a 5:40 p.m. accident Saturday.

The accident occurred when the juvenile, operating a 1974 Dodge Charger, was traveling north on the Oakland-Sang Run Road, lost control of the vehicle and ran off the right side of the road striking a ditch. The vehicle re-entered the road, crossed over the center line into the southbound lane and into the path of a 1987 Oldsmobile Cutlass, operated by Susan C. Hinebaugh, 30, Oakland. In attempting to avoid the collision, Hinebaugh swerved to the right side of the road and struck a stone wall. The juvenile ran his vehicle off the left side of the road and struck a mailbox and a C&P utility pole before fleeing the scene.

Both drivers were reportedly uninjured in the mishap. A passenger in the juvenile's vehicle, Robert L. Pyles, 23, Oakland, and a passenger in the Hinebaugh vehicle, Michael L. Hinebaugh, 33, Oakland, were also uninjured.

Tpr. Paul R. Brown investigated the accident.

Another Saturday mishap resulted in a DWI charge against a young Oakland man.

Gary L. Gregory, 18, was charged with DWI, failure to display a license and negligent driving by investigating officer, Tfc. R.M. Hershberger.

Gregory was reportedly backing from a private driveway on the Gravelly Run Road in a 1982 Datsun 210 when the left front bumper caught the right rear bumper of a parked 1976 Ford Gran Torino owned by Gary R. Morgan, Baxter, W.Va.

The mishap occurred at 11 p.m.

Jobless Rates Take Usual Jump During January

Because of seasonal influences on Maryland's economy, the state's jobless rate rose from 4.2 percent in December to 5.2 percent in January, according to statistics released by the Maryland Department of Economic and Employment and Development.

The over-the-month increase in the unemployment rate, which is normal for this time of year, places this January's estimate at the same level recorded for January 1987. Last year the unadjusted rate was 5.2 percent.

Garrett County's jobless rate also jumped, from 10 percent in December to 12.5 percent in January.

The upturn in Maryland's jobless estimate also follows the national estimate which showed unemployment rising from 5.4 percent in December to 6.3 percent in January.

"Despite the increase in Maryland's estimated unemployment rate, the actual number of people employed over the year climbed by 35,000, indicating that Maryland's economy is continuing to grow," explained J. Randall Evans, Maryland Secretary of Economic and Employment Development.

During January, seasonal influences typically play a major role in the direction of activity for Maryland's industrial payrolls, he said. Jobs in the non-agricultural industries, estimated at 2,017,200 in January, revealed a loss of 33,600 jobs over the month. Post-holiday layoffs caused employment in trade to drop back by some 14,000 jobs. Semester breaks at colleges and universities were responsible for substantial losses in government employment. Seasonal cutbacks also lowered employment totals in the construction, services, real estate and manufacturing industries.

Increased joblessness was evident in all jurisdictions throughout the state. In the Baltimore metropolitan area, the jobless rate rose from 4.8 percent in December to 5.5 percent in January with Baltimore City's rate climbing from 7.6 percent to 8.3 percent. All of the metropolitan area's local jurisdictions experienced increased unemployment, with the exception of Howard County where the jobless rate held steady at 2.3 percent.

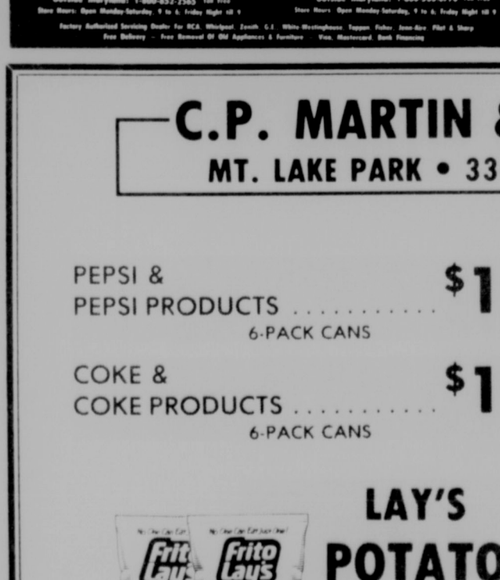

In the Maryland suburbs of the Washington, D.C. metropolitan area, the addition of approximately 6,500 workers to the regions jobless rolls caused the unemployment rate to rise to 3.5 percent, up from 2.8 percent in January.

Joblessness in the balance of the state area rose by 2.5 percentage points over the month, reaching 8.3 percent in January. Unemployment in Somerset and Worcester counties contiuned at double-digit levels measuring 14.6 percent and 13.7 percent, respectively.

In Western Maryland, expansion in the regional labor force added to the area's seasonal unemployment rise from 8.0 percent to 10.1 percent, the highest of Maryland's four regions.

The U.S. is 3,623,420 square miles in area.

A Living Faith . . .

This column is rarely used for the purpose of eulogizing, however there are times when it seems most appropriate.

One of Garrett County's — one of the world's — most outstanding young people, Dr. Scott Glotfelty, died last week after being attacked by bees in Togo, Africa.

The effects of this tragic loss are being experienced not only by his family and friends, but also by over 5,000 Peace Corps volunteers and, indeed, by an entire nation of people; for Scott was the key figure in a new project in Togo designed to upgrade the diets of the residents and thus improve the quality of life there.

There are many people who profess a strong faith, but so few who go to such great lengths to live their faith. Scott was one of those few; one who made a supreme effort to make a positive difference in the world. Because of the profound love and careful nurturing of his parents and siblings, Scott developed into a shining example of a generous, caring human being.

His loss to the Peace Corps and the people it serves is significant in many ways, for rarely does a young, talented veterinarian give up or suspend a potentially lucrative career to be a Peace Corps volunteer. But that was Scott. His caring for others superseded all desires for material gain.

Mere words do little to ease the pain and suffering of Scott's loved ones, who must somehow go on with living. In our search for the best words to describe the person of Scott Glotfelty, we could find no better than the following, which were written by Scott himself when he made application to the Peace Corps.

"My family always taught me to give of myself and help others, regardless of their backgrounds. . . I gained my greatest satisfaction when I could help or ease the suffering of a friend, family member or an animal. Whether it was a word or a stroke from my hand, I could not find a better way to express my feelings and compassion . . . than by being open and willing to learn new ways of being. Practicing veterinary medicine in a developing country could hopefully fulfill my desire to assist people feed themselves and fight starvation while showing them how to treat animals so they can be better assets . . . I can also continue to learn more about myself as I experience new cultures.

"I can't profess to change the world, or even make a great change wherever I go, but it is worth the try, for myself and those I'll meet. I continually look for personal growth and feel I can give to a people some of my knowledge in return for the their realization of life."

What a wonderful philosophy. What an incredible young man.

The best comfort lies not in words, however, but in the guarantee afforded each of us by the events of the Easter season, which assure us that the beauty, the peace and the tranquility described and experienced by Scott in the African countryside were but a mild preview of what he is enjoying at this moment.

Note: The family requests that expressions of sympathy take the form of donations to to the Scott Glotfelty Memorial Trust Fund for Humanitarian Purposes, in care of the family, which will allow Scott's work to continue. We are convinced that this is Scott's desire as well.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

On March 22, 1988, the Garrett Sanitary Commission held a meeting at the Loch Lynn School concerning the proposed improvements to the water system for both Loch Lynn and Mountain Lake Park. At this meeting, the Sanitary Commission revealed plans to upgrade the present water supply system to comply with present and proposed State and Federal Regulations and also to handle future growth in the two towns.

Also proposed at this meeting was the option to fluoridate the water supply for the purpose of preventing tooth decay, especially among children. This option was unanimously turned down by the members in attendance of the governing bodies of both Loch Lynn and Mtn. Lake Park.

Next to frequent brushing and proper eating habits, the use of fluoride, either in liquid or pill form, is the next best thing persons can do for their teeth, especially for the teeth of children. A fluoridated water supply is supported by the Allegany-Garrett Dental Society, a society to which most of our local dentists are a member of, and whose members are experts on tooth decay and means of preventing it. How many of us have children currently taking fluoride tablets or as children have taken them ourselves? You know the cost isn't cheap. Fluoridation of the water supply is the most economical way to provide fluorine into our bodily system.

The most economical way to install a fluoridation system is to do it when other work on the system is taking place, as is currently proposed. The installation of a fluoridation system is estimated to cost approximately $30,000, which is less than a 5% increase in the total cost of the water improvement project.

We appeal to you a a resident of Mtn. Lake Park, and to all other residents affected, to contact your elected town officials and let your feelings be known on a fluridated water supply. Your children and your children's children will thank you.

Sincerely,
Joe and Deb Swerbinsky

Dear Joe and Deb,

In checking with the town councils involved, we discovered there was no official vote taken, although the "tone" of the meeting was against the fluoridation. Thus, we agree that persons should write or call their respective council immediately to make their opinion known.

Editor

To the Editor:

The Congress of the United States is trying to convert America to another Nazi Germany by passing a law to give illegal aliens "election day voting rights" (Universal Voter Registration Act, S.1888 and H.R. 3666).

This is another example of the federal bureaucracy infringing on the rights of states. If this bill is passed, the constitutionality of it should be challenged. The passage of this bill would assure these politicians who voted for it the loyalty of these people in this presidential election and all subsequent elections. This would also assure these traitorous congressmen lifetime tenure in office. It would grant to these illegal aliens a privilege that we poor citizens don't have. A voting law in just about every state required that a citizen must be on the registry to vote months before being permitted to vote in any election. (This is a good law that cuts down on election fraud). These illegal aliens are the new privileged breed.

Write President Reagan to veto this bill if it is passed by the Congress. But for now, call your congressman and senators and demand that they vote against this bill. Don't let these election day "ringers" destroy our freedom or our country. (This is the power grab of the century).

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

Trade, Summit, and INF Update

by Ronald Reagan

The cause of peace among nations was at the top of our work agenda here in Washington recently as I received Soviet Foreign Minister Shevardnadze at the White House. My talks with him were cordial but, as you might expect, to the point.

During Mr. Shevardnadze's stay, I announced May 29 through June 2 as the dates for my summit meeting in Moscow with the leader of the Soviet Union, General Secretary Gorbachev. This was good news. The last U.S.-Soviet summit in the U.S.S.R. was 14 years ago; so this meeting will give me and, in a sense, you, the American people, an opportunity to convey the message of peace and freedom to the Soviet people.

But let me also say that while lengthy talks held between Secretary Shultz and Mr. Shevardnadze at the state Department were useful, they also made clear how difficult the issues are between the United States and the Soviet Union. Some progress was made here and there in various areas. But there is much more that needs to be done, given the importance of the topics discussed. Our agenda with the Soviet Union deals not only with arms reductions, but also regional matters, human rights, and people-to-people exchanges. And as our discussions continue in each of these areas, I can assure you that the United States will sign only those agreements that are in our best interest.

Let me also assure you, as negotiations continue on efforts to further reduce U.S. and Soviet strategic nuclear arms, that my Administration will carefully review such proposals.

Still, we have come a long way in our attempts to deal with the Soviets and to further the cause of peace and freedom around the world. The next summit will help. How much? We will have to see.

An important accomplishment of the first few summits is the I.N.F. Treaty on Intermediate-Range Nuclear Forces that Mr. Gorbvachev and I signed when he was here for the Washington summit last December. I am hopeful the Senate will, as it exercises its constitutional duty, speedily approve what amounts to the first real nuclear arms reductions ever achieved.

Some of you have heard me say before that our progress with the Soviets is based on their awareness that we have no illusions about them and on our determination to deal from a position of strength. That strength means, of course, keeping our defenses ready and second to none; but it also means a strong and vigorous economy and a place for America as the world leader in trade.

That is why another matter that is being considered in the Congress is of critical importance: the legislative conference on trade legislation. Last year, there was trade legislation coming through the Congress that would have meant serious risks to America's prosperity and, indeed, the world's. Fortunately, working with our Administration, Congress has made some progress in producing a sounder bit of legislation.

My hope is that the Congress will stay on course and that we will settle on a bill that avoids the great danger of choking off international trade and slowing down economic growth. I will not sign a bill that imperils our economy and threatens growth.

And, by the way, that economic growth keeps coming right along. Recently we heard that the G.N.P. growth for last year was four percent. This was higher than our own expectations; expectations that were criticized as too rosy a scenario when we first made them. The rosy scenario was even rosier than the one critics were down on. It just shows what can happen when spending and taxes are held down and trade is encouraged. In fact, right now much of our economy is being driven by the growth in exports that bad trade legislation would discourage.

Postal Rates

Previously it cost $10.75 to send up to two pounds via Express Mail. Now eight to 32 ounces (two pounds) will cost $12.

"In the three years since the rate increase, the Postal Service, like most businesses, has experienced rising costs on many fronts — operations, transportation, supplies and health and retirement benefits," McDougald explained.

"For ecample, our delivery network has expanded rapidly since 1985 to reach a growing number of businesses and households created in the strong economy. Nationally, we're delivering to some seven million more addresses, which requires putting 12,000 more letter carriers on the streets each day," McDougald said.

But Baltimore's Postmaster characterized the coming rate increase as "a moderate one that needs to be put in perspective."

"To the average householder, the April rate hike will amount to less than 20 cents a week from the family budget, under $10 a year in added expenditures," he said. "When adjusted for inflation over the years, the coming 25-cent first-class rate is only seven-tenths of a cent more than the first-class rate in 1971. And, of course, even at 25-cent the United States first-class postage is still the lowest of any western, industrialized nation."

The "E" stamps, which feature a colorful view of the Earth from space, appear in panes of 100; coils of 100, 500 and 3,000; and booklets of 20. They may be purchased at any postoffice, by mail order, and this year for the first time by telephone.

During the phase-in period of the new rates, customers will be able to order nondenominated "E" stamps by calling a toll-free number, 1-800-STAMP24, 24-hours a day and can charge orders to MasterCard or VISA. There will be a minimum order of $12.50 with a $2 service charge. Orders for the new "E" stamps, will be taken until such time as stamps specifying the new rate are available.

The Postal Service began testing this program in September 1987 in Sacramento. Since then, eight other cities, including Baltimore, were added to the test program. To date, the Stamps by Phone program has generated more than $2 million in stamp sales.

Additionally, certain retail businesses in the area will offer the stamps at face value through the stamps by Consignment Program beginning April 3.

INTERNATIONAL RATES ALSO INCREASED

New postal rates for international mail will become effective April 3, the same day domestic rates change, the U.S. Postal Service announced last week.

The basic air mail rate for letters will increase from 44 cents to 45 cents per half ounce up to two ounces. The cost of each additional half ounce up to 32 ounces and each full ounce above 32 will rise from 39 to 42 cents.

The basic air mail rate applies to all countries except Canada and Mexico. Mexico's one-ounce letter rate will be the same as for first-class mail (25 cents) in the United States. The one-ounce letter rate to Canada will be 30 cents. Post cards to Canada will cost 21 cents and 15 cents to Mexico. There will no longer be a separate rate for Central America and the Caribbean.

The price of letters going by surface transportation will rise from 37 cents to 40 cents for the first ounce. Post cards for all countries except Canada and Mexico will cost 28 cents by surface and 36 cents by air, up from 25 and 33 cents respectively. Aerogrammes will cost 39 cents, an increase of three cents.

The adjustments are necessary to cover increases in Postal Service costs for providing international services.

Our Turn

Are You Here, God?

by Pam Ashby

A young veterinarian/humanitarian died last week — killed by bees. A girl, still tender of age, is missing and many have reason to believe she was kidnapped and murdered. Children are battered and sexually molested daily. Drunk drivers are endangering the lives of innocent people. Loved ones become sick and there is no pill to take away the emotional pain. Where, in Your name, are You, God?

Why is God allowing all these terrible things to happen? Are these atrocities all part of God's plan — the works God made manifest? How many of us have questioned God in all His wisdom lately? With shame, I admit I have.

An astute pastor said at a young man's untimely funeral yesterday that we try to comfort the grieving with pat answers like, "It was God's will" or "It was his time to go." She then blurted out, "No! His death was senseless."

I was surely not the only person at that funeral who breathed a sigh of relief at that moment. His death was senseless. This was a man fighting peacefully for the end of needless starvation and a man hoping for the coming together of all men. He loved all creation. God must have been a bit saddened himself to see his creation lose a vital part of itself.

I was, for the millionth time, reminded where God was. He was there before, during and after this young person died. He was there for the asking when our lives seemed to be crumbling around us. Do we need tragedy to remind us of what He can — and will — do? "Yes, in fact, we do," said Annie Dillard in Holy The Firm. "We do need reminding, not of what God can do, but of what he cannot do, or will not, which is to catch time in its free fall . . . "

I am of the opinion that God's spectacular miracles ended with his last "biggy" — the birth, life, death and resurrection of Christ, His Son. The smaller, but more useful miracles like the birth of a baby, a tree growing and the power of love are still around, thank God.

God's sensationalistic miracles did have a place in those days. They reminded men of old of his power. The Christmas and Easter miracles, I believe, were God's way of saying, "Now it's in your hands. I have given you the greatest gift of all and I have given you the choice to accept it or to denounce it."

With that, God also gave Christians the gift of eternal life in Christ. While he has the power to stop a tragedy before it occurs, I feel he knows the importance of our feeling pain and sorrow — the importance of feeling it and then letting it go — the importance of eventually giving our pain to Him. While it may seem a tired cliche, experiencing pain and sorrow before knowing true joy and happiness is a fact of life. I know it and those who believe know it.

May you experience a joyous Easter or a blessed Passover. May we all take time to thank God for a change.

Critical Areas

clude even tiny streams that flow into larger streams that eventually make their way into a river that flows into the bay.

Malkus was one of the leading opponents of the original critical areas law, which has its greatest effect on the Eastern Shore and in southern Maryland.

The expansion of the law was treated as an issue of fairness during Senate debate by Malkus, who spoke of the tons of pollutants that flow into the bay every year from rivers that are nor included in the critical areas law. "If the bay is going to be cleaned up, it should be cleaned up by all those involved," he told his fellow senators.

Monday's action by the House committee was not surprising, however, because even the state's most ardent environmental groups, including the Chesapeake Bay Foundation, chose not to support the bill.

NEWS from THE MARYLAND FOREST, PARK & WILDLIFE SERVICE

ARBOR DAY

Wednesday, April 6, will mark the 105th year that Marylanders have celebrated Arbor Day. Garrett County Project Forester Ernie Metz reminds county residents that the first Wednesday in April is always Arbor Day in Maryland and it's a good time to start thinking about spring and tree planting. "The many trees and seedlings that are planted on Arbor Day really focus attention on the values of our trees and forests," commented Metz. "It's important to plant trees every year so that future generations can enjoy their beauty, appreciate their ability to reduce soil erosion, moderate temperature and wind, and provide wood fiber, wildlife habitat and recreation opportunities."

Each year to help commomorate Arbor Day, the Forest, Park and Wildlife Service, Department of Natural Resources, gives pine seedlings to public school third graders. Working with the cooperation of the county school system, the seedlings are distributed to the children with the hope that the young pine tree will be planted, nurtured and recognized as important renewable resources. Trees planted on Arbor Day help bring attention to a resource essential to our quality of life.

For adult or child, Arbor Day is a good time to reflect on the importance of planting trees for the future. Forest landowners are encouraged to contact Metz at Mt. Nebo Work Center, Route 1, Box 305-A, Oakland, Maryland 21550, or call 334-3296 for free information about how managing forest land can benefit them and the environment. "Manage trees, enjoy and use trees and continue to plant more trees for tomorrow," Metz concluded.

Dateline: Annapolis

A GREEK SQUIRREL IN ANNAPOLIS?

by Bernice Kepple

Spring comes earlier to Annapolis than to our mountain region. Crocuses and other spring flowers have been blooming for weeks in the state capital. Temperatures in the 70s last week prompted members of the legislative staff on the fourth floor of the James Senate Office Building to open the windows and let the sunshine in.

During an exclusive interview with one of Senator Bambacus' staff members, it was revealed, however, that sunshine was not all that came in. It was reported that sometime in the late morning last Wednesday, a squirrel also entered the fourth floor of the Senate office building through one of those open windows. The staff suspected that the squirrel was on his way to the third floor to join animal-rights lobbyists who were in the building that day. However, as the squirrel started down the hall toward the elevator, he was spotted by a staff member employed by one of the more urban senators, and a squeal was heard throughout the fourth floor.

Staff members watching the incident closely then decided that this was probably a Democratic squirrel, since in his fright, he ran down the hall and entered the only Democratic office on the floor. From the office of Senator Young came shrieks and squeals, and as our source from Sen. Bambacus' office entered she saw all the staff standing on their chairs, waving their arms, wondering how to get the squirrel back outside.

A simple solution from Sen. Bambacus' rural staff member was to open the windows which were closed in that particular office. That, however, proved to be impossible. The office seemed to be the only one on the fourth floor with windows that were stuck. The next solution was to call the building maintenance crew, who arrived with brooms, shovels and a crowbar.

The squirrel remained calm, calmer than most of those trying to get him back were he belonged. And as he waited for the maintenance crew to get the window open, (One of the crew was overheard saying, "Don't let anything happen to this squirrel with all those animal rightists downstairs."), he apparently smelled breakfast and jumped on the senator's desk to check it out.

What the squirrel found on Sen. Young's desk was baklava, a Greek dessert made of thin, flaky layers of pastry with goodies (chopped nuts and honey) in between. The baklava had been distributed to all the senators that morning by Senator Bambacus in honor of his Greek heritage on Greek Independence Day. The baklava was complete with a toothpick-sized replica of a Greek flag on the top, and as the maintenance crew worked to open the windows and Senator Young's staff stayed on their chairs, the squirrel ate the baklava.

Finally, as the last of the baklava was consumed, the window was opened and the squirrel ran from the office with the Greek flag in his mouth.

The fourth floor staff still have unanswered questions about the unusual visitor. Did he ever get to the third floor to join the animal rights lobbyists? Or, was he just a Democratic constituent of Sen. Young? Could he have been a Greek immigrant just off a ship in the Annapolis harbor? Or was he just a little late to co-star in the annual Legislative Follies?

The Garrett County Sheriff's Department is investigating the report of an automobile theft.

Battery Charge Filed Against Accident Woman

An Accident woman has been charged with battery, according to reports filed with the Maryland State Police.

Lucinda M. Wilt, 23, was charged by her husband, William Howard Wilt, 22, who alleged that his wife cut his arm with a butcher knife during a domestic dispute.

The Northern Rescue Squad was called to the scene but Wilt refused treatment. Tpr. J.K. Moore investigated and served the criminal summons against Mrs. Wilt.

The Lions made a similar donation to the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad the same evening.

Sheriff's Dept. Cites Seven On Various Charges

Seven persons were served with criminal summonses this week on various charges by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

Walter L. Paugh, 33, Deer Park, was charged with battery against Deputy Denver Welch and disorderly conduct. That arrest stemmed from a March 23 incident in the parking lot of B.F.S. Foods in Mtn. Lake Park.

Scott H. Cardinell, 24, Mtn. Lake Park, was charged with battery by Laura B. Cardinell, also of Mtn. Lake Park. The incident occurred on March 23.

Another March 23 incident resulted in Frank V. Perry, 38, Mtn. Lake Park, being charged with battery on a minor. That charge was filed by Gloria J. Burns, Mtn. Lake Park.

Rebecca Esposito, 40, Deer Park, and Charlotte Beckman, 28, Deer Park, counter charged each other with battery stemming from a March 16 incident. Beckman was also charged with trespassing.

Deputy Welch served a criminal summons on Mabel Bowling, 43, Deer Park, this past week stemming from an early March incident. Zada Tovey, Oakland, was the complainant.

Ramona K. Perando, Philippi, W. Va., filed a charge of battery against Martha Perando, Deer Park, stemming from a March 25 incident.

MIEMSS Will Celebrate 15th Via Special Gala

The Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services Systems (MIEMSS), umbrella for a state-wide comprehensive emergency services network that is the only one of its kind in the nation, is quietly marking its 15th anniversary.

"We aren't planning any local cake-cutting or candle blowing celebration here," says Dave Ramsey, administrator for a MIEMSS region that includes Garrett and Allegany counties, "but our area will be represented at a special Gala being held in Baltimore on April 30."

Since the Emergency Medical Services (EMS) system was created by executive order of then Governor Marvin Mandel in 1973, it has grown to include more than 27,000 first-responders, emergency medical technicians, cardiac rescue technicians and paramedics, and aviation rescue technicians. After an accident, these individuals are usually first on the scene to rescue, stabilize and begin treating the injured.

In addition to the volunteers and career personnel from fire, rescue and law enforcement units who serve on the front lines, the treatment network includes the Maryland Shock Trauma Center in Baltimore, 10 area-wide trauma centers throughout the state, and 21 hospital-affiliated specialty referral centers.

With the recognition that time saved means lives saved, a communications and transportation network that includes 10 helicopters piloted by State Police and 450 ambulances brings every resident and visitor to Maryland under the protective EMS umbrella. Administratively, the state is divided into five regions by MIEMSS — a focus that maximizes the coordination and use of local EMS personnel and equipment.

Statewide, ambulances and Med-Evac helicopters responded to nearly 350,000 calls last year. More than a quarter-million patients received emergency medical care; over 9,000 of these were admitted to area trauma centers and specialty referral centers. Locally, says Ramsey, there are more than 8,400 responses to emergency calls in Garrett and Allegany counties of Region I.

Dr. R. Adams Cowley, director of the Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services who is recognized internationally for his pioneering work in shock trauma, noted the many developments of the past 15 years.

"Those first 60 minutes after a patient is injured are so very critical," says Cowley, "Our statewide system brings life-saving treatment into place while we still have that Golden Hour in which to work. As a result, people are living normal and productive lives where others elsewhere are often far less fortunate."

Marking the system's 15th birthday, MIEMSS friends and supporters will toast Dr. Cowley and EMS personnel during a Shock Trauma Gala which will be held April 30 at the Towson Center. The black-tie affair — with Honorary Chair Governor William Donald Schaefer and master of ceremonies Bishop L. Robinson, head of Maryland's Department of Public Safety and Transportation — brings together supporters of the Shock Trauma system from throughout the state. Last year the gala raised $135,000 for the endowment fund; this year it's hoped that dining, dancing to the Gene Donati Orchestra and an accompanying live auction will raise even more.

Tickets for the Gala, which is keyed to a Carnivale theme this year, cost $150. For information or tickets, persons may call 895-5934.

Local Man Given Year Sentence On Bad Check Charges

During Garrett County District Court proceedings held last week, Judge Jack R. Turney handed down a one-year sentence to a Swanton man found guilty, in eight separate cases, on ten counts of theft and 11 counts of bad check charges.

The sentence was then suspended for Richard W. Wildesen, 31, who was also fined a total of $85 and placed on 18 months supervised probation.

Wildesen had been found guilty of the charges in a previous trial when a pre-sentence investigation was ordered.

The charges were filed by representatives of various local businesses where Wildesen wrote checks for cash and merchandise totaling $359.40 on a closed account. The checks were written at various times from July through September of last year.

A Reisterstown man also received a one-year suspended sentence after he was found guilty of resisting arrest.

Vernon A. Campbell, 26, was also fined $100 after the charge was filed by Tpr. R.T. Wilson, Maryland State Police, following a January 16 incident when Campbell was stopped for driving while intoxicated along Rt. 219.

According to Wilson, Campbell resisted arrest by running into the woods upon his apprehension, which took place near Mayhew Inn Road.

Albert Paugh, 52, Mtn. Lake Park, also received a one-year suspended sentence and a $25 fine after he was convicted of assault. He was then placed on 18 months supervised probation.

The charge was filed by Riley Lloyd, Mtn. Lake Park, following a July 9 incident in Mtn. Lake Park. John R. Toston, public defender, represented Paugh.

Rebecca S. Rhodes, 18, Mtn. Lake Park, received six months probation before judgment and a $25 fine after she was found guilty of battery.

Lisa J. Butscher, Oakland, filed the charge following a November 5 incident at Southern High School. Two additional charges of disorderly conduct were filed against Rhodes. She was found not guilty of one charge and was not prosecuted on the second.

Terry A. Spiker, 26, Grantsville, was found guilty of possession of drug paraphernalia with intent to use and was fined $100 as a result.

He was also charged with unlawful possession of a controlled dangerous substance (marijuana) but the charge was not prosecuted because of a plea agreement.

Spiker was charged by Tpr. R.T. Wilson, Maryland State Police, following a December 5 incident on Pig's Ear Road at Rt. 48 when Spiker was reportedly stopped by the trooper for possession of an illegal deer. A search of Spiker's vehicle led to the discovery of the CDS.

James F. Braskey was the defending attorney.

In a related case, Charles D. Fazenbaker, 35, McHenry, was found not guilty on charges of possession of a CDS (marijuana) and possession of drug paraphernalia with intent to use as a result of the same incident. Fazenbaker was a passenger in Spiker's vehicle at the time of Spiker's apprehension. John R. Toston, public defender, represented Fazenbaker.

Pre-sentence investigations were ordered in the following cases.

Sheila J. Sines, 35, Friendsville, was found guilty of battery following a January 20 incident. Bonnie S. Sines, also of Friendsville, was the complainant. Toston was the defending attorney.

Bonnie Sines was, in turn, found guilty of battery after the charge was filed by Sheila Sines as a result of the same incident.

Marvin R. Sines Jr., 22, Friendsville, was found guilty of battery following a January 20 incident. Complainant in the case was Merle Sines, also of Friendsville. Robert E. Watson was the defending attorney.

Merle Sines was then found guilty of assault after Marvin Sines filed the charge following a January 20 incident. He was found not guilty of a second charge, wanton trespassing, from the same incident. Merle Sines was also found guilty of battery from a separate incident where Marvin Sines was again the complainant.

Charles R. Friend, 24, Friendsville, was found guilty of battery after Marvin Sines, also of Friendsville, filed the charge. The charge stemmed from a January 29 incident in front of Ken's Tavern in Friendsville.

Tilden M. Wilt, 27, Friendsville, was found guilty of misdemeanor theft following an incident that occurred sometime between November 31 and December 18 when he reportedly stole a battery from a vehicle owned by Emerson Fike, Friendsville. The battery was valued at $60. Toston represented Wilt.

A charge of battery, filed against Kevin D. Hutzel, 23, Grantsville, was placed on the Stet Docket. The charge was filed by Robert L. Hutzel, also of Grantsville, following a February 24 incident at Billy Bob's Tavern in Grantsville.

Mary A. Bennett, 24, and Edward R. Bennett, 42, both of Mtn. Lake Park, charged each other with battery following a January 8 incident at their residence. Both charges were placed on the Stet Docket.

Margaret Riggleman, Oakland, was found not guilty after she was charged with harassment by Roy J. Snyder, also of Oakland. The charges stemmed from incidents on September 16 and December 29 of last year when Riggleman reportedly made threatening calls to Snyder's residence. Watson was the defending attorney.

Scott A. Sines, 20, Friendsville, was found not guilty of assault after he was charged following a January 29 incident. Complainant in the case was Charles R. Friend, also of Friendsville. Watson represented Sines.

CHAPTER I WEEK IN GARRETT COUNTY was proclaimed by the Garrett County Commissioners, who designated the week of April 3-9 in observance of the program. Formerly Title I, the program has been in Garrett County Schools since 1965, and provides service for those children in kindergarten through fifth grade who have been identified as having needs in reading and mathematics. A federally funded program, Chapter I provides individual and small group instruction, builds self concept, focuses on skill development in comprehension, word attack and vocabulary, and builds a good attitude toward reading. The program also focuses on skill development in mathematics including math computation, math concepts and the application of these concepts. Garrett County employs a staff that includes a supervisor and secretary, four resource teachers and 37 instructional assistants who administer and implement the program in eight schools to 616 students. Pictured above, seated left to right, are Garrett County Commissioners, Ernest J. Gregg Jr., Elwood L. Groves II and John G. Braskey. Standing are Dorothy Spaid, Chapter I supervisor, and Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of Garrett County Schools.

Whitewater Committee Heads Preparing For June World Event

The executive committee of Whitewater Championships, Inc. carries the primary responsibility for ensuring all operational aspects of the World Championships are provided for and fully functional during the event.

A broad range of activities are involved, such as promoting the event, transportation, site development and accommodations. Those responsibilities fall directly on the vice presidents and associate vice presidents who make up the core of the executive committee.

Volunteers from the two westernmost counties of Maryland in those positions continue to work to bring about a major event on the Savage River this year, the Maryland International Canoe/Kayak Classic to be held June 23-26, 1988.

Assisted by numerous volunteers and with the support of state and local agencies, several individuals from the local area are fulfilling important roles in this undertaking.

Mike Belmonte, a former vice president of Westinghouse and resident of Deep Creek Lake is serving as vice president of the finance committee of WCI. He is directing the activities of his committees in various fundraising efforts through sponsorships, merchandising, ticket sales and advertising.

Nancy Nemith, Oakland, a director of government and community relations for C & P Telephone, is serving as vice president of WCI promotion and media relations. She is being assisted by Carl Lash, director of public relations for Sacred Heart Hospital. They are pursuing activities to promote the event and gain coverage by various newspaper, radio and television media.

Tom Jones, director of economic development for Garrett County, is heading the site development committee. He is overseeing a multitude of efforts by state and county agencies to provide necessary facilities and amenities for the event at the Savage River Site.

Mike Fetchero, an insurance agent with Beall, Garner, Screen and Geare, Cumberland, is serving as vice president of the competition committee. He and his associate vice president, Dennis Hough, sales market account executive, Pittsburgh, Pa., are directing the activities of a large group of volunteers in planning for conducting all competitive racing on the Savage.

Fred Stemple, U.S. Navy retired and Garrett County businessman, is leading the special events committee. Both he and Cumberland Mayor George Wycoff are planning and coordinating the many ceremonies and festive activities to be held in Allegany and Garrett counties during the course of the 1988 event.

Dr. Steve Herman, president of Garrett Community College, is serving as vice president of the administration committee for WCI. In his duties he is facilitating the availability of administrative support services for Whitewater Committee activities.

First Sgt. Bill Graham of the Maryland State Police, McHenry Detachment, and his assistant, Steve Hamilton, forest manger of the Savage River State Forest, are heading the special services committee and are coordinating the activities of area police, fire and emergency organizations to provide for safety, security and crowd control during the event.

Jerry Geisler, operations manager at the Wisp Resort, McHenry, is vice president of the accommodations committee and is directing efforts to provide lodging for the athletes who will be competing. He is also arranging for special receptions, banquets and on-site concessions.

George Small, assistant district engineer of traffic for the Maryland State Highway Administration, is heading the transportation committee and is in charge of the task of transporting several thousand spectators a day to and from the event site. He is being assisted by several state agencies and RBA Associates, Columbia, Maryland.

A WCI spokesman noted, "The volunteer effort represented by these individuals serving in key positions is vital to the success of the Whitewater Championships events. This is but a glimpse of the many volunteers involved in this effort."

As the event nears, the need for volunteers grows. Persons interested in giving their time may contact WCI at 301-387-4282.

In 1983, a Florida schoolboy found a bag of diamonds on a railroad track while looking for his missing bicycle. The jewels remained unclaimed for over a year and then auctioned off for $350,000 which went to the boy.

Proposed Site Development Eyed For Jennings Randolph Lake Area

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners received some "good news" regarding the development of the Maryland side of Jennings Randolph Lake near Bloomington, they told reporters at a press conference Tuesday.

Ken Ropp, project planner from the Tidewater Administration, Waterway Improvement Division of the Department of Natural Resources, submitted to the commissioners last week a schematic plan for boaters access to Jennings Randolph Lake. He also noted that funds had already been requested for the first phase preliminary design.

The first phase will include: an access road via the Mt. Zion Road, a boat ramp, a floating pier, a comfort station, car/trailer parking and site improvements.

CSX Transportation has been contacted regarding two controlling factors. First, a permit to provide for a public road access crossing their railroad track, and second, the usage of a CSX right-of-way for boat ramp parking.

Plans for the first phase have been sent to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers for their review, according to Ropp.

Future development has also been proposed at the site which would include: a boat rental floating pier system, a boat storage system, 20 rowboats with five horsepower engines, a gas supply dock and a fuel storage building. If that phase is approved and completed, it is hoped that the lake will become a recreation site suitable for boating, camping, day use picnicking and a swimming beach.

EGGS ARE OLDEST AND FAVORITE EASTER SYMBOL

The egg has been described as nature's most perfect container. It is also the world's most popular symbol for Easter.

This year, about one billion Easter eggs will find their way from dye-filled cups on kitchen tables to Easter baskets and grassy lawns, according to Kayla Cathell of Proudfoot's Oakland Pharmacy.

And that's just the hard-boiled variety. In addition, there will be plastic eggs, chocolate eggs, jellybean eggs, and hundreds of eggs depicted on greeting cards.

At Hallmark Cards, Inc., the world's largest greeting card company, eggs remain the most popular symbol on Easter cards. Many of the cards will even be shaped like eggs.

"People love cards that look like Easter eggs," Kayla says. "It's by far the favorite cut-out shape we sell."

Why all this emphasis on the egg?

Long before the birth of Christianity, the egg was regarded as a symbol of new life, according to researchers at Hallmark. The ancients exchanged decorated eggs to celebrate the coming of spring. That custom waned, however, as populations spread out and the fragile eggs became too difficult to transport.

But the tradition of decorating eggs continued and was adopted by Christians as they celebrated Christ's resurrection at Easter.

By the mid-19th century in Europe and America, people began exchanging Easter cards, many of them decorated with eggs.

Today's egg-shaped cards may be flatter than the eggs given more than 2,000 years ago. But they don't crack and are certainly easier to exchange!

Rams Whip Vikings, Fall To Knights Despite Record Effort By Butler

The defending Region I Class B champions, the Southern Rams, opened their baseball season last Thursday with an 8-1 victory over Petersburg on the Vikings' diamond, and were then edged by Valley on Monday in Lonaconing, 5-4, despite a 16 strike-out performance by the Rams' ace pitcher, Bo Butler.

Doug Nesselrodt and Jamie Colaw led Southern's offensive attack at Petersburg, as Nesselrodt recorded three singles and a pair of RBIs, while Colaw hit a triple and a single for four RBIs.

Butler was credited with the win on the mound as he struck out 11 batters in just five innings and yielded one hit.

Four of Southern's runs were unearned, as the Vikings' committed seven errors.

The Rams recorded half of their runs in the second inning, as Butler reached on an error and Shawn Nesselrodt moved him to second with a sacrifice bunt. Scott Damon then struck out, but the ball got past the catcher and Damon reached first base while Butler moved to third. Butler and Damon then scored on a triple by Colaw, who also came home when the ball went by the third baseman. Jason Park then walked, stole second, went to third on a wild pitch, and came home on a single by Doug Nesselrodt to give the Rams a 4-0 advantage.

Southern added its other four runs in the fourth frame after Damon led off with a walk. Bobby Horner then reached on an error and both runners advanced on a wild pitch. Colaw then singled to score both runners. Colaw stole second, moved to third on a wild pitch and came home on a squeeze bunt by Doug Nesselrodt, who then stole second and scored on a single by Zack Gibson.

The Vikings' only run came in the bottom of the seventh when Ryan Harman singled and came home on a triple by Mark Rohrbaugh.

Butler also finished with two hits for the Rams.

Against Valley on Monday, the Rams held a 4-1 advantage going into the final inning, but proceeded to commit four errors and hand the victory over to the Black Knights. Southern had not committed a single error in the previous 13 innings of ball.

Butler set a school record of 16 strike-outs in just six innings, meaning he fanned all but two batters he faced in the first six frames. In the first two games of the season, Butler has struck out 27 of 33 batters he has faced.

The Rams went on top 2-0 in the first inning of the game after Bernard singled and moved to second on a single by Butler. Colaw then reached and Bernard scored on an error by Valley's third baseman. Shawn Nesselrodt followed with a double to plate Butler.

The other Southern runs came in the top of the third, as Colaw led off with a single and stole second. He moved to third on a sacrifice by Damon, followed by a walk by Park. Horner then followed with a double to score Colaw and move Park to third. Doug Nesselrodt then walked to load the bases and Bernard singled to score Park.

The Black Knights scored their first run in the bottom of the fourth when J.J. Wilson singled, stole second and third, and scored on a single by Rusty Haggerty.

Southern Coach Jim Bosley pulled Butler from the mound in the seventh after he walked three batters and gave up a hit.

Jeff Lewis and Pat Dick led off the inning with back-to-back walks, followed by a single by Jackie Snyder. An attempt was made to run down Dick on the play between second and third, but the throw to second went into right field, allowing Lewis to score.

Mark Cutter then walked to load the bases and Park came on in relief of Butler. Park then walked Chris Miller to score Dick to make it 4-3, still with no outs against Valley.

Park then struck out Wilson and Gary Metz followed with a squeeze bunt, on which Park threw Snyder out at the plate to preserve the Rams' 4-3 lead.

Haggerty then stepped up and rapped a grounder that was fielded cleanly by Colaw, but when Colaw turned to fire the ball to third for the force out, Gibson was off the bag. Colaw then rushed a throw to force an out at second, but the ball went over Shawn Nesselrodt's head and into the outfield. Miller and Metz came home to give Valley the 5-4 win.

"This was possibly the most disappointing win I have ever experienced," Coach Jim Bosley stated. "We played 13 innings of ball without a single error and then committed four in one inning. It was a game that we definitely should have won."

The Rams will face some of their toughest competition of the season over the next four days, as they meet three of what Bosley considers the top four teams on their schedule.

They will face Frankfort Friday afternoon in the first game of the Keyser Easter Tournament and then meet either Keyser or Elkins on Saturday. Then on Monday, the Rams will travel to Elkins for a 4:15 p.m. contest.

Stewart's Team Runner-Up In "Old Man" Event

Stewart Funeral Home, Oakland, sponsored a Garrett County team in the Silver Classic Men's Old Timers Basketball Tournament, held this past week in Cumberland, and the local hoopsters came home with a 4-2 record and a runner-up trophy from the event.

Composing the team were Jim, Tom and Dan Bosley, Southern High head coach, Oren Yoder; Garrett Community College coach, Dennis Gibson; Jerry Meyers, and Jerry Herpel.

Stewart's lost to Crockett's of Morgantown in the championship game, 87-78. The tournament, which was for men ages 30 and over, was a double-elimination event.

Gibson and Yoder were named to the All-Tournament team, with Gibson being presented the Most Outstanding Player award.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my son "Dink" who died on Good Friday, April 1, 1983.

It is lonely here without you, so sad along life's way. Life does not seem the same to me, since you were called away. It broke my heart to lose you, but you did not go alone, for part of me went with you that day God called you home. They say time heals all sorrow and helps us to forget, but time so far has only proved how much I miss you yet.

Dearly loved, fondly remembered, and sadly missed.

Huskies Expected To Be Among Contenders For Regional Title

With seven starters back from last season's 9-8 squad, Coach John Helmick of the Northern Huskies is eyeing the 1988 season with optimism.

The Huskies, who open their season this Saturday in the Easter Tournament at Flintstone, are considered by most area coaches to be one of the teams with a good shot at a Region I Class C playoff berth.

Among the returnees is senior Aaron Zumpano, who will begin his fourth season as a starter and third in center field. He was a .348 hitter and was among the top 10 batters in the Mountain District American Legion League last season.

Another returning starter is sophomore outfielder David Yoder, who started in left as a freshman. Tony Bittinger and Ed Tabor will also spend a great deal of time in the outfield, with Bittinger occasionally moving back to his second base spot from last year.

Senior Rod Lipscomb, a three-year starter, will return to his short stop position, while junior Todd Wagner is back at third and senior Sean Jones returns to first.

Other infielders will be Kirby King, who will play first when Jones is pitching, and Roger Bittinger will see action at third when Wagner is on the mound.

Roger Bittinger, another senior, will start as catcher and will be backed up by Jones, Danny Sines, and freshman Lee Holloway.

Tabor was the Husky's lead ace on the mound last year, finishing with a 5-2 record, but will be confined to the outfield this year because of an arm injury. Sines, a junior, is expected to assume the number one pitching position, with Roger Bittinger, Wagner and John Sherbin as other starters. Zumpano and Jones will pitch in relief.

Helmick, who is beginning his fourth season as the Huskies' head coach, believes the competition for the Class C playoffs will be intense, especially since the Washington County schools of Williamsport, Boonsboro and Smithsburg have been added to the region. He said he expects Mount Savage, Beall and his team to be in the thick of things, with Valley as a possible contender.

BRENDA HOLDS BENEFIT WORKOUT — Brenda's Body Shop, Oakland, recently held a one-hour benefit workout, the proceeds of which were donated to John McIntee, local Olympic hopeful in the modern pentathlon. There were 33 participants in the workout and a check for $110 was the result. In the photo, McIntee accepts the donation from Brenda Brosnihan, owner of Brenda's Body Shop. The Aerobic Diehards, a youth aerobic team instructed by Mrs. Brosnihan, are currently raising funds for another purpose — to help them fulfill an invitation to perform at the International Dance-Exercise Association's annual convention in Anaheim, Calif., which is the largest national event for fitness professionals.

Lakers Drop To 3-13 With Pair Of Defeats To Montgomery-Rockville

The young Garrett Community College Lakers continue to take their licks on the baseball diamond, as they dropped to 3-13 on the season Sunday afternoon with a doubleheader loss to Montgomery-Rockville College in Rockville, 7-4 and 15-5.

The Lakers are 2-3 in the Western Division of the Maryland JUCO Conference and will attempt to rebound today against a strong Marietta College jayvee team at Marietta, Ohio.

In the first game against Montgomery, Garrett jumped out to a 3-0 lead, as Eric Watts rapped an RBI double in the third inning to score Duane Hedrick who had walked and stole second, and Jay Baker followed in the fourth inning with a two-run homer over the left field fence.

Rockville came right back in the bottom of the fourth to tie the score as Mike Sisk singled, Bob Mays walked, and Dave Bonner smacked a two-run double. Bonner then reached third on a wild pitch and came home on a passed ball.

Rockville broke the tie and put the game away in the bottom of the sixth with four runs, three of which came on a homer by George McLaughlin.

The Lakers attempted to rally in the top of the seventh when Watts reached on a fielder's choice and scored on a wild pitch. Baker, who represented the tying run for Garrett, was retired to end the game.

Although the Lakers recorded eight hits in the second contest, Rockville erupted for 15 and held a 7-2 lead after just three

Plan Strategies to Cope With Income Tax Changes

The Tax Reform Act of 1986 is effective for 1987 federal income tax returns due April 15. Even if you have been paying some attention to all that has been written, you won't really understand the new rules until you start figuring whether you owe the federal government — or have a refund due.

Patricia M. Tengel, a family resource management specialist for the University of Maryland's Cooperative Extension Service, suggests that you begin the tax-filing procedure immediately so that you'll know what Internal Revenue Service forms you'll need.

"You may find that you need forms which are not part of the tax packet sent to you in late December by the IRS," Dr. Tengel says. "So make plans to pick up the forms at a district IRS office, or duplicate them on a copying machine at many public libraries. Allow at least two weeks if you order tax forms through the mail from IRS."

Mid-Atlantic area residents should order tax forms from the IRS distribution center at Richmond, Va. You can speed the process by calling this toll-free number: 1-800-424-3676.

One form not in the IRS packet may be needed by parents of children with unearned income, such as interest on investments. It is Form 8165 — dubbed the "kiddie" tax form.

"If your child had more than $1,000 in unearned income during 1987, you will be taxed at the highest rate on the excess above $1,000," Tengel explained. "But your own income tax must be figured before this form can be filled out."

Children who are your dependents must file their own federal income tax return if they earned more than $500 and had unearned income of more than $1. If they had no unearned income, they don't need to file a tax return unless their earned income exceeded $2,540.

The maximim personal deduction which children may take on their tax return is $500. Parents can then claim each child as a $1,900 deduction on their own tax return.

Another stumbling block regarding children is this: Social Security numbers must be listed on income tax forms for all dependent children who are five years old or older as of January 1. If you don't yet have such a number, specify that application has been made. You will need the number for next year's income tax filing.

Several special income forms are worth noting. The first three are found in your tax packet. The list includes:

Form 8606 — Use for listing non-deductible contributions to an Individual Retirement Account. Keep copies of this form each year until you have withdrawn all money from the IRA. This is an exception to the seven-year rule for keeping tax forms on file.

Form 8598 — This four-page mortgage interest form is used only if you borrowed against your home other than to buy or improve the place. And only if your loan exceeds the cost of your home plus improvements.

Form 8582 — This is a single-page form with six pages of instructions. It is intended for landlords who rent property to others and show a loss for the year. It helps you determine how much of your loss is currently deductible. Use schedule E for rental income.

Form 4868 — This is the application for automatic extension of time to file an individual U.S. income tax return. The forms are expected to be filed in record numbers this year.

Standard deductions on your federal income tax form are considerably higher than in previous years, Dr. Tengel noted. So it may not pay you to itemize deductions, even if you have done so in the past. Also notice that deductions for persons who are blind or over 65 years of age have risen markedly.

High-income persons with many tax preference items which generate substantial tax savings may be subject to the alternative minimum tax. Tax preference items include such things as accelerated depreciation, incentive stock options, oil and gas investments, and passive income losses.

Here are some of the tax benefits from the past which were eliminated by the Tax Reform Act of 1986: dividend exclusions; capital gain deductions; deduction for married couple when both work; state and local sales tax deductions; charitable deductions for persons who don't itemize; income averaging; partial credit for political contributions.

In addition, unreimbursed employee business expenses are now a miscellaneous deduction instead of an adjustment to income. Only miscellaneous expenses greater than two percent of adjusted gross income are deductible.

Dr. Tengel has authored a four-page leaflet which gives more information on coping with the 1986 Tax Reform Act. Titled "Family Income Tax Strategies" (Fact Sheet 404), it is available free by contacting Irmgard R. Koscielniak, P.O. Box 445, Oakland, MD or call 334-1990.

Da Capo Chamber Players To Give Concert At WVU

MORGANTOWN, W. V. — The West Virginia University College of Creative Arts Division of Music will host the Da Capo Chamber Players Monday, April 11, at 8:15 p.m. in the Choral Recital Hall.

Founded in 1970 by composer/pianist Joan Tower, music theorist/violinist Joel Lester and flutist Patricia Spencer, the Da Capo Chamber Players are known for their exceptional artistry and wealth of new compositions.

They won the prestigious Walter W. Naumburg Chamber Music Award in 1973, and were subsequently sponsored by the Naumburg Foundation for a second concert in Alice Tully Hall in 1980 in honor of their 10th anniversary.

Cellist Andre Emelianoff and clarinetist Laura Flax joined the ensemble in 1967; pianist Sarah Rothenburg joined in 1985.

Emelianoff is principal cellist with the New York Symphony, principal cellist and a member of the cello faculty of the Waterloo Music Festival, cellist and assistant musical director of the Music Today series at Merkin Concert Hall and a former member of the Cleveland Orchestra. He has been associated with the Julliard cello faculty and SUNY Purchase, and currently teches at the Brooklyn College Conservatory and City College of New York.

Laura Flax is recognized as one of New York's most distinguished clarinetists. A native New Yorker, she received her bachelor's and master's degree in music from the Julliard School of Music. She has performed at over 50 world premieres, including numerous works commissioned exclusively for her. She is a former member of the San Francisco and San Diego Symphonies and is presently a member of the New York City Opera Orchestra.

One of the founding members of Da Capo Chamber Players, Joel Lester studied violin with Margaret Pardee, Ivan Galamian and Paul Makanowitsky, all of the Julliard School of Music.

He has appeared in recitals as a soloist and in chamber ensembles with the Contemporary Chamber Ensemble, the Philadelphia Composer's forum and the Comtemporary String Quartet. He has held principal positions with Musica Sacra and the New Orchestra, and received his Ph.D. in music from Princeton Univeristy. He is professor of music at the City College of New York.

Sarah Rothenberg's solos concert debut in April 1985 received critical acclaim. Deeply committed to the music of this time, she has performed new works at the Julliard School of Music, Yale University and Boston University, and with the Guild of Composers. In 1983 she was music director of the Festival of Russian Constructivist Music and Performance. She became a member of the Da Capo Chamber Players in 1985. She is a graduate of the Curtis Institute of Music.

Esteemed for her "brilliant performances" and recordings of present-day repertoire, Patricia Spencer is a founding member of the Da Capo Chamber Players. She played with the Group of Contemporary Music for 17 years and appeared frequently with other groups, including the New Music Consort, Music Today, Parnassus, the Alaria Ensemble and Prism Chamber Orchestra.

She is a graduate of Oberlin Conservatory and has taught at Bard College, Bennington College and the University of Connecticut.

The performance of the Da Capo Chamber at the Creative Arts Center will be highlighted by "Trio in G Major" by Haydn; "Eleven Echoes of Autumn, 1965," by George Crumb; and two works by John Tower, "Wings" and "Petroushkates."

The Da Capo Chamber Players will also conduct a special reading of student compositions Tuesday, April 12, from 9-11 a.m.

The public is invited to both events.

MDA Says State's Gypsy Moth Program Is Safe And Effective

Maryland's Gypsy Moth Suppression Program is both safe and effective, says Wayne A. Cawley Jr., secretary of the Maryland Department of Agriculture.

"Contrary to reports we've been hearing lately, the EPA-approved chemicals used in Maryland's program are used by virtually every poilitical subdivision trying to control the gypsy moth problem. No ban exists against either Dimilin or b.t. (bacillus thuringensis)," said Cawley. "Used from the air, these chemicals are almost 98 percent effective against existing gypsy moth infestations," he continued.

"The department is very sensitive to the concerns of every property owner who may have land in an area proposed for spraying, and we notify each and every landowner at least 30 to 60 days before any treatment begins," Cawley said.

"If a person has an objection, they may ask to be exempted from the program. Because of the importance of informing the public about our ongoing battle against the spread of the gypsy moth, I've listed some of the question we are asked most often," Cawley continued. "If people have questions, they should call us right away and get things straight," he concluded.

Commonly asked questions about the program include: Are the chemicals used to control gypsy moth safe? Yes. Dimilin and b.t. are both EPA-approved and are used only under the strict supervision of the Department of Agriculture's trained professional staff. Rumors that you can't garden for six months after spraying with products used for gypsy moth control are completely unfounded.

Are these chemicals banned in other states? No. Neither one is banned. They are EPA-approved and no state has issued such a ban. Dimilin is used in at least six other states on federal, state, and private land.

Why use Dimilin at all? Because b.t., the other chemical, is not effective against extremely heavy populations of the moth.

Can spraying harm larval crabs? No. First, larval crabs aren't in the area this time of year. Then, Dimilin is never sprayed over water — a buffer zone is always used. Finally, the program does not treat at all in the Critical Areas.

Do people know when their property is going to be sprayed? Yes. The Department of Agriculture notifies every property-owner by hand-delivered or mailed notification 30 to 60 days before spraying is scheduled. Each owner is given the opportunity to decide if they want to be included; if requested, a property may be exempted.

Is this just a state program? No. This is a cooperative program, federal, state, county and municipal governments are all working together to stop the spread of gypsy moth.

What would happen if there was no program? If left unchecked, the gypsy moth population would eventually defoliate and kill most of the hardwood trees in the state. Although the pest cannot be eradicated, it can be controlled and valuable trees can be saved.

For further details or specific information, call or write Robert H. Tichenor, chief, Gypsy Moth Suppression Program, Maryland Department of Agriculture, (301) 841-5922.

Welcome Spring With Double Good Walnut Bread

The grays of winter are giving way to the beguiling colors of spring. Now's the time to arrange a few fragrant flowers and to bake a quick loaf of Double Good Walnut Bread. It's chock-full of delicious Diamond Walnuts, toasted to heighten their rich flavor. Half of the walnuts are used bold and chunky, straight from the package. The other half are finely ground to provide a delightful contrast of textures throughout the loaf. Together, ground and chunky walnuts add that special "walnutty" flavor that is doubly good.

Double Good Walnut Bread is great for breakfest—it slices easily and toasts beautifully; but you don't have to wait for breakfast to enjoy it. Bake it ahead and take it on a spring picnic. You can store it, carefully wrapped, in the refrigerator or freeze it for later use.

Double Good Walnut Bread is the perfect accompaniment to luncheon salads or fresh fruit. It's especially delicious when spread with cream cheese or your favorite jam or jelly. For a light dessert, top a slice with strawberries and whipped cream.

DOUBLE GOOD WALNUT BREAD

1½ cups Walnuts
3 cups all-purpose flour
¾ cup granulated sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 egg, beaten

In a large mixing bowl, combine flour with sugar, baking powder and salt. Stir in ground walnuts. Combine beaten egg, milk and melted butter. Blend into the flour mixture just until dry ingredients are moistened. Stir in remaining walnuts. Turn into greased 9x5x3-inch loaf pan. Bake at 350°F about 65 minutes or until pick inserted in center comes out clean. Remove from oven; let stand in pan 10 minutes. Remove to wire rack to cool. Makes 1 loaf.

LAMB CAKE IS EASY TO BAKE, DECORATE

Decorated lamb cake is Easter treat

Add tradition to your Easter table with an appealing lamb cake that is easy to bake and decorate.

Even beginning bakers can create an attractive cake with a Lovable Lamb pan and other shaped pans made by Wilton, plus a box of cake mix and buttercream icing. Easy-to-follow baking and decorating instructions are included with the pan, so the baked cake can have a decorative coating of buttercream icing or can be simply trimmed with icing swirls, shredded coconut and jelly beans.

Here's a simple Lemon Lamb Cake recipe.

LEMON LAMB CAKE

1 package 2-layer white cake mix
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 can (6 ounces) frozen lemonade concentrate, thawed
1/3 cup confectioners' sugar
1 package (3 ounces) lemon pudding mix (not instant), prepared per package directions, cooled

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour Wilton lamb pan. Prepare cake mix as directed, substituting 1/2 cup thawed lemonade concentrate for 1/2 cup water. Stir in lemon rind. Pour into pan. Bake 30 to 35 minutes, or until cake tests done. Cool on rack 10 minutes. Put wire rack over top of cake, hold the rack and pan together and flip over; lift off pan.

Mix remaining lemonade concentrate and confectioners' sugar. Gently pierce center of warm cake with fork; do not pierce within 1-inch of edge. Drizzle lemonade mixture over cake; spread with fork until liquid is absorbed. Let cake cool completely before filling, icing, and decorating.

To assemble cake, cut lamb cake horizontally into 2 layers. Use a cake board or flat cookie sheet as a large spatula to lift and transfer top layer. Put bottom layer on serving plate. Fill decorating bag with icing and squeeze out icing about 3/4-inch around outside edge of bottom layer to keep filling in place. Spread 3/4 cup lemon filling inside icing. Top with second layer.

Decorate according to instructions with pan or spread icing with spatula, sprinkle with coconut and decorate with candies.

This thing we call hope—it is a strange thing. It springs eternal in the human breast . . . and yet so often it has been mocked by time and tragedy.

Why, indeed, does every man and woman cling to his or her hope, even when the self-styled realists cry "hopeless."

The answer is written in the beautiful history of the first Easter Day. Faithful friends of the Master came to anoint His body. Came sorrowing . . . . without hope.

And they returned rejoicing: "Christ is risen . . ."

That was the birthday of Hope . . . the certainty of Christians that even death cannot destroy the believing soul!

And every Easter Day countless men and women discover or rediscover that Hope. It brings a new joy to their lives. It will, to yours . . . . . .

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

THE LAST FRAUD

April 3, 1988

Background Scripture: Matthew 27:62 through 28:15
Devotional Reading: Romans 6:1-11

Essentially, it boils down to this: either you believe that death is the end, or you believe there is an existance of some kind after death. There is no one in the world today who can prove either of those beliefs. People can give you arguments pro or con, but they cannot prove them. Each of us must examine the evidence, make a choice, and live by the faith that we have chosen rightly.

Actually, there are a number of other things in life that we choose in pretty much the same way. Our vocation or spouse, for example—none of us can prove in advance that we have chosen rightly in either case. Yet, as important as these and other choices may be, none is likely to be nearly so crucial to our lives as this one. What we believe about death and its aftermath has a profound influence upon all that transpires before death. If the disciples of Jesus had not been convinced that he had survived the experience of death, there would not likely have been a Christian Church then or now. What we believe about both the aftermath of his death and ours is equally consequential.

AS SECURE AS POSSIBLE

The Pharisees regarded Jesus as an imposter and we can at least understand their fear of fraud and their request to Pilate that the tomb of Jesus be sealed so that Jesus' disciples could not steal his body. Should that happen, they told him, "the last fraud will be worse than the first" (27:64). Are we any less fearful of being taken in by fraudulent or unfounded religious claims? Haven't we all seen enough fraud and sham in religion to make us permanently skeptical?

But one does not live by one's skepticisms. Eventually we have to choose and live by faith of some kind. So, it is one thing to have some honest doubts; but it is something else to have nothing but doubts by which to live. One of the best ways of working through a choice like this is to ask yourself how you would live with the alternative. How would life work for you if you lived with the conviction that death is the end? What would life be like? What would motivate you? If you can live by this conviction, then, as Pilate told the Pharisees concerning Jesus' tomb, "Go, make it as secure as you can" (27:65).

"JESUS MET THEM"

For millions of us, however, the Pharisees were never able to make that tomb secure enough. The evidence presented by the early church, the New Testament, and millions of others is that the tomb could not contain Jesus! The two Marys met the Risen Christ along the way and he told them to "go and tell my brethren to go to Galilee, and there they will see me" (28:10).

For many of us, it is the belief that death is the end that is really the greatest fraud of all.

Tom Wolfe's film 'Vanities'; A Hemingway's new blues

By Cindy Adams

With Tom Wolfe's best seller "Bonfire of the Vanities" heading toward celluloid, I asked what actors were in his head while he was writing. "Nobody," said Tom. "I don't work that way. Besides, I'm not all that much into movies." How about the one made from his previous blockbuster? "Oh, sure. Of course I saw 'The Right Stuff.' But you see, I spent six years writing 'Bonfire.'

Tom Wolfe

That's like being under the ice. I don't know today's actors. Names are mentioned to me like William Hurt and Bruce Willis. I haven't seen them. I'm not even familiar with their work. That's why I can't suggest who should play the roles." "Bonfire" will catch fire in movie theaters in '89. By then, Tom will be immortalizing San Francisco. "My next novel," he says, "will deal with Asians. Those are our new Americans, and so many of them have settled in San Francisco. That area has lots of energy." He does, too.

Loni Anderson copped the Gene Tierney role in NBC's "Leave Her to Heaven" remake. . . . Robert DeNiro and Ed Harris will shoot "Jackknife" in Connecticut. Those two sound like the greatest team since Newman and Redford. Or Hope and Crosby.

Margaux Hemingway

Margaux Hemingway is picking herself up, out and over to France. She's nailed a record deal. European producers have come up with a jazzy number which fits her range. Margaux, who almost nobody knows can sing, has a bluesy sound, and she has it in English and French. The song, "Freedom Fighters and Warlords," will be distributed first in Europe. If the thing's a hit in St. Tropez, it will travel over here.

Showtime hits a funny bone with its new comedy special

By Connie Passalacqua

Since 1976, when Robert Klein was featured in the first cable comedy special, HBO has been the cable network for comedy. Its specials have featured such big comedy names as George Carlin, Robin Williams and Rodney Dangerfield.

Harry Anderson

Showtime hasn't had an easy time trying to compete against HBO. They've chosen to attack from the rear, traveling all over the country to recruit and develop fresh comic talent in what it calls its "Showtime Comedy Network." Organized by producer Ken Weinstock, the "network" went to 40 comedy clubs in 11 cities, putting 90 comedians on tape. Many have appeared on "Friday's Comedy Night," a weekly 15-minute show on Showtime. And Showtime's investment has paid off handsomely. The six comedians judged best from all the clubs are showcased on this week's "Showtime Comedy Club All-Stars," airing April 7.

The special is hosted by "Night Court"'s Harry Anderson. Anderson is himself a product of the comedy-competition circuit, having won something called "The Big Laff Off" in 1981. "These things aren't really competitions, they're just showcases," Anderson said before the show, which was taped in Atlantic City. "These comedians could really make a good living traveling all over the country doing clubs. I did it for years. It's just like vaudeville."

Anderson introduces the show with his traditional magic trick (when he shows how he does it, he drops his pants.) Then it's on to the show. There's nary a clinker in the bunch, and each comedian is progressively funnier. Each is over 30 and has been around for a while. But what's most refreshing about the show is that each comic picks original material. There's no need to resort to crude jokes.

The comedians include Rosie O'Donnell, who is a VJ, Larry Reeb, Monica Piper (doing an over-30-single-girl shtick), Mike McDonald and Richard Jeni. Watch them closely; chances are you'll be seeing a lot more of each in the future.

Jane Seymour stars as Wallis Simpson and Anthony Andrews plays King Edward VIII in CBS's "The Woman He Loved," the story of their controversial romance. It airs Sunday, April 3.

Pearl Bailey's credits include acting and a college degree

By Toni D'Amato

Please tell me how old Pearl Bailey is and a little bit about her. – F.D., Waterbury, Conn.

Pearl Bailey

Pearl Bailey is 70 years old. In 1968, she won a Tony Award for her role in "Hello Dolly." Her film credits include "Porgy and Bess" (1959).

In 1978, Bailey received an honorary degree from Georgetown University. She entered the school as a freshman and graduated in 1985.

In 1971, Bailey hosted her own TV variety show. From 1984 to '85, she played Lulu Baker on "Silver Spoons." In 1986, she received an Emmy award for Best Actress in a Children's Special for "Cindy Eller: A Modern Fairy Tale."

Please tell me the names of the Smothers Brothers and what year they had their own TV show. – G.P., Burlington, Vt.

These folk singers turned comedians are Tom, 51, and Dick, 48. They began their TV career as regulars on "The Steve Allen Show" in 1961. From 1965 to '66, they starred in "The Smothers Brothers Show." Next came "The Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour," which aired from 1967 to '69 and became one of the most controversial shows on television. It was popular with younger audiences because of its anti-establishment slant.

They starred in "The Smothers Brothers Summer Show" in 1970, "The Smothers Brothers Show" in 1975 and a sitcom called "Fitz and Bones" in 1981.

The brothers recently appeared in "The Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour 20th Reunion Show," and will host six variety specials later this year on CBS.

What happened to Richard Eyer, who was in "Stagecoach West"? We never see him anymore. – P.L., Knoxville, Tenn.

Eyer was a child actor who starred in "My Friend Irma" from 1953 to '54, and the series you mentioned from 1960 to '61. Now 44, Eyer left acting in the '60s to become a teacher.

While in Las Vegas, Matlock (Andy Griffith, r.) can't seem to lose when he takes the advice of a stranger (Sheldon Leonard), on NBC's "Matlock." It airs Tuesday, April 5. (Rebroadcast)

BEHIND THE SCENES

'Stranger' Pinchot takes his show's move in stride

By Frank Lovece

Bronson Pinchot, whose series, "Perfect Strangers," has just moved from Wednesday to Friday night on ABC, swears the move came as a surprise.

Bronson Pinchot

"I read about it in the newspaper!" he announces. "They didn't tell me or my manager." But like his character, Balki, Pinchot accepts the inevitable and plunges ahead. "It's easier," he says, "to get your audience to follow you from 'Beverly Hills Cop' — his big break — "to a TV show than from Wednesday to Friday night. But the (new) competition isn't very tough," he adds, referring to "Beauty and the Beast" and "The Highwayman."

Pinchot, whose exuberantly innocent Balki provides constant frustration for cousin-roommate Larry (Mark Linn-Baker), is used to sudden transitions. He was a starving New York actor (typist after graduating from Yale, and in little more than a year was a major supporting character in the hit movie "Risky Business." After a short, uneventful span that netted him a few more films, he shot to stardom as Serge, the outrageous art-gallery employee in "Beverly Hills Cop." In short order followed the series "Sara" and his current hit show.

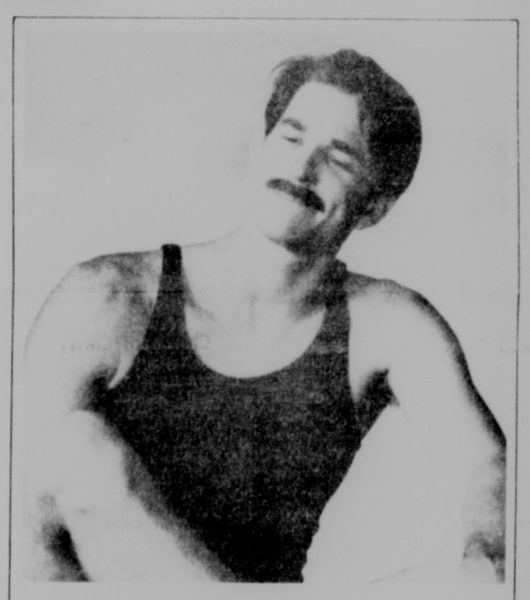

Now 28 years old, Pinchot talks comfortably about "my show. They came up with it specifically for me." Nonetheless, he gives credit to co-star Baker, who was best known for the film "My Favorite Year."

"There's no way you could get what we have and not respect each other, and we love each other on top of that," Pinchot says. But he admits, "Unless we were brain-dead eunuchs, there's no way we could be together as much as we are and not get on each other's nerves.

"There's this bit where we're handcuffed together," explains Pinchot. "Old Lucy-Ethel type routine. And we had a 25-minute fight because I wanted him to look thoughtful while I stroked his chin. And Mark insisted that Larry wouldn't look thoughtful because he'd see Balki's hand.

"Well, we ended up really angry with each other for half a day," he says, "just like brothers who fight over something one says at Thanksgiving." But they didn't wind up as strangers – perfect or otherwise.

Matthew Modine portrays Eugene O'Neill in PBS's "Journey into Genius," a biographical portrait of the playwright. It airs Wednesday, April 6. (Check local listings.)

SOAP OPERA WEEK

'GL' actress's baby made its acting debut on the soap

By Kimberly Redmond

You've probably printed this question before, but I'll ask any way. Can you tell me if the baby who portrays Marah on "Guiding Light" is Kim Zimmer's (Reva Shayne) real child? – S.O., Houston, Texas.

Kim Zimmer

Zimmer's infant son, Maxwell Tyler, did substitute once for Nicole Otto, who portrays Marah. However, Max's television debut only lasted for a couple of days, until Nicole was well enough to return to work.

I'm positive that I've seen the actor who portrays Beth Logan's (Nancy Burnett) doctor on "The Bold and the Beautiful," but I can't remember what show he was on. I hope you can help me out. – E.P., Huntsville, Ala.

Dr. Bailey was portrayed by Frank Telfer, who also played Luke Dancy on "The Doctors" and Brian McColl on "As the World Turns."

Can you tell me if Martha Byrne, who portrays Lily Walsh on "As the World Turns" ever appeared on the show in another role? – B.C., Cassopolis, Mich.

Byrne started playing Lily in 1984. That's the only role she's played on "ATWT."

I'm a long time fan of Thaao Penghlis, who played Antony Di Mera on "Days of Our Lives," and I'd like to know what he's been doing since he left the soap. – B.J., Greensboro, N.C.

Thaao Penghlis

Penghlis returned to his native Australia right after he left "DOOL," and appeared in a television series Down Under. He will soon be seen in the Operation Prime Time five-hour miniseries "Queen of the South Seas," with Barbara Carrera.

Gallina Seeks Delegate Seat In West Virginia

Sylvia "City" Gallina has announced her candidacy, as a Republican, for the House of Delegates in the 33rd District of West Virginia, which is comprised of Preston and Tucker counties.

Gallina was born and has spent most of her life in West Virginia. She is married to Peter Gallina and they have two adult sons. Her father, the late Dorsey Liston, Albright, was an independent coal trucker.

She was graduated from Morgantown Business College and is working toward a Board of Regents degree from Fairmont State College. She is presently employed by the Preston County School System. She is a member of the State Republican Executive Committee.

Gallina and her husband owned and operated a 22-bed licensed personal care home, so she says she is aware of the problems of small businesses and of the increasing elderly population in West Virginia. She says she believes that the senior citizens must be provided for so that they can spend the remainder of their lives "with dignity and self respect."

Gallina says she is also aware of the problems facing educators. "A realistic budget must include money for schools, education is vital to the state's economic development," she said.

"We no longer can sit back and waste valuable time, time is money and West Virginia does not have any to waste. Incentives must be given to keep our young adults in West Virginia. We must generate new businesses, structure our tax system to bring in more money and restore a sense of well being to our state. Our House and Senate must work together to solve the crisis of today," she concluded.

Dr. Willie To Speak At FSU

Dr. Charles V. Willie, a sociologist and a professor of education and urban studies at the Graduate School of Education, Harvard University, will be a featured speaker at Frostburg State University on Thursday, April 7.

His topic will be "Racism, Sexism and Elitism and the Academic Community," and begins at 6:30 p.m. in room 218, Dunkle Hall. His visit is being sponsored by the FSU Office of Affirmative Action and Equal Employment Opportunity and the AA/EEO committee. The public is invited to attend.

Before his Harvard appointment in 1974, Willie was affiliated with Syracuse University 25 years as a gradute student, professor, chair of the Department of Sociology, and vice president.

A baccalaureate degree was received from Morehouse College in 1948 (where he and Martin Luther King Jr. were classmates). He studied for a master's degree at Atlanta University and was awarded the Ph.D. degree in sociology by Syracuse University in 1957.

Contributing to the development of sociology as an applied discipline, Professor Willie has served as president of the Eastern Sociological Society, and on the Board of Directors of the Social Science Research Council. Also he is a member of the Association of Black Sociologists and Sociologists for Women in Society. His research interests are education, health, race relations, and the urban community.

Willie was appointed by President Jimmy Carter to the President's Commission on Mental Health. Among other public service activities are his participation as expert witness in several school desegregation cases, his role as past vice president of the House of Deputies of the Episcopal Church's General Convention, trustee of the Episcopal Divinity School in Cambridge, Mass., his election as individual member of the United Negro College Fund, and his membership on the Corporation of Boston's Museum of Science.

Willie has actively resisted racist and sexist oppression in several sectors of society. He has done this, for example, by serving as co-chair of the Association of Black Faculty and Administrators at Harvard University, and as a participant in the first service for the ordination of women to the priesthood in the Episcopal Church in the United States. Due largely to activities associated with this event, including the reluctance of the Episcopal Church to recognize its first women priests, and his resignation-in-protest as a church vice president, Ms. magazine designated Professor Willie one of 40 male heroes in its tenth anniversary issue.

Professor Willie's scholarship has been recognized by his alma mater, Morehouse College, and by the Berkeley Divinity School at Yale University that awarded him honorary doctoral degrees. Also he was designated distinguished alumnus by the Maxwell School of Syracuse University. He is author or editor of 18 books and approximately 100 articles and chapters in books.

Born in Dallas, Tex. Willie and his wife, Mary Sue Conklin Willie, a musician, reside in Concord, Mass., with their daughter, Sarah, and their sons, Martin and James.

According To PE. Flying A Kite Can Be Dangerous

Luck was with Benjamin Franklin when he discovered that lightning was an energy source, according to the Potomac Edison Company. The early American statesman and inventor was lucky — not just because he made an important discovery — but because he wasn't killed while flying a kite during a storm.

People familiar with Franklin's kite-flying experiment may believe that they, too, can fly kites in rainy weather. However, when a kite's string is wet, it conducts electricity. If lightning strikes, the person flying the kite could be severely injured.

Kites should be made of wood and paper, with a string of cotton. If a person's kite becomes entangled in power lines, he should leave it there and not try to pull it down or retrieve it.

Kite flying isn't the only springtime activity for which people need a safety reminder, said Gerald Hoak, safety administrator for Potomac Edison. Many people begin home-improvement projects that could lead to danger, he said.

"Our hope is that people will learn to respect electricity and work safely outdoors," Hoak said. "When people use aluminum ladders to paint their homes or to install an antenna or new siding, the ladders should be kept away from electric lines. That goes for the aluminum sidding and antennas, too."

Homeowners may be planning to stay cool this summer by purchasing backyard pools. However, these should not be set up under or near power lines, because long-handled, metal cleaning tools could touch the overhead lines with hazardous or fatal results.

Before cutting or trimming trees near power lines, a homeowner should call his local Potomac Edison office to determine the safest way to approach this project, Hoak said.

Also, he said, if tree limbs fall onto power lines and pull them down during a windy spring thunderstorm, people should stay away from the lines and keep others away, even if the lines don't seem to be live. Potomac Edison and local police should be notified of the location of the downed electrical lines.

MISS WEST VIRGINIA SAMPLES LOCAL TUB — Tubs-N-Stuff, an Oakland bathtub refinishing and repair business, recently participated in a Home Show that was sponsored by North Central West Virginia Home Builders Association. The shows were held in Fairmont and Morgantown. A special visitor to the shows was Miss West Virginia who tried this tub on for size after noticing that the tub's pink interior perfectly matched her dress.

Wylie To Lead Bird Walks From Alpine Lake Home

Retired West Virginia University professor William Wylie, who led two generations of students and community residents on bird-watching walks in Morgantown while teaching in West Virginia University's Division of Forestry, has shifted his activities to Preston County.

"This is an entirely different setting, and the birds are quite different," Wylie says of his retirement home at Alpine Lake.

Wylie will introduce his loyal birding companions and anyone else who is interested, to the spring birds of Preston County on a series of birdwalks each Saturday morning April 9 through May 21.

The walks will begin at the boat house on Alpine Lake at 7 a.m. Coffee will be available at 6:45 a.m.

The leisurely walks will last about two hours, and include lake, orchard and field settings, each of which is habitat for different varieties of birds. Binoculars are recommended.

Alpine Lake is located just east of Terra Alta, off W.Va. Rt. 7.

The service will be offered in English, Greek, and Slavonic languages, and Palms will be distributed.

World Class Event Coming to Western Maryland

Excitement! Energy! Enthusiasm! These are all feelings which are expressed by anyone who has been associated with the Whitewater sports. On June 11 through 25, 1988 the people of Western Maryland will be experiencing the most important championships in the World for the canoe and kayak athlete. This is when approximately 30 countries will appear at the Savage River State Forest to participate in the 1989 Whitewater World Championships. This event occurs every two years and is usually held in Europe. The Maryland International Canoe/Kayak Classic will be held this year June 23-26 as a pre-world event.. The 1988 and 1989 events promise to really put Western Maryland on the map.

The Whitewater Championships, Inc. is the organization charged with the development and promotion of these events. This energetic and creative organization includes a cast of hundreds of volunteers and promises to draw thousands of spectators from up and down the eastern seacoast as well as many countries from around the world.

"The World Championship races consist of two separate events including the wildwater competition and slalom competition. The wildwater event is a 7 km sprint, from start to finish. The slalom race is 600 meters in length and the racer must pass through 25 predetermined gates. The Savage River is a superb location that enables both events to be conducted at the same site. This permits spectator viewing of all the competition from prime location along the entire course."

Spectator events such as Indian dancing, and the whitewater rodeo are also planned as part of the exhibit and entertainment. There is a predicted attendance of 5,000 per day for the 1988 event.

The Whitewater Championships, Inc. headquarters is located at Garrett Community College. For more information, please write to:

Rental Department Reorganization

Vacation rentals have been growing by leaps and bounds at the A&A REALTY / BETTER HOMES & GARDENS real estate offices over the past three years.

In each of the past two years, the Department has doubled their volume over the year before, representing a four-fold increase during that three-year period.

During that time, the department has been managed by David Insley; however, the volume growth has demanded a complete re-vamping of the department.

A computer billing system now provides accurate monthly income/expense statements to property owners on a timely basis (mailed by the 10th of each month). Diana Hanline has assumed the position of Rental Office Manager and assists in the coordinating of details and paperwork. Rental inquiries, reservations, and check-ins are now served by three full-time rental coordinators - David Insley, Anita Teter and Judith Anderson.

Much attention to detail is the goal of all those providing services in the Rental Department. "We want every visitor to Deep Creek Lake and Garrett County to feel welcome and to know that we care about their family's vacation," stated Karen Spiker, Broker/President of A&A REALTY / BETTER HOMES & GARDENS. Further, "the personal touch is what we want to be our point of difference."

For further information concerning either a vacation reservation or having A&A Realty assist in the management of your investment property, call 301-387-5832, seven days a week.

Rosage Accepts Computer-Programmer Position

A&A REALTY / BETTER HOMES & GARDENS is pleased to announce that Pamela Rosage has accepted the position of Computer Programmer/Analyst for their entire real estate operation.

Pam will be coordinating all computer operations within the company, including the inputting of data, analysis of data, generating prospect lists for special marketing programs, and implementing new software programs being introduced from the Better Homes and Gardens Real Estate Service.

The primary software program, DataBroker, is a management tool to better serve management in the making of long-range decisions as well as providing inventory record-keeping and sales assistance programs.

Pam is assisted by Dana Schenk, who manages the internal bookkeeping / accounting department. Their cooperation provides an accurate, up-to-date financial picture on a continual basis.

Karen Spiker, President / Broker of A&A Realty, stated, "We are so pleased to have Pam and Dana manage this aspect of our business. Without their assistance, we could not provide the kind of support for our sales staff that is so necessary in our methods of marketing real estate. Pam has made a difference in our company productivity; before she came to us, we just had a lot of computer hardware and software sitting around that wasn't being effectively utilized."

Moving To Town

Renovations are now underway at the former Oakland Stationery Store at the corner of Third and Alder Streets in Oakland (Rt. 219).

The Oakland branch office of A&A REALTY / BETTER HOMES & GARDENS will be moving from their current location about two miles north of Oakland on Rt. 219 as soon as the re-construction is complete.

"Our idea is for our 'in-town' office to be in the town of Oakland, with easy walking access," stated Ms. Spiker, President of A&A Realty.

The renovations will feature a completely new look to this previously rather drab structure. Almost the entire first floor will be thermopane glass with a walk-in access from both Third Street and Alder Street. The second story will be refurbished into two complete office suites that will be available for lease by late spring.

"This building is getting everything new," continued Ms. Spiker, "from the wiring and plumbing, to a new furnace and complete central air conditioning. We are striving to gain a 'turn-of-the-century' flavor to the overall appearance and hope that our interior decor can carry through on this theme."

Renovations are being made with the assistance and services of Franklin Fitzwater, Mt. Villa Associates.

OAKLAND - 1472 - We feel this house is among the best values in the area. Professionally landscaped and good layout for your family and entertainment needs. Large kitchen and two car garage. $85,000

Dr. Dejuk Begins Medical Practice In Tucker County

PARSONS, W.VA. — Miguel Dejuk, M.D., has been made resident physican at the new Tucker County Emergency-Ambulatory Center.

He will be at the center five days a week, and he will coordinate the work of physicians who will be there when he isn't.

"We're much more than an emergency center. We are also open around the clock to treat people with ordinary illnesses. Doctors and nurses are here 24 hours a day, seven days a week," Dr. Dejuk said.

He was graduated fourth in a class of 60 at the University of Costa Rica Medical School. Earlier he majored in English at the University of Mississippi.

Dr. Dejuk, 39, did his residency in internal medicine at the University of Costa Rica and the Tulane University School of Medicine in New Orleans.

He has practiced internal medicine and emergency medicine in New York, Iowa and Massachusetts.

Physicians who have worked with Dr. Dejuk describe him as "conscientious, capable, hard-working and compassionate."

"I've worked in hospital emergency departments for over five years," Dr. Dejuk said, "so what I'm doing at the Tucker County Emergency-Ambulatory Center isn't new to me."

Located at 307 Main St., the center is a division of Davis Memorial Hospital.

The center was recently enlarged and better equipped.

Though he's practiced medicine mainly in large cities, Dr. Dejuk says he "looks forward" to being a doctor in this small town.

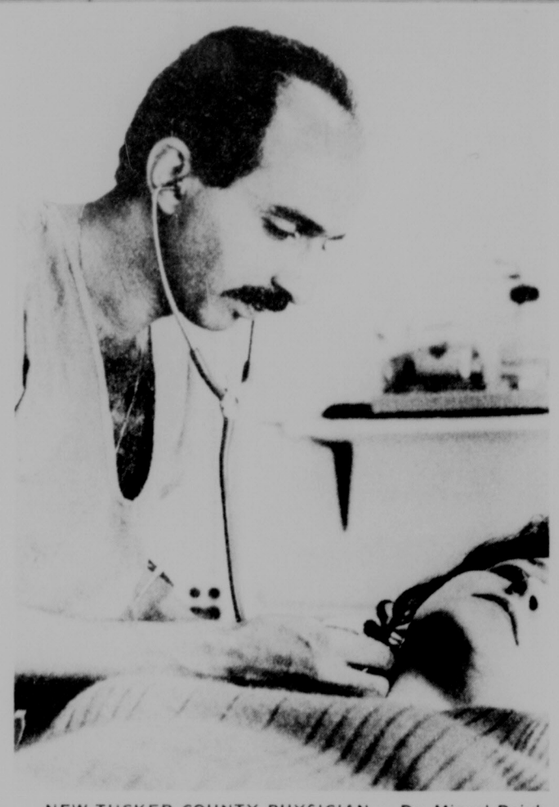

"People in Parsons are very friendly. I was here just a few hours when the police came by to take me on a tour of the area. They even invited me to be on their basketball team," Dr. Dejuk said.

The doctor enjoys playing basketball, squash and racquetball. He also has a black belt in karate.

"We're very pleased to have a physician with his qualifications here," center spokesman Robert Morris said.

"Dr. Dejuk and his staff are fully qualified to handle everything from emergencies to minor ailments. They won't get mad if you come in at 3 in the morning to be treated for a cold," Morris said.

"They're here to help you, whatever your problem is."

NEW TUCKER COUNTY PHYSICIAN — Dr. Miguel Dejuk was recently named resident physician at the new Tucker County Emergency-Ambulatory Center in Parsons, W.Va. Dr. Dejuk, who has practiced emergency medicine in New York, Iowa and Massachusetts, will be at the center Monday through Friday.

GCMH Observes Nat'l Admitting Personnel Week

Garrett County Memorial Hospital has joined in the celebration of National Admitting Personnel Week, Apr. 4-10. This is a special time set aside to recognize the contributions of hospital admitting personnel. It is endorsed by the American Hospital Association and sponsored by the National Association of Hospital Admitting Managers.

Most often, the admitting department is a patient's first introduction to the hospital. Each day, admitting personnel assist patients and families in unfamiliar and often stressful situations. These apprehensive patients look to the admitting staff for comfort, reassurance and support. "The caring and efficient manner in which each patient is admitted/registered is an integral part of Garrett County Memorial Hospital's success in providing high-quality care to the residents of Garrett County, surrounding West Virginia communities, and beyond," stated a hospital spokesman.

The theme for the week-long celebration is "We Admit We Care." "This theme illustrates the caring spirit that exists not only in the admitting department but throughout the hospital," the spokesman said.

The celebration will include employee recognition awards; displays in the hospital lobby and other promotions that will increase awareness of National Admitting Personnel Week throughout the hospital and community. The public is invited to visit the hospital and view the displays.

NATIONAL ADMITTING PERSONNEL WEEK has been proclaimed for next week and the admitting personnel of Garrett County Memorial Hospital are participating in the observance. Pictured right is Bernadine Tasker, admission clerk at Garrett Memorial, assisting Sheila Vance and her new daughter, Rachel, with their discharges from the hospital.

Hospice Begins Listening Team

Hospice of Garrett County, Inc. conducted a Listener's Training Inservice on March 19 at the Garrett County Health Department. Julie Mitchell of Zealand Psychological Associates, Cumberland, presented the inservice to the Hospice Listening Team. The purpose of this newly created team is to reduce the stress of the volunteer.

"We discovered that many of our volunteers were experiencing some stress and frustration in their role as volunteers," explained Sharon King, volunteer coordinator. "They become involved with the Hospice patient and his/her family. They experience the feelings of grief and loss when the patient dies. But because of the need to maintain confidentiality, the volunteer has no one to share his or her feelings with. The purpose of the Listening Team is to provide a trained Hospice listener with whom the volunteer can share his or her feelings in confidentiality."

The Listening Team is a voluntary group composed of several physicians, clergy, nurses, counselors and caregiving volunteers who are involved with Hospice.

Hospice of Garrett County is a nonprofit organization to assist the terminally ill patients and their families within Garrett County.

VFD TRAINING AND ACTIVITIES

Chief Larry Shaffer of the Mt. Grove Volunteer Fire Department announces that Section I Firemanship Training will begin April 2 at 9 a.m. for a 30-hour course. This class will facilitate the training of new members for any of the Preston County fire departments or those of Tucker County. Anyone desiring to attend should contact Shaffer at 735-5056 prior to the first session, as training manuals must be ordered in advance. A majority of state funding for fire departments is contingent upon membership training.

A ramp dinner will be held Sunday, April 10, from noon until 5 p.m. at the Community Building, two miles south of Silver Lake. Ramps will be served in a variety of ways, along with ham, bacon, corn muffins, beans, friend potatoes, desserts and beverages, including sassafras tea. Donations for the dinner will be $4 for adults, $2 for children 6-12, under 6, free. Bagged raw ramps and dinner carryouts will be available.

Representatives of the Mt. Grove VFD met recently with Preston County chief dispatcher, Vince Padiveni. Mutual aid agreements, dispatch procedures, and equipment term familiarization were discussed and similar problems were also discussed with Emergency Services Director Larry Smith at the County Fire Association meeting at Aurora in February and with the Tucker County Dispatch/Ambulance Authority in Parsons.

Prevention is an important method of fire fighting and area residents are reminded that Spring Fire Season began March 1. Dry leaves as well as other combustibles should be kept at least 30 feet away from dwellings. Outside burning hours are also regulated. Small engine refueling should be of special concern to the homeowner as well as fuel storage.

Bingo is being held weekly at the Community Building each Saturday night. Managed by the Bingo Committee and benefiting the general fund of the VFD, the event features four jackpots: $50, 7 numbers; $50 round robin in 52 numbers, $200 jackpot, and special jackpot. Time is 7 p.m. The public is invited and refreshments will be available.

The Mt. Grove department noted its appreciation to thank all of the women of the community who have donated pies for their dinners and for the community attendance which has made them successful.

Fire Marshal To Expand Arson K-9 Program

Maryland State Fire Marshal Rocco J. Gabriele has announced his plans to expand the Agnecy's Arson K-9 unit. This specialized program was begun by the Fire Marshal during the summer of 1987 and is one of only a few of its kind in the nation.

The Arson K-9 Unit of the State Fire Marshal's Office was the second such unit to be developed in the United States to help investigators determine the presence of an accelerant at a fire scene. Connecticut was the first state to begin such a program in its Fire Marshal's Office as part of a feasibility study by the Federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms. The ATF feasibility study established that a dog can be conditioned to respond to an accelerant odor with potentially greater sensitivity than current mechanical sniffing devices and with the ability to differentiate between accelerants and similar chemical gases normally found at a fire scene.

Through extensive training, the Maryland State Fire Marshal's Office currently has three dogs in the Arson K-9 program. All are black labrador retrievers and are currently assigned in Cecil and Carroll Counties. The Fire Marshal is hoping to add either two or three other dogs to the program to provide coverage in Western Maryland, Southern Maryland and the Eastern Shore, respectively.

The Prince George's County Fire Department has also initiated an Arson K-9 Unit and is in the process of training two dogs in the specialty of accelerant detection.

The State Fire Marshal's Arson K-9 Unit, which operates under the direction of Cheif Deputy John H. Farrell, is registered with the Maryland State Police and has been aided in its development by the State Police K-9 Division.

Since the inception of the Arson K-9 Unit, the unit has been called in to aid investigators on several major investigations, including the five-million-dollar arson of a lumberyard in Crisfield, a shopping center blaze in St. Michael's, a rooming house fire in Brunswick and a bizarre arson and triple murder in Claymont, Del. In each instance, the highly trained labrador retrievers have helped investigators locate the presence of an accelerant or petroleum product in the burned out buildings.

Commenting on the success of the Arson K-9 Unit, Gabriele remarked, "The dogs have shown us their extreme value in detecting the presence of an accelerant in a fire. As we continue to expand this revolutionary program, we are finding that the canine is yet another useful tool in the investigator's arsenal to combat arson."

Omission Noted In Caption About Baptist Choir

In a photo caption last week, the names of four members of the Deep Creek Baptist Church choir were omitted. They included: Carole Green, soprano; and Sharon Henn, Nancy Bernard, and Rayma Weeks, altos.

The photo and caption concerned a special Easter musical program which will be held this Friday, April 1, at 7:30 p.m. The public is invited to attend the program, which will include eight selections by the choir, ranging from "Because He Lives" to the anthem "Hosanna, Loud Hosanna."

The church is located along U.S. 219 about eight miles north of Oakland at Deep Creek Lake. Rev. Donald M. Wilson is the pastor.

Extended Service For Late Filers Offered By IRS

The IRS, in its continual effort to offer free Federal Tax assistance, has expanded hours of service for taxpayers. All 12 IRS offices in the Maryland and metropolitan Washington area will be open on Saturday, April 9, providing walk-in and telephone assistance from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m.

For those taxpayers who find themselves up against the April 15th deadline, all 12 IRS tax offices throughout Maryland and Washington, D.C will remain open until 7 p.m. "We're here for everyone who needs help," said Teddy R. Kern, IRS district director for Maryland and the District of Columbia.

In addition on April 15th, IRS personnel will be stationed at three Post Offices from 6 p.m. until midnight. These employees will actually help fill out Federal returns with taxpayers to ensure they meet the filing deadline. "We do this every year," explained Kern. "Just bring along your W-2 statements and any other pertinent information, and we will complete the forms with you."

As always, taxpayers can call any of the IRS offices during normal business hours with their tax questions. The toll-free number is 1-800-424-1040.

The IRS office closest to Garrett County is in the Old Post Office Building, 3-33 Pershing Street, Room 209, Cumberland.

Western Maryland Mothers Honored

Western Maryland is uniquely honored that two of its women have been selected to represent Maryland in the 1988 American Mothers honor program.

Jeanne Moore Cordts, Frostburg, is Maryland Mother 1988 and Wilda Smoot Beard, Bloomington, is Merit Mother of Maryland 1988. Mrs. Beard was sponsored by the Bloomington Fire Department and was the unanimous choice of judges for that honor. Mrs. Cordts was sponsored by University Women. She edits The Appalachian Journal.

The selections were made "in recognition of the many contributions to worthy causes that have enriched family life and added to community betterment."

A luncheon honoring the women will be hosted by The Association of Maryland Mothers on April 23 at 11:30 a.m., at The Hilton Hotel in Columbia. Tickets are $12.25 per person, with the deadline for reservations April 10. Checks should be made payable to Marjorie Williams, treasurer, Box 1300 Prince Frederick, MD 20678.

The women will also be honored by Gubernational Citation and other accolades for their selection as outstanding mothers of Maryland.

New Topics Added To Tape Service

Often people are wary of the legal system because they don't understand the laws or how our system works. That's why the Maryland State Bar Association continues to expand and update its Maryland Legal Line Service, which provides tape recorded explanations on a variety of legal topics.

Since the free telephone service was launched in 1985, thousands of Maryland citizens have called Legal Line to learn more about legal issues ranging from divorce and child support to wills and bankruptcy. To meet the increasing demand for legal information, three new topics have been added to the tape series which currently offers 33 different messages. The new tapes explain how the laws can protect persons from domestic violence, what to do upon receiving a traffic ticket, and how the jury system works.

To use the service, persons should simply dial the toll-free number, 1-800-638-8862, and request the desired tape(s) by title(s) or call number(s). For a free brochure listing all the tapes available, persons may contact the Maryland State Bar Association at 1-800-492-1964.

The Maryland State Bar Association is a profesisonal, non-profit, voluntary membership organization comprised of more than 12,000 attorneys, which monitors judicial and legislative issues in Maryland, offers legal education opportunities, and promotes leadership within the legal profession. MSBA develops and sponsors public service programs to ensure the delivery of quality legal services to all citizens and is committed to furthering the efficient administration of justice and equality for all under the law.

Whoo's News

by Loretta Wotring
Public Relations chairman

Once again the crocuses, daffodils, and tulips are springing up all over the county. The spring season is here, and one sure way to know is when the Garrett County Homemakers come out for their spring meeting. This year the date is set for May 3 at Garrett Community College from 7 to 9 p.m. The guest for the evening will be Kendrick Hodgdon, retired supervisor of high schools, who will present his program on "Flowers and Edible Mushrooms of Garrett County." The meeting will kick-off National Homemakers Week, and everyone is welcome to attend.

Meanwhile, back in our clubs, the members are beginning to get out for spring, too. For instance, the Deer Park Homemakers held their first meeting of the year on March 9 at the fire hall with 14 members present. Jane Miller, Janet Browning, and Leona DeWitt brought them up to date on demonstrations. They recorded new chairpersons and hostesses and are all set for a new year. They will exchange Easter bonnets at their April 12 meeting, and invite everyone to bring a bonnet and join them.

The ladies in the New Germany Club accepted an invitation to join the Barton Club in April. They will meet at the Presbyterian Church on April 7 at 10 a.m.

From the rest of the Garrett County Homemakers, we wish everyone a very happy Easter!

Maryland National Guard Units Building Bridges For Savage Races

The Maryland Army National Guard has completed the pre-construction phase for two pedestrian suspension bridges that will be built across the Savage River at the site of the Maryland International Canoe/Kayak Classic, to be held in Garrett County, June 23-26.

The Guard's Company B, 121st Engineer Battalion, located in Cumberland, has prefabricated the bridge sections in preparation for installation in the spring.

In addition to the bridges, which will span 160 feet and 140 feet, the Guard will construct a 350-foot pedestrian boardwalk at the site.

The Maryland Army National Guard is doing this project in conjunction with the Maryland Department of Natural Resources. Other state agencies supporting the race include the Department of Employment and Economic Development, the Department of transportation and the Maryland State Police.

Funds totalling $100,000 have been allocated by the National Guard Bureau in Washington, D.C. to purchase materials for the bridge. These funds are in addition to training funds already budgeted for Maryland Army National Guard units.

The 121st Engineer Battalion's Company C from Oakland is scheduled to begin annual training at the Garrett County site on April 23. Company C will be constructing the bridge's anchoring structures until May 7, when they will conclude their two-week training period.

As Company C is finishing its duty, Company B will arrive on May 7, with the bridge sections that the unit built in January, February and March. Company B, along with Headquarters and Headquarters Company from Ellicott City, will perform the actual bridge installation.

Maj. Gen. James F. Fretterd, the adjutant general of Maryland, said, "We are tremendously pleased with Company B's progress. It is an exciting project that allows us to train proficiently and help our local communities in an important event."

Not only will the 121st Engineer Battalion build the bridges, the Maryland Army National Guard's 229th Army Band will provide musical support during the opening ceremonies, as well as for the specific events.

"We've been practicing especially hard during the winter to review over 60 different national anthems from the various countries," said Chief Warrant Officer 2 Cheryl D. DuVal, the 229th's commanding officer and bandmaster.

"In many ways, this is similar to the Olympics pageantry, and we will be prepared to accommodate as many musical selections as possible," she said.

Bloomington School Has BEAR Week

"Be Enthusiastic About Reading Week," or BEAR Week, March 14-18, was observed via a variety of activities at Bloomington Elementary School.

Marie Magruder's kindergarden and Debi Alkire's grades 1/2 classes read books, listened to records, and wrote stories about bears. They made "bare" prints on an outline of a bear (their own footprints), which decorated the hallway. They made ceramic pins and composed a bulletin board of bears. They had a "All for Teddy Bear Picnic," making chocolate bears, Knox Blox bears, peanut butter sandwiches. They were awarded bear pencil toppers, book markers, book bags, stickers and helium bear balloons.

Students in Becky Shook's grades 3/4 classes researched and compiled a list of real bears of the world and utilized Bear Corner, which hosted books about bears. Each student received a bear book marker, which was punched for each bear book read. Every student who read at least 10 books received a certificate. The students also had daily handwriting activities about bears, for which they received bear pencil toppers. Bear posters, t-shirts, cookies and coffee bears were also designed by the students, using the BEAR Week theme. Students also received bear buttons, balloons, and bear stamps, and their best work was displayed on the "Bear-y Good Work" bulletin board.

Cathy Wildman's grades 5/6 classes read "Two Big Bears" from Laura Ingalls Wilder's book, Little House in the Big Woods. They also saw the movie, "The Bears," narrated by Lorne Green. Activities included making a bulletin board featuring Paddington Bear, the guessing of the number of Gummy Bears in a jar, making cookies from reading recipes, bear posters, and collages. The students also wrote and illustrated stories about bears, putting them into booklets to be shared with classmates. The top booklets were chosen and the winning students read their book to the kindergarten class. The class also invited one of the student's grandmothers, Mrs. Nellie Tichnell, who shared with the class an entertaining version of "Rumplestiltskin." Balloons, book markers, stickers and books were awarded.

Elaine Ott's grades 7/8 classes participated in a bear dress-up contest. Prizes were awarded. They also viewed a film about various bears of the world, their habitats and characteristics.

The PTA also participated in Bear Week by sponsoring RIF (Reading is Fundamental) on March 17. The students dressed up as their favorite storybook character and prizes were awarded to the top three winners from each class. All students were allowed to select and keep a book from the RIF collection.

Study Tall Tales

The third and fourth grade classes at Bloomington, under the direction of Rebecca Shook and Marianne Green, gifted and talented teacher, recently studied a "Tall Tale" unit, including such characters as Johnny Appleseed, Paul Bunyan, Slew-Foot Sue, Pecos Bill, Captain Kidd and John Henry.

The students saw a film strip on certain literary characters and then completed worksheets and activities on each. As a culminating activity the students and staff had a Tall Tales breakfast, for which each student dressed as their favorite character. The students also devised the menu, which included Paul Bunyan pancakes, Slew-Foot Sue scrambled eggs, Pecos Bill bacon, Johnny Appleseed apples, Captain Kidd orange juice, John Henry milk and Davey Crockett muffins.

Farming In Maryland.....

Bernice Kepple, Farm Editor

Henry Schmidt To Speak Tonight At GCC On Direct Farm Marketing

Maryland and West Virginia farmers are working together to sell "Mountain Fresh" produce in a unique cooperative effort designed to encourage farmers to participate in direct marketing of cool weather produce, according to Henry A. Schmidt, director of Marketing and Agricultural Development Services at the Maryland Department of Agriculture.

A workshop/public information meeting has been scheduled for tonight at Garrett Community College at 7 p.m. There will be panel discussions and presentations by people experienced in all areas of direct marketing. Schmidt will speak on the virtues of the direct marketing of produce and establishment of farmers markets as an outlet for the quality cool weather crops grown in these upland areas.

Garrett County and Preston County, W.Va., mountain tablelands have a long tradition of producing fine quality cool-weather crops, including cauliflower, broccoli, spinach, lettuce, brussel sprouts, green beans and sweet corn, according to Jim Simms, Garrett County Extension agent and acting chairman of the Mountain Fresh Produce Association.

The Mountain Fresh Produce Association, formed by local farmers and enthusiastically supported by the Garrett County Development Corporation, was formed to stimulate growing and marketing of produce locally. According to Tom Jones, county economic development director, surveys of retailers and local restaurants conducted over the last several months by the association produced promising results, and the tremendous increase in recreation and tourism traffic around Deep Creek Lake make it a natural marketplace for locally-grown produce during July and August.

"We are very glad to be able to help in this great cooperative effort between state and county agencies and the real star — the farmer," said Schmidt. "The Maryland Department of Agriculture has a tradition of working closely with the Extension service, and we look forward to helping launch this exciting regional promotion," he said.

The Mountain Fresh Association is looking for interested members. Adult membership is $10. Youth membership for 4-H, FFA, or any interested youth under age 16 is $5. Applications are now available. In Maryland, call Jim Simms, Garrett County Extension, 301-334-1990 or Tom Jones, director, Garrett County Development Corporation 301-334-1920. In West Virginia, call Tom McConnell, Preston County Extension at 304-329-1391.

Seminar Planned On Agriculture's Future

Joseph P. Coffey, vice president for economics and planning, Southern States Cooperative, will present a seminar on "The Future of Agriculture in the United States" at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday, April 5, in Room 2001 of the West Virginia University Agricultural Sciences Building.

Coffey, an agricultural economist, was chairman of the Department of Agricultural Economics at Virginia Tech before assuming his current position with the Richmond, Va.-based cooperative.

The seminar is open to the public.

Land Requirements Reviewed For ACR

William F. DeWitt, chairperson, of the Garrett County ASC Committee, says farmers who plan to participate in the 1988 farm programs need to be sure that the land intended to be designated as acreage conservation reserve (ACR) qualifies as eligible land.

"Land taken out of crop production to meet the ACR requirements must meet the same eligibility requirements as the 1987 programs," DeWitt said. He reminds producers that ACR must have been devoted to row crops or small grains in two of the last three years. Land designated as ACR is generally considered as planted in the year designated.

The signup period for the 1988 programs is open from now until April 15. When producers sign up, he said they agree to protect their ACR from soil and water erosion in accordance with the program contract.

"Farmers need to use proper stubble management now, if approved by the state ASC Committee, to prevent problems with stubble mulch cover on acres designated for ACR in 1988." He said the stubble should not be plowed or burned; otherwise, a cover crop will be required. For maximum protection, existing stubble should be left undisturbed. "Adequate residue must be left on the surface to protect the land from wind and water erosion," said DeWitt.

Land that was leveled, put into sod waterways or filter strips, or planted to trees, shrubs, or shelter belts during 1987, may be designated as ACR in 1988. Wet, low-lying areas of land are not eligible to be designated as acreage conservation reserve, the ASCS official said.

A horse's easy gallop is called a canter from the gait believed to have been used by pilgrims to Canterbury Cathedral.

Ag Publications Available From W. Va. University

Four new publications are available from the West Virginia Agricultural and Forestry Experiment Station.

Corn growers who are buying seed for this year's crop may wish to consult the "1987 West Virginia Hybrid Corn Trials" report. This publication describes the results of corn plantings on the university's farms at Morgantown, Reedsville, Kearneysville and Wardensville, and on private farms in Barbour, Lewis and Ohio counties. More than 40 hybrid varieties from 17 seed producers or dealers were tested at one or more locations.

Three publications of interest to economic planning in the state are also available.

"Wood Residue from the Forest Products Industry in West Virginia: Amounts, Location and Availability," reports on a survey of the scrap, sawdust and other waste produced at sawmills and other wood products plants. The wood residues, some of which are currently not used, could serve as fuel or feedstock for other industries.

"Fuel Consumption for Kiln Drying Appalachian Hardwoods" examines the fuels used by various lumber drying operations in West Virginia and surrounding states. Wood waste, gas, oil and coal are the primary fuels used, with over half the total production in the region dependent upon wood-burning kilns.

"The Role of Agriculture in the Economic Development of West Virginia: An Input-Output Analysis" examines the place of agricultural production in the overall West Virginia economy, using the input-output model developed by the Regional Research Institute at WVU.

All of the publications are available from the Mailing Room, Communications Building, WVU, Morgantown, W.Va. 26506. Orders should be placed by title and by the following publication numbers: Corn Trials, Circular 146; Wood Residue, Circular 145; Fuel Consumption, Bulletin 698; Role of Agriculture, Miscellaneous Publication 20.

The corn trials circular is also available at WVU Extension Service offices.

Young Farmers Are Told: "Don't Just Survive — Thrive"

Few would argue that agriculture is a high risk industry, but that fact alone should not deter farmers from trying to make a profit on their business, according to the vice president of the Baltimore Bank for Cooperatives.

In a presentation titled "Don't Just Survive — Thrive," John R. Crowgey Jr. told a group of young farm couples attending Atlantic Dairy Cooperative's 1988 Young Cooperator Seminar that the key to profitability is a sound farm records system.

"People maintaining good records know where they are making money and where they are not," said Crowgey, who has been with the Farm Credit system for 17 years.

Developing a record keeping system serves two major purposes, according to Crowgey. First, it allows farmers to determine the individual profitability of their various enterprises, such as dairy, cash grain and steer feeding.

"Too many times," Crowgey said, "you may find that an enterprise you have had for years is not making money. Good records will help determine that fact."

Secondly, farmers can realistically evaluate their own financial position by reviewing their records. An accounting system provides a total view of the farm business, its production and profitability.

One accounting system that Crowgey recommends was developed by farm economists Thomas L. Frey and Danny A. Klinefelter. The two co-authored the booklet, "Consolidated Financial Statements for Agriculture."

The booklet presents "a valuable technique to managing a business," Crowgey said. Records provide production and financial data and help to measure efficiency. The result is profitable decision making.

Crowgey urged the young couples to review their financial positions before making capital investments in their farm operations.

"Ask whether or not an investment, such as a new milking parlor, will increase your profitability," he said. "If it's going to increase your profit and reduce your cost, then that's valuable to you."

Crowgey warned against extensive capitalization, saying it is "probably the biggest mistake that's been made in agriculture during the past 10 years."

Each farm has its own strengths and weaknesses, he said. And farmers need to evaluate their own ability or opportunity to pay off any debt they undertake.

"Match your debt load with your own personal managerial expertise," he said. "Do not make financial decisions based on the 'averages' or 'textbook' projections but on your own ability to take the risks associated with debt."

In addition to being in tune with farm finances, it is important to be aware of the overall financial condition of agriculture, Crowgey said. The same holds true for those people with whom farmers do business.

"Select a farm lender who understands the industry," Crowgey said. "Each loan officer needs to understand your business, and the bank needs to understand the industry in which you are operating."

Credit will be available, Crowgey said, but only to the efficient producer, not just the best producer. Success should be measured by a combination of farm production and profitability.

"You want to look at production and the measure the profitability of that production," he said. "If you do that, you will have access to all the capital you need."

Atlantic Dairy Cooperative's Young Cooperator program is designed for dairy farmer members between 21 and 35 years of age. The Young Cooperator Seminar, held annually in March, focuses on cooperative business principles.

Commissioners Contact Senators About Federal Diesel Fuel Tax

At the request of the Garrett County Farm Bureau, the Garrett County Commissioners sent letters to both Senator Paul Sarbanes and Senator Barbara Mikulski this week expressing their concern over tax changes on the purchase of diesel fuel by farmers.

The 1987 Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act changed the collection point for diesel fuel tax from the retail level to the wholesale level. Although farmers retain their exemption for fuel used on the farm, the new federal legislation requires them to pay the 15 cents per gallon tax when the fuel is purchased and apply for a refund later.

In the commissioners' letter, they stated that the farmers of Garrett County "play a very important and integral role in the economy of our community. We find that the new tax changes places an undo burden on them by creating unnecessary bureaucratic red tape."

The commissioners asked the two senators to co-sponsor one of the three senate bills which would reverse the previous decision regarding the sale of diesel fuel for farm use and prevent the law from going into effect on April 1.

A REVIEW OF FERTILIZER PLACEMENT METHODS

The shift to reduced tillage and improvements in fertilizer application equipment has renewed interest in fertilizer placement methods.

Agronomists Robert Hoeft, of Illinois, and Gyles Randal, of Minnesota, have recently reviewed research on the subject and have concluded the following regarding the placement of fertilizer for corn, small grains, and soybeans. Regardless of crop grown, they report that yields seldom respond to fertilizer at high to very high soil test levels, despite the placement method. When soil tests are low, soil moisture is limited, land is rented, or long-term fertilizer efficiency and returns are to be maximized, it is particularly desirable to consider a band placement of some kind.

Corn yield response to P and K is highly dependent on the inherent fertility of the soil. At medium to higher soil test levels, yields have not normally responded to the "new" types of placement. At low soil test levels, yields obtained from band placement (two inches to the side and two inches below the seed) are seldom surpassed by other placement methods. However, a combination of 2X2-inch band with a broadcast application is often advisable. Other band methods (surface strip or dribble, deep subsurface bands) have out-performed broadcast applications in some experiments, especially in years of below normal rainfall, when soil tests are low, or when reduced tillage is used.

Small grains normally respond better to banded (row or deep placement) than to broadcast applications of P and K. Greater efficiency of P is usually obtained with band applications (seed placed over subsurface bands four to five inches deep, either knifed-in preplant or applied with the planters), especially under low soil P tests or dry conditions. Under more favorable soil conditions, annual broadcasting or strip application to the surface directly over the row compare quite well with subsurface application.

DEWORMERS FOR YEARLING CATTLE ON SPRING AND SUMMER GRASS

We think we know a great deal more about deworming yearling steers and heifers grazing in spring and summer than we did a few years ago. Basically, the theory of multiple wormings in early season has proven to be in most instances the way to go. Field testing and research have led us to this conclusion. Deworming at turnout time, three weeks later and six weeks later with conventional worming materials has done a real good job. If using Ivomec, worming at turnout time and five weeks later has done an equivalent job. Research shows an advantage to the sequential early season deworming at 0, 3, and 6, but we do think that deworming twice at turnout time and at mid-season is advantageous over one deworming at turnout time.

There are many types and forms of dewormers on the market and they are all good. There are three basic types: Lavamisole, Fenbendazole, and Ivermectin. The Levamisole products are sold as Levamisole, Tramisol, Totalon (pour-on) or Tramisol (pour-on). The Fenbendazole products are Safeguard or Panacure. The Ivermectin products are simply Ivomec. Remember that you can get Tramisol also in cubes and you can get Safeguard in blocks. Figure out the material that you need. Check around and get it bought just as cheap as possible ahead of when you are going to need it.

SPRING IS GRASS TETANY SEASON

Cows with young calves grazing lush pasture during this season of the year are prime candidates for typomagnesemia or grass tetany. Don't forget to keep a ready supply of magnesium supplement before cows at all times during the spring of the year. You are buying insurance by doing so. You don't have to lose but one cow out of a 100 to have bought a lot of supplement and not have gotten the value of it. Many producers keep magnesium supplements before cows throughout the year. A commercially available high magnesium supplement will do the job or you may mix your own by using equal parts by weight of magnesium oxide, salt dicalcium phosphate, and ground shelled corn or dried molasses or some other palatable feedstuff. Magnesium oxide is not palatable by itself. Cows should be kept on magnesium supplementation well into June or longer. If you know of any animals with symptoms of tetany, treat with magnesium gluconate intravenously immediately.

Garrett DHIA And Holstein Association Meets

The annual meeting of the Garrett County Holstein Association and Dairy Herd Improvement Association was held last week at the Bittinger Community Building.

DHI plaques were presented to Carl Bender, Accident, for top herd production of 793 pounds of fat per cow. Menno Yoder received a plaque for the top milk production of 20,821 pounds per cow.

The following received certificates from the University of Maryland for a 10-percent increase in production of milk or fat: Ernest Ganoe, Cleland Beitzel, Oren Bender, Paul Petersheim, Wayne Schrock, Paul Yoder, Homer Kinsinger, Paul and Henry Kinsinger, Galen Kamp, and David Yoder. Paul and Naomi Petersheim were also recognized for owning the top-producing Jersey herd in the state.

Farmers May Certify Fall-Seeded Crops At Acreage Reduction Signup

When farmers sign up for the 1988 acreage reduction programs, William F. DeWitt, chairperson of the Garrett County ASC Committee, said they may also report their fall-seeded crops.

ASCS is currently accepting applications for the feed grain and wheat program. Signup ends April 15.

To avoid having to make a separate visit to the county office to certify, DeWitt said farmers may want to report the acres and intended uses of their wheat, oats, barley, rye and other fall-seeded crops when they apply for the 1988 programs.

He said small grains which are not reported by June 1 will be ineligible for program benefits.

Farm program participants are required to report their actual acres planted for harvest to be eligible for price support loans, deficiency payments and other benefits. "Producers who do not enroll in the 1989 programs could also benefit by reporting their planted acreage because the report will be used for crop history purposes," the ASCS official said.

Acreage reports are used to determine compliance with farm programs and provide documentation for future programs. ASCS randomly checks farms to verify that the reports are accurate.

Farmers who have questions about certifying their fall-seeded crops or about the 1988 acreage reduction programs are encouraged to contact their county ASCS office for more information.

KNOWLEDGE IS POWER!

Take a moment to see yourself in this situation: Your real estate agent blindfolds you and takes you to a home you want to see. Taking off the blindfold at the front door, you are confronted by the agent's question "Do you want to buy this home or not?"

Or, let's say you want to sell your home. Can you imagine yourself picking up the yellow pages and calling the first real estate office listed and saying "Come to my house at two this afternoon, I want to list my home."

In both cases, one important factor is missing - knowledge. Before purchasing, or selling a home you would want to know more, a lot more. As a home buyer, you would look to your agent for information about construction of the home, financing available, and other significant factors which might affect its value.

As a home seller, you would look to your agent's knowledge of past sales in the neighborhood. What homes have sold recently, and at what price? How does my home compare to others currently "for sale?" What is the average sale time for homes like mine? Will my home bring "full-price?"

When selecting a real estate agent, look closely at the individual's depth of knowledge. Success in real estate demands a thorough understanding of the marketplace. You should expect to benefit from that in-depth knowledge, an invaluable resource for making your buying or selling decision.

Understanding real estate dilemmas and their solutions is our business, and we'll happily share our knowledge with you. Why not give us a call at 387-5303, or drop by our office at McHenry Plaza.

King Qualifies For Associate Broker Licensure

Ed King, marketing coordinator with A&A Realty/Better Homes and Gardens, McHenry, recently qualified to become an associate broker for that firm.

King changed careers in 1985 after 28 years with the American Bridge Division of U.S. Steel when massive cuts in personnel eliminated his position in engineering. Upon changing to a profession in real estate, King has made a total commitment to preparing himself to serve the Deep Creek Lake and Garrett County community, specializing in recreational and second home properties, according to Karen Spiker, president of A&A.

King has completed all four courses offered by the Graduate Realtors Institute of the National Association of Realtors, as well as many other courses and special seminars totaling more than 200 hours of classroom training during his three years in the real estate profession. He has been active on the Garrett County Board of Realtors by serving a term on the Board of Directors and is chairman of the Political Affairs and Realtors Political Action committees.

King says he "believes in" the Deep Creek Lake area and the product he markets. "His commitment of time to the activities of the Property Owners' Association of Deep Creek Lake, for which he currently is serving a second term as President, is a testimony to his concern for the future of this lake," Spiker noted.

He is a member of the Lake Management Advisory & Review Committee and is active at most county zoning meetings.

King also serves the community as a member of the Deep Creek Lake Lions Club.

Md. Senators Back Anti-Drug Abuse Legislation

In an effort to address a problem "so pervasive that it threatens to the very fabric of our society," Maryland Senators Paul Sarbanes and Barbara Mikulski have joined in sponsoring the "Omnibus Anti-Drug Abuse Act of 1988", a comprehensive bill to combat the national increase in drug abuse and drug trafficking. The bill was introduced last week by 40 senators.

"This legislation will provide resources to our local and state law enforcement agencies to combat the problem where it is realy felt — in our neighborhoods and communities," Sarbanes said. "Both Governor Schaefer and Mayor Schmoke have expressed to me their deep concerns that no funds were included in the President's 1989 budget for anti-drug law enforcement or for general law enforcement at the local and state level. This bill provides funds to state and local governments to combat the drug problem through law enforcement, education and efforts to reduce demand."

Sarbanes also noted that the bill contains major provisions aimed at combating the flow of drugs into this country, including important initiatives aimed at encouraging drug source countries to eradicate their drug crops over a three-year period and significant enhancement of federal drug enforcement operations.

"Our bill provides much-needed funds for drug and alcohol abuse treatment and rehabilitation, education for our schools and communities, and training for anti-drug enforcement personnel," Sarbanes said. "It addresses, in a comprehensive way, both the demand and supply side of this very serious problem and seeks to significantly reduce both."

"This bill goes to the source, using foreign aid incentives to encourage source countries to cut production. When we fought malaria, we didn't go after one mosquito at a time — we drained the swamp. We have to go to the Panamas, the Colombias and Perus, and cut off drugs at the source," Mikulski added.

"We need to dry up the demand for drugs," she continued. "This is one Senator who agrees with Nancy Reagan. And not only when she says just say no. Anybody who's sitting in their condo, reading whatever is the latest gourmet magazine, having their designer drugs, contributes to the death and destruction of America. And I think they should be prosecuted."

Revised Historical Postcard Album Of Garrett County Now Available

"Feldstein's Revised Historic Postcard Album of Garrett County" has been published by Al Feldstein, of LaVale. Containing 108 pages with 393 postcard views of the county dating from the early 1900s, an introductory narrative also highlights the county's history, towns, landmarks, and historic sites. Oakland is represented by 83 views, Mountain Lake Park by 91, and the Deep Creek Lake area by 35. The book also includes scenes of Grantsville, Deer Park, Kitzmiller, Jennings, Bittinger, the Casselman Bridge, and numerous other county points of interest.

The 1200 copies of the original album were printed in 1984, and sold out in about a year. The revised edition contains all of the original postcards plus 103 additional postcard views, along with an expanded historical narrative at the beginning.

Only 1000 copies of the revised album are being printed, each numbered, and the book will not be reprinted once they are all gone, according to Feldstein. The books sell for $12.95, and are available at the Book Mark'et and Greggs Pharmacy in Oakland, and at First Federal Savings Bank at Mid Towns Plaza.

Feldstein, a 1971 graduate of the University of Maryland and 1977 master's degree graduate of Frostburg State University, resides in LaVale with his wife and son.

Social Security Hopes To Destroy Misconceptions

Social Security is taking aim at the widespread public misconceptions about the Social Security system with a nationwide, multimedia public information campaign, according to Mrs. Watson, Social Security manager in Cumberland.

"The campaign is designed to educate the public about how the Social Security program works to provide protection to workers of all ages and their families now and in the future. It is expected to help dispel myths such as: 'Social Security is just a retirement program,' and 'Social Security is going broke,' " Mrs. Watson said. The theme of the campaign is "Many people know only half the story," and the underlying message is, "Social Security . . . It Never Stops Working."

"We will be emphasizing three basic messages to tell the whole Social Security story," Mrs. Watson said. "They are: Social Security is financially stable into the foreseeable future; Social Security provides a package of protection that includes retirement, disability, and survivors insurance benefits, and Social Security was never intended to be the sole source of retirement income, so all workers should plan for their own financial future by supplementing their anticipated Social Security benefits.

"Young people who worry about whether Social Security will be there when they're ready to retire don't realize that it protects them right now. Currently, some 38 million people, one out of six Americans, receive some sort of monthly benefit from the Social Security Administration. And about 40 percent of them are non-retirees. In addition, more than 126 million workers — about 95 percent of today's workforce — are paying into Social Security and will one day reap its benefits," Mrs. Watson said.

The campaign is being conducted in cooperation with The Advertising Council, a private, nonprofit organization which has been responsible for many of the most familiar public service ads in recent years. According to Ad Council President Ruth Wooden, "Because of the widespread public involvement with Social Security, I expect many millions of dollars in free air time and space will be donated to the campaign. Every media outlet should recognize the fact that the majority of their audiences either receive Social Security benefits or are paying into the system," she concluded.

Mrs. Watson said people who would like to know the "whole story" about Social Security can order a free copy of the campaign booklet, "Social Security — How It Works For You" by calling SSA's toll free telephone number 1-800-937-2000

by Pamela A. Martin, CCCA

THE IMPEDENCE TEST

In a healthy ear, the air pressure is the same inside and outside the eardrum. This allows the eardrum to vibrate freely when sound waves hit it. The vibrations pass through the ear so that we hear, and they also reflect back into the air. Too little or too much pressure on the inner side of the ear drum makes the eardrum too stiff to conduct and reflect sounds properly. This is one result of a middle ear disorder which causes the auditory tube to become blocked. Impedence testing, which measures sound reflection under differing pressure in the ear canal, indicates how well the ear drum passes sound waves into the air. It aids in detecting and diagnosing a problem.

Difficulty in hearing produces social pressures also. ALLEGANY HEARING & SPEECH ASSOCIATES provides the hearing instruments that allow for the return of a more normal sounding surroundings. In this fashion one is able to more fully enjoy their family, friends and surroundings. For the sounds that make a difference, let ALLEGANY HEARING & SPEECH ASSOCIATES help you.

Hearing loss is not a disease but a symptom of some underlying disorder.

Sharon Shaffer

Janet Tasker

Three promotions at the local Bausch & Lomb facility were announced recently by Richard Schick, plant manager, and the supervisors of various departments.

Barbara Lucas and Sharon Shaffer have been promoted to group leaders in Department 22393, while Janet Tasker has been named group leader in Department 22353.

According to Peggy Ream, in-process inspection supervisor, the duties of Lucas and Shaffer will be the supervision of inspectors and performing inspection, measurement and sampling operations asssociated with lenses.

Ms. Lucas, Mtn. Lake Park, began her employment with B&L in 1975 and has worked as an inspector since joining the company. Ms. Shaffer, who resides in Deer Park with her husband, Ken, was hired by B&L in 1976 as a matcher and has been a module operator, inspector and lead inspector.

According to Ron Heginbotham, lens edging manager, Ms. Tasker's new duties as a group leader will include supervision of the inspectors in Department 22353.

She joined B&L in 1974 as an inspector and has worked with inspection since that time. She transferred to her present department in 1982 and, prior to her promotion, served as senior lens inspector.

Ms. Tasker resides in Oakland with her husband, David.

Deadline Noted For Registration At Yoder School

Requests from parents who want their student(s) to attend Yoder School for the 1988-89 school year must be submitted to the Garrett County Board of Education, Department of Pupil Services, prior to August 16, 1988, according to Albert Coviello, director of pupil services.

Parents for first-time enrollees are asked to use the regular kindergarten/first grade registration form which has appeared in area newspapers and is available at any local elementary school. This year, parents who are sending their child(ren) to other "northern end" elementary schools for kindergarten, may designate, at the time of registration, that they want their child(ren) to attend Yoder School for first grade during the 1989-90 school year.

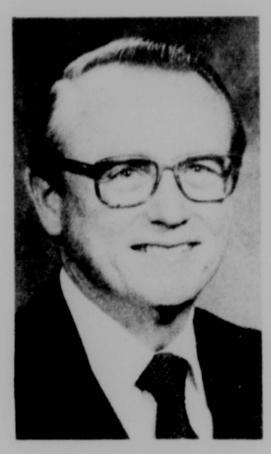

This year, parents whose child is attending kindergarten in another Garrett County school and are seeking a first grade placement at the Yoder School must follow procedures one through four below. However, they are encouraged by Coviello to submit the request anytime between now and the August 16, 1988, cut-off day.

Requests concerning students wishing to transfer to Yoder School for other grades for the 1988-89 school year will be accepted until August 16. Parents of these students are reminded that the procedures for these transfer requests are as follows:

1. Secure a transfer request form from the local school;
2. Request and attend a conference with the principal of the local school to discuss the reasons for transfer request;
3. Request and attend a conference with the principal of the Yoder School to discuss the reasons for the transfer request; and
4. Submit the transfer request to the Garrett County Board of Education, Department of Pupil Services, by the date mentioned above; and Notification of action regarding the request will be given as quickly as possible, Coviello concluded.

Dr. W. Sterling To Be Speaker At Conference

Dr. Wayne Sterling, professor of Biblical studies at Liberty University, Lynchburg, Va., and pastor of Swan Creek Baptist Church, will be the guest speaker at the Resurrection Bible Conference, slated for this weekend at Pleasant View Baptist Church.

Dr. Sterling has served as a pastor for over 28 years and a seminary professor for over 10 years. He holds a bachelor of arts degree from Mississippi College, and a master of divinity degree and doctorate of theology degree from New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary.

Conference and worship times are: Friday and Saturday, 7 p.m.; a 6:45 a.m. Easter sunrise service, followed by breakfast; Sunday School at 9:45 a.m.; and worship at 10:45 a.m.

The public is invited to attend these events, according to Marty Herron, pastor. The church is located along U.S. Rt. 219 two miles south of Oakland. For more information, persons may call 334-8515.

GCC To Host Noted Author Of Children's Books

Mary Haynes, author of several children's books, will share two separate presentations with Garrett Community College on April 15, between 8:30 and 11:30 a.m.

Haynes was born in Duluth, Minn., and grew up in Seattle. Her educational background includes schooling in Stockton, Calif.; Vienna, Austria; and finally Des Moines, Iowa, where she received a bachelor's degree in English from Drake University.

Her novels include Raider's Sky and Pot Belly Tales, but is best known for her science fiction novel entitled Word-changer, which the A.L.A. Booklist called "scary enough to be out of tomorrow's newspapers." She currently resides in Harpers Ferry, W.Va., where she lives with her husband and two daughters. The students and faculty of GCC, and selected students from Northern and Southern Middle Schools, will be present for Mrs. Haynes' visit to the college.

James Stevenson and Dr. William Bingman founded the Maryland Author Series, which for the past four years has been invited to the Frostburg State University campus and area sites the following authors, illustrators and storytellers for all educators and interested individuals: Scott Bun, Robin and Pat DeWitt, Mary Downing Hahn-Jacob, Rebecca Jones, Gloris Kamen, Linda Shute and Bernice Webster.

Stevenson, currently serving as interim library director at GCC on a sabbatical from Frostburg State University, and Bingman, professor of education, were recognized for their efforts in promoting children's literature in Western Maryland, West Virginia, and Pennsylvania at The Children's Book Guild Luncheon on November 14, 1987, at the Mayflower Hotel in Washington, D.C. Mrs. Linda Shute, president of the Guild, presented the FSU faculty members with copies of several books from featured speakers Gail Gibbons and Norma Fox Mazer for the Frostburg State University Library's children's collection.

Lear, Pre-K teacher there, was assisted by instructional aide, Patti Wilt. The theme for the sock hop was "Rock Around The Clock With Pre-K" and all the other classes at the school were invited to attend and dress in Fifties attire. Dan Daniels, WXIE radio station donated his time and equipment by serving as disc jockey for the event. Principal at Red House, Gary Galloway, also participated in the event. A CHECK FOR $2,500 was recently presented by the Grantsville Lions Club to the Northern High School Band Boosters to go toward the new uniform fund. The goal of the present drive is $25,000, of which $14,000 has been raised. Presenting the check to Gail Broadwater, president of the Band Boosters, was Gary Finzel, Lions Club president. The donation is one of many made each year by the Lions Club to various community programs and organizations.

Bambacus Addresses Concerns Of State Employees And Retirees

Over the past several months the district office of State Senator John N. Bambacus has been bombarded with phone calls and letters bringing to his attention various problems with the new Blue Cross/Blue Shield regulations for state employees and retirees. "From the beginning, the dissemination of information to those involved has been handled poorly — many, many persons not receiving the forms prior to the deadline for submittal, not to mention the lack of time to digest the information and ask questions," says Bambacus. According to Bambacus, many members haven't received their Blue Cross membership and prescription cards.

Because of these many concerns and problems, Senator Bambacus recently met with Fran Tracy, director of Governmental Affairs with Blue Cross/Blue Shield to address the complaints and to discuss possible solutions.

"Specific to the prescription program, aside from the increase from $2 to $5 per prescription, subscribers — particularly retirees — are reporting discrepancies in the maintenance drug program as previously accepted and authorized by local pharmacists," says Bambacus. Prior to January 1, prescriptions written by physicians for drugs to be dispensed in 100 day supply were filled at a cost of $2 per prescription.

Since January 1, a maintenance drug list has been sent to pharmacists noting those drugs accepted on the 100 day supply rule. Any drugs not approved on this list will be filled in 32-day supplies. "Not only are the prescriptions being filled in lesser amounts for an increased prescription fee of $5, but the subscribers have not been made aware of these new changes," says Bambacus. Prescriptions previously filled in 100-day lots are now only accepted in 32-day lots, costing the subscriber three times as much as before, along with the additional increase of the prescription plan itself.

"After further inquiries, it is my understanding that this list

Grantsville Lions Donate $2,500 To Band Boosters

The Grantsville Lions Club recently presented a check for $2,500 to the Northern High School Band Boosters to be used toward the purchase of new uniforms for the Northern High Band. The goal of the fund-raising effort currently underway by the Boosters is $25,000 and approximately $14,000 have been collected.

The band, directed by James Boord, has 80 members, including musicians, silk squad, rifles squad, color guard and band aides. Last year the band competed in four field show events, from as near as Oakland to as far away as Baltimore. They also hosted their own competition, one which is slated again this year for October 8. They will also participate in the Grantsville Days Parade in June, the July 4 Parade in Accident, in a Memorial Day parade, and the Autumn Glory Festival in October.

The donation to the Boosters from the Lions Club is one of several the Lions contribute each year to various community programs and organizations. Their next major fund-raising effort will be a Big Bucks Bingo, slated for Saturday, April 23, in Grantsville.

Sight conservation, diabetes research, and prevention of drug abuse are among other projects supported by the Lions.

Persons who wish to contribute to the Northern High Band Uniform Fund may sent their checks to Gail Broadwater, president, P.O. Box 93, Grantsville, MD 21536.

Truck-Climbing Lane Approved By SHA Officials

The Maryland State Highway Administration (SHA) has recommended the construction of a truck climbing lane along Rt. 219 between Deep Creek Lake and Oakland.

The lane, according to SHA officials, would begin at the intersection of Sand Flat Road and Rt. 219 and would continue for approximatley six-tenths of a mile south toward Oakland. The purpose of such a lane would be to improve the safety of Rt. 219 in that area.

The proposal was reportedly made at the last Consolidated Transportation Program (CTP) Tour, a program which outlines the needs of proposed transportation programs. A review was conducted by that tour resulting in the recommendation.

District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards introduced the proposal in December and received support by the Garrett County Commissioners. Although no concrete plans have, as yet, been outlined, the design is set to get underway.

Edwards indicated that the lane will be approximately 3000 feet long and that it will serve to make travel on that steep grade safer and more convenient for motorists. He also expressed his appreciation that the SHA is bringing this proposal into reality.

Habitat For Humanity Slates Annual Meeting

Garrett County Habitat for Humanity will hold its annual Membership Meeting on April 18 at 7 p.m. at Garrett Community College, McHenry, in Room 351.

According to Duane Yoder, president of Habitat, anyone is welcome to attend. A Habitat member is anyone who has contributed at least one dollar in the past year. Yoder stated that anyone wishing to participate as a voting member can do so by contributing a dollar up until the point of the meeting.

The annual meeting is for the purpose of electing a Board of Directors and formulating future plans. Yoder also said the 1987 Annual Report will be issued at this time and a covenant ceremony conducted for any new families accepted as buyers for Habitat houses.

This begins the fifth year for Garrett County Habitat. During that time 14 new houses were built and one is currently in progress. Over 30 homes received repairs through the Summer Work Camp Project, according to Yoder.

Craig Shafer Regains Movement In Upper Arms

News was received this week from a family spokesman that Craig Shafer, 18, Swanton, who was injured in an accidental fall several months ago has regained complete movement in his upper arms and some muscular movement in his lower arms following surgery.

Shafer had received serious neck and spinal injuries in the fall and it was initially believed that he was paralyzed from the neck down.

He had been a patient at West Virginia University Hospital. Shafer has now been moved to a rehabilitation center in Pennsylvania where he will remain for three to six months for extensive therapy. Cards and letters may be sent to Craig at: Altoona Hospital, 2005 Valley View Blvd., Altoona, Pa., 16602.

The family expressed its appreciation for the many cards and letters sent to Craig during his hospitalization.

Edwards Says Garrett County Has Had Another Good Year In Annapolis

With the 1988 General Assembly session drawing to a close, Delegate George Edwards said in a phone conversation this morning that "overall, I think it's going to be a good year again for Garrett County," He said that the capital budget includes water money for the town of Friendsville and quite a bit of state park money.

Edwards see no problems with bills to provide an additional $200,000 for the Glendale Bridge project. These bills have passed through a third reader vote in the Senate and will face a House third-reader vote today. If receiving that vote as expected, the bills will go to a conference committee.

Edwards is watching, hopefully, a budget bill which could provide $75,000 to purchase a site in the McHenry area for a new state police facility. The proposed site would also house the state fire marshal, the DNR police, and the Department of Motor Vehicles. Additional money if needed would be provided by the Department of Transportation. Edwards explained that the bill is not a "sure thing," but says he hopes it will stay in there. If this site-purchasing money is approved this year, an attempt will be made next year to get planning money, and construction money the year after that, so that by the summer of 1991 construction could begin.

Del. Edwards' Steamboat Alcoholic Beverage License bill, which would bring that type of state liquer license in line with other county liquer licenses, has passed a third-reader vote in the house and received a favorable report from the Senate Economic and Environmental Affairs Committee today. The bill could go to the Senate floor for a second-reader vote tomorrow.

Hunting Bills

The state Department of Natural Resources asked for a change in the negligent hunting bills, SB-11 and HB-711. Sponsored by the Garrett and Allegany delegation, the bills would order penalties for the accidential shooting of people, livestock or property.

The DNR would like the bill to make violations of the law a misdemeanor. The National Rifle Association, however, opposes any misdemeanor language. "We don't think it should be a criminal charge. An accident is an accident. If it's more, as in intentional shooting, then other laws — ranging from man-slaughter to assault — apply," said Chuck Cummingham, Maryland liaison for the NRA.

Coal Use

The House has passed a bill which would give tax credits to utilities which burn Maryland coal. Sponsored by Del. Edwards, the bill should encourage greater use of the state's coal which is mined in the two western-most counties, and in turn may return furloughed miners to work.

The bill would grant a credit of $3 a ton of Maryland coal burned by a utility in excess of the number of tons burned in 1987.

Primary Date

The House of Delegates approved a bill last week that would return Maryland's presidential primary to May, instead of the March "Super Tuesday" primary held this year.

Many say that Maryland lost its identity by voting with a bloc of states, and by others who contend the earlier primary date discouraged candidates from seeking congressional offices. The bill is expected to face opposition in the Senate.

Corporal Punishment

The House of Delegates has passed a bill which would prohibit the spanking of students in the state's public schools. Only seven of the 23 counties and Baltimore City permit spanking of students, and the legislation would make that ban apply statewide.

Garrett County was included with eastern Shore counties in an amendment which would have excluded those counties from the bill. Del. Edwards opposed the bill. "This is some-

Additional Clues Recently Found In Ford Case

More clues were recently found by authorities investigating the Catherine Ford case, including a burned watch and additional blood stains.

The watch, which may have belonged to Catherine Denise Ford, 19, Gorman, was reportedly found in a pile of burned materials near the mobile home belonging to Paul W. Ferrell, the 31-year-old Grant County deputy charged with kidnapping and murder.

The additional blood stains were found in Ferrell's mobile home, located off the Bismarck Road near Mt. Storm, W.Va. According to reports, the ashes and burned materials have been sent to FBI laboratories for testing.

Grant County prosecuting attorney in the case, Dennis DiBenedetto, reportedly stated that the Ferrell charges will be presented to the grand jury in July for indictment consideration. DiBenedetto also reportedly stated that he would make every effort to keep the case in Grant County, despite the wide-spread publicity.

He added that the earliest a trial date could probably be set would be in August, and noted that the case would involve in excess of 50 to 60 witnesses.

MSP Reports Horse Killed In Vehicular Mishap

A one-vehicle accident Wednesday claimed the life of a horse owned by Freddie Stoner, Mtn. Lake Park, according to reports filed at the McHenry Detachment of the Maryland State Police.

The 6:20 a.m. accident occurred when two horses ran in front of a 1987 Ford pick-up operated by Allen K. Murlin, 35, New Creek, W.Va. on U.S. Route 50 just west of the Wilson—Corona Road.

Murlin was reportedly not injured, although there was considerable damage to his vehicle, according to Tfc. D.W. Broadwater who investigated the mishap. No charges were filed.

thing the urban areas want for the whole state. All we are saying is that spanking should be a local prerogative. We have local school boards which have jurisdiction on this," Edwards said.

Phosphate Detergents

A House committee has approved a Senate bill which would permanently extend the state's temporary ban on phosphate detergents as part of a continued effort to clean up the Chesapeake Bay.

The temporary phosphate ban, which was heavily opposed by the detergent industry before it took effect in December 1985, is scheduled to expire December 1, 1989.

Recycling Bill

The House Environmental Matters Committee has killed a Senate trash recycling bill, leaving doubts that any form of recycling legislation can pass the General Assembly this year.

Under the Senate bill, subdivisions would be required to recycle up to 25 percent of their solid waste in five years. It could potentially require residents to separate their trash for pickup. The program's $9 million costs would be financed by a $1.50 per ton surcharge on landfill fees.

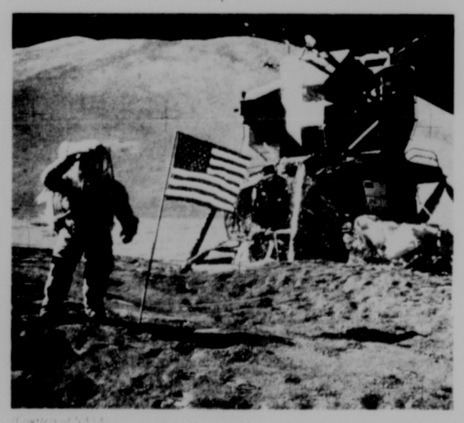

The House version would mandate a lower goal of 15 percent and under certain circumstances, a subdivision could be exempted from recycling entirely. The Senate gave approval to the House version after amending it to make it identical to their original measure. The legislation will end up in a joint House and Senate conference committee.

Governor Schaefer has told legislative leaders he is not happy with either version of the bill but favors a recycling goal closer to the one in the House version. Lt. Gov. Melvin A. Steinberg said, "We support some form of recycling and we're anxious to be successful. We are also sensitive to the financial implications for the subdivisions."
